As in the past, we shall continue to pioneer vital betterments that have proved their merits through practical use. Alert, aggressive, receptive to new ideas, resourceful in executing them, guided by scientific research and spurred by imagination, the Studebaker organization proposes to build better motor cars than ever before.

Now you may buy a Studebaker on any day of the year with the confident assurance that the sturdy, thrifty, one-profit car you drive away will not be stigmatized by any act of ours as a "last year's model." Today, in even more generous measure than in the past, Studebaker Cars offer the utmost value for the money.

The Cost of a Dollar

According to Charles S. Dewey, assistant secretary of the treasury, it cost 1 7-10 cents to print a dollar bill, and it has a very short life. But a silver dollar can be minted for 1 cent, and it lasts indefinitely. This is said to be one of the reasons for the government's desire to put the metal coins into circulation. It is estimated that 40,000,000 silver dollars, replacing that many paper bills, would save the government $10,000,000 a year.

A man may be self-possessed and still not have any taxes to pay.

World's Oldest Forest

A hundred million years ago many millions of years before man himself appeared on the earth, there grew a forest near what is now Gilboa, N. Y. Dr. John M. Clarke, New York geologist and paleontologist, pronounced this grove the oldest known forest. He has resurrected it from the remains in the rocks, and he finds these ancient trees to have been much like modern tree ferns, probably attaining heights of 50 feet or more.

Best talkers are usually the poorest quitters.

At that "Summer Breakfast" problem

QUICK QUAKER cooks in 3 to 5 minutes

Needed vigor food

No hot kitchens

"OATS and milk" . . . that's the right summer breakfast. Serve the oats with rich, fresh milk . . . lots of it. Then hot days will bother you but little.

Just get Quick Quaker. It cooks in 3 to 5 minutes.

That's faster, than toast. Cooked and ready before the kitchen has a chance to heat up!

All that rare Quaker flavor is there . . . the flavor you expect of Quaker Oats.

Cooks faster, that's the only difference. And that's a difference you wanted, isn't it?

POETRY

THE BEACHCOMBER.

Towns have not been good to me;
Men have not been kind;
Womenfolk that I have known,
Well—were not refined.
So I've come to rest awhile
On this fairy, palm-fringed isle;
Come to rest and dream and wait
For my ship, that men call Fate.
For my ship, my dancing ship,
With figurehead of gold,
Silken sails to tease the gales,
And rubies in her hold.

"He's a ruthless vagabond,"
Do I hear you say?
"Singing songs of Samarkand,
Maund'ring of Cathay;
Fate must seek this sorry tramp,
As a rusty ocean tramp,
Ancient, dingy, fit to be Lost in the Sargasso Sea,
Not a fairy, dancing ship
With figurehead of gold,
Silken sails to tease the gales,
And rubies in her hold."

Keep your smug religious creed,
Framed for proper folk.
Damn me as a vagabond,
Treat me as a joke.
Let me only rest and wait
For my ship, that some call Fate;
For my ship that means to me
More than immortality;
For my ship, my dancing ship,
With figurehead of gold,
Silken sails to tease the gales;
And rubies in her hold!

ADVICE TO A GIRL.

Never love unless you can Bear with all the faults of man:
Men sometimes will jealous be.
Though but little cause they see,
And hang the head, as discontent,
And speak what straight they will repent.

Men, that but eas'ly admit adore,
Make a show of love to more;
Beauty must be scorned in none,
Though but truly served in one:
For what is courtship but disguise?
True hearts may have dissembling eyes

Men, when their affairs require,
Must awhile themselves retire;
Sometimes hunt, and sometimes hawk,
And not ever sit and talk—
If these and such-like you can bear,
Then like, and love, and never fear!
—Thomas Campion.

OLD MYSTIC

John Lewis Manning, who died in Mystic last Friday, was born here in September 1838, the son of Francis Mason Manning and Ann Eliza Williams. He was the only grandchild of Dr. Mason Manning, who came here from Windham, Conn., about 1825 and bought the house now owned by Clark Whitford. Dr. Manning was a physician of the old school, honest and respected here until his death, when the property passed on to the grandson. More than forty years ago Mr. Manning married Miss Julia A. Wheeler at the home of her brother, now owned by George Wheeler and occupied by his daughter during the pastorate of Rev. Eli Dewhurst of the Baptist church. Some are living who attended the wedding and remember it as one of the prettiest home weddings ever held in the village. After a wedding trip they resided here some years and then moved to the Dr. Manning house where they lived until they moved to Mystic. Mrs. Manning's health began to fail before their removal from here but with excellent care she lived until May 1920. One son was born of this union, Mason, who lives in Mystic and has conducted the grain business since his father retired twenty years ago. The grist mill and grain business here is still owned by Mr. Manning and has been located since the fifties on the same spot.

Made as women asked – "As exquisite as French soaps"

"WE can't use imported soap—it's too wickedly extravagant. But oh, it's so delicious—do make us a soap as heavenly as the finest French soaps—but not so costly", women urged us.

And we made Lux Toilet Form!

Made it just as women said to—"as exquisite as French soaps". Made it by the tried and treasured method France uses for her finest toilet soaps—quite differently from the white soaps you are used to.

A true "savon de toilette"—your Lux Toilet Form! Satin smooth, rich, firm, wearing like imported soap.

Giving, every time you use it, that adorable, faintly fragrant lather that makes you feel so exquisite—you feel "soignee", delicious, as expensive French soaps used to make you! And you can use Lux Toilet Form all the time—for both toilet and bath. Order some today. Ten cents. Lever Bros. Co., Cambridge, Massachusetts.

The account of the Indian wars in Wednesday's Bulletin, in referring to the battle at Norwich between the Mohegans and the Narragansetts gave the impression that Miantinomo, the Narragansett chief was killed at this fight. Although he was captured on that day, his execution did not take place until some time later, after he had been sentenced to death by a Connecticut court at Hartford, and delivered to the Mohegans who carried out the death penalty.

It is said that Miantinomo, when fleeing with his warriors from the rout could not make very good progress as he carried more superfluous flesh on his bones than a good Indian was supposed to have. In addition his flight was impeded by a heavy breastplate of English armor which he was wearing. Tradition tells us that two Mohegan braves rapidly caught up with him, but in order to give their chieftan Uncas the honor of capturing the royal prisoner, they contented themselves in adding to his difficulties, by bumping against him with their shoulders until Uncas could overtake them. This was near the Taftville-Norwich line, and when the Narragansett chief appeared in Hartford, he was sentenced to die on the very spot of his capture. This was done, and he was buried near the place where St. Mary's cemetery now is. A monument to the Narragansett sachem stands on a little cliff at the Taftville-Norwich line, having replaced a great heap of rocks accumulated by members of his own tribe, who when passing threw a stone on his last resting place, until a great heap of rocks resulted.

Miss Blanche Savard of South B street is enjoying a short vacation.

Miss Helen Racine has resigned her position with the spinning department of the Ponemah company.

CRUSADER GAVE TALK ON HIS PRISON WORK

Capt. Arthur Hanson of the band of Crusaders of the Church Army from England gave an interesting talk Wednesday evening at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium upon his work for more than twenty-five years as an evangelist in English prisons.

He was introduced by Archdeacon J. Eldred Brown and gave a graphic account of the possibilities for rehabilitating lives, even in what seem to be the most hopeless cases, through the influence of the religion of Jesus Christ.

SIDEWALK GASOLINE PUMPS NEAR CURVES WILL HAVE TO BE MOVED

It is understood that several sidewalk gasoline pumps located on curves or in close proximity to curves in the city will have to be removed from their sidewalk locations within a short time. This is a state regulation and similar gas pumps in all cities and towns are subject to the new rule. There are also several other changes in the Connecticut motor vehicle statutes made by the 1925 legislature. Driving directions have been amended, a minimum speed law passed, insurance is required for all public service cars and power is given to local authorities to pass on proposed sites of gasoline pumps.

IMPORTANT CHANGES MADE IN MOTOR VEHICLE LAWS

Minute examination by the police or other duly accredited representatives of the motor vehicle commissioner of any motor vehicle offered for registration in Connecticut is authorized in the amended automobile laws adopted at the recent session of the legislature. "The purpose of this provision," according to the June bulletin of the motor vehicle department just issued, "is to provide a process by which stolen motor vehicles can be detected." The bulletin recites the principal changes in the laws administered by the department, which changes become effective July 1, 1925, unless stated otherwise in the following resume:

"The commissioner of motor vehicles is instructed to refuse to register any motor vehicle not equipped with a lighting device such as is required by law. He also may require any commercial motor vehicle more than six feet wide to carry width lights as directed.

"The New Year's Eve confusion in regard to which number plates to display will be done away with, for it will now be the law that number plates assigned for the ensuing year may be displayed on the last week day of the current year.

"Another provision affecting number plates is that more than one set of plates may be displayed on a motor vehicle through the granting of a permit by the commissioner. This meand that by permit the plates of two or more states may be displayed at the same time.

"No stickers may be attached to windshield or rear window of any motor vehicle in such manner as to interfere with a proper view of the highway.

Only one trailer may be attached to a motor vehicle, except that a municipality which uses trailers in connection with governmental duties may be granted a permit for use of more than one.

"The commissioner may now refuse to register any motor vehicle which is incapable of maintaining a speed of at least 12 miles an hour. There is a provision, however, that such a vehicle may be registered with the approval of the highway commissioner. This is the so-called minimum speed law and, so far as the department of motor vehicles is concerned, its provisions will be strictly enforced so that no vehicle which cannot make at least that speed shall receive registration.

"The records of a dealer can no longer be subjected to inspection by any police officer unless such officer be first designated by the commissioner to make the inspection. The scope of the dealer's general distinguishing marker has been increased to include the transportation of a new car to the dealer's place of business, and the marker may be used for purposes incidental to the business. The law now provides that dealers and repairers who have been in the business for more than five years without having been convicted of violation of the motor vehicle law may be excused from furnishing a bond.

"A sweeping change has been made in regulation of public service motor vehicles. Heretofore the insurance or the indemnity bond has applied only to the jitney. All other public service motor vehicles are included in the requirement. The department construes the effect of this law to be that those registrations already granted will be valid through the balance of the 1925 registration period without the application of this provision, on the theory that the state has made a contract with each registrant which cannot be changed, but that the provision will apply to all new applicants for public service registrations.

All public service motor vehicles having a seating capacity of more than seven persons must be provided with an exit on more than one side.

"The seating capacity of a jitney has been increased through the operation of a permit which may be granted by the Public Utilities Commission so that upon the granting of such permit an additional number of passengers not exceeding 25 per cent. of the seating capacity may be carried.

"Seating capacity of any motor vehicles used for the transportation of school children must be determined by the commissioner of motor vehicles.

"No vehicle shall be driven so close to another vehicle as to obstruct or impede traffic.

"No gasoline or other fuel shall be placed in the tank of a motor vehicle while the engine is running.

"It is unlawful to carry any animal (unless confined in a crate) outside of and to the left of the body of any motor vehicle, or any kind of load similarly carried which projects beyond the edge of the left running board.

"When any person has been convicted of the improper registration of a motor vehicle the commissioner is forbidden to issue a new registration for it until thirty days after application.

"Any person renting a motor vehicle to another is made liable for damage caused by its operation.

"When a motor vehicle has been involved in an accident, the commissioner may require the owner as well as the operator to make a report of the accident.

"The reckless driving section has been amended by creating a minor offense of speeding. Under the old law speeding was reckless driving. Under the new law it is within the jurisdiction of the prosecutor to determine whether under all the circumstances of any given case the person accused should be charged with reckless driving or with speeding, and for the lesser offense the fine is ten dollars and costs.

"The commissioner or any person authorized by him may seise any certificate of registration, operater's license or other evidence of qualification, this being provided actually to take away from a registrant all evidence of license.

"Four measures concerning taxation of motor vehicles were considered. The two which affected all motor vehicles were the 'flat-rate' and the 'fuel tax.' It had been the plan of the department that these two measures should be considered together in their relation to revenue, but upon assignment to committees the bill relating to the increased fuel tax went before the finance committee and was there heard, favorably reported and passed, while the flat-rate bill went before the roads, bridges and rivers committee and after full hearing was rejected. The department, as proponent of the bill received permission to draft a substitute to save cost of administration under the present law. So the flat-rate bill went before the assembly on a favorable report on a substitute which did not include anything except a provision to cover administrative features required by the department for the sake of economy. The merits of the bill, however, were ably presented in the house but the report of the committee, though attacked, was accepted. The net result is that there is no estimated reduction in registration fees and there is an additional cent fuel tax imposed.

"A bill imposing a tax on gross earnings of public service motor vehicles was introduced and passed. This tax is collectible on the basis of a return made to the tax commissioner and will be collected through his department at the rate of three per cent.

"The department presented and there were passed two laws specifically relating to gas pump locations. They are amendments to section 5 of Chapter 334 of the Public Acts of 1921 and to the fuel tax law, and are in effect as follows:

"The commissioner of motor vehicles will no longer be required to consider the location of gas stations in cities and towns of over 10,000 inhabitants until after the application for a station has procured from the mayor of a city or from the selectmen of a town an approval certificate of the site and location of the proposed station.

"The reason for this change lies in the fact that in densely populated locations there are other features than safety which ought to be considered before a gas pump is established. It is not within the jurisdiction of the state to determine purely local questions such as whether or not a proposed location will reduce the value of real estate or be detrimental to residential development, or affect existing service disadvantageously. Such matters ought to be determined in accordance with the facts, by the local authorities before the location is considered by the state at all. This law does not apply to any proposed location upon a state highway, whether that highway is within the limits of a city or town or not.

"A change in the fuel tax law makes the subject of exemption much simpler of administration. After the first of July exemptions can be made only to those persons who first obtain a certificate of exemption from the department of motor vehicles. A new license fee has been made on a pump basis. This fee went into effect on the passage of the act and is now a law. It provides for a license for the operation of a pumping station with not more than one pump for five dollars and for each additional pump two dollars.

"There is also in the same act a provision for examination fee by which the department examines a location on application as to safety requirements and receives for that initial examination the sum of twenty-five dollars, and for the examination of additional pumps applied for in old locations five dollars each.

"The definition of 'operator' in the law has been enlarged to include and cover the person who steers or directs the course of a motor vehicle which is being towed. This change was made necessary because of the inability to fix responsibility unless such a person should be determined definitely to be an operator within the purview of the statute.

"Every operator shall, within forty-eight hours of any change of address, notify the commissioner of such change giving both his old address and his new one.

"The commissioner is allowed to grant a permit for the installation of any invention for the purposes of test.

"Officers in uniform are authorized to inquire as to the license and registration qualification of any person operating or in charge of a motor vehicle. It should be especially noticed that this is an alteration of a former law which was, in effect, that no person could be so inquired of except in event of an accident. Under the amendment any officer in uniform may at any time, in his discretion, stop and question any person operating a motor vehicle and the person so stopped is required to supply the desired information.

"An act was passed which authorizes the commissioner to require, in certain cases, satisfactory evidence of financial responsibility as a prerequisite to registration. This act will go into effect January 1, 1926. The department will at some time prior to that time issue a bulletin containing a full discussion and explanation of intended administration."

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES OF HOLY FAMILY ACADEMY

The 31st commencement exercises of the Holy Family Academy at Baltic, were held Wednesday morning, at 10 o'clock in St. Mary's church, Baltic. The beautiful sunny day was in keeping with the ceremonies which consisted of a solemn high mass, celebrated by the pastor of St. Mary's church, Rev. W. T. O'Brien, assisted by Rev. A. Cavanaugh, of St. Thomas' Seminary, Hartford, deacon and Rev. A. Jette, of Waterbury, subdeacon, Rev. A. J. Jalbert, Baltic, master of ceremonies. Rev. George J. Donahue of Pomfret, preached the baccalaureate sermon.

The Academy pupils' choir furnished the singing and though they are always very favorably commended for their singing, they seemed, on this occasion, to outdo themselves. They were ably assisted by Miss Nellie Miller, the organist of St. Mary's church.

Though the guests at previous Academy commencements have been fortunate in having occasions to listen to sermons of unusual interest, those present Wednesday voiced the sentiment that Father Donahue in his sermon showed a breadth of vision, a profundity of thought and a grace of expression that would be difficult to equal anywhere.

The eloquent preacher took for his text a passage from St. John: Now this is eternal life: That they may know thee, the only true God, and Jesus Christ, whom thou hast sent.'

In language beautiful and true he defined the attitude of the Catholic church toward culture and the graces of intellectual pursuits. He showed that the church, contrary to the opinion of many who know her not, has ever fostered all that was best and most worthy in all times, and among peoples. That she had not hesitated to borrow even from pagan forms, that which might lend beauty and charm to her ceremonies, provided always that no jot nor tittle of what was due to her divine origin was sacrificed. That the Catholic church has ever encouraged art, literature and music of the highest type; that against the greatest of pagan masters in these various fields she can, and has placed Christian masters no less worthy of Fame's book. For a Praxiteles and Pheidias she has her Raphael and her Angelo, the eloquence of Demosthenes she can match in a chrysostum; in contrast of Plato and Socrates she places her Aquinas and Augustine and so on through the long list of names which make up the glory of the classic days of Greece or Rome. During the middle centuries, the Catholic church raised magnificent cathedrals, which have been termed by some usually tardy in their praise of the achievements of the Catholic church —poems in stone or frozen music.

Father Donahue showed that the church puts intellectual attainments and their products in a secondary place only when weighed against the things of eternal value. In his address to the graduates the preacher told them to take this thought with them out into life; that the Baltic Academy had polished them for time, but pointed them for eternity.

The awarding of class and graduating honors was presided over by Mgr. May, of Norwich, assisted by the pastor, Father O'Brien.

After the church services were over luncheon was served at the Academy to a large number of out of town guests, after which pupils and guests departed; the former to enter into higher institutions of learning or to take up some vocational work, or to return in September to complete their courses; the latter carrying away with them the remembrance of a service beautifully impressive in its simplicity and dignity.

The annual rhetorical contest was a pleasant feature of closing week. The young contestants doing themselves much credit in their excellent manner of delivery. The judges' decision gave Miss Loretta Canty, of Springfield, Mass., first prize and Miss Eileen O'Mahoney, of Waterbury second.

The class day exercises were greatly enjoyed by pupils and guests. Those who took part gave fine evidence of keen insight into the character and conduct of their classmates during their high school days.

The salutatorian was Miss Marion Kelley, of Middletown, and the valedictorian was Miss Hazel Allore, of Worcester, Mass.

FITCHVILLE PREPARING FOR FOURTH OF JULY

A well attended meeting of the committees in charge of all the diversified activities tentatively planned for Fitchville's Mammoth celebration of Independence Day was held in Fitchville Tuesday evening in Palmer hall. Rev. J. Speerli, general chairman presided, and was chiefly instrumenti in the development of the spirit of optimisms that pervaded the gathering.

An innovation that promises a world of sport for the event is to be a midway, the Fakirs' Paradise. John Beswick was elected to the chairmanship of this new committee. Associated with him are Patrick Sullivan, Charles Kingberger, Stanley Hetherington and Eugene Thompson.

The cries of "Hit the Coon and get a Cigar" and other well known midway laments will echo and re-echo through the fair valley of Fitchville if this newly organized committee brings all its plans to maturity.

The chairmen of the several committes follow: Athletic, F. G. Gribbin; refreshment, Carl Bentley; supper, Mrs. Francis Gribbin and Mrs. Warren Thompson; entertainment, Mrs. Jennie Hetherington; candy, Miss Ellen Powers; publicity, F. W. Hetherington; general arrangements, William McManus; soliciting, Miss Mary Lynch; midway, John Beswick.

The slogan for the Fourth this year in the "Quilt Town" is "Enjoy the Fourth in Fitchville," and present happenings indicate that the "Ham-let by the Lake" will be the best place in Connecticut in which to spend the big day.

SHORTAGE OF FUEL PREVENTED SUCCESS OF THE AMUNDSEN NORTH POLE FLIGHT

Reached North Latitude 88.30, About 100 Miles From the North Pole—Party was Picked Up By a Fishing Boat and Conveyed to King's Bay—Later the Entire Party Arrived at Spitzbergen in One Plane—Likely That a New Attempt to Reach the Pole Will be Made Shortly.

Oslo, Norway, June 18—The entire Roald Amundsen North Pole expedition arrived safely in Spitzbergen in the plane.

The party did not return to Kings Bay by plane, but was picked up by a fishing boat and conveyed there.

It is reported that the expedition reached north latitude 88 degrees, 30 minutes, or about 100 miles from the North Pole.

Shortage of Fuel

Stockholm, Sweden, June 18—A despatch received here from Oslo, Norway, says the two airplanes in which Roald Amundsen's expedition set out for the North Pole on May 21 arrived in Spitzbergen Tuesday afternoon.

The despatch indicates that the members of the expedition are safe and that it is likely a new attempt to reach the Pole will be made shortly.

The despatch received here says

CAPT. ROALD AMUNDSEN

Amundsen used so much fuel that he was unable to continue and after descending in latitude 87.10 north.

Latitude 87.10, where the Stockholm despatch says Amundsen came down because of a shortage in his supply of gas is only about 200 miles from the North Pole, and about 500 miles from Kings Bay, Spitzbergen, where the expedition took off for the flight.

Prior to the arrival of the Stockholm despatch the indications were that the Amundsen planes had returned to Spitzbergen Thursday, instead of Tuesday, as the Stockholm advises have it. Tuesday mentioned in the Stockholm despatch possibly may be an error in the transmission of the cable.

If Amundsen's planes have been damaged by the ice, there still are two other planes in Spitzbergen which he and his party can use in another endeavor to fly to the Pole and back. These two planes, belonging to the Norweigian government expedition sent to the north to try to locate the missing North Pole expedition arrived at Kings Bay Wednesday from Norway. They were transported from north on board the steamer Ingertre and were put in the water at Advent Bay, from which place they flew over the glaciers to Kings Bay. The planes are in charge of Lieutenants Lutzow Holm, and Bernt Balchen and four mechanics.

In their trip from Advent Bay to Kings Bay they functioned beautifully, and were said to be in the best of condition to start at any minute on a long flight over the ice regions to discover if possible, the whereabouts of Amundsen and his party.

The machines used by Amundsen were German seaplanes which were built in Pisa, Italy. When they took off from Kings Bay they had on board everything deemed necessary in the way of equipment and provisions. Not the slightest detail was forgotten. The loaded machines each weighed 3,631 kilos (8,011 pounds). The Dornier company, which built them, had guaranteed them for lifting 2,500 kilos.

When Amundsen flew away the greatest load in the planes consisted of gas, each machine having on board about 5,000 pounds. This quantity was considered by Amundsen as sufficient for the expedition to reach the Pole and return to Spitzbergen still having a small supply in the tanks.

Chicago, June 18.—(AP)—Fines aggregating $166,000 were assessed today against fifty chair manufacturers who pleaded guilty before Federal Judge Adam C. Cliffe to violating the Sherman anti-trust act.

The chair manufacturers are the first of 269 furniture firms, named in indictments returned here recently after a grand jury investigation, to be sentenced. Those sentenced today were punished in groups, and the fines were fixed, it was said, according to the financial standing of the companies involved, ranging from $1,000 to $5,000. Those pleading guilty were all manufacturers, no retailers being involved.

Six of those indicted were not presented in court and it was said action would be taken against them.

ITALY IN READINESS TO SETTLE HER WAR DEBTS

Rome, June 18—(A. P.)—Premier Mussolini today made good his recent declaration in the Chamber of Deputies of Italy's readiness and willingness to settle her war debts. The premier officially informed the governments of the United States and Great Britain that Italy was ready to undertake formal negotiations for the clearing up of her debts. He added that the date to rthe commencement of the negotiations would be promptly determined.

The announcement of the premier, it was asserted, was due to recent official conversations between the Italian ambassador in Washington and the United States treasury department. The pronouncement coincided with the end of a panicky day on the Italian bourses, during which the lira reached the lowest level since the advent of the Fascist government—37.40 to the dollar.

Signor Mussolini has sent personal instructions to Baron de Martino, the ambassador in Washington, concerning conducting the negotiations and explaining to the American government the real situation in Italy.

FAIMAN'S TESTIMONY AGAINST SHEPHERD

Chicago, June 18.—(AP)—Testimony depended upon to prove that the death from typhoid fever of William Nelson McClintock, the "millionaire orphan," was caused by criminal means was adduced by the prosecution today as its last step in the murder trial of William D. Shepherd, the youth's foster father.

Charles C. Faiman, guarded in a downtown hotel for months by state's attorney's detectives while he awaited a call to the witness stand to prove a "corpus delicti," never faltered in his accusation of Shepherd, and with his testimony finished, Prosecutor Robert E. Crowe announced the state's case was ended.

Called as a witness by the court after Prosecutor Crowe, yesterday announced he could not sponsor him because he could not vouch for his testimony, Faiman gave his testimony upon direct examination by Judge Thomas J. Lynch.

He gave Shepherd three test tubes full of typhoid bacilli, taught him how to slay young McClintock with them, gave Shepherd back an incriminating letter for $50, demanded $250,000 for his participation in the elimination of "Billy" McClintock, was willing to accept $200,000 for his part, and finally agreed upon $100,000, Faiman told the court.

Cross-examination elicited that Faiman had been promised "consideration" by the state's attorney and understood that meant "immunity."

Faiman is under indictment with Shepherd as a confessed accomplice.

William S. Stewart, chief of defense counsel, made an attempt to ridicule Faiman, his school and the young man's life work, along with forcing many admissions that Faiman had told falsehoods about various events connected with the Shepherd case, and had told three different stories about his relations with the accused man.

Stewart said his intention was to reveal to the jury that Faiman and his testimony were too ludicrous for belief.

The designation "doctor" claimed by Faiman came from his license to practice chiropody. Stewart brought out, though he had made claims of graduation from two universities with degrees of Ph. B., M. D. and Ld. D., he advertised that he taught, among other things, theology, medicine, surgery, midwifery, embalming and mortuary sciences and law, Stewart said.

Stewart's efforts caused the crowd of spectators to guffaw merrily, and Judge Lynch summoned extra bailiffs to preserve order.

One of his students, Faiman said, he taught personally to be a veterinarian.

"You are not a horse doctor, are you?" Stewart asked and the court room rocked with laughter.

"You are a corn doctor?" asked Stewart, stressing "are."

"Yes, sir."

"You have a degree in that?"

"Yes."

"And that is all you have a degree in, isn't it?"

"Yes," replied Faiman, and the spectators guffawed.

Ten times, Faiman testified, he met Shepherd, after the lawyer wrote him the letter asking about the criminal bacteriology course, but he could not say upon what date as to day or month.

OIL PUMPING STEAMER WAS DESTROYED BY FIRE

New York, June 18—(A. P.)—The Salvager, an oil pumping steamer of 141 gross tons, was destroyed today by explosion of several thousand gallons of gasoline in a deck tank while it was transfering the cargo of the tanker Utilico—5 at the Mariners harbor yard of the Staten Island Shipbuilding Co.

Frederick Vanderbilt, the Salvager's fireman, was in the hold when the blast came, and is reported missing. Captain Thomas Nevins, who was blown fifty feet into the air, was taken to a hospital in a critical condition. Frederick Wheeler, engineer, escaped by leaping aboard the tanker.

Fire completed the wreck of the boat, but was prevented from spreading by arrival of extra fire companies. Police reserves were summoned to handle the crowds.

The cause of the explosion was not determined.

Painleve Scores Radical Deputies

Charged French Communists With Informing and Advising Riffian Chieftain.

Paris, June 18—Premier Painleve today called radical members of the French chamber of deputies "correspondents and counselors" of Abd-el-Krim during a parliamentary outburst against the war in Morocco. Painleve declared he would speak soon and with definite information regarding the situation in Morocco.

"And I will speak without equivocation," the premier added.

The communists were charged by M. Painleve with informing and advising the Riffian chieftain, and he promised to present shortly a bill of particulars against them.

The blast of the premier at the "red" deputies came during their violent denunciation of their exclusion yesterday from the joint meeting of the military, naval, foreign affairs and financial committees of the chamber, at which M. Painleve gave details of his trip to Morocco. The refusal to admit them was due to the communists having refused to give a pledge that they would not reveal any information they obtained which might be useful to the enemy in Morocco.

During the debate in the chamber today amid the exchange of epithets between the nationalists and the extremists the communists were referred to as "traitors."

Renaud Jean, communist, said the communists would not hesitate to take an oath and then break it if by doing so they would "shorten by one hour the monstrous assassinations" going on in Morocco.

Socialists Undecided

Paris, June 19—The socialist caucus which has been considering its attitude toward the Painleve government, broke up at two o'clock this morning without reaching any definite conclusion.

ARBITRARY PROPOSALS FOR GERMAN GOVERNMENT

Berlin, June 18—The reply of the French foreign minister, M. Briand, to the German memorandum of February 9, concerning a security pact confronts the Luther government with a series of arbitrary proposals, in the opinion of competent political circles, which appear anything but hopeful of an early and definite conclusion of a pact.

Owing to the complicated nature of M. Briand's questionnaire, the German cabinet does not propose to hurry its reply.

Political leaders agree that the French reaction to the German proposal upsets German calculations, especially with reference to current impressions that Germany would formally apply for admission into the league after the questions affecting security, disarmament and the occupation of the Ruhr and the Cologne zone were definitely adjusted. German political opinion is assuming that such a cleaning up of problems could be fittingly crowned with Germany's reception into the league.

LETTER BY FOREMAN OF JURY IN THE MACRI CASE

New Haven, June 18—Frank N. Platt, of Milford, foreman of the jury in the Macri case, today gave out a copy of a letter he had sent to Philip Pond, president of the New Haven County Bar association, who recently named a committee to inquire into certain incidents which accompanied the trial of Miss Olympia Macri for the killing of John Bagnano.

Mr. Platt says that the 11 jurors who stood for acquittal had used their judgement while the juror who stood out was influenced by "damaging rumors secured outside the court house."

Mr. Platt also said in the letter: "They (the 11) also felt that bound up in this case were more far-reaching features, notably, the ruin of young girls." He also said that the matter of going on Miss Macri's bond was the action of eleven men and not of eleven jurors. He said he was certain that all eleven men would gladly appear before the committee of the association, if desired.

RETURN OF AMUNDSEN DELIGHTS MACMILLAN

Brunswick, Me., June 18.—(AP)—The news that Roald Amundsen, Norwegian explorer, had returned was received from the Associated Press with great joy by Lieut. Commander Donald B. Macmillan today while he was attending a commencement day dinner here at Bowdoin College, his alma mater.

"My heartiest congratulations to Amundsen and his men," the American explorer said.

"All of my men are delighted that he is safe," Macmillan continued. "We who have followed the game for years were confident he would win out.

"We now feel it will not be necessary to subordinate our plans for the exploration of that vast continent in the polar seas. Had we not heard from him, we would have changed our plans and would have expended all our energy, time and airplane gas on a thorough search along the northern shores of Grantland and Greenland, and only then, would we have felt that we had done our duty to a fellow explorer."

PLAN TO DISPOSE OF STOLEN AUTOMOBILE ACCESSORIES

New Haven, June 18.—(AP)—What the police believe to be a plan to dispose of stolen automobile accessories was discovered here today with the arrest of Harold C. King, of Springfield, Mass., after an exciting chase through the center of the city. He was charged with idleness pending an investigation. It is understood that the police are looking for an alleged accomplice.

King, according to the police, entered a store in Church street today with a $10 motor meter which he said he had purchased at the store a few days ago. He wanted to exchange it for a five dollar one and collect a rebate of $5.

When he was closely questioned by the manager, it is said, he ran from the store closely followed by the manager. Pedestrians joined in the chase and two policemen joined. King disappeared but later was found in a ladies dressing room in a store.

Questioned by the police, he gave the name of Harold C. Gardner, of this city, then changed it to Harold C. Coyle, of Worcester, Mass., and finally admitted [illegible]

London, June 18.—(AP)—Foreign Minister Austen Chamberlain stated in the house of commons today that with other interested powers the British government would protect the life and property of British subjects in China and would hold the Chinese government responsible for all injuries and for all damages. "There can be no weakness or hesitation," declared Chamberlain.

The British foreign minister stated such a course was the fundamental duty of every British government and that any British government must discharge its duty. "It is not a remedy for the situation, but it is necessary because of the outrages that have taken place," he said.

TROLLEYMEN VOTING AGAINST WAGE CUT

New Haven, June 18—Returns from the various cities of the state where trolleymen employed by the Connecticut company are voting on a proposed wage scale reduction, indicated tonight that the men were rolling up a big vote against acceptance of the cut in wage schedules.

The vote in Waterbury was unanimous against accepting the Connecticut company's proposition; New Haven men were almost unanimous against any wage cut, but a few scattering votes being registered in favor of such a proposal and in Bridgeport it was reported that the trolley men were voting heavily against the proposed reduction.

Hartford, Manchester and New Britain yesterday polled a big vote against the proposed cut.

The Connecticut company's proposition is to reduce the wages of the men three cents an hour or from the sixty cent scale at present to 57 cents. This proposition was put forward by the company during the recent conferences between President Punderford, of the Connecticut company and members of the state conference board of the trolleymen's union.

The state board has had the advice and assistance of international Vice President William A. Walsh, of Wheeling, W. Va., for the past two weeks.

The ballot today was upon the question of whether or not the men would accept the reduction and what instructions they would give the state conference board in its further conferences with the company officials.

The board is scheduled to confer with President Punderford again tomorrow and make known the attitude of the men.

DEMONSTRATION FOR BELGIAN BALLOONIST

Brussels, June 18—The Belgian Balloon Pilot Veenstra arrived here from Spain today and was escorted through the streets as the winner of the first renewal of the Gordon Bennett cup race which started from Brussels May 7.

The demonstration was staged for the Belgian pilot although the official decision regarding the winner of the race will not be made until tomorrow. It is expected the decision regarding Veenstra's flight will be the same as that handed down for the American, Wade T. Van Orman, who piloted the Goodyear III. It is believed both the Belgian and American pilots will be disqualified, or that both of their flights will be accepted.

Van Ormas landed at sea aboard the steamer Waterland, and has protested against the race being awarded to any other competitor than himself. He traveled 441 miles from Brussels.

Veenstra traveled more than 800 miles and landed in the sea near Cape Torinana, Spain. Under the rules of the race a landing at sea and the acceptance of assistance constituted disqualification.

BODY OF LAFOLLETTE TO LIE IN STATE IN THE CAPITOL

Wisconsin Senator Succumbed to Heart Attack at 1.21 P. M. Thursday—Had Been Confined to Bed in Washington For Several Weeks—Body Will Be Taken to Madison, Wis., Today, Where Burial Will Take Place Monday—Leaders of All Political Persuasions Paid Tribute to the Dead Senator.

Washington, June 18.—(AP)—Death brought to an end today the daring and stormy political career of Robert M. LaFollette.

Peacefully, the Wisconsin senator, last year an independent candidate for president, passed away at his home here, a victim of heart attacks from which he had been a sufferer for a decade, bronchitis and bronchial asthma.

To the last, Mr. LaFollette sought to ward off death's thrust, as he had done on several occasions in recent years. But when he realized that the fight was a losing one, he called his son, Robert, to his bedside, and in an almost inaudible voice, gave this last message to the public:

"I am at peace with all the world, but there is a lot of work I could still do. I don't know how the people will feel toward me, but I shall take to the grave my love for them which has sustained me through life."

Confined to his bed for several weeks by illness which had wracked his body repeatedly in the last few years but had failed to weaken his fighting spirit, the senator suffered a heart attack this morning which brought to his physicians a realization that the end was near. He lapsed into unconsciousness shortly before noon, and died at 1:21 p. m., with his wife and other members of the family at his bedside.

Without ostentation, the body will be taken tomorrow to the senator's home, Madison, Wis., for burial. No services will be held here, but on insistence of those who stood shoulder to shoulder with him in his battles in Wisconsin, he will lie in state in the Capitol there Sunday, and funeral services will be held Monday in that building, where he once presided as governor.

Leaders of all political creeds were quick today to pay tribute to Senator LaFollette and acknowledge his influence on contemporary American politics. One of the first to offer condolences to Mrs. LaFollette was President Coolidge, who wrote:

"The news having just reached me of the death of Senator LaFollette I wish to extend to you and your family the sympathy of myself and Mrs Coolidge. As you know, I presided over the senate for a considerable period while he was a member of that body and so came to know of his great ability and untiring energy. He has left behind him a great concourse of friends who will, I know, do everything in their power to comfort you in this hour, but my own experience tells me that nothing that mortal can do will be of very much help to you. I trust that you may, as the years go by, find an increasing satisfaction in the long list of honors that were conferred upon Senator LaFollette by his countrymen."

As soon as he heard of his colleague's death, Senator Lenroot, of Wisconsin, one-time follower of Mr. LaFollette but of late at odds with him politically, called at the home to extend his sympathy to members of the family.

Another who offered condolences was Senator Wheeler, of Montana, who as vice-presidential candidate, shared the Independent ticket with Senator LaFollette last November. In a statement Senator Wheeler declared that "LaFollette dead will be even more powerful than LaFollette living," and predicted that "the fight for the principles which he has advocated these many years will be carried on by the people with the same indomitable courage which he has always manifested."

From Secretary Kellogg came the tribute that Mr. LaFollette had a "long and distinguished career of public service and was a man of great ability and extraordinary energy and force."

Senator Borah, of Idaho, whose proclivity for independent voting frequently put him in the same fold with Mr. LaFollette, declared the latter had been "devoted to the public good, and in all his plans and ambitions a patriot."

Declaring that "he boldly led," Senator Borah added that "human suffering, human misery, oppression, injustice, could at all times and under all circumstances enlist the uncompromising support of this gladiator."

Another tribute came from Secretary Morrison of the American Federation of Labor, who said that Senator LaFollette's death [illegible]

SKETCH OF LIFE OF ROBERT M. LAFOLLETTE

Robert Marion La Follette, considered one of the most powerful orators of his time, was a storm center of personal and political controversy throughout the nation and in his home state of Wisconsin for more than quarter of a century.

"Fighting Bob," the name by which he was known to political friends and enemies alike, was a title well earned almost from the moment he stepped into the political arena when scarcely more than a boy. Facing battles such as few, if any, of his political contemporaries were compelled to fight, he served three terms as a member of the house of representatives and three as governor of Wisconsin, was four times elected to the United States senate, and finally, became an independent candidate for president in 1924.

Perhaps few American public men ever drew such bitter criticism as was heaped upon Senator La Follette during and immediately after the World War, and certainly none could have been more staunchly defended by his friends. His speeches and public policies had been the target for widespread denunciation previous to 1917, while the great conflict was raging in Europe, but the crisis came when he voted against America entering the struggle when the Lusitania outrage and other violations of our neutrality were still burning in the public mind. He was hung in effigy and even threatened with expulsion proceedings in the senate, but in the 1923 elections he was sent back to his place in Washington by a tremendous majority.

LaFollette's insurgency reached a climax in 1924.

The republicans in convention at Cleveland having selected Coolidge as their standard bearer after rejecting the platform demands of the Wisconsin delegation, La Follette's adherents issued a call for a convention in the same auditorium several weeks later. Urged by delegates to this convention that he accept their endorsement as a presidential candidate, he sent word in a message which berated both the old parties that he would enter the field as an independent. Declaration of his candidacy came on Independence Day with the democrats in their New York convention still balloting for a presidential nominee.

His decision injected him into the campaign as a full-fledged candidate, with Senator Burton K. Wheeler, a Montana democrat, as a running mate, and President Coolidge as his republican opponent and John W. Davis, his democratic opposition.

Born on a farm near Madison, June 14, 1855, LaFollette was a contemporary of Cleveland, Harrison, McKinley, Roosevelt, Taft, Wilson and Harding, as well as "Czar" Reed, James G. Blaine and Mark Hanna.

Senator LaFollette derived his name from ancestral stock of French Huguenot refugees. His Kentucky father, Josiah LaFollette, and his mother, Mary (Ferguson) LaFollette, were pioneers in Wisconsin, where they went from Indiana. Their children were reared in the face of poverty, but all were able to attend the rural schools.

Robert was admitted to the University of Wisconsin by special waiver of entrance charges. He soon attained prominence in dramatic and debating classes, and also as editor of the college magazine. After his graduation, he was called upon to support his mother and sister while teaching a country school and studying law. He was admitted to the bar in 1880 and soon entered politics as a candidate for prosecuting attorney. Despite the opposition of what he termed political bosses and machines, he was elected and subsequently re-elected. Again over the opposition of party leaders, he was nominated and elected to the Forty-ninth Congress in 1884, becoming at 29 years of age the youngest member of the house.

Always a champion of labor, the LaFollette seamen's law, designed to safeguard the interests of American seamen, probably is the most important measure bearing his name. Labor formed the nucleus of the support to his independent candidacy for the presidency.

LaFollette had many important committee assignments in the senate. For years he was a veteran member of the finance and interstate commerce committees, and as chairman of the manufactures committee he conducted an extensive investigation into gasoline prices. He was author of the resolution under which the senate inquiry into the leasing of Teapot Dome and other naval oil reserves was undertaken.

The domestic and private life of Senator LaFollette might be termed ideal. At the age of 26 he married Miss Belle Cas of Baraboo, Wis., and from that moment she became his political as well as his personal partner. She took an active part in all his campaigns, served as his secretary while he was in the house, and aided him in preparing speeches. Their four children, Philip, now a partner in the senator's law firm at Madison, Fola, the wife of George [illegible] New York [illegible]

An abundance of troublesome results are said to have followed the publishing in this and other newspapers circulating in the state of a report that fish were dying at an alarming rate at Columbia Lake and that possibly the waters had been poisoned. The stories were generally accepted, it would appear, that genuine red-dyed poison flavored the lake water and promptly the summer outing plans of many cottage owners at the lake, from this city, Hartford, Manchester and other places, were disrupted and abandoned. Many who were already occupying cottages were planning to leave and Fish and Game Warden Raymond E. Clarke of Tolland county found himself beseiged with questions regarding the situation. He conducted an investigation and found that the dead fish found about the lake were perch in practically every instance and Warden Clarke feels that he has every reason to believe that the disease is one commonly known to fishermen which affects only perch. There is positively no reason why bathing is not as safe now as it ever was and all fish but perch are as good eating as in the past. An official explanation of the cause of the death among the perch will be given from Hartford soon. The theory that possibly the lake was poisoned by someone is flatly denied by all authorities.

Captain Alfred Dubreuil of the champion St. Mary's Grammar school baseball team received for his outfit Wednesday afternoon the Rotary club baseball trophy, a beautiful silver loving cup, which was presented by president of the club, John F. Mustard, Aime J. Marsan, P. J. Laramee, Reverends H. J. Bolan, Charles M. Kelley and representatives of the other schols which contested for the cup. The winning nine played and won four games. Tribute was paid to Edmund "Mon" Falconio, who coached the team this year and brought about such notable improvements.

Removing Ink Spot

A large blot of ink was removed from a delicate bedroom paper in the following manner. Absorbent cotton saturated with cuticle remover (a toilet article for finger nails), was applied carefully, until the ink was absorbed. Then talcum powder was patted into the wet rough paper, until the bruised part filled up and became smooth. A rubber roller used for mounting pictures finished the job of smoothing.

DANIELSON

The graduating exercises of Killingly High school were held Thursday by the graduation of the class of 1925. There cannot have been deep significance for the forty-six young men and women who made up this year's senior class in the fact that their diplomas were presented to them by a member of the first class to be graduated from Killingly High school and that four out of the five that made up that class of 1875 were with them at the crowning event of their four years of High school study.

Here was a school of established stability of a half century of honor, of exalted place among the High schools of the state, of education of a higher grade made available by Killingly through all the years reaching backward, that many of the class may imagine members of the class visualizing themselves as graduates that have left Killingly High since 1875, and of their personal ambition to be as worthy as these among all the graduates who, by their zeal, and building on the foundation of broad service what they took from heritage from Killingly High school, have attained distinguished place in the world. And Killingly High school is proud of whatever of its graduates have achieved in life.

Killingly High school was established in 1875, in what was for a long time known as Liberty hall and later as Spiritual hall, on Oak street. The building still stands and is occupied by tenants. Oliver Prosser was the first principal, and ranked as an exceptionally able educator.

It was in December of 1871 that Killingly High school was located in the structure now used as a graded school on Main street, long brick building facing School street. The High school remained there until the present High school building on Main street was constructed in 1907. The class of 1875, held its graduation exercises in the hall on the third floor of the School street school. The class had five members—Attorney Arthur G. Bill, George Stone, George E. Danielson, Mrs. Flora Smith Pellett, and still resident in Danielson, and Frank M. Stone, long since dead.

Members of many a class of Killingly High school that were present at the graduation exercises Thursday evening experienced a flood of memories of their own days in Killingly High school when they heard Attorney Bill talk briefly on 1875-1925—Then and Now, and listened to George Stone of this original class, as he prefaced his presentation of diplomas with the addition to the students to carry on in their pursuit of knowledge and not rest upon the educational laurels they have won.

The blue and gold class colors of the graduates were particularly appropriate for this 50th anniversary of the class graduation of the school, and these colors were outstanding in the very handsome decorative arrangements of the stage and front of the town hall.

Class day exercises, admission being by ticket, brought a capacity audience out in the afternoon. The attendance at the graduation in the evening was equally large.

The program of exercises in the afternoon and evening, with a list of the graduates follows:

Three generations of the Lague family were engaged at their trade as barbers in the shop of Henry Lague here Thursday afternoon. They were Louis Lague, of Oakland Beach, R. I., the founder of the business; his son, Henry Lague, present owner of the business, and Lewis Lague, son of Henry—father, son and grandson. Louis Lague was engaged as a master barber here for years. He went to work again for a while Thursday afternoon for the purpose of having the records of three generations of barbers of the family working at the same trade, in the same shop in the same town.

Wanderlust in the summer season strikes different people in different ways. Here's how William E. Brown felt about it Thursday morning: "I would just like to take a trip with MacMillan on his trip to the Arctic and when I get to the North Pole I would like to take a good hold on it and give the old thing a shaking up. I think it needs it!"

The unfortunate death of a young bicycle rider, Solomon Anthony, 16, at Central Village streets attention to the dangers of riding wheels on the state highway at night. Without question Centralville police have issued warnings have been given out by the police here, it is also said, against the practice of many bicycle riders going out onto the highways at night without lights on their wheels. Any such youth who is apprehended by the police is [illegible] The [illegible] was restored Thursday morning when Chief John Mc[illegible] had warned the youth that he would present him in court if his offense of night riding without lights was repeated.

Auction sale of fine household goods at the residence of Mrs. W. E. Keech, at 90 South Main St., so called East Brooklyn, Conn., on Tuesday, June 23, at one o'clock p. m. Witter Bros., Auctioneers, Danielson, Conn.—Adv.

Thomas Fleet, a native of England, died Wednesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Winthrop E. Short. Mr. Fleet passed away after an extended illness. He was 81 years of age on April 29 this year. He leaves his wife, two daughters, Mrs. W. E. Short and Mrs Annie Plankey, Wauregan, and a sister, Miss Nellie Fleet, resident in England relative to the death of Soldiers.

During Thursday investigation concerning the death of Anthony at Central Village Tuesday night, what the investigation has developed, if anything of importance, officers or officials were not prepared to state. Coroner Arthur G. Bill has plans for holding an inquest at which such witnesses as are available will be heard. The witnesses will include George Baril, of Moosup, owner of the car that ran over the youth when he was lying in the road, presumably after having fallen from his bicycle, other members of the Baril motoring party and possibly other eye witnesses of the accident.

Sidney Waters, able seaman, U. S. N. had something to explain when he arrived back at the Naval Training station at Newport, Thursday afternoon, after spending a night here in the custody of State Officer Waters, is 17 years of age and hails from Danbury—his home port.

Wednesday afternoon he accosted the son of Walter E. Shippee, over on the West Side, and after some conversation asked the loan of the Shippee boy's bicycle to ride over to a gasoline station on the road to Brooklyn. Fascinated, no doubt, by the spiffy uniform of the sailor boy and the glamor of romance that attaches to the sea and those who heed its call the request was acceded to, and Waters rode off. In the meantime he had told many fanciful tales. When the bicycle was not returned in what one might consider a reasonable time, the police barracks here were notified and State Officer George Gardner went on a hunt for Waters. He found the sailor peddling along in the vicinity of Wauregan and took him into custody.

Quizzing of Waters developed the fact that he had over-stayed his leave of absence from Newport and that he should have returned there five days before. After communication with the commandant at Newport, Waters was sent to the station in custody. Charges that might have been preferred against him here were dropped. The navy deals severely with such fellows as Waters, so the state steps aside and lets nature take its course, as it were.

Church Army Crusaders held four services in Danielson Thursday afternoon and evening, and attracted widespread interest. Recent reviews in The Bulletin of their mission in this country and of their recent meetings in Norwich familiarized in very considerable degree the local public in the nature of their evangelistic work and brought to the services in St. Alban's church and on Davis Park a large number of interested listeners. Following a communion service at St. Alban's church at 7:30 this morning, the public being invited, the Crusaders will leave here for Providence, where they will remain until Monday.

This evening at the state armory the Alumni association of Killingly High school, in accord with long established customs, will give a reception and dance in honor of the class of 1925, graduated Thursday. The Alumni committee in charge of the arrangements has spared no attention to detail to insure achieving the social success that this closing function of commencement week traditionally has been.

Another thunderstorm Thursday afternoon, while not matching the exceedingly spectacular one of Monday night, served at least in small measure to relieve the parched earth and give some encouragement to growing things. Thursday's storm was not of any great duration and no great amount of water fell, but it helped.

Alex Gilman was the speaker at the Rotary Club yesterday afternoon. Some weeks ago the Club adopted the policy of having their weekly talk made by a member of the club instead of an out-of-town speaker, as had been the practice since its organization.

Mr. Gilman, who is the head of Gilman and Co., Inc., President of the Building and Loan Association, and chairman of the board of water commissioners, spoke on the duty that every man and woman owe to their home town of taking an interest in civic affairs, of making it their duty to vote at all municipal elections and then keeping themselves informed of what was being done by public officials, instead of indulging in wholesale condemnation of their acts afterwards.

He sited his work as a water commissioner as an illustration. Prior to his being appointed a member of the Board he said that he felt that water rentals were too high, but only brief service was needed to convince him that he was in error.

"The water commissioners," he said, "owed a bonded debt of $315,000. The first issue of $260,000 is being paid off at the rate of $10,000 a year. The second issue which was for $65,000 to pay for the 16 inch water main put in six years ago, is being paid at the rate of $5,000 a year, the first bond falling due last year. In addition the interest on the unpaid balance amounts to more than $10,000 a year, so that the water board needs $35,000 a year to meet its obligations for borrowed money, aside from operating expenses, and as much of a reserve fund as can be accumulated to meet emergencies.

"Worn out or filled up pipes have to be replaced, machinery repaired or new machines bought in place of those which are worn out. Instead of criticising the amount of the water rentals I am now surprised that they have been kept as low as they are. It is the most important public department of every city. Think of what it would mean if the water service failed for a single minute, and do not blame or condemn the officials at the head of it, who are doing the very best that they can, without investigating for yourself the real conditions."

Mail service out of Putnam will not be curtailed as the result of the change in the running of New Haven trains which went into effect last Sunday.

On the contrary evening mails will not close until 6:45 o'clock which is 45 minutes better than it has been, an prior to June 14 the closing hour was six o'clock.

Nor will affect deliveries in any direction. Mail destined for New York and Boston will reach there as promptly as it did under the old train schedule and of course that means that Southern and Western mail, as well as Eastern and Northern will be routed and delivered without delay.

A letter for New York city or for Boston may be deposited in the Putnam postoffice any time before 6:45 p. m., and will be delivered in the first deliveries of the following morning.

Robert Bridgett, of Boston, chief clerk of this devision, was in Putnam and made a survey of the situation caused by the withdrawal of some trains and the changing of time of others. He made the following statement:

"Although I have not had sufficient time to thoroughly study the new schedule, routing of mail can be adjusted so that the closing hour can be made 6:45 instead of six, as it had been prior to June 14, or 4, as it was first thought would be necessitated by the new train time-table.

"Instead of depending on train No. 771, which has carried the bulk of the day's accumulation of mail out of Putnam, and which now leaves here for New London at 4:32, I would suggest that this mail out of Putnam, to Boston and Poughkeepsie R. P. O. (railway post office) train No. 128, which arrives at Boston in time to make connections with Boston and New York R. P. O. trains No. 39 and No. 179 with Boston and Albany train No. 43. This will furnish practically the same connections as were in effect prior to June 14, when train No. 771 was running on its former schedule, and will permit the closing of mails at 6:45 p. m.

"Instead of mail going to New London for distribution it will go to Boston and be re-routed out of there. Mail for New York, Philadelphia, Providence, Worcester, will reach all of these cities before six o'clock the following morning."

At the meeting and dinner of the directors of the Chamber of Commerce at the Putnam Inn the Master of Quinebaug Pomona and the masters of the subordinate granges were the guests of the directors. They were:

Louis Barstow, Killingly, master of Quinebaug Pomona; Rev. Mr. Downs, master of Killingly Grange; Mrs. S. I. Frink, master of Brooklyn Grange; Alexander G. Maitland, Thompson, master of Quinnatisset Grange; Freeman Nelson, Woodstock, master of Senexet Grange; Mrs. Susie G. Williams, secretary of Quinebaug Pomona, a post she has held for 20 consecutive years; Frank K. Hainee, Pomfret, past master of Quinebaug Pomona; Mr. Gallup, of Pomfret, master of Wolf Den Grange, expected to be present but was prevented at the last moment.

After the dinner and disposal of the regular business of the directors, all of the Grange officers were called upon and all spoke briefly but to the point. They said they believed the Chamber of Commerce would be an aid in helping to solve some of their problems and that the solution of them would be a benefit to Putnam and its business men, that the prosperity of Putnam depended to a great degree on the prosperity of the farmer. There were some grievances of which they said, they thought they had a right to complain.

There was a general exchange of ideas and the conference, it is believed will result in a better understanding and better feeling between the farmers of Putnam and surrounding towns and the business men of Putnam than there has ever been before.

Lewis T. Champlin who for many years was a railway mail clerk, running between New York and Boston, explained the methods by which mail is "worked" on the postal cars, and how it was possible for mail addressed to New York to be sent to Boston in the evening and arrive at its destination next morning without any loss of time. His talk was in connection with the statement that Putnam's outgoing mail service would not be curtailed because of the change in the time of New Haven trains. He talked well and interestingly.

President deCoudres appointed the following executive committee, whose mission it is to act on matters requiring immediate attention when all the members of the board cannot be called together: A. E. Smith, Charles E. Richard, Armand Lizotte, Walter J. Bartlett.

The committee appointed to arrange for a general meeting of all the members of the Chamber of Commerce, which now numbers 220, several new ones being voted in at the last meeting, reported that Rev. George J. Donahue of Pomfret had consented to make an address and they recommended that the meeting be held Monday evening, June 29 at 7:30 in Odd Fellows' Hall. This was agreed to by the directors. At this meeting all of the new members will be especially urged to attend and the old members are expected to come anyway and as well as any citizen who is interested.

AMUNDSEN'S RETURN

When Amundsen set out for the north pole through the ice he carried sufficient food supplies to last him for a month. He returns therefore safe and sound within the limit of such supplies but without having reached the goal.

Worry and anxiety over his failure to get back within 48 hours are now seen to have been needless. Likewise the same concerning the efforts that have been made to go in search for him and his party.

That this intrepid explorer will have an interesting story to tell concerning his experiences, the difficulties encountered and the things accomplished goes without saying. He has of course fortified himself by the tests made for future efforts in flying to the pole. Where he was and what he was doing during the short month since May 21 will arouse more than ordinary interest because of the nervousness displayed because of his failure to return sooner.

Only if he had actually reached the pole was there reason for him to make a quick return, and even then it would have been folly to have participated in [illegible] a race just for the sake of announcing his accomplishment when there were so many other things about which he was anxious to find out in that locality.

Early stories give indication that he intends to profit by his first flying experience and make another effort. He will give attention to a greater fuel supply and it is to be hoped when he again attempts to reach the top of the earth that he will carry with him a wireless equipment which will make it possible for him to keep in touch with the rest of the world and indicate whether he is making headway, whether he is safe, or whether he has met with injury or is on the tramp after an accident and in need of assistance.

He may be anxious to retain the story of his accomplishment until he has the proper chance to put them forth but in justice to those who are anxiously waiting and watching, dreading and imagining the worst, he should furnish such information as would relieve an anxious and waiting world.

That the first flight in the Arctic circle has been a success will be happily received and it will likewise be hoped that nothing worse ever befalls him in future attempts. He has done what no other explorer has accomplished.

GENEVA RESULTS

Agreements have been made and agreements have been broken. Just what the result is going to be of the signing of the protocols as the outcome of the Geneva conference we must wait upon time to disclose. It was with deep concern that the conference was opened. There was a general desire for the accomplishment of international agreements which would operate against war and reduce some of the horrors of war. The fact that rules of war have been disregarded in the past did not deter the participants. They encountered certain obstacles but seemingly these have been overcome so far as an understanding is concerned. What remains to be seen now is how enthusiastic the respective nations are in ratifying the action taken, and then, if the results are favorable, how faithfully each one lives up to the terms.

The laudable aim is to bring about a regulation of the arms traffic so that there can be an elimination of much strife and the settlement of disputes and government difficulties by other means than bullets. Such a move in behalf of peaceful conditions arouses the human interest everywhere. There are nations which are interested because they are producers of arms and there are others which are much concerned because they are dependent upon others for their munitions of war, and yet if there is a real desire to check war there's a gain for both in whatever serves to prevent it.

There is much the same feeling regarding poison gas. The little nations feel that if the others are going to use it they should not be denied the chance to get and employ it. The desire is that none should use it. Thus there would be no advantage taken away from anyone. The relative strength of each would remain the same. While its elimination means a reduction in the terrors of war it likewise means that it would also be one more factor in behalf of peace, for if certain munitions can be dispensed with it is only further step to get along without any.

AN AVIATION SCHOOL

Claim upon the heath of the order for the devotion of increased attention to aviation at Annapolis comes the announcement from the chancellor of New York university to the effect that it has been given the sum of $500,000 for the establishment of a school of aeronautics.

Here is recognition of the growing importance of aviation and the one necessity for giving to it all possible study that the advancement may get that encouragement to which it is entitled and the benefits of better and safer aviation may be obtained at an [illegible] reasons for establishing the school points to the fact that the airplane is by no means restricted to war uses. He tells of the progress that has been made in the use of the flying machine for carrying of mails, in preventing forest fires, in the fishery business, in photography and in surveying and had he waited only a short time in the writing of his letter he might have told of its successful employment in invading the polar regions. Such development he believes establishes the fact that the airplane is a fixture, that it should get the benefit of scientific research and that the time has come for endowing such a proposition.

Mr. Guggenheim doesn't consider that this means of transportation has by any means been brought to its proper degree of perfection or that it has been put to all uses possible during the time of peace. He does believe that it should be made the subject of greater educational effort, that it has great possibilities for the future and that in this country where the first machine was built is the place for starting such a movement.

The stimulation of a greater interest in the peace time uses is deserving of the highest commendation. It is apparently the pioneer effort in this direction and such before it has had a chance to produce its results it may arouse others to similar effort. It is keeping step with the times.

ROBERT M. LAFOLLETTE

Although he had not been in good health for the past few years the death of Robert M. LaFollette had not been anticipated at this time. Weakened by severe and repeated attacks he had succumbed not in the midst of a strenuous political battle but months after it was over.

For years Senator LaFollette of Wisconsin has been a prominent figure in the upper house of congress. He was always active and a leader who commanded the entire confidence of his own state. He seldom hesitated to champion a cause which he considered required his services or which he regarded as just, and his death removes another of the nationally known law makers, whose numbers have been seriously depleted within the past year.

Senator LaFollette was disposed to lead rather than to follow. He was never happier than when in a contest. He was generally regarded as the standard bearer of the discontents, and this particularly during the last campaign when he was a candidate for presidency. He was a fluent, earnest and enthusiastic speaker, a man of strong convictions and without a doubt he was sincere in the positions he took and the causes which he supported. Believing that he was right he held unswervingly to his course, and though he had reached the three score and ten mark he did not believe that his chance for service was nearing the end.

There will not be another LaFollette though others will unquestionably endeavor to step into his place.

TAX REFORM

Whether there will be a conference between federal and state officials over the question of taxes no one knows. Such a meeting has been suggested and there are those who look upon it with favor. Others are opposed because they believe that it can get nowhere.

The question of taxation has been before the country for the past several years as never before. Despite efforts which have been made in Washington and the reductions actually accomplished it still remains the fact that in state and municipal governments there is too often a tendency in the other direction. Instead of meeting the requirements called for in the cutting of taxes they get a cold shoulder and being ignored taxes mount instead of drop.

One change that had been advocated is for the federal government to restrict itself to the income tax and abandon the estate tax to the states. This would call for the state giving up the income tax, action which might easily be regarded as being an interference with the rights of a state.

Whether it is through a conference, or otherwise, there can be little question but what there is a crying need for some relief from the present estate tax collected by the government and the inheritance taxes collected by the states, which amounts in certain instances to almost if not quite confiscation. Well may there be some understanding reached among the states concerning this form of taxation, and with such an effort started it can readily be believed that strong advocacy would be forthcoming. Unfortunately it is not always what is most needed that is provided for the relief of the burden carrying taxpayer.

What has become of those old fashioned people who used to tell about heat lightning?

When Chicago gets its new 40 story building it will be another case of "the higher the fewer."

When it is figured that women in this country spent $1,500,000,000 for clothes last year, the display was rather skimpy.

You can tell it is summer by the number of drownings and auto accidents, Arctic expeditions and hints on packing a trunk.

Being told that all it needs is new rules and regulations the New London police force isn't so bad as it has been painted.

If New York state really has a free cash surplus of seven and a quarter millions in the treasury, can't someone start some kind of a drive for a bonus, gratuity, pay increase or pensions?

New York is to have an underground 132,000 volt electric cable which seems to brush aside the claim that the placing of electric cables underground isn't advisable.

The claim is being made that Vice President Dawes is already defeated in his effort to revise senate rules. No one would dare to claim however that he is discouraged.

GOVERNMENT FINANCES

Washington, June 19—The annual financial statement, as of June 30th promises to show a surplus of [illegible] as compared with estimated expenditures will double the amount predicted by Director of the Budget General H. M. Lord.

President Coolidge's demand of a year ago that governmental expenses in the executive departments be reduced, has borne fruit. The indications are that departmental heads, as a result of the parsimonious of the president will turn back about $175,000,000 from their appropriations for the fiscal year, and efforts are being made to bring about a still further reduction, if possible.

The latest democrat of prominence to pay his respects to President Coolidge is James W. Gerard, who served as ambassador to Germany from 1913 to 1917.

In speaking of the president and his foreign policies, Mr. Gerard said, "I thing that the foreign policies of President Coolidge have been successful."

Mr. Gerard has emphatically denied reports that while abroad he criticised the Coolidge administration note on the French debt. He said, "I did not know that the debt note existed and I did not discuss the question in public or in private."

That there is a lot of money in the banks ready to be invested in government securities was best evidenced last week when Secretary of the Treasury Mellon announced that a government loan to bear 3 per cent. interest, which, incidentally, is the lowest rate since the war, was to be issued to the extent of $125,000,000. These tax certificates will mature in one year. The proceeds, with the balances of cash already on hand and money estimated from the June tax returns, will result in the retirement of $400,000,000 of treasury 4 1-2 per cent. notes which matured on the 15th day of June. This means that there will be a reduction of 33 1-3 per cent from the present figure that the government is paying for its short time obligations. Shortly after the announcement was made by Secretary Mellon the treasury department was deluged with telegrams and letters asking for the bonds. The requests were in such number that in less than 24 hours the loan was triply over-subscribed.

According to experts in the commercial end of radio, it is estimated there will be ten million sets in use in the United States by 1930. The estimated expenditures by the American people for this year gives a total of $450,000,000. $345,000,000 was spent last year, as against $2,000,000 in 1920.

Those who have the idea that radio is but the plaything of those in the city do not take into consideration that in 1920 there were 145,350 sets on farms, and that last year in the homes of the agriculturists there were 300,000 sets in use. Two years ago the farmers had invested over $18,000,000 in radio sets. In 1924 they had spent nearly $47,000,000. That there is still room in this field of industry is best shown by the fact that in the 26,000,000 homes in the United States there are 22,000,000 still without radios. To compare it with automobiles, on January 1 there were only 11,000,000 out of the 26,000,000 homes in this country without motor cars.

Few people who keep hens or eat eggs realize what a big thing the egg industry is. The United States produces about 2,000,000,000 dozen eggs annually; but China, the largest producer in the world, produces more than 8,000,000,000 dozen. Before the World war Russia was the largest egg-producing country in the world. Russia has dropped below China and the United States.

In 1923 China exported more than 21,784,000 dozen eggs, either in the shell or preserved in some form. Of this total 24,000,000 pounds (preserved) representing about 12,000,000 dozen in the shell, went to the United States.

The United States exports only about 36,700,000 dozen eggs, and imports from 12,000,000 to 15,000,000 dozen, in preserved form. These large importations tend to depress the price of American eggs in the American market; so a republican congress placed an import duty of 5 cents per dozen on eggs in the shell, and 8 cents per pound on preserved eggs. The tariff of 1913 admitted eggs in the shell per pound or 10 per cent. ad valorem.

The farmers who produce eggs are entitled to protection against Chinese eggs, in the shell as well as preserved.

Figures made public by the department of commerce show that our trade has been steadily increasing with Europe during the spring months. Exports to Europe in April were $28,000,000 greater than in the same month in 1924 and the imports from Europe were $17,000,000 greater. At the same time there was a sharp increase in the imports from and exports to South America, our imports from that continent gaining $12,000,000 and our exports to the same continent increasing but $10,000,000. Our imports to other continents during the month of April were: Europe, $98,066,339; North American countries, $25,252,227; South America $46,661,378; Africa $96,660,711; Africa, $10,105,318; Oceania, $9,813,838. Our imports increased from every continent except North America.

Our exports for the same period were: Europe, $208,980,096; North America, $92,723,277; South America, $35,893,954; Asia, $36,246,961; Oceania, $13,820,171; Africa, $7,679,094. Our exports were increased to every continent over the figures of a year ago.

Again the estimated budget surplus in the United States treasury at the end of the fiscal year is mounting. It is now thought that the surplus will be $120,000,000 instead of $62,000,000 as was at first anticipated. It is believed also that the income and profit taxes at the end of the fiscal year will be considerably in excess of the $1,660,000,000 as was estimated.

The condition of the government finances is extremely gratifying to the treasury department and seems to make it certain that a reduction of about $300,000,000 in taxes may safely be made in the next congress. Returns under the new income tax rates have exceeded expectations.

The receipts from miscellaneous taxes have, up to this point in the fiscal year, dropped about $60,000,000 below estimates, but this is not looked upon as serious because of the receipts in excess of estimates obtained from other sources and the fact that there is evidence to support the belief that government expenditures will steadily be decreased as a result of the economy program which has been put into effect.

Today's Birthdays

Earl of Ramsayde (Field Marshal Haig), who sails for Canada today, born 64 years ago today.

Max Pemberton, popular novelist and playwright, born in Birmingham, England, 53 years ago today.

Vance C. McCormick, former chairman of the National Democratic committee, born at Harrisburg, Pa., 53 years ago today.

Lindley H. Hadley, representative in congress of the Second Washington district, born in Indiana, 64 years ago today.

"Is it raining?" inquired the lady in the blue tailored gown, anxiously, as the outgoing crowd carried her across the lobby of Orchestra hall and tossed her into the street. "I have an umbrella in my hand but I'm not sure whether it's wet. Happy New Year, anyhow."

"Nope," said the complacent bachelor at her elbow. "Never carry 'em. But it's not raining. Come on, let's go somewhere for tea. It seems like years and years since I've seen you and I want to visit. What have you been doing with yourself lately anyway?"

"I really believe it is a year or two," said the lady, after a moment's consideration and with a friendly smile. "Funny, isn't it, how old friends in this town never see each other? We are all too busy to be normal these days. If we had more leisure to think of people——"

"But," protested the complacent bachelor, as he held open the outer door and piloted her through the crowd, "I didn't say I hadn't thought of you, did I? As a matter of fact, I've been thinking about you an awful lot lately. Do we take a taxi, or what?"

"Let's walk," suggested the lady in the blue gown. "I always want a lot of air to breathe after the concert. Shall we go up Michigan toward the bridge? I have forty minutes before train time."

The complacent bachelor grunted. "Dence of a life you suburbans lead," he said. "If you invite a girl to the theatre these days you have to allow two hours to get her home afterward, and by the time a fellow gets back to his own diggings after that he might just as well change his clothes and go on to the office. Remember when we all lived out on the south side, near the L.C.? Those were the good old days, weren't they, now?"

He beamed down at her persuasively and impulsively she beamed back.

"Of course they were," she agreed, with a little thrill in her voice. "But the todays are good, too, and so will be the tomorrows. One of my dearest beliefs is that every mile of the road can be good going if—— Oh, how do you do, Mrs. Smith?"

The passing acquaintance had slowed down a moment, glanced at the two curiously, and passed on with a smile.

The lady in the blue gown looked up at her companion with sudden alarm. "Do you know who that woman is?" she said. "She's the woman who went around ten years ago telling every one that you and I were engaged, and she'll do it again, now, I can tell by the look in her eye."

"Who cares what she says?" inquired the complacent bachelor, soothingly. "Look here, I want to tell you something. Are you going to stop bowing to every powder-nosed female on this boulevard and give me your attention, or will you go somewhere to tea? Here's the club now."

"I—I think we'd better not," said the lady in blue, nervously. "My train——"

"Bother your train!" exploded the complacent bachelor, irritably. "May I have the pleasure of your company at a drug store fountain, then?"

"Why, I'm afraid——" stammered the lady in blue, desperately.

"Well, what in thunder are you afraid of?" demanded the complacent bachelor. "You're the oldest and best friend I've got, and I wanted to tell you first of all about the girl I'm engaged to, out in Detroit——"

The smile that broke over the lady's face was like a day in June.

"Why, you sweet old thing," she laughed. "Why didn't you say so before? I was so afraid you were trying to be sentimental about me again. Let's go right in here for tea, and you can tell me all about your [illegible] fiancee. Never mind the cold. I'm going to be married next and I want you to be in order."

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Robert McNutt McElroy, who has accepted the Harmsworth professorship of American history at Oxford University, has been for some years the head of the department of politics and history at Princeton University, a post which Woodrow Wilson once held, and from which he passed first to the presidency of the university, and then to the presidency of the nation. Professor McElroy has traveled and studied extensively in Europe and Asia and thus broadened his view of the world. In China, for a year, he lectured on theories and methods of popular government, which the western nations had tried and tested, his object being to aid young republican China in getting a body of public opinion favorable to the new regime. During the war he served as educational director of the National Security League. Professor McElroy is a Kentuckian by birth, and as his name implies he is of Scotch-Irish stock.

Stories That Recall Others

Some Snickered.

A Sunday school teacher was discussing recently the manner in which the strong sometimes prey upon the weak. To illustrate he recited an incident in which a little Spitz dog owned by him had been attacked a few days before by a large airedale. Waxing warm as he recited the incident, he said, emphatically:

"And that air devil rushed across the street and seized the little dog."

The "devil" part was obviously a slip of the tongue, for he was plainly embarrassed. The class smiled. Some even snickered.

Mother, Meet Sonny!

"Mother, I saw a little boy almost killed today," said Richard, age seven.

"Is that so? Tell me about it, son," asked mother.

"Well, you see this little boy was in the alley and an automobile went by and hit the little boy and knocked him down and hurt him. The driver got out of the car and went up to the boy and gave him an awful calling. He said all kinds of bad words."

After telling Richard that she hoped he would never play in the alley or the street the mother dismissed the matter from her mind. That evening, when she was bathing Richard she noticed his body was covered with black and blue marks.

"Why, Richard, what happened to you?" she asked.

"Mother, you remember that little boy I was telling you about that nearly got killed by an automobile? Well I'm that boy."

From Small Beginnings

Herman Melville, the Cabin Boy, Greatest of South Sea Writers

A sailing ship lay at anchor off the coast of the Marquesas Islands some 80 years ago. It was a crude, rough, uncomfortable vessel at best. The men who composed the crew were as rough as the boat they sailed. Danger was the only spice that there was in their lives. Their work was hard; their quarters were cramped and poorly ventilated and over them there was a captain who gave them scant sympathy.

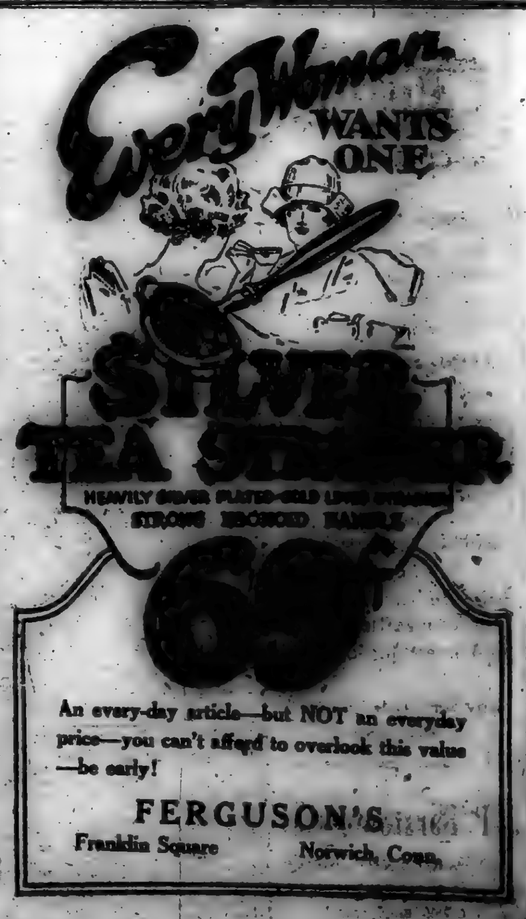
Among the crew there had been a young man not 24 years old, Herman Melville, an American. Just now the captain was in a fiery temper over this same young American and was giving quick, profane orders to his men to go ashore, climb the mountains, thread the jungles, and bring back the man who had deserted. How it would have surprised that rough sea captain to know that the young man whom he was so eager to catch and to punish with the utmost severity would become one of the most noted of American writers, and the author of a book based on the very adventure that he was now entering into!

In all truth, that young sailor, whose spirit of indignation at harsh words and taunts and blows and petty tyranny had so risen that he had taken the chance of going to live among the cannibals rather than endure the captain any longer—that young sailor was a remarkable man. Off into the jungle and up the steep mountain sides of the wild island of Nukahiva went Herman Melville and one sailor friend. The two men made their way to a village of fierce cannibals. Beautiful maidens made love to them; strong men brought them food, but nevertheless they were always in danger. Finally Herman Melville escaped to the coast and to a boat from a ship. He slowly made his way back to America, and there wrote his book Typee, that most wonderful of all stories of the South Seas—a book so full of romance and warmth and color and tropic love that it is to this day the best book ever written on life in the cannibal islands.

The common sailor, who had grown up from being merely a cabin boy, became a novelist and wrote a score of books, some of them almost as famous as Typee. He became the friend of the great Nathanial Hawthorne and settled down into a calm and uneventful life, part of which he spent in the Custom House in New York City. As he sat at his desk he must often have thought of the happy days when he lived like a king in an island scarcely known to the world.

In recent years Herman Melville's books have strongly attracted public attention, so that now, 33 years after his death, he is more famous than he ever was before.

If a railway ticket agent were paid according to the number of fool questions he has to answer it would keep him busy drawing his salary.



An every-day article—but NOT an everyday price—you can't afford to overlook this value—be early!

JURY TRIAL CASE GOES TO THE COURT

The contested foreclosure suit of Pawel Sablewski, of Norwich, against John Dydo, of Preston, on a mortgage for $2,500, given Aug. 19, 1924, was on trial in the superior court here, Thursday. A jury was empaneled for the trial of the case, but after several witnesses had been heard Judge Isaac Wolfe suggested that the case be withdrawn from the jury and tried to the court as there were certain equitable issues which must be determined by the court.

This was accordingly done and the testimony already given was considered as having been given before the court.

Attorney Andrew B. Davies represents Sablewski, while Dydo is represented by Attorneys H. H. Pettis and V. P. A. Quinn.

It is Dydo's claim that he bought the farm for $5,000, intending to run a milk route from it, and that the seller misrepresented the number of acres in the farm, the size of the milk route, and the condition of the barn. He also claims that Sablewski did not tell him anything about the well on the place being contaminated. He had been there but three or four days when he got an order from the state dairy commissioner prohibiting him from selling milk because of the contaminated well.

Witness for Dydo were Fitzhenry Paine, of the state dairy department, Mrs. Kate E. Goodacre, Ralph Arthur Haines and E. A. Prentice, the latter stating that the value of the farm last August was $8,850.

SALVATION ARMY'S FINAL APPEAL FOR $250

Commandant E. W. Wilbur of the local Salvation Army issued an appeal Thursday evening to the public of Norwich to raise $250 this week in order that the army's aim of $4,000 for local work the coming year may be realized before the week is over. "If 250 people will contribute one dollar each, the campaign will go slightly over the top," said Commandant Wilbur. "The contributions have been coming along pretty good, in spite of the fact that some of the local shops are on short time and money is scarce. Norwich has never fallen down on our campaigns and is not going to this time," the commandant continued. "With what annual contributions are coming in, all we need now are 250 public spirited men and women to send us one dollar each." Any one who wishes to respond to this meritorious appeal of the Salvation Army may do so by sending their contributions to Commandant E. W. Wilbur, care of the Salvation Army Citadel, Cliff street, or the contributions may be left at the citadel.

ESTORE NIGHT BOAT TRAIN

The traffic bureau of the Chamber of Commerce held a meeting Thursday night in the offices of the Chamber to discuss developments of the afternoon mailing situation.

Secretary John J. O'Rourke, as representative of the Norwich Chamber of Commerce, held an hour's conference with Supt. E. H. Regan of the New Haven railroad in New London Thursday afternoon. The secretary reported to the bureau that Mr. Regan would recommend to higher officials, the restoration to the schedule of the so-called boat train, which formerly left Norwich at 8:30 p. m. daylight time.

The bureau was also communicated with Putnam, Danielson and Jewett City, and was able to present to Supt. Regan, the difficulties encountered in the afternoon mail service from these communities, as well as those of the local business men. While it is true that the passenger traffic has decreased to such an extent as to warrant the discontinuance of some passenger service, it is also true that the railroad receives hundreds of thousands of dollars annually from the freight service in Eastern Connecticut. The success of Eastern Connecticut industry and business depends, to a large extent, on a prompt and efficient mail service. The railroad officials in charge of this district recognize this fact and will do all in their power to give an adequate train service to Eastern Connecticut.

In speaking of the mail service, Mr. Regan stated that the public was prone to blame the railroads for poor mail deliveries when the blame rests entirely on the post-office department. He saw no reason, for example, why parcel post deliveries should consume four days' time from Worcester to New Haven, and he spoke from personal experiences.

He received a letter from an individual living in Avon, Conn., complaining of the poor railroad service in the delivery of two special delivery letters mailed from Hartford to Avon, and which consumed four days' time. These letters were mailed by the post office department from Hartford to Springfield, Mass., to Westfield, Mass., to Avon, Conn. They should have been sent to Plainville, Conn., and direct to Avon, which would cause the letters to be delivered the next day.

In speaking of the Norwich situation, he said he saw no reason why the closing mailing time should be 5:45 p. m. when the Central Vermont has a train leaving Norwich at 7:40 p. m. He felt that the Norwich situation was purely up to the local post-office department.

Mr. Regan reminded the secretary that the public utilities commission could not compel the railroads to operate trains where the service doesn't warrant it. He cited the recent Colchester-Amston hearing and stated that the commission certainly found that unless the patronage on this line should prove its necessity, the railroad will be justified in abandoning the line.

The New London officials will recommend a later evening service for eastern Connecticut immediately to the proper authorities. Developments are eagerly awaited.

Parking Space at Station

Secretary O'Rourke was given assurance at his conference with Mr. Regan that the legal department of the New Haven road has given a favorable report on the feasibility of throwing open the space at the New Haven station for public parking. He was told that just as soon as the matter can be arranged the road will have men there in charge of parking arrangements for which a nominal fee will be charged.

PALMER BROS. ATHLETIC ASSOCIATION HOLDS ELECTION

The annual business meeting of the Palmer Bros. company athletic association was held Wednesday evening at Camp Kenjockety, Fitchville, with representatives present from New London, Montville and Fitchville Prior to the election of officers and other business details, an excellent supper consisting of clam chowder, rolls, sandwiches, homemade doughnuts and coffee was served by Mr. Chappell, who officiated as chef for the occasion. That the cooking was beyond the ordinary cannot be denied for a story is current that the chief cook was offered a $30 gold piece for the chowder recipe by a prominent member of the New London delegation but the offer was not accepted.

After the hunger of the gathering had been appeased and smokes had been passed around, J. Reid Johnson, president, and Ellsworth C. Powers, secretary, were unanimously re-elected to their respective offices. Both officials of the association made fitting response to the honors shown them, and predicted an enjoyable and profitable year for the three teams of the league. It was announced that the New London and Fitchville teams would play at Fitchville on the morning of the Fourth and then assist the local village in its plans to make its celebration for that day the best possible. Camp Kenjockety, from the Indian meaning Camp on the Hill, is picturesque in the extreme. A rustic lodge surrounded by lofty pines and hemlocks and shady places carpeted by the long needles of the conifers was an ideal spot for such an occasion. In regal style and as an assurance against the falling needles a large awning was suspended above the tables that had been set under the trees. All the beauties of the hill tops contributed to the enjoyment of the event which was one of the most successful ever held in Fitchville.

A roll call showed the following delegates or guests present:

From Montville—William Wells Lyman, Courtland A. Palmer, Arthur Gough, Frank Pachlobo.

From New London—J. Reid Johnson, Frank Abel, Peter Nerynki.

From Fitchville—Mandel W. Palmer Willis Chappel, Ellsworth C. Powers, Leroy Lathrop, Albert Tolson, Ernest Smith, Thomas Sweeney, Timothy

DYER GETS VERDICT FOR FULL AMOUNT

George H. Dyer, an employe of the National Bank of Commerce in New London was awarded a verdict of $1,551.56 by a jury in the superior court in this city Thursday afternoon in his suit against Charles Glassenberg, proprietor of a newsstore at 247 Bank street, New London. The case was tried before Judge Isaac Wolfe and jury at Norwich.

The amount awarded was exactly what Attorney George Curtis Morgan representing the plaintiff asked for claiming that this amount was the wages due his client. Attorney Morris Lubchansky, appeared for the defendant.

On September 1, 1922 the defendant is alleged to have made a contract with the plaintiff, in which the plaintiff duly performed all conditions on his part. The plaintiff entered upon the performance of his services and duties and has performed such up to July 13, 1924, when without cause or justification it is claimed that his services were dispensed with by the defendant and he was discharged without due cause or justification.

The papers also stated that because of the defendant's failure to complete the contract upon his part, the plaintiff was without employment and unable to obtain the same for some time.

Dyer, who is 31, and married, testified that he had been employed by the National Bank of Commerce since October 15, 1924.

According to the contract, Dyer was to be employed as general salesman, manager, and bookkeeper and do all other necessary work, that is incidental to the general news business, to manage the store, take care of the buying of everything except newspapers. Dyer was to give his individual time and attention to this business and was not to engage in any other business or occupation during his period of employment which was for three years from September 1, 1922.

In consideration of the employment, Glassenberg agreed to pay Dyer $47 each week, and a bonus of $150 each year, payable quarterly. The second year the salary to be increased.

The defense claimed that Dyer was not discharged.

LECTURE

CHAUTAUQUA PROGRAM

A splendid musical programme, by [illegible] quartet, a group of vaudeville [illegible] and readings, marked the opening [illegible] Chautauqua on Thursday afternoon. As in preceding years the Chautauqua tent is located on the Academy campus. There was a good sized attendance at the afternoon performance the programme given by the Ladies' Sextette was an excellent one.

The Ladies' Sextet appeared again in the evening with an entire change of programme. The evening performance had a large sized patronage.

Immediately following the concert there was a splendid and intensely interesting address by Arthur Walwyn Evans, on the topic, What America Means to Me. Mr. Evans who is a rapid fire speaker held the close attention of the delighted audience throughout his hour's talk. Numerous humorous stories of his childhood and Irish and Scotch jokes kept the audience in a jolly frame of mind from start to finish of the lecture.

Mr. Evans said he is an American citizen but was born in Wales, British Isles. He told of his school days in England and of his home life. Later he attended the University of Scotland and then for twelve months was employed on a "government job" in the Shetland Islands. After speaking of his extensive travels through the European countries he told of the conflicting view points of the people of various European countries over the outcome of certain battles in which their soldiers fought, nations engaged in war all claiming victory and never admitting defeat. This is not only true of the old world but of the new world also. Mr. Evans said that while he was in the southern states of this country he saw school histories giving an entirely different version of the Civil war than the school histories of the north. Mr. Evans said he told of these different viewpoints in order to show just how people feel about their individual countries and of their own particular section of the country in which they live.

In these days we want realities, not hot air, said Mr. Evans. The environment of childhood leaves a certain deep impression on the man. Our prejudices are more a matter of our surroundings. Speaking of modern improvements in the methods of travel, the airplane and telling of the wonders of the radio, Mr. Evans said that nations do not "live unto themselves" any more.

Mr. Evans said it is a great privilege to be an American citizen, and that we are reaping the benefits of the experiences of our forefathers in the past. The lecturer told of the great number of nationalities that go to make up America and of the influence each nationality has on our national life. The Irish gave us enthusiasm and humor, he said and the Scotch caution. We need both. What does America mean to me? America means fraternity in the broadest sense.

ARRESTED ON SUSPICION OF FAIR GROUNDS THEFTS

Following complaints of the theft of an overcoat, a hand bag, box of cigars and several motormeters from automobiles at the fair grounds Thursday afternoon while the owners were watching the Bay State race, from the grandstand, John Cazzasa, 41, of Hartford, was arrested by Constable Lucius Fenton on suspicion that he might be implicated in the thefts. After the races were over the owners, on returning to their machines, found that someone had paid unwelcome visits and carried away motormeters from the radiators and articles found in the cars.

Complaint was made to Constable Fenton who was on duty at the fairgrounds throughout the afternoon and an investigation was immediately started. As a result of the investigation, Constable Fenton learned that a boy who was in a machine had noticed a couple of men fussing around the machine as if they were looking for something to carry away. They evidently had not noticed the boy in the machine.

The boy pointed out Cazzasa as one of the men and on the strength of the boy's information Cazzasa was arrested on a charge of theft. The warrant charges the theft of an overcoat from H. Greaves, value $25, and one hand bag, valued at $10 with contents, a motor meter from the Dawley Medicine Company and a motormeter from Dr. Bitgood, the motormeters being valued at $10 each. # EQUAL TRACK RECORD BROKEN BY JOHN HENRY IN YESTERDAY'S RACE

It was predicted the track record at the Norwich track was lowered in the 2:07 pace. John Henry, driven by Ben Gingras a full second off the track record 2:08 1-4 jointly held by Col. Bingwall and Pennywood. The new record was made in the second heat of the 2:07 pace when Pitman drove his bay gelding to a smashing, driving finish to win over Charles Direct by a few feet. John Henry was clocked at 2:08 1-4 and the three first horses under the wire lowered the old mark as they were almost abreast as they came down the stretch.

Every one on the card was close and the racing was the best seen on the Norwich track in many years. Hard driving finishes featured every race and the driving throughout the races was of the best. All the fields were well bunched for the entire distance making the finishes close and forcing the drivers to push their mounts to the limit. In the first event there were 10 starters and in the second seven making the scoring of the field no easy for Starter Al Standish. Mr. Standish did exceptionally fine work in getting the horses away considering the field in which there were one or two bad acting horses.

There were several delays yesterday afternoon owing to several of the horses pulling shoes. This happened in at least four heats and there were additional delays because of broken harnesses. This happened so frequently that it finally became a joke with the crowd.

The best racing of the day came in the 2:07 pace which was won by John Myers, Pitman up. All three heats of this event were close and it was only by pushing the horses to the limit that the race was decided.

The 2:15 trot was the only straight heat race which was won by Ensign Tighe driven by Nevins. Although Ensign showed good speed it was not a runaway for the Canadian horse. Mosawah and Kitty Belwin being close on the heels of the winner all the way.

After placing third in the 2:11 pace in the first heat Silver Weather was driven to a neat victory in the next two heats. Cornwall pushing the chestnut horse to the limit in the finish. In this event as in the others the race was close from the start and every inch of the way.

The time of all the races was fast, the slowest time made during the afternoon was 2:14 1-2 which shows that the horses were stepping along at a fast pace all the time.

The summary:

Today's Card

The card for today, the closing day of the meet here finds three good races scheduled. These races are the 2:24 trot, the 2:18 pace and the colt race. In the colt race are some good horses, seven starters in all. The other two events have large fields and some good horses in these. The 2:18 looks to be the feature event of the day and Peggie's Lady looks like the logical winner of the event. Rainsboro is another horse that may be well to watch.

POWER CO. BEATS NUGGETS IN BEST GAME OF WEEK

Before a large and enthusiastic crowd of fans, the Eastern Connecticut Power company defeated George Madden's Nuggets, 5 to 3, in Thursday evening's Twilight game. Last night's game was close and exciting and up to the final inning was a pitchers' battle between Johnny Greene of the E. C. P. Co.

For six innings there was little to choose between the two hurlers and although Greene allowed but one hit against four for Simcox, his control was not as good as Tommy's and he was not as steady in the tight places. In the final inning, however, Greene weakened considerably, to the extent of three hits, while Simcox grew stronger as the game progressed. In the strike-out column, both pitchers were about even, Greene with nine, and Simcox with eight.

The E. C. P. nine drew first blood when they scored one run in the second inning. Chic Stanley, late of the Catholic university in Washington, reached first when Fox fumbled his grounder to third. Chic stole second, and went to third while Carlin was throwing out Harris at first. Harold Hull then shot a grounder to short, and Stanley scored with the first run of the game when Lang dropped Lesseman's perfect throw to the plate.

The Nuggets came back with two runs in the second half of the inning. Fox led off with his fourth straight hit of the season, a single to left, but was forced at second by Carlin, Stanley to Davis. Carlin then stole second and scored on Burke's long hit to left field for two bases. After Brewer struck out, Johnny Greene shot a grounder to Lesseman, but when Ed. Harris dropped the throw to first, the runner was safe and Carlin scored. Greene went to second when a play was made on Carlin at the plate. Leo Jarvis kept up the attack with a single to left and Greene was caught between third and home, when he tried to score on the hit.

From this inning to the end of the game Simcox was invincible. His sharp breaking out curve was working to perfection, and all the Nuggets could do was to roll easy grounders to the infield or raise short pop flys. In each of the last five innings, Tommy retired the side in one-two-three order, but one ball going to the outfield.

Greene's wildness got him into trouble in the fifth when the E. C. P. team scored two more runs. With one out, Johnny hit Joe Hull and Davis in quick succession, and each moved up a base on a passed ball. Chic Stanley's grounder to short was fumbled by Lesseman and both Hull and Davis scored. Ed. Harris ended the inning by raising a long fly to center.

As related above Greene weakened in the seventh, and hte Power Company counted twice on three hits. With one away, Joe Hull cracked a two-base hit to left and scored when Davis singled to the same field. Davis went to third while Greene threw out Stanley and scored on Ed. Harris's double to right. Harold Hull drew a pass, but Corrigan ended the inning with a grounder to Burke. The score:

YALE CREWS TO LEAVE FOR THE THAMES THIS AFTERNOON

New London, June 18—(A. P.)—As men of Yale and Harvard assembled in New London today for tomorrow's regatta, the 54th in the history of the rowing classic of the east, six crews, wearing the colors of the two universities ended their long tour of training on the Thames with short paddles on the river and brief drills in starts. Tonight, Coaches Ed Leader, of Yale and Edward Stevens, of Harvard pronounced their charges at top of form and ready for the starting signal tomorrow.

New London Crowded

Although the main regatta crowd is due to arrive early tomorrow by special trains from New York and Boston and by automobile over Connecticut roads from points near and far, New London already was crowded on the eve of the races. Hotels were filled and the flotilla of yachts in the harbor, augmented by many arrivals in the past few days, housed hundreds of regatta enthusiasts. The prospect of a close contest between Crimson and Blue this year swelled the number of applications for reservations on the trains which will follow the crews on both banks of the Thames, and gave promise tonight of attracting the largest crowd in the record history of the event.

Harvard Hopes Are High

Not since 1923, when Harvard last led Yale home over the four mile course on the Thames have the hopes of the Crimson soared so high. The first varsity stroked by R. Winthrop, of Boston, won an early season victory over Pennsylvania, Cornell and Technology on the Charles river and has been defeated only by the strong Navy eight on the Severn. Time trials during the training period at Red Top have convinced Harvard coaches that the varsity has a fighting chance against Yale, which for three seasons has not tasted defeat. At the Yale camp at Gales Ferry, however, quiet optimism as to the issue prevailed tonight.

Three Veterans in Each Boat

Each varsity boat tomorrow will hold three oarsmen, veterans of last years crews. Winthrop, G. R. Johnson and Captain S. E. Kelly rowed in the same positions on the Thames last year, stroke, number 4 and bow. Of the 1924 Yale crew, conquerors of Harvard and Olympic champions, there remain Captain A. M. Wilson at number 3, B. M. Spock at number 7 and H. T. Kingsbury at number 4. Coxswain W. R. Stoddard is piloting the Blue varsity for the third year. At stroke, T. I. Laughlin, of Providence, R. I., is declared to have proved a worthy successor to A. D. Lindley, of Minneapolis, Olympic stroke, who was dropped in early season because of scholastic troubles.

Observers at the training camps have said tomorrows race will be the first fair test of the Stevens coaching regime at Harvard. The Crimson head coach this season has had time to drill in uniform methods a squad of men, some of whom had worked under three coaches and as many systems, it has been said. While exponents of the western school of rowing in charge at New Haven and Cambridge, the Yale and Harvard crews in practice here have shown remarkable similarity in stroke and method, and the result tomorrow, according to expert opinion, will depend on the relative power of the crews rather than the virtue of a system. In weight Yale has a slight advantage, the varsity crew averaging 186 pounds to Harvard's 178.

Boils Spoil Combination Race

An outbreak of boils in the Harvard Red Top camp led to the cancellation today of the combination crew race, the opening event of the regatta. Captain C. O. Iselin, at number 6 in the junior varsity, and D. S. Gates, at number five in the same boat, were the victims. They were replaced at the eleventh hour by F. M. Waymer and D. P. Bolles and the Harvard combination crew, robbed of its only two upper classmen, was withdrawn.

In the drawing for lanes, Harvard obtained the east, or Groton side of the stream in the freshman and varsity events and the west, or New London side in the junior varsity. With probable tide and wind conditions neither crew will reap any advantage from position.

The Schedule

The regatta will open at 9:45 o'clock tomorrow, eastern standard time, while the freshman crews will row a two mile race downstream over the upper part of the course, from Bartlett's cove to the Submarine base.

At 10:30 o'clock, eastern standard time, the junior varsity eights will row over the same course and distance.

The varsity race, scheduled for 5 o'clock in the afternoon, eastern standard time, will be rowed over the four mile course upstream from the New London railroad bridge to Bartlett's cove.

Chicago, June 18.—(AP)—Jimmy Ring let Chicago down with five hits today and broke Philadelphia's losing streak by turning in a five to one victory. The Phillies had lost eleven games in row. COLORED STARS TO PLAY AT TAFTVILLE SUNDAY

On Sunday the velvetmen will cross bats with the fast Colored Stars, of Hartford. This team played wonderful ball last season and defeating some of the leading teams in eastern Connecticut including Brown Sox of Springfield, Elm City Giants, Mohawks of Meriden, and in fact every leading semi-pro team in the Capitol City. The Stars will put a strong team on the field, Dawkins or "Big Clete" Knights will be behind the bat; on the pitching staff will be "Lil'Ole Cannonball" Strong, "Buddy" Jackson, and Grovner. Strong holds the colored eastern strike-out record, pitching ten games last season with an average of twelve strike outs per game. White or "Babe" Coleman will cover first; J. Willis will take care of the initial bag with Gainer formerly with Brooklyn Royal Giants at third. Capt. Willis will take care of short, Willis batting average being 450 last season in twenty games. The out field will be taken care of by Hill, Melnise Cunningham.

The J. B. Martin will take the field as follows: J. Murphy, c. Lemieux 2b Pepin, p. J. Joubert, 1b. Krauss ss. F. Murphy, 2b. F. Gley, 3b. DeCelle rf. The outfield will be taken care of by W. Gley, E. Murphy, E. Joubert, and "Lefty" Doss. Just a reply to Manager Donovan's statement in last week's sporting column, he claims that the J. B. Martin boys were too tired to play two games over the week end, but he does not take into consideration the defeat the Velvetmen gave the club last year, defeating them the best two out of three, especially in the second game when Riverview had a nine run lead and the tired J. B. Martin boys snapped into it when two were out in the seventh scored eleven runs also sending four of Bill's famous twirlers to the showers. What about it Bill?

SCONY TEAM TAKES EASY GAME FROM STARS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, June 18.—Del Potter's left handed slants were too much for the Fort Trumbull Stars, and the Standard Oil nine began its play in the second round of the City league with a 7 to 3 victory.

Except for a momentary lapse, Potter was supreme. But that slight infraction cost him a shut-out victory. For Brewer, who was smacking them hard all evening, banged out a homer with a foot-weary mate on the sacks. Both teams corralled a similar number of base hits, but errors behind poor slab work spoiled all chances for the Stars to twinkle their best.

The Stars lost their lustre in the second, when Ed Mansfield poked out a single with two on. Up until the slight rally by the Stars with Brewer's homer going enough

MARKET REVIEW

New York, June 18—(A. P.)—Stocks opened unevenly today, but soon turned decidedly irregular on profit taking and lost all of their early gains, receding from 1 to 3 points. There was nothing in the day's news to bring about the decline, which started after professional bear operations launched an attack against a number of specialties recently exploited by pools.

Conspicuous were those bear attacks that in many instances were said to have taken profits on the long side through their stocks into the support, which was unable to absorb them except at material concessions in quotations. Trading showed a marked expansion in volume, the day's sales running well over one and one half million shares.

Prices pointed upward at the opening but little headway was made except in relatively unimportant specialties. The apparent sluggishness of standard industrials and rails invited short selling, which increased in magnitude when it was discovered that buying support in many issues had been withdrawn. The continued ease in money rates and the scarcity in the floating supply of several popular stocks, kept the decline in check. Rallying tendencies developed in the late afternoon, closing prices generally being above the low levels of the day.

Heavy accumulation of the three Pierce-Arrow issues, all of which mounted to new high levels for the year, was noted throughout the day. The common stock touched 24 7-8 and then sagged a point for a net gain of 6 5-8 on the day.

The prefered closed fractionally higher at 83 1-2 after selling as high as 86 and the pajor preferred scored a sensational gain of over 16 points, by touching 170 and then yielding to 166 1-4. Hupp motors also was heavily bought, closing 1 5-8 higher at 19 5-8 after touching a new top at 20 3-4.

Public Utilities also presented several points of strength. American Telephone continued its steady rise to new high ground by advancing 1 1-2 points to 144 1-4. Federal Light and Traction was bid up more than 3 points to a new peak at 35.

Other issues which mounted to new high levels for the year were International Combustion, Union Tank Car, Robert Reis, Tobacco Products A, Goodyear Rubber preferred, Standard Milling and New York Canners.

Nash motors broke 21 points to 420 on two sales. Havana Electric dropped eight points to 171 1-2 and United States cast iron pipe closed 6 1-2 points lower at 158 after having ranged as low as 154.

Weakness also was shown by American and foreign power, Atlantic Coast Line, California Packing, Coca Cola, Deposit Telephone, Mission and Standard Electric, Interborough Rapid Transit, Maxwell B, Certificates, Paris and Hartford, Ward Baking B and Sewage Aerating, all of 2 to 4 points the latter named touching a new low record for the year.

Call money held steady at 3 1-2 per cent but this rate is understood to have been shaded in the "outside market." Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Weakness of Italian lire which broke 23 points at a new low record for the year 3.55 c and then recovered most of their loss, the feature of the foreign exchange quotations was demand sterling holding around 4.85 1-3, but French francs ruled slightly lower at 4.72 cents. Other European rates were mixed.

New London, June 12.—City Manager Wilcox At State Police caused typewritten copies of the report of Lieutenants Putts and Sweeney, members of the New London police department, brought here for the purpose of offering suggestions leading to provide means of attaining additional efficiency in the police department, to all members of the city council. After the several councilmen have thoroughly read the report it is believed that the city manager will request authority to authorize Lieutenants Putts and Sweeney to prepare a complete set of rules and regulations for the approval of the council and if these are adopted that the new rules and regulations will be put into operation in the department. This action it is believed, will occur at the next meeting of the city council, next Monday evening.

Philip E. Devereux, deputy state motor vehicle inspector conducted a hearing this afternoon at the court house of cases where the licenses of operators have been suspended for violation of the automobile laws within the past few weeks.

William B. Waterman, Glenwood park of the firm of Waterman Weite, automobile dealers, received a return of his license. Waterman's license was suspended following his conviction in the police court of reckless driving and as a result of the machine he was driving demolishing a car owned by Henry Bray, Riverview avenue. Bray received a fractured pelvic bone among other injuries.

The license of Otto M. Eames, 366 Montauk avenue, suspended for alleged evasion of responsibility, was returned.

William H. Long, 10 Robinson street, was not granted the return of his license. Long, who was convicted in the local police court last February of the charge of operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor must wait six months from the date of his conviction before being permitted to operate a machine.

Charles E. Stetson, 200 Montauk avenue, whose license was suspended in 1923 after his prosecution of driving a car while under the influence of liquor, had resulted, from a police court trial, received the license back.

Anthony J. Bernard, Norwich, and James O'Connor, 27 Winthrop street, charged with reckless driving were pardoned their licenses.

Harold E. Williams, 22 Mercer street, a year ago with operating his automobile while under the influence of liquor, was granted the return of the license upon examination.

Fred E. English, 136 Willetts avenue, charged with evasion of responsibility, received his license back.

George J. Berger, 283 Union street, Moosup, charged with reckless driving and operating a car without a license to do so, did not put in an appearance at the hearing.

Timothy J. Spellman, 15 Liberty street, Westerly, was in New London last night. He was drunk from head to foot so he laid down in an alleyway leading from Bank street to the beer houses in the rear of the building. About 2 o'clock this morning Policeman Henry Hick strolled down into the alley on the way to try the doors of the beer houses when he walked right upon the body of Spellman. The latter only grunted. Then Hick threw his flash light upon the object he had stepped on and had a task to get Spellman to the police station. The latter was arraigned in the police court today charged with intoxication. He admitted that the charge was a proper one to make against him and he said he was guilty—most guilty. He explained that he was married and the father of two children, but said he and his wife "didn't get along very well" so they were living apart now. He has been a mason's helper when he had work and that employment brought him to New London. He explained that the children were at Cheshire where they were taken care of. Judge Crandall was disposed to send Spellman to jail but concluded that he could be of more service to the community and to himself if he continued to help out some one. Judgment was suspended for 24 hours and Spellman was told to keep away from intoxicating liquor.

Norbert Le Blanc, a student at Bulkeley school, was charged with violation of the parking ordinance in having left his car for an hour and a half on the west side of Bank street while he was attending the performance at the Capitol theatre. Norbert set up in defense of his act that he construed the language of the sign board to mean that he could park where he left his machine during the afternoon but not during the evening. Judge Crandall told Le Blanc that a high school boy should have a better conception of the English language than he seemed to have, but suspended judgment that Le Blanc might go and offend no more.

An automobile owned and operated by J. Lewis Chapman, Groton, and a commercial car owned by F. J. Drozd, 283 Main street, and driven by Sczesan Fabrikiwicz, of the same address were in collision this morning at the junction of Crystal avenue and Winthrop streets. The cars collided with great force and were badly damaged. The drivers escaped injury.

Harold Gard, 23, Latham street, Groton, was injured this morning on Montauk avenue, when he was precipitated from his bicycle when the machine collided with an automobile. The boy was operating his bicycle behind the automobile and when the auto came to a sudden stop, the cycle struck the rear of the car with such force as to damage it and hurl the rider to the macadam highway. Gard declared that the auto driver did not give a signal that the auto was about to come to a stop, but the cyclist refused to lodge complaint against him.

John F. O'Connor, 81 Ocean avenue, complained to the police late last night that some one was prowling about his residence. Sergeant Patrick Murphy and Patrolmen Edward Daniels and John Foley were dispatched to the O'Connor residence, but when officers arrived there the prowler had disappeared.

A danger spot was revealed on Montauk avenue, near the corner of Willetts avenue, this morning when a deep depression was revealed in front of the premises, 116.

Thomas W. Casey, formerly of New London, now located in Providence and who has been in this city several days, has sold to Ambrose Cassera the dwelling house on the east side of Ocean avenue, between Alger place and Perry street. The house was sold a few months ago sold by Mr. Casey and his family as a residence and the price paid by Mr. Cassera was $9,500.

The authorities of Central Village in Plainfield requested the New London police to maintain a lookout for a Studebaker sedan public service automobile, which was stolen early this morning. The stolen machine bears Connecticut registration O-1693.

The body of Charles Ephraim Stemp, former Pennsylvania railroad baggagemaster, whose death of heart trouble occurred on the Bar Harbor express last night while the train was en route from New Haven to New London, was forwarded this forenoon to Mr. Stemp's former home in Reading, Pa. The body was accompanied back to Reading by Mrs. Stemp, who was with her husband when he died.

Thomas McWeeny, carpenter, 238 Crystal avenue, reported to the police this morning that quantity of tools and a tool box owned by him and which he had been using at his employment corner of Ocean avenue and Squire street, were stolen last night. Sergeant John Cavanaugh was assigned to the case and determined that the plunder was probably carried away in an automobile. No trace of the thief was obtained.

Two New London young men are reported missing from their respective homes and both disappeared yesterday morning according to reports received at the police station this morning. Whether the missing youths went away together has not been determined.

George Edgcomb, 17, of 39 Willetts avenue, and employed by Mrs. A. Geo. Griffin, Best View, Waterford, went to his employment as usual yesterday, but has failed to return home last night and neither did he go to his employment today. When it was revealed that Edgcomb had not put in an appearance at his employer's this forenoon the police were requested to aid in a search for the young man. Edgcomb is described as being six feet in height, medium build, light brown hair and blue eyes. When Edgcomb disappeared he was attired in khaki trousers, blue shirt and blue sweater.

The other victim who was reported to the police as missing is Frank Wilcox, Jr., 14, son of Mrs. Frank Wilcox, 7 Frost street. Mrs. Wilcox, who reported her son as having disappeared from home, stated that the boy left home as usual yesterday afternoon to attend his studies at the Jennings school and that he failed to return home.

Joseph Baciawski, 125 North Bank street and for a number of years employed at the dyehouse of the Cortichelli Silk company, died yesterday at his former home, death ending a lingering illness. He is survived by his wife and several children.

NEW LONDON HOTELS ARE TURNING AWAY GUESTS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, June 12.—New London took on its annual regatta day aspect tonight when hundreds of men and women poured into the city by motor, rail and water, to be present tomorrow and witness the annual college aquatic event of the season, the four-mile race on the Thames between the ancient rivals, Yale and Harvard. Hotels are crowded to capacity, this being evidenced by the large throngs turned away at the Hotel Griswold and Hotel Mohican.

The harbor is fast filling with yachts, most of them, however, being of the launch type of pleasure craft and already many craft have gone to the course north of the Thames river bridge and anchored in order to obtain a place of vantage. Conspicuous among the speed launches is the Teaser, the craft that beat the Twentieth Century Limited from Chicago to New York a few weeks prior to Gar Woods Baby Gar IV two weeks ago. The Teaser made several trips from the municipal pier to the lower harbor before sundown and the speed of the boat was witnessed by hundreds from the waterfront.

Patrolmen Braxton Hill and Frank Philopena arrested a couple of fellows on Shaw street tonight, much the worse for indulgence in strong drink. The inebriates were at a Shaw street place where they insisted that the proprietor provide them with liquor. Their persistent demands resulted in a row and the subsequent arrest of the pair.

Mrs. Horace Valley and infant son, Quaker Hill, and Mrs. Howard Norton and infant son, 120 Cedar Grove avenue, were patients dismissed at Home Memorial hospital today.

Charles N. Zimmerman, barge Belmont, of Boston; Miss Margaret Barnes, a student at Connecticut college; Mrs. James McAmulla and infant son, Best View, Waterford; Mrs. Kate Talcott, Colchester, and Alf Nelson, of the Australia, Trans-Atlantic Steamship company, patients at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, were discharged today.

The Marsh building, 52-56 State street, changed ownership today when the two-story structure was sold by Daniel S. Marsh, Sr., to the Alling Rubber company. The price paid was, it is understood, close to $150,000 and the new owners will take possession next April. The tenants in the building all have long term leases. Although the deed transferring the property has not been filed for record, it will be within a few days.

Chauncey Pinnee Hulbert, son of Rev. and Mrs. Henry W. Hulbert, Monument street, Groton, died Tuesday at the Phillips house of the Massachusetts General hospital, Boston. During the World war Mr. Hulbert contracted influenza and tuberculosis later developed. Mr. Hulbert is survived, besides his parents, by two sisters and a brother, a wife and two children.

JEWETT CITY

The conference of six churches was held at Newent (Lisbon) church on Wednesday, 137 being present. The service was opened with a voluntary played by Frank E. Hyde, followed by the Doxology, Lord's Prayer and Gloria. The responsive reading was led by Rev. W. J. Reynolds, pastor of the church. The Scripture from Galatios 6 was read by Rev. Dwight C. Sone, of Hanover, and prayer was offered by Rev. William Prantice of Plainfield. Miss Doris Myott accompanied by Miss Irene Stewart, of Jewett City sang Consider and Hear Me, by Harker. Miss Myott is the alto in the Norwich United church choir quartette, and has a natural melodious tonein her voice that coupled with her training makes her music a pleasure to hear. The sermon was by Rev. G. Keene Gray, of Jewett City. His subject was The Religious Approach to Christian Difficulties. There are two viewpoints, one to overlook them and the other to recognize and face them. The latter is the best way. There are three courses we may pursue—Curse God and die—enlist with Him in bringing these difficulties in harmony—trust Him for the things we know He has done. The God is misunderstood. He lives, works and rules in the lives of His people. We may look at the clouds but we should spend the sunbeams. He spoke of the wisdom and justice in the plan of heredity. It means the transmission of the best as well as the worse. If God will be allowed to guide the heredity, the best will result. He can make over a character out of an unlovely heredity. What about God allowing good people to be persecuted? He cited Jesus' death on the cross, which was the result of what sin did, and thereby so many lives have been transformed and turned to God. He emphasized the eternality of God's plan, saying we must live by faith and not by sight. A child does not see why he must study until the years to come proves it. The it to the end. After the benediction by book of life will read right is we read Mr. Reynolds, dinner was served. A very pleasant arrangement in serving the dinner was successfully carried out.

The town hall can accommodate about half the people who attend the conference, so, instead of being obliged to wait, dinner was served picnic fashion to the "younger" part of the guests, who enjoyed it immensely, seated on the grass, benches, and in automobiles.

The afternoon services were opened with a praise service, led by the pastor. The report of the last conference was read by the clerk, Mrs. E. H. Hiscox, of Jewett City. She called the roll which showed 19 from Preston; 16 from Plainfield; 12, Pachaug; 31, Hanover; 18, Jewett City and 21 visitors. A vote of thanks was extended the church for it's cordial welcome and hospitality, and for the addresses and the music. During the services notice of the death of one of the faithful and earnest men of the church, Deacon Harvey Kennedy, was given, whose funeral was to be held in the afternoon. Notice was given of a union service to be held at Westminster on the hill.

The address of the afternoon was given by Rev. David Pitt, D. D., of the Central Baptist church, Norwich. His subject was, A Church with a Program. It was summed up in the parts—cooperation, balance and looking into the far future. Specializing not merely in one thing, Evangelism, religious education, missions and community service, but covering them all. He advocated, upheld by the opinions which he quoted, that ministers need to be trained to be leaders of social groups in church efficiency; leaders of men, in diplomacy, not only to know what to do but how to get it done, in speaking of missions, he said that missions generally meant to the average church member a call for money. They should study to know what the churches abroad are doing for the churches at home. The appeal should be with a Biblical and human approach. World-wide missions will save a church from being provincial. The whole tasks of all the churches is to bring in the kingdom of God. Life is too short merely to pour oneself out for just the glory of one's own denomination. Serve the kingdom and believe that any church that is working for good is worthy of every help. More than anything else, is needed a springtide of new life. Rev. Mr. Mutart closed the conference by thanking Dr. Pitt, and exhorting the listeners to put into practice the helps given. The church was decorated with daisies, roses and sweet William.

Mrs. G. A. Haskell went to Worcester Thursday to be the guest of David Hale Fanning over the week end.

Thomas Barnett goes to Boston today to spend two days, with his brother, John Barnett.

Plans are being made for a prize costume dance at Ashland Casino next week.

The Boy Scouts are to have an initiation of several new members next week Thursday evening in the town hall. It will interest the parents to attend, and the boys will wear their uniforms.

William McNicol has purchased the Andrews property in Sylvandale.

Rev. and Mrs. G. Keene Gray, Mrs. E. A. Faust, Mrs. Ernest L. French, Mrs. J. T. Stewart, T. E. Lee, Mrs. E. H. Hiscox, Helen Hull, Miss S. K. Adams, Mrs. G. A. Haskell, Margery Webster, Mrs. S. R. Waters, Mrs. R. t. Howard, Mrs. H. T. Jeffers, Marian Jeffers, Irene Stewart, Miss M. A. Burdick, Miss S. Nettie Johnson, Mrs. J. C. Hawkins, Mr. and Mrs. E. M. Gray, Mrs. Mattie Robinson, Fred Robinson, Rev. J. W. Carter, Rev. A. H. Clement, Doris Myott, Mrs. A. H. Anthony and Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Cheney attended the conference of churches at Newent, from the Jewett City churches.

At the conference in Newent, Wednesday, Rev. Mr. Reynolds said it was a time of anniversaries, those of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Kendall, of Lisbon, and Mrs. Victor Campbell, of Pachaug. The former 40 years and the latter 29 years came upon this day. The superintendent of the Newent Sunday school, Walter Hyde, entered upon a new anniversary by being married the day before, and the conference clerk's years was only three days before the wedding anniversary of their conference. The pastor's own wedding anniversary is the twenty-eighth.

STORRS HENS LAY 5,000 EGGS LAST WEEK

The total production in the thirty-second week of the Storrs laying contest was 5,007 or a yield of fifty-one per cent. This brings the grand total from November 1st to date to more than 120,000 eggs. As has been previously pointed out, the hens have made the grade and are going down the other side. Increased production is now no longer expected, but if the birds can enjoy a seasonable sort of summer weather with no repetition of the unprecedented days of early June, they should hold right around 5,000 eggs a week for another month or more.

In the thirty-second lap of the race Barred Rocks and Leghorns nosed out the other breeds. Harriet Smith's pen of Rocks from Newburyport, Mass., managed to make first place with a score of 59 eggs. Another pen of Barred Rocks entered by Purdue University at Lafayette, Ind., and Hilltop Farm's pen of Leghorns from Suffield, Conn., tied for second place with 58 eggs each. White Leghorns entered by George Phillips of North Haven, Conn., were an equally close third with a tally of 57 eggs. Thomas H. Neill's pen of the same breed from Vineland, N. J., was fourth best pen for the week with a total of 55 eggs. As a class all the Leghorns together laid at the rate of sixty per cent. Barred Rocks were second with fifty-four per cent.

Eden C. Booth, secretary of the United White Minorca club at Pleasant Hill, Mo., has just notified the management of the Storrs contest of the offer of a silver cup for the best White Minorca pen in next year's laying trials. In addition the club offers two other cups for day pen of Minorcas that leads all breeds in the contest. According to Mr. Booth the club in anxious to see more Minorcas exhibited in poultry laying contests and in consequence substantial independent prizes are offered by the club in addition to any regular winnings that Minorca breeders may make.

The leading pens in each of the principal varieties are as follows:

"No—no, sir," faltered the youngster. "I'm not tryin' to!"—The Progressive Grocer.

"Maggie," said a father to his little daughter, who had just returned from a children's party, "did you help her attention pall you?"

The Silly Young Chipmunk

That little folk are silly folk
You'll find a general rule.
They fail to Miss Experience
Have got to go to school.
—Old Mother Nature.

In every family, or at least in most families, there is a smarty. It was so in the Chipmunk family. Of the five children of Striped and Mrs. Chipmunk, one considered himself a little smarter than his brothers and sisters. He was a regular Mr. Smarty. Now, there is nothing more silly than for any one to think himself smarter than those about him, unless it is to allow those same folks to know that he thinks himself smarter. This young Chipmunk was silly enough to do both.

"Oh," replied Smarty Chipmunk airily, "I guess if there is real danger I'll know it."

He liked to show off, did this young Chipmunk. He showed off so much that pretty soon he was known all around there as Smarty Chipmunk. Now, you wouldn't have supposed that he would have liked that, but he did. Yes, sir, he did so. You see, he thought that those who knew him considered him the smartest member of his family, whereas they didn't do anything of the kind.

So Smarty Chipmunk began doing just as he pleased. He said that mother was silly for being so timid. He didn't believe there was any need of wasting so much time watching out for danger. Life was too short to be all the time looking for trouble. It was meant to be enjoyed, and how could a fellow enjoy life and at the same time be watching for an enemy? Nothing had happened to them so far, and for his part, he didn't believe anything was likely to happen.

So Smarty Chipmunk became heedless. He didn't obey danger signals promptly. In fact, sometimes he didn't obey them at all. When his mother would give a danger signal he would just chuckle, look wise and keep right on with what he happened to be doing. You see, he was sure that it was just a lesson she was giving them, and that there really was no danger. He thought himself very smart because of this.

How Mother Chipmunk did scold him! "One of these days," said she, "there will be real danger, and you will pay the price with your life."

"Oh," replied Smarty Chipmunk airily, "I guess if there is real danger I'll know it. I guess my eyes and ears are good enough to discover danger when any one else can. I don't see any sense in running and hiding when there is nothing to run and hide from."

He said this same thing to his brothers and sisters. He called them silly because they jumped and ran every time they heard a sound. "Why don't you wait and see?" said he. "Why don't you do as I do, wait and see?" It would save you a lot of trouble and save you from a lot of scares. I don't believe in running until I see something to run from. Half the time when you run away you don't know what you're running from. Some one cries 'Run!' and away you run. I don't know anything more silly than running from nothing."

So Smarty Chipmunk kept on doing just as he pleased and because nothing happened to him he had a better and better opinion of himself. He was just plain lucky, but he didn't know it. He was just silly enough to mistake his good luck for smartness on his of part and to boast about it. He even began to look down on his father, Striped Chipmunk, and his mother, Mrs. Chipmunk, as being foolishly afraid. And feeling this way, he, of course, had no respect for their advice. He was a silly young Chipmunk. Yes, indeed, he was a silly young Chipmunk, and the time was coming when he would find it out.

SUMMER CONVENTIONS FOR CONN. AGRICULTURAL COLLEGE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Storrs, Conn., June 16.—That the Connecticut Agricultural college is becoming increasingly popular as a place to hold conventions and conferences is seen in the list of summer meetings already arranged for at Storrs. No less than thirteen meetings have already been arranged for, and others are pending. This is by far the largest number of summer meetings ever scheduled for the State college, and it gives a good idea of the popularity of Storrs as a summer convention ground.

As in the past, all facilities of the college will be placed at the disposal of the various groups who will meet there. These include the dormitories, class room buildings, Hawley Armory with its spacious gymnasium and swimming pool, the athletic field, and other conveniences which will add to the pleasure and comfort of the visitors.

Following is the complete list of meetings that will be held at the Connecticut Agricultural college this summer: June 16, Field Day of Realtors of Connecticut; June 20, Field Day, Men's Union, Union Congregational church of Rockville; June 22-26, Annual Conference Smith-Hughes Teachers of Agriculture in Connecticut High Schools; June 26-July 6, Second Annual Conference of Young People of Congregational Churches of Connecticut; June 29-30, Conference of Extension Economists of New England; June 30, Conference of Congregational Ministers of Connecticut; July 1-3, Connecticut Federation of Women's Clubs; July 14-15, Fourth Annual Conference of Fertilizer Manufacturers and Dealers; July 21-29, Junior Short Course; Aug. 4-7, Farmers' Week, including Sixth Annual Conference of Feed Dealers; Aug. 10-17, Conference of Grange Lecturers of New England; Sept. 17, Field Day Manchester Chamber of Commerce. The business, which was established twenty-seven years ago, is still under the active direction of Charles F. Noyes, the founder and owner, and will be continued along conservative lines.

The number of its employes remains the same as last year, viz. fifty-six, but this year nearly 500 persons are employed in the agency division to operate the various buildings under the control of the company. During the past year additional engineers have been employed for this department, which branch of the company has been largely developed, and many new buildings have been placed under the exclusive control of the Noyes company during the past few months.

The Noyes company reports many inveators in the market seeking well-located real estate and, that indeed of business showing up, as is usually the case around May 1, the activity is greater than it ever has been at this season of the year. Business for May and June has exceeded all previous records and there is over $10,000,000 of business being closed at the present. In the regular mortgage department the Noyes company states that there is ample money at 5 percent interest on well-located loans and an abundance of money at 5 1-2 per cent, subject to a slightly higher value.

PLAINFIELD

The last meeting of the season for the Girl Scouts of Plainfield was held in their rooms at the Plainfield Community House on Tuesday evening. Seven gold stars were given to seven girls for perfect attendance during the year, four girls were made Scouts and several merit badges were given out to the different girls, which proves that they have worked hard this past winter. Following the meeting, a social hour was held, ice cream, cake and candy helping make the evening a pleasant one. The rooms were prettily decorated in brown and yellow crepe paper, the troop colors, and many flowers.

Much credit is due Miss Doris Baxter, who is captain, for her faithful work with the girls and it is the desire of all of them that Miss Baxter will again be their captain when the activities start in the fall.

The graduating exercises this year at Plainfield high school were most elaborate. The high school auditorium was filled with visitors and parents. This year's class is one of the largest graduated from the school, forty-one students receiving their diplomas, Wednesday evening. The address by Professor Southwick, of Emerson college, was a feature of the exercises, speaking of the life of Theodore Roosevelt, a great American.

The following was the program of the graduating exercises at Plainfield High school:

Overture and march, Leache's orchestra; prayer, Rev. Fr. J. E. McCarthy; music, Till We Meet Again, by senior class; essay, Vision, Ruth Evelyn Hopkins; essay, The Potter's Clay, Hazel Beatrice Salisbury; music, I Hear the Bees A-Humming, senior class; essay, The Chambered Nautilus, Margaret Delia Fox; oration, The Eighth Wonder of the World, by Walter Bradford Zwinglias; music, Leache's orchestra; address, Some Practical Lessons from the Life of Theodore Roosevelt, American, Prof. Henry Lawrence Southwick, president of Emerson College of Oratory; music, Leache's orchestra; presentation of medals, Principal John L. Chapman; presentation of class gift, Arthur Stuart Gallup, president of class of 1925; presentation of diplomas, Clarence Reid, chairman of school committee; class song, class of 1925; benediction, Rev. W. R. Prentiss; music, Leache's orchestra.

The Lincoln medal, a reward for writing the best essay on the life of Abraham Lincoln, was awarded to Miss Hazel Beatrice Salisbury. The Lincoln medal is awarded each year to the student of the senior class who writes the best essay on Lincoln. Claude Belknap, of Sterling, received the medal of the Ranslick Polytechnic institute, of Hartford, for having attained an average of 92 1-2 per cent. in mathematics and science during his four years at Plainfield high school. Belknap held an average of 93 per cent. in mathematics for four years and 91 per cent. in science. Class President Arthur Stuart Gallup presented to the school, in behalf of his class, a Nike or Victory of Samothrace statue, to be placed in the main study hall as a remembrance of the class of 1925. This statue is a really beautiful piece of art and will be more than appreciated by the high school. It is an exact replica of the original and at one time, when sailing vessels were in prominence, the statue was seen on the prows of the sturdy sea vessels.

Many followers of the horse racing sport left Thursday afternoon to see the races at Norwich.

Walter Dougherty has been awarded a diploma from the Rhode Island State School of Pharmacy.

The executive committee of the Plainfield Community association met Wednesday evening at the Community House.

The downpour of rain Wednesday night put the ban on tennis playing at the Community courts.

Instructions in swimming and life saving are held every afternoon at the Community pool.

All stores of the village were closed Thursday afternoon, observing the Merchants' holiday.

The Plainfield band held its weekly rehearsal at the Community House, Wednesday.

STONINGTON

Westerly and Stonington High are to play a final third game at the High street grounds in Westerly, tomorrow afternoon, at 2 o'clock. During the past baseball season each team, W. H. S. and S. H. S., has won nine games from the other, and tomorrow's game will prove which is the better team. They are tied for third place in the league and the one which loses Saturday will be at the bottom of the heap. Emmet, one of the best pitchers in the league, will pitch his usual fine game of ball on that afternoon, and Westerly knows that with him they are up against something, even though Larson, of W. H. S., staged a comeback at the last game. He will be on the mound for Westerly again. As this is to be the last game of the season for both teams, a record breaking crowd is expected to be on hand to witness the finals. W. H. S. and S. H. S. are known to be rivals so the victorious team will have to work hard for its laurels.

The commencement exercises of the Stonington High school were held in Borough hall, Thursday evening, at 8 o'clock. The class colors are crimson and silver and the class flower, sweet peas. # THE FARMER'S TALK TO FARMERS

CULTIVATING CORN.

(Written Specially for The Bulletin)

This is the strictly rural parable of the cultivator and the two farmers, drawn from life and calculated for the latitude of the Connecticut corn-belt,—if there is any such thing.

Farmer A was cultivating his corn for the first time this season. The soil was well-fitted and fairly mellow but infested with quack-grass. Former B sat on the fence watching the work. At the end of half-a-dozen rows Farmer A stopped to give Old Dobbin a much needed chance to catch a breath and to wipe the sweat from his own dripping brow.

Says Farmer B to Farmer A: "That cultivator of your'n's a Jim-dandy. What make is it?"

Says Farmer A to Farmer B: "It's a Jing-Jing, Jr. Why do you want to know?"

Says Farmer B to Farmer A: "I never see a cultivator before do as good work as that's doin'. It turns true; it don't dig in with the front teeth and kick up the the hind ones; it don't wabble; it tears up all the weeds; it stirs up the dirt to jest the right depth, and it leaves the ground level, instead of troughed or ridged. I want one jest like it."

Says Farmer A to Farmer B: "Well, you can get all you want in town at Soakem and Chargem's. But I can't say that I find it very much better than any of the others. Most all of 'em do pretty good work under right conditions and rightly handled."

Farmer B: Wa'll, I guess I know how to use a cultivator. But I never seen one do as good work as that, and I'm goin' to have its name."

So he did, the very next day. Driving to the city he bought a shiny new Jing Jing, Jr., brought it home and the following morning took it out to his own corn patch and began what he expected to be an easy, effective and pleasant day's work.

Somehow, though, things didn't pan out that way. That evening he strolled over to Neighbor A's and said:

"Got me a new Jing Jing, Jr., yesterday, and been tryin' to cultivate my corn today. But it don't work like your'n. It digs in when I don't want it to, and thrashes sideways with the handles, and skids into two or three promisin' corn hills almost every row. Whadda'ye s'pose is the trouble?"

Farmer A: "Dunno, I'm sure. Less go over'n take a look at it."

Farmer B: "Jest what I wanted. It must be different from yours and, if you kin show me where it is, I'll take it right straight back."

Farmer A, ten minutes later: "This is exactly the same as my cultivator, and even made the same year as the stamp shows. But where's the wheel?"

Farmer B: "Oh, I don't hold with them new-fangled wheels. I don't want nothin' on my cultivator to keep the teeth up and prevent them from doin' their work. I took the wheel off'n soon as I got it home."

Farmer A: "M'm, yes, I see. How did this slotted tightening strap get all one-side?"

Farmer B: "What strap d'ye mean? Oh, that thing, why that's jest the way it came. I didn't change it none."

Farmer A: "M'm'm, 'and have you done anything to the set of the teeth?"

Farmer B: "Lordy, no! Aint they all right?"

Farmer A: "Well, one of 'em's bolted through the lower hole and the others through the upper one. And this one cants out while its mate on the other side cants in. P'raps I can fix it up for you so's it'll do as good work as you credit mine with. But if I do, I want you to put back that wheel jest where you took it from, while I'm straightenin' up these teeth and trulà' the set."

Decidedly enough,—for he had an extremely hard day with every poor results to show for his labor,—Farmer B replaced the wheel while his neighbor balanced the machine, reset the centering device, and, asking Farmer B to stand between the handles, lowered them to what seemed about the proper angle.

Then he went back to his own chores. But he shook his head a little skeptically two or three times before he got hold of the milking-stool.

"'S funny," said he to himself, "that as sensible a man as Neighbor B is about many things, he won't ever take trouble to find what a tool will do, or how to handle it so's it'll do what he wants of it. That cultivator of his was in the very shape Soakem and Chargem's cheap basement man threw it together when it came in, knocked down, from the factory. It wasn't centered at all; one tooth was fastened to the standard by its lower hole and the others by their upper holes; two standards were bolted on through their lower holes, two through the middle ones and one through the upper; and the wheel, which is put on a-purpose to keep the contraption from diggin' in and thrashing about, h'd taken off 'cause there' wasn't any on his old machine.—I'll bet a doughnut against a green apple, too, that he either couldn't or didn't try to make it do its work. How could he with the handles set up in the air almost to his chin?"

Now I can't tell you the sequel to all this, because it happened only yesterday, and the sequel hasn't yet developed. But I'll bet half-a-dozen doughnuts against that green apple that Farmer B will never get the results from his bran-new Jing Jing, Jr., which he ought to—and which Farmer A does get.

Why?

Just because he is too inert mentally and too lazy, physically, to compel them.

In the former days, when I was employing more or less farm help, about the most impossible trick in all the year was that of getting Hank or Jim or Albert,—whatever his name was,—to do a fairly decent job at cultivating.

Apparently, the only knowledge they all had about a cultivator was that it was something you hitched a horse to and walked behind. The idea that it was capable of being set and altered according to the character of the work to be done never entered their minds, —and couldn't be driven in with a beetle. Their only thought about the wheel was to lift it so high it seldom touched the ground. Their only use for the handles was as something to hold on by or be pulled along with. They seemed to think that the poor horse and the unmanaged tool were to do all the work and that their only duty was to keep Bobbin from walking on the rows instead of between them, and yank him 'round at the ends.

Now, cultivating corn,—or any other crop,—is a method of so dividing up the work between a man, a horse and a tool that it can be done faster and better than by any one of the three alone.

To accomplish this result three requisites must be looked out for.

In the first place, the horse should be a steady, intelligent, and well-meaning beast. Cultivating is no job for the colt. Better a raw-boned old "plug" who has known trouble and learned something from experience,—if only he has strength enough left to do the pulling which is necessary when you strike into an area of felled quack.

In the second place, the cultivator must be set, handles, wheel, scratch-teeth or hoes—whichever you use,—according to the soil and the work expected. One must know what the tool will do or can be made to do. He must know how to set its various parts so they will come the nearest to doing what he wants of them. He must know what a "raking" set of the teeth means and what a "gouging" set. He must know how to fix the wheel so it will compel every tooth to do its fair share,—no more and no less. He must fasten the handles at such a hight and day. The handles are not "stuck" for him to hang on to, but for the cultivating him to control the machine; to keep it where it belongs; to make it do the work he wants of it; to lift with at times, to bear down on at times; to swing the whole pivoting-gear when that is advisable. The man who does a full day's work behind the best cultivator that ever was made, and does it right, has earned his supper and his rest. He's done every atom as hard work, for him, as the horse has for it, and will be quite as tired.

That's exactly why Farmer A's cultivator did such good work and why Farmer B's failed. The tools were practically identical: one Boyne is quite as good as the other. But there was all the difference in the world between gumption and muddleheadedness.

It has been said a great many times that you can't make a silver whistle out of sow's ear. True. You can't make one out of a lump of pure silver, either, without knowing how and using skill enough to transmute your knowledge into accomplishment.

There are a whole lot of things in our farm work which we have to do "by guess and by gosh," as the old farmers say. But cultivating corn isn't one of them. It is a job that calls not only for the "know-how" but also for a sweat-defying willingness to make that "know-how" show in results. It calls for a good horse and a good cultivator. But, most important of all, it calls for a good man with grit, gumption and gizzard behind them.

Don't blame your tools for your own dunderheadedness.

THE FARMER.

Each school had representatives in the large cast comprising Father Time, Evening Star, Vesper, West Wind, Butterflies, Bumble Bees, Raindrops and Sunbeams, Curfew, Twilight and a bevy of Picnic girls. ### WIDOWS IN TATTERS ASK HUSBANDS' UNPAID WAGE

Clad in tattered garments and most of them carrying babies in their arms, 200 widows marched to the offices of China's provisional executive, Tsur-Chi-jui, and demanded the unpaid wages of their soldier husbands, who were killed during the fighting last autumn.

Several of the women carried banners with inscriptions setting forth their case, and when the provisional president's guard tried to stem the influx at the gate of the executive offices the parades used with telling effect the long bamboo poles to which the banners were attached.

So determined was their stand that Tuan Chi-jui's chief secretary finally appeared to call for a truce and to suggest that a small delegation be chosen to discuss the marchers grievances. The women quickly named four representatives, who were received by the provisional executive's son and were promised that the government would take immediate steps to deal with their demands.

Viking Ship to Come

In honor of the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of the signing of the American Declaration of Independence, which will be celebrated in Philadelphia on July 4, 1926, Norway will send over another Viking ship, the same as was done at the time of the World's Columbian Exposition in Chicago in 1893.

Norwegians are always glad to show their admiration for the great American republic. The sending of this new ship is in the hands of a committee of Norwegians and Norwegian-Americans. The ship will be a replica of the famous Gogstad ship in Oslo and will be named the Leif Erikson. The route across the Atlantic will be the one followed by the vikings in early days.

Boy Finds Big Pearl

What is called the world's finest pearl, a lustrous, peacock-green gem nearly three-quarters of an inch in diameter and weighing almost 30 carats, has been found by one of the Gamber islands, in the South Pacific ocean, by an 18-year-old native boy diver, says Popular Mechanics. He parted with it for a small fortune, and the buyer is said to have been offered $50,000 for the treasure. It is not an uncommon occurrence for the fishermen to go out in their little canoes in the morning and return at evening rich, according to their standards. The find of the young boy, however, is said to be the largest in the records of the region.

Palace

"A Thief in the Night" one of the latest New York successes is the offering of the Augustin Stock company at the Palace theatre for today and tomorrow and the production offered replete with splendid acting is among the best that theatregoers of this vicinity have ever had the opportunity to witness. The enthusiasm shown at last night's performance, when round after round of applause was freely given to the various scenes, gives every indication that the theatre goers of the locality are just now enjoying the greatest showfest ever offered in productions. The Augustin Stock company certainly put over a big production in "A Thief in the Night" in a manner which caused instant approval and the play itself, dealing with big business and a big undertaking, is full of thrilling situations which keep interest at a high pitch from curtain to curtain. There are as many laughs in this play, as you will find in any comedy which kept the house laughing all through the presentation. There is quite a good deal to the plot. Bill Augustin plays two roles during the action of the play. He is the engineer of the dam out west, who goes bad then runs off. A burglar enters and takes a bath. The resemblance is perfect and the burglar takes up the job where his double left off. His experiences and troubles in trying to get away with it, coupled with a few wives and sweethearts, to say nothing of prospective "in-laws," furnished most of the comedy. Leave it to Bill. He displays remarkable versatility in the character, which is the best he has done here. Ruth Floyd as Eva Lou is just lovely. Her talent and long experience are charmingly and effectively revealed in her portrayal. Arthur Behrens is the wicked contractor and Nellie Gray is his beloved daughter, who furnishes material for the dramatic climax in the last inning. Frank Sadler is the valet. Then there's Bernard Pate as the rich papa, who aids the comedy with his wise cracks. Claire Maslin is somewhat of a comedienne, and Joe Angell is one of the wicked contractors employes. The vaudeville specialties introduced by the members of the company made a hit with the house. "A Thief in the Night" is a real show with all the lively comedy interest and a snap of an attraction that will prove highly amusing. We enjoyed it immensely and heartily recommend it to all classes of amusement seekers.

Broadway Theatre.

One of the finest vaudeville and picture programs ever seen in Norwich was presented yesterday to a very enthusiastic audience who were delighted with the entire program. The E. F. Keith vaudeville was presented in the following order:

The Texans have a very unique novelty called A Study in Rope-Ology. They do things with a rope that cannot be described and must be seen to be appreciated. Brown and Newman in Charlie Go Way scored highly with their collection of comedy, songs and dances. Miss Laura Pierpont with W. George Harriss in "A Book Revue" pleased immensely with their little oddity of song and music. Morton Harvey, "A Rolling Stone," is a monologist with a mind for ready wit and renders songs of high order. The closing act was one of the fastest singing and dancing acts on the vaudeville stage today. They are The Four Dancing Demons, who put such vim and pep into their offering that has seldom been equalled before.

The feature picture at the Broadway theatre this week is one of the fastest moving comedy romances the screen has seen in many a long day.

Richard Dix in John Monk Saunders' Liberty Magazine serial, "The Shock Punch"—a real he-man story, with a real he-man star, directed by Paul Sloane, who made "Too Many Kisses."

"The Shock Punch," adapted for the screen by Luther Reed, centers around Dix in the role of Randall Lee Savage. He is afraid that his life of ease and luxury will tend to make him "soft," and hires a couple of professional pugilists to keep his pep up and his waistline down.

Frances Howard is featured at the head of the supporting cast. Walter Long is "Bull" Mularkey, the foreman, and Charles Eyser plays the construction engineer. Others in the cast are "Gunboat" Smith, Dix's trainer, Paul Panzer and Percy Moore.

Here's a picture with the "punch" in every sense of the word!

A Kinegram Weekly is also shown.

SPECIAL HIGHWAY RULES FOR BOAT RACE DAY

Special regulations designed to facilitate the movement of automobile traffic for the annual Yale-Harvard boat race at New London this (Friday) afternoon were made public Thursday by the three state departments having the duty in charge. With more than 20,000 people expected to attend the event by automobile, the problem of handling the traffic necessitates a number of road rules so that there will be a minimum of confusion on the highways.

As has been the custom for several years the state police, highway and motor vehicle departments have cooperated to institute rules for one-way travel, parking, etc. A force of approximately sixty state policeman will be on duty on all the main highways leading to New London and on the four mile parking stretch on the east side of the Thames River in Groton where a view of the event is afforded. In addition to a force of thirty U. S. Marines from the submarine base at Groton will supplement the state officers. A plan has been devised whereby a policeman will be stationed on the highway adjoining the river in Groton at every third of a mile for a distance of four miles. The plan calls for the stationing, also, of three marines on the road at each post between each state policeman. At the same time, officers will be stationed at strategic points to distribute circulars to autoists calling upon them to use caution, and a number of mounted policemen will patrol all the main routes on motorcycles as far as the state lines in all directions.

For an hour before the race and up until an hour following, the drawbridge at New London will be closed to river traffic in order that the automobile traffic may be properly handled.

For two hours after the race, southbound traffic only will be permitted on the east side of the river. All parking must be on the west side of the highway, so that in the event of an emergency, ambulances or fire apparatus, may be permitted to pass. "No Parking" and "One Way" signs will be placed along the course at convenient places and bulletins will be handed each driver as he crosses the bridge giving him traffic regulations.

All traffic will be required to be at a standstill during the race, so that immediately following its conclusion, the cars may start for New London without delay.

MRS. FOSTER TO SPEAK FOR ENGLISH AUDIENCES

Under the auspices of the Midlands association of the Sunday schools of England, she will deliver 16 addresses on features of American Sunday school work. She will return early in September.

COURT VINDICATES B. FALL IN OIL [illegible]

U. S. District Judge T. Blake Kennedy, at Cheyenne, Has Decided That the Government Has Failed to Substantiate Charges of Collusion, Scandal and Fraud in Leasing of the Dome by the Former Secretary of the Interior—Finding Denies That Secretary Denby Usurped Powers of Congress in Carrying Out Provisions of the Act of June, 1920—Counsel Walton, For the Government, Announced That an Appeal Would be Taken.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., June 19.—(AP)—Teapot Dome rightfully belongs to Harry F. Sinclair's Mammoth Oil Company, T. Blake Kennedy, United States district judge, decided here today.

Government charges of collusion, scandal and fraud in the leasing of the dome by former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall to the Mammoth Company were buried deep under a voluminous legal decision, when Judge Kennedy completely upheld every act in the process which resulted in the granting of the big Wyoming oil field concession to Sinclair.

Beaten, but not ready to quit, counsel for the government, Albert D. Walton, United States district attorney, announced after the decision that an appeal would be taken.

Judge Kennedy's decision contained the following rulings:

That the executive order signed May 31, 1921, by President Harding transferring the naval oil reserves from the jurisdiction of the navy department to that of the interior department was legal and not obtained from the chief executive by fraud.

That an act of congress of June 4, 1920 under the lease and other negotiations were consummated, clothed the secretary of the navy with full power in do everything that was done in negotiating the naval oil leases.

That the "loan" of $35,000 by Sinclair to Fall in June, 1933, was a "suspicious circumstance," but that the ready explanation given by Sinclair's attorney, J. W. Sevely, to a senate investigating committee and that the lack of evidence that any attempt at secrecy was made over the transaction gave it the badge of a legitimate transaction.

That the government's allegation of fraud had not been sustained.

That the "collateral transaction" involved in the case—the mysterious high financing carried on by the Continental Trading Company of Toronto, headed by H. M. Osler, with certain American oil companies, including the Midwest Oil Company, the Sinclair Crude Oil Purchasing Company, the Prairie Oil Company and A. E. Humphreys, independent operator, could not, from the evidence, be stamped judicially as evidence of conspiracy involving Fall.

That in carrying out the provisions of the act of June, 1920, the then secretary of the navy, Edwin Denby, did not usurp the powers of congress, as alleged by the government.

That the evidence introduced regarding Fall's bank accounts in the government's attempt to prove conspiracy and fraud did not link the former interior secretary with any unlawful dealings with Sinclair. This evidence was stricken from the record.

That congress may delegate power to executive branches of the government to handle government property "in an unrestricted way, and in accordance with a vested discretion."

That the former Secretary Denby, former Assistant Secretary of the Navy Roosevelt, Rear Admiral J. K. Robison, Chief of Navy engineering, who acted as Denby's agent; E. C. Finney, former assistant secretary of the interior; and H. Foster Bain, and A. W. Ambrose of the federal bureau of mines "must be considered as absolved from any incriminating fault as to fraudulent motive" in their actions in connection with the negotiations.

That there was no undue secrecy in concealing the fact that a lease had been granted to Sinclair and that the government's charge that opportunities were not given persons other than Sinclair to negotiate leases were not borne out by the evidence.

Persons who held mineral leases in Teapot Dome were absolved of blame for demanding compensation for vacating their holdings, Judge Kennedy ruled, setting forth that Fall's requirement that Sinclair acquire quit claim deeds to all these claims as a prerequisite to getting a lease of such ownership.

Every major allegation made by the government was crushed under the decision.

Judge Kennedy near the end of the decision said:

"In reaching a conclusion in this case, we fully realize the decree of unpopularity with which it will be received. This is true in the nature of things, because the great general public is confused only with the sensational features surrounding the transions involved and being largely in the dark as to all the other multitude of circumstances with which the case is surrounded and knowing perhaps less of the great legal principles which the experience of the ages has taught mankind must control in dealing with the rights of persons and property.

"The fact that this appears to be a good contract for the government as testified to by those witnesses who are qualified to speak of its character, coupled with the fact that the courts should be concerned in sustaining lawful grants upon which the rights and welfare of many depend, impels the conclusion that such contracts should not be set aside for light or frivolous reasons, unless fraud in connection with their execution is clearly shown.

"We have no quarrel with the theory that the government should have and has the constitutional power to regulate the manner in which the property of the United States shall be handled by the executive branch, and that the conclusion of the decision, 'but we do maintain that in exercise of that power the legislative [illegible] of that department of government must be exercised in a reasonable way, and in accordance with a vested discretion.'

[illegible] the action taken by the secretary of the navy, if the contracts are fairly and honestly carried out, will actually conserve oil which would otherwise have been lost had not such action been taken, for, as to how far reaching drainage may be and how faroff pools extend underground, is at present little known, even by geologists themselves."

Commenting on the government's charge of fraud, Judge Kennedy said:

"There is a significant lack of material damage to the government which usually attends allegations of fraud, for in the case at the bar, no attempts has been made to show that the lease in controversy was in itself a bad case for the government, except perhaps theoretically by counsel, but on the other hand, testimony of the plaintiff's own witnesses who are competent to speak on the subject, tends to show that it is a lease much more favorable to the government than they as oil operators would be willing to assume."

The ruling held that since there was no allegation of a violation of the law, and since the government counsel had virtually abandoned any discussion of the invalidity" of President Harding's order, the charge could not be sustained.

"Whatever part Admiral Robinson played in the law of secrecy," says the decision, "it cannot be charged to any conspiracy to defraud the government, as the severest charge against him is that of being over-zealous for the success of the plan proposed and feeling that if it were broadcast, congress, regardless of the act of June 4, 1920, might raise some objection.

"As to the charge that Secretary Fall refused to seek the advice of the solicitor in his own department or the attorney general of the United States, only one suggestion need be made. While the secretary of the interior is criticised in the drill for engineering the entire plan, the evidence shows that when legal advice was thought necessary in regard to the legality of a proposed lease, then under advisement such advice was sought and received from the legal staff in the navy department. Under those circumstances the criticism would scarcely reach further than an alleged error in judgment in the choice of lawyers."

Referring to the huge re-sale scheme involving the Trading Company, the Sinclair, Midwest, Pioneer and Humphreys Oil Companies, under which Humphreys agreed to sell more than 23,000,000 barrels of oil to the Continental Company and re-sell it to two of the others at an advance of twenty-five cents or more a barrel, Judge Kennedy held that there was no evidence offered in the case to show there had been a financial liaison between Sinclair and Fall as a result.

The judge ruled that the act of June 4, 1920, was broad enough to permit the secretary of the navy to lease the oil reserves without competitive bidding, exchange crude for fuel oil and erect storage tanks, and that congress, in passing the law, had barred itself from directing the manner in which these things were to be done.

FATAL ACCIDENT AT MIDDLETOWN HOSPITAL

MIDDLETOWN, Conn., June 19.—(AP)—Godfrey Kowalski, 55, of East Hartford, an inmate of the Connecticut Hospital for the Insane since 1919, was killed and John Peters, a carpenter, was injured today when they fell 50 feet to the ground when a section of trestle 200 feet long, which was being dismantled, collapsed, most of it falling into the river. Six men at work underneath the trestle had a narrow escape and six others were at work on a level with Kowalski and Peters and a short distance from them. The trestle had not been used for some time.

Kowalski and Peters had climbed up to cut a high tension cable, and the former had cut through it with a saw. He then struck the cable with a hammer and as it broke, the section of the trestle broke.

The legislature has appropriated $35,000 for a new trestle.

PARIS, June 19.—(AP)—Haste in sending reinforcements to Morocco was urged upon the French government by the parliamentary commission sent to the Moroccan front in its first report made today to the military commission of the chamber of deputies. The commission found medical attention and the hospital food good. In connection with the attention given wounded, the report said that men tattered at the front were examined at the hospital in the rear within twelve hours. The commission attributed the speed to the well organized aerial transportation.

Expedition of Amundsen Party

Members Report That Weeks Upon Ice Was Like a Fight With Death.

OLSO, NORWAY, June 19—The Dadbladet in its noon edition today printed a non-copyright story outlining some of the experiences by the Amundsen North Pole expedition.

The newspaper said the story was based on messages from the expedition's journalist.

"In narrating their story on arriving at King's Bay," says the Dagbladet, "the fliers, all of whom looked worn and thin from suffering, said their weeks upon the ice was like a fight with death. Amundsen will later narrate this.

"Now he mentions that the members of the expedition were separated for a while and that Lief Dietrichsen (Norwegian pilot of one of the planes) and Oskar Omdahl (Norwegian mechanician) fell in the water and were [illegible] save from drowning by Lincoln Ellsworth. Meanwhile Amundsen and Hjalmar Riisserlarsen (Norwegian airline pilot) were on the other side of the floes. They heard their shouts but were unable to help, as they became separated using the engine boats. Regarding the picking up of the members of the expedition by the fishing boat Sjoelly, which brought them to King's Bay, the Dagbladet's story says:

"The fishing boat Sjoelly is a small cutter of twelve tons with a crew of nine men. Her captain is Nils Wollan. The vessel had had a poor catch and was hunting for wounded walrus. When off Huggie Bay, on the northside of Spitzbergen, the crew heard motors purring and discovered an airplane ten kilometers away.

"They at first thought it was an airplane from the patrol expedition, but when it neared they immediately recognized Amundsen, in spite of his long beard.

"The explorers all quickly got aboard the Sjoelly and crowded into the small berths. There was not much food for so many—only seal, beef, cider and eggs. The hawser towing the plane broke once, but a new one held.

"As Amundsen was told that the patrol expedition was ready to leave King's Bay, he decided to make for King's Bay as fast as possible and leave the seaplane. Wollan says this was the greatest catch he had made in his fifteen years' experience in these regions."

The Dagbladet also prints the following account of the arrival of the expedition in King's Bay, without claim of copyright:

"When it was rumored at King's Bay that the Heimdal (the Norwegian government's Amundsen relief ship) was to clear for Dane Island at 10 o'clock in the evening, many people went to the pier to watch her departure. The midnight sun's rays penetrated the light clouds.

"Out in the fjord, a small vessel was noticed making for King's Bay with many persons on deck. Aboard the Heimdal and the Hobby (another relief expedition vessel), which lay alongside each other, it was supposed this was the launch chartered by the Associated Press to follow the patrol expedition northward. The onlookers waved to the occupants and yelled joshing remarks, while those on board the little craft waved in response.

"Suddenly someone on the Heimdal remarked, 'but it's Amundsen,' and at once everyone knew it and he was spontaneously hailed with hurrahs. The six men on the Sjoelly waved their hands. Soon the Sjoelly was alongside the Hobby and the men disembarked.

"The whole pier was quickly black with people who enthusiastically cheered. Just at this time the members of the patrol expedition from the Heimdal were at meeting with the chief of the coal company, discussing details for the patrol expedition.

"The departure of the Heimdal for Wellman's Bay was set for 3 o'clock in the morning, and as the members (of the patrol expedition) began to go back to the ship, a man suddenly came running up, yelling, 'the Amundsen boys are here!'

"The members of the patrol called it a poor joke, but then they heard the cheering on the pier and discovered the newly-arrived little vessel. They jumped aboard the Heimdal, which was nearest the pier, then over on the deck of the Hobby and down on the Sjoelly, where the six Polar fliers, dirty and bearded, but living and safe, were nearly mobbed by sailors and laborers who cheered and shouted.

"The patrol expedition's members embraced the return fliers. All were laughing or crying with joy. All chatted incoherently. They were only able to say 'it cannot be true. We must be dreaming.'

"Then all went together to the home of the director of the coal company, where the national anthem was sung by the crowd."

The story says the returned members of the Polar expedition got to bed late the following morning at King's Bay.

DEFENSE OPENS IN THE SHEPHERD MURDER CASE

CHICAGO, June 19.—(AP)—The defense of William D. Shepherd began presenting its case today with the expressed intention to climax it Monday with the testimony of the defendant himself.

Four defense witnesses were called before the court session was curtailed by an early adjournment, to permit the trial judge, Thomas J. Lynch, to attend a meeting of the Cook county judges, at which he was elected chief justice.

The state rested its case shortly after noon with the completion of cross examination of Charles C. Fulman. His testimony that he gave Shepherd three test tubes filled with typhoid bacilla, desired for the murder of William Nelson McClintock, Shepherd's millionaire foster son, was relied upon to establish the corpus delicti.

Fulman, upon cross examination, admitted he was "mixed up" in the numerous statements he had made involving Shepherd, admitted he had made numerous false statements, that he ran a "diploma mill," that he posed as a doctor in the management of the National University of Sciences, and was laughed at loudly by jury and spectators when the defense followed up its announced intention to make him appear too ludicrous for belief.

At the end, however, he had not retracted any of the incriminating statements involving Shepherd.

Because of it the defense rushed ahead with the beginning of its testimony. One witness testified Fulman had associated with men convicted for violating the federal anti-narcotic law, and was unworthy of belief.

Arthur T. Conway, who admitted he had served a sentence in the federal penitentiary at Leavenworth, Kansas, testified that he was well acquainted with Fulman and had attended his university.

"During your association with Fulman did you become familiar with his reputation for truth and veracity?" asked William Scott Stewart, chief counsel for the defense.

"Yes, it was very bad," replied Conway.

Two others attacked the story of Fulman and of John P. Marchand, former representative of Fulman school, that Shepherd had written a letter to the school inquiring about a course in criminal bacteriology. Fulman and Marchand said the letter was written upon stationery of the law firm of "Stoll and Shepherd," of which the defendant formerly was a member.

Miss Eva Peterson, Shepherd's stenographer, denied that Marchand ever was in Shepherd's office, and said Shepherd and Stoll had individual stationery.

Through Miss Peterson the defence introduced what was described as the original memorandum from which Shepherd dictated young McClintock's will which left the $1,000,000 estate virtually to Shepherd. It was testified that the memorandum was sent to Shepherd by McClintock while the youth was attending Dartmouth college at Hanover, N. H.

Miss Isabel Anderson testified that in 1919 the Shepherd and Stoll partnership was dissolved and all of the "firm stationery" was destroyed, alleged to have been written.

The statement of Miss Isabelle Pope, fiancee of Billy McClintock, that during the youth's illness Shepherd had told her he had sfacilited "typhoid and germs" was attacked through the testimony of W. J. Mitchell, a court reporter who recorded the young woman's testimony at the coroner's inquest.

Name Vast Arctic Polar Territory

Gov. Brewster Authorizes MacMillan to Claim Any Land He May Discover.

SOUTHPORT, Me., June 19.—(AP)—Governor Ralph O. Brewster, of Maine, tonight authorized Donald B. MacMillan, who sails for the Arctic tomorrow, to claim any territory he may discover in the polar regions for the state.

He made this announcement at Newagen Inn at a dinner in honor of the explorer which was attended by many persons prominent in state and national affairs.

Governor Brewster himself arranged for the dinner and in view of recent press dispatches announcing Canada's attitude toward the United States in the matter of claiming any territory discovered by the MacMillan expedition, his announcement was heard with keen interest.

"By the well settled principles of international law," said Governor Brewster, "discovery is the primary incident in a claim to any land. If question shall ever arise as to its title a good constitutional provision is made for its determination by the constitution.

"There appears to be nothing in the constitution in either this state or nation in derogation of this inherent right of sovereignty of claimed land which it shall discover or explore.

"If question shall arise with foreign countries their amicable adjustment in accordance with our constitution is assured by the peaceful experiences of a century with our neighbor on the

"The flag of the state of Maine may be planted on this territory which there is much to indicate may exist in that great space. It will then remain for the federal government to decide whether or not it will recognize and protect our rights."

SOUNDINGS BY AMUNDSEN FAILED TO INDICATE LAND

LONDON, June 19—(A. P.)—A Reuter dispatch from Oslo says Roald Amundsen has sent a message to the Norwegian premier, M. Mowinckel, saying he surveyed 150,000 square kilometers during his flight toward the Pole without discovering an indication of land.

FRENCH TO INTENSIFY THE MOROCCAN WARFARE

PARIS, June 19—A. P.)—Premier Painleve, with the members of the chamber of deputies, excepting the communists, solidly behind his government, intends to prosecute the Moroccan war with greater vigor. An offensive on a large scale against the Moors may be expected within a few days.

M. Painleve received a blanket endorsement from parliament today on his Moroccan policy. The vote was 525 to 32.

The vote of confidence was given after the chamber had shelved an interpellation by the Communist deputy Doriot regarding peace negotiations with Abd-El-Krim, leader of the rebel tribesmen in Morocco. It was taken as giving the premier a free hand in the negotiations with Spain for joint action and in conducting the war against the rebel tribesmen. Also it was considered as lifting the restriction limiting the French government to "defensive warfare," which has characterised the operations in Morocco recently.

Blue Oarsmen Lead Crimson by Length and a Half at Finish After Fighting For Supremacy All the Way—Yale's Time Was 20:28, Best Since 1916—Eli Crews Win Both Freshmen and Junior Varsity races.

NEW LONDON, June 19—(A. P.)—Yale's varsity crew defeated Harvard first eight over the four mile course on the Thames river today by a boat length and one half, and for the fifth successive year the blue triumphed over its traditional foe from Cambridge. The victory in the feature race of the day, after blue freshmen and junior crews had won their races easily in the forenoon, gave Yale a clean sweep of the 53th dual regatta in the history of the series, which began in 1852. The tally of that classic series now stands: Yale 31; Harvard 27.

The result today allowed the blue oarsmen to complete their third straight season without defeat, but the varsity victory was not won without a struggle. The best crew that has worn the colors of Harvard in recent years, stroked by H. Withrop, of Boston, fought every inch of the way over the long Thames river course and refused to lower the colors until the last flag was passed. The time, among the best in the history of upstream racing on the Thames, was Yale 20:36; Harvard 20:32 2-5.

The report that Harvard crews in their training at Red Top had shown power that promised to test Yale's best attracted the greatest crowd that has attended a regatta at New London for several years. Thousands of spectators, the majority wearing the colors of Yale or Harvard on feather or banner, followed the races from the long observation trains on the New London and Groton shores, or from points of vantage on the riverside. The flotilla of yachts and launches was gorgeous numerous than usual, and lined the four mile course on either side. Airplanes flying above the racing boats added noise and color to the picture.

Conditions Were Perfect

Conditions for the races were almost perfect. When the freshman and junior varsity events were rowed in the morning the river was as smooth as a pond and a gentle downstream breeze aided the barsmen. In the afternoon the breeze was upstream at the backs of the varsity crews, and the slight ripple on the waters was not enough to handicap the crews.

Harvard Takes Lead

All the Harvard eights made their bid for victory early in the race and later succumbed to the intolerable changeless Yale stroke. The Crimson senior eight, after the start, was delayed an hour, got off to a fine start shortly before six o'clock eastern standard time. With a high stroke, smoothly carried out, the Harvard shell shot to the front and at the half mile was a full two lengths in the lead. The Yale coxswain never allowed the stroke of his boat to go above 33, but they are had back of them all the power of modern blue crews.

Yale Passes Harvard Boat

Harvard supporters cheered madly as they saw their crew hold its lead to the half mile flags, but there the Yale stroke began to tell. The Crimson men let down on the stroke as they entered on the long grind and the Blue crept up. At the mile the lead had been cut down somewhat. Half a mile farther on Yale had picked up three-quarters of a length. On the way to the two mile flags the Blue shell overtook the Harvard boat and gained a 12 foot advantage.

Harvard had shot its bolt too early in the contest and the Blue gained with apparent ease until at the fifth half mile the lead had grown to a half length. On the next stretch to the three mile flags water began to show between the rival boats.

Harvard Fights On

The Harvard men still had fight in them, and a sprint on the next half mile picked up some of the loss. The Crimson boat hung on the stern of the other craft, doggedly fighting for inches, but there was too much power in the Bulldog. In the final half mile Yale raised the stroke slightly and sprinted home, winner by a boat length and one half.

The victorious Yale crew, which was stroked by T. I. Laughlin of Providence, R. I., held four men who were in last year's championship crew, winners at the Olympic games. In addition to Captain A. M. Wilson of Minneapolis the veterans were B. M. Spock of New Haven, H. T. Kingsbury of Fort Washington, L. I., and Cozwalin L. R. Stoddard, of New Rochelle, N. Y. The three Harvard veterans of last year's New London race were: Winthrop, G. R. Johnson of Chicago and Captain S. B. Kelly of Reading, Mass.

Yale Wins Minor Races

Yale won the freshman race by three lengths and the junior varsity by four. The combination race, postponed from yesterday because of changes in the Harvard junior varsity crew made necessary by an outbreak of boils at Red Top, also resulted in a victory for Yale. The Blue team finished in front by a wide margin over a two mile course. The times in this race were: Yale 4:53.3-5; Harvard, 5:00 2-5.

The times at the mile marks in the varsity race were:

| | 1 mile | 2 mile | 2 mile finish. |
|---|---|---|---|
| Yale | 4:58 | 10:11 | 15:18 20:28 |
| Harvard | 4:54 | 10:12 | 15:21 29:33 2-5 |

TRIBUTE IN WISCONSIN TO ROBERT M. LAFOLLETTE

MADISON, WIS., June 19—(A. P.)—Long followers of Senator Robert M. LaFollette wept as they eulogized his memory in the state legislature today and a guard of honor of 17 assemblymen and six senators was appointed to stand behind his bier from the time it arrives until he is borne to its last resting place.

Tears were on every cheek as a memorial resolution was read. Both houses of the legislature voted to attend the funeral next Monday in the Rotunda of the capitol and accompany the body to Forest Hill cemetery.

In the midst of his speech on the memorial resolution, Senator Howard Teasdale, of Sparta, broke down and sank to his seat sobbing. Lieutenant Governor Henry Huber closed the long list of tributes from all party leaders with a stanza of verse relating to a "life work well done."

The body on arrival here Saturday evening will be taken to the LaFollette home at Maple Bluff until Sunday, when the public will be allowed to file past the casks in the state capitol from one o'clock until seven.

A resolution was adopted by the legislature today creating a committee to recommend a suitable memorial to be presented in the next legislature.

While the name of Mrs. LaFollette has been mentioned by some as a possible candidate to succeed her husband in the United States senate, no official action was indicated, until after the funeral.

Representative John M. Nelson, a close friend of the senator for a quarter of a century, has suggested that the selection of Mrs. LaFollette would be a fitting tribute to the memory of her distinguished husband.

[illegible] TO WITNESS BOAT RACE

(Special to the Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, June 21.—With the rowing late this afternoon of the season's aquatic classic, the Yale-Harvard four mile race on the Thames river, New London saw the largest crowd of college graduates, students and friends of collegians and followers of the annual event, to witness such a struggle in many years. The fact that Harvard had a fighting chance to win the event, together with the open admission of the prowess of Yale's crew, which comprised four of the college's world's champion collegiate crew, probably had much to do with the immense throng that came to New London.

The crowd did not manifest itself until about two hours prior to the hour schedule for the rowing of the race and when the hour approached for the departure of the New York, New Haven & Hartford's observation train of 20 cars, State street and the Union station was a bedlam of men and women. This crowd was augmented to a considerable extent by hundreds of men and women from yachts in the harbor, these witnesses of the regatta coming ashore by launch and boarding one or the other observation trains. Each of the trains was taxed to capacity for the seating space in the two trains of 63 cars had been sold out several days ago.

Despite the immense crowd, the frenzied followers of the two crews, were handled exceedingly well, especially was this the case in the directing of traffic, where thousands of automobiles were guided through the streets during the day and strange as it may seem, but one accident occurred and that of slight consequence.

At the union station Chief McMahon of the New York, New Haven & Hartford's special agents, had every available officer on duty, officers being sent here from New York, New Haven, Providence and Boston. So many were the officers on duty at the depot that at 1 o'clock the special agents were photographed in a group picture on orders from the railroad's executive office, this being done to further distribute publicity by the railroad.

At the depot and about the city Captain of Police Charles A. Pinney kept every member of the department on duty until after 2 o'clock to handle the immense crowd and be available in case of an emergency.

At the hotels tonight hardly a room was available, for many of the visitors remained over night, although others who came by automobile, decided to return home by the cool of the night.

A peculiar and unexpected incident connected with the race day crowd was that not a single case of pocket picking or a case of robbery of any nature was reported to the police. As a rule pickpockets operate the union station while sneak thieves pay attention to houses while their occupants are attending the race or viewing the boats from the waterfront.

New London had its last Tag Day for the balance of the summer today, it is believed, when two score of young ladies solicited funds towards erecting a national Hebrew hospital. Up to the present time there have been seven Tag Days here since early spring.

Isadore Diamond, clerk in the employ of I. Merran, Truman street butcher, was arrested tonight by Patrolman William Riordan. Diamond struck the officer at the residence, 27 Truman street, to which place Riordan had been summoned because of a family row being in progress and as a result of Diamond having struck the officer, the accused is carrying a discolored optic where Riordan swung a mighty right following Diamond attacking him. Diamond was released on furnishing a surety on his bond of $50 in Jacob Hochman for his appearance in the police court tomorrow morning.

When Riordan reached the Truman street house where the row was in progress he observed that the affair was not of a serious nature and after the parties involved in the quarrel had been quieted Diamond started to enter the place. In order not to have meddlers in the place and perhaps bring about additional trouble, Riordan ordered Diamond to stay away from the place. Diamond insisted upon entering the apartment and when the officer took hold of him Diamond struck Riordan. Hardly had he done so than Riordan retaliated and with force and then placed Diamond under arrest.

Edward J. Hickey, Hartford, where he is employed as county detective and a former resident of New London, at which time he was employed as special agent by the Central Vermont railroad, together with Mrs. Hickey, spent today in this city and was among the witnesses of the Yale-Harvard boat race.

Herbert Ruffell, 17, whose home is in Mystic, but who has been an inmate at the State hospital, Preston, some time, made his escape from the institution this afternoon and the New London police were requested to maintain a watch for him. When Ruffell escaped he wore a blue shirt, dark gray trousers and cap.

John Abuza has sold a house and small parcel of land on the southerly side of Bentley avenue, Ocean Beach, to Anna Abuza. Papers transferring the property were filed today at the office of the city clerk.

Frank C. Lueheri, a sailor, stationed at the submarine base, and Miss Madeline M. Cicio, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Philip Cicio, 21 Cedar street, were married yesterday afternoon by Justice of the Peace Perry J. Hollandersky. James Cicio, brother of the bride, was the only witness.

Dr. and Mrs. D. J. Corcoran have concluded their wedding tour and are now "at home" to their friends. Dr. and Mrs. Corcoran were married two weeks ago at Baltimore, the bride formerly being Miss Evelyn Hack, of that city.

The Misses Eleanor Bly and Dorothy Paul, Fairhaven, Mass., are spending a few days as guests of Miss Elizabeth Weed, Grove street.

Mr. and Mrs. Isaac S. Browne, formerly of New London, now residents of Flushing, L. I., are being entertained by their daughter, Miss Helen A. White, 38 Prospect street.

Miss Dorothy Winship, nurse and daughter of Dr. and Mrs. E. Oliver Winship, Monument street, Groton, who suffered facial lacerations as a result of the automobile which she was operating last Sunday colliding with a tree, corner of Hillside avenue and Lower Boulevard, and who has since been under treatment at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, was able to return to her home today. Other patients dismissed were Kelly Wills and Harold Ebben, of the United States Coast Guard, stationed at the state pier.

The funeral of Joseph Laskawski, late of 125 North Bank street was held this morning at 9 o'clock at Our Lady of Perpetual Help church, a mass of requiem being celebrated by the pastor, Rev. Joseph Kaniszewski in the presence of a large number of mourners. Interment was in St. Mary's cemetery.

The funeral of Nathaniel Lester occurred this afternoon at 12 Ocean avenue, the services being conducted by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, pastor of the First Church of Christ. Relatives of Mr. Lester acted as bearers. Interment was in East Neck cemetery, Waterford.

Mrs. Elizabeth Lucretia Klein, 67, widow of Edwin Klein, died this morning at her former home, 61 West Colt street. Mrs. Klein, who had been ill some time, is survived by two brothers, William and Robert N. Turner.

An automobile, owned and operated by Raymond G. Clark, 127 Willetts avenue and a public service machine, owned and driven by Antone DeLaura, 32 Shaw street, were in collision late last night on Shaw street, near Willetts avenue.

An automobile, owned and driven by Peter Sienkowski, 315 Huntington street, crashed against the office building of the Gulf Refining company, off Pequot avenue, late last night, the impact of the collision causing damage to the building as well as to Sienkowski's car. According to Sienkowski he was forced against the building when an unidentified automobile sideswiped his machine, the driver of the colliding car operating the machine drove away without stopping to determine the extent of damage occasioned.

Another New London youth is reported as missing from home, the disappearance of the youngster making the third boy to be reported to the police as missing from home within 48 hours. Two others were reported missing yesterday, they being George Edgcomb, 17, of 39 Willetts avenue, and Frank Wilcox, 17, of 14 Prest street.

The latest youth to disappear is Royal M. Henry, 7, of 9 Cliff street. The boy was reported missing from home late last night and the police have been requested to assist in the search for the youngster. The parents of the boy have reason to fear for the youngster's safety as it is believed that he may have been drowned in the Thames river. The boy was last seen playing about the former Bentley lumber pier, off Trumbull street, yesterday afternoon.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today caused the operator's license of George Riley, 40 Pearl street, to be suspended.

An automobile, owned and driven by L. J. Chappell, 205 Shaw street, and a machine, owned and operated by Viscardo Benvenuti, 9 Chelsea street, were in collision this afternoon at the New London approach of the Thames river highway bridge. Both cars were damaged and both drivers placed the responsibility for the accident upon the other.

Still one more person has been reported to the police as missing and this time the person is a man and not a youth.

This afternoon, O. M. Mitchell, Sr., Rye, N. Y., a charterer of the schooner yacht Jeanette, requested the police to institute a search for Capt. Alex Halverson, master of the yacht, who has been missing since last evening.

The Jeanette reached port late yesterday afternoon and came to anchor in the lower harbor. Capt. Halverson went ashore about 6 o'clock and ordered a member of his crew to meet him at the municipal pier at 10 o'clock for the purpose of rowing the master back to the yacht. The order was carried out, but when the sailor reached the pier, Halverson was not there nor did he put in an appearance up to midnight. This morning when Halverson's absence continued, a search was instituted for him and when he was not located the police were sought for aid. All the hospitals were communicated with in the belief that Captain Halverson had met with an accident, but the yacht master was not at any of the institutions.

Halverson is described as being about 40, six feet, one inch in height and weighs about 190 pounds and has a light complexion. When he disappeared Captain Halverson was attired in a blue coat, gold buttons and yachting cap.

There were eight cases before the police court this morning, but the offenses that brought the offenders to the bar of justice were not of serious consequence. A couple of "drunks," John Sullivan, of Fall River, and Eugene Jennings, of Groton, were in a fight down on Shaw street and were arrested. The Groton man had been engaged in handling ice for the Spicer company so he shifted to something warmer last night and took to intoxicating liquor. He was fined $5 while his antagonist was allowed to get out of town. Foo Gee, a Chinese restaurant man, got into a mix-up with a fellow countryman and a punch from a fist and a blow from a chair accentuated the trouble. Foo was taxed the costs of his arrest and trial and when he paid that he was released. John Rooney, a beggar in the highways of the city, was sent to the workhouse for a stay of a month. There were some parking ordinances violations but no penalty was imposed on the offenders. The treatment of parking cases by the court would seem to indicate that the police should use discretion in summoning offenders before the court.

Metal Cork

There has been used in the construction of airships a so-called "metal cork." This is said to be of greater lightness than aluminum. Its surface is that of a brilliant grayish white, gas and emits rays similar to those of unpolished aluminum.

The composition of this metal cork, according to reports from Paris, is as follows: 89.30 parts of magnesium, with the addition of aluminum, zinc and iron.

Friday morning at his home in Goodyear the death of James J. Driscoll occurred. He had been ill for several weeks. Mr. Driscoll was born in that section of Killingly where he died and where he had always made his home. He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Driscoll, old residents of Killingly long since dead. His father was for many years employed as a paver for the town and for individuals. Mr. Driscoll leaves no relatives nearer than his cousins, Thomas and Annie Clairie, both residents of Goodyear.

From the dim and distant past someone has recalled an agreement existing between "the railroad company" and the Danielson family relative to having the boat train, south-bound, stop regularly here at night. So ancient is this alleged agreement that no one could be found here Friday who knows the details of it.

William A. Burrows said Friday afternoon that there was such an agreement and that it had to do with the railroad accepting a grant of land along the frontage of the Burrows property, as it was years ago, but then owned by a member of the Danielson family, in return for the railroad's pledge that the south-bound boat train which ran express the greater part of the distance between Worcester and Norwich, should stop here every night as long as it should be operated.

This rather hazy account of the agreement is recalled because of the recent press discussion over the change in running time of what was the boat train, but can no longer be considered as such. The agreement is said to have been made nearly 75 years ago and concerned the old Norwich and Worcester road as the operating company. It was in the days of the old wood-burning locomotives, and the railroad desired the land in question for the storage of cord wood, great quantities of which were stored here for the use of the locomotives.

Admittedly, whatever the agreement was in exact detail, it had little bearing on present day train schedules. It be recalled through a matter of present day interest pertaining to the boat train, much discussed, but little used for passenger traffic now, though it was the Bar Harbor of this road more than half a century ago, the train de luxe of those days of limited comforts in railroad travel.

However, the railroad company is still regarded by many here as owning the strip of land in question. Whether that assumption would be upheld in a court of law is an interesting question, as it has been open and in use as a street for a great many years.

Closing the functions of commencement week, the annual reception arranged by the Killingly High School Alumni association attracted a large attendance to the state armory Friday evening.

The reception from 8:30 to 9 o'clock was followed by dancing that continued until one o'clock this morning, music being by the Suwanee Serenaders of the Butterfly ballroom of Springfield. There was special interest in the music, because the orchestra is often heard broadcasting here through station WEEI.

Gold and blue, the colors of the class of 1925, were used in the decorations of the drill hall so attractively arranged by a Hartford firm of decorators.

The grand march was led by the senior class president and vice president, John Crosby Moody and Miss Ada Mabelle Conklin, Miss Marjorie I. Gaffney and J. Leo Bodo, respectively vice president and secretary-treasurer of the Alumni association, were the second couple in line, followed by Principal and Mrs. Ernest R. Warren and the members of the senior class. Many additional couples were in the march.

A feature at the dance this year was in dedicating the last number before intermission as the 1875 waltz, in honor of the first class to be graduated from the school 50 years ago. Novel, too, was that incident of the intermission in which Principal Ernest R. Warren presented to Attorney Arthur G. Bill, George Stone, George E. Danielson and Mrs. Flora Smith Pellett, surviving members of the class of 1875, with honorary membership cards in the Alumni association, and the school cheer given in their honor by the graduates of many classes and undergraduates assembled.

The Alumni officers in charge of the arrangements were: President, Arthur Hughes; vice president, Marjorie I. Gaffney; secretary-treasurer, J. Leo Bodo and Norman Reeves, C. Clinton Cleveland and Mrs. Florence Hargraves of the executive committee.

LATER TRAIN NEEDED

There will be a feeling of satisfaction over the announcement by Superintendent Regan of this division of the New Haven road that he has recognized the dependence of business interests of this part of the state upon the service rendered by the New Haven road in the transportation of mails as well as the handling of freight and that as the result thereof he will recommend to higher officials the restoration of the night boat train, which was this week advanced two hours, on a daylight saving schedule.

There is no minimizing the fact that the railroads today are feeling the effects of motor vehicle transportation, and there can be no strenuous effort made to keep railroad schedules if there is no patronage. But with this evening train on the Norwich & Worcester division advanced two hours, it does not permit of an important mail service to this entire end of the state, while it would if the schedule had remained unchanged.

Making out railroad schedules to make connections and to suit everybody is not the easiest task in the world, but if the public that is being served is inconvenienced by changes but would be accommodated by restoration of a train that has been running for many years, it should make little difference at what hour it is run.

The New Haven road has put into effect a schedule, apparently based upon the amount of passenger traffic that is handled. The tryout has resulted in a protest all through eastern Connecticut. There's a chance for a readjustment that will overcome the protest and inasmuch as it doesn't call for any more service than is now rendered, but service at a better time, the desired and recommended change should get due consideration.

The advantage of a later mail from Boston in the afternoon as well as a later mail to New York is what this entire end of the state needs and should have.

DAWES' PLAN IN OPERATION

There is bound to be gratification over the report which has been made by Agent General Gilbert concerning the working of the Dawes plan. That arrangement was intended to bring order out of chaos, and as we read the Gilbert report accomplishment is already discerned. After being in operation for a year it appears to be working smoothly and effectively. Germany has met its payments, the tax receipts are exceeding the estimate and the same can almost be said of the railroad revenues, all of which indicates that there is a general participation in the plan and an endeavor to make it successful.

Also it is a matter of no slight importance that the national finances have been straightened out and that the currency has been stabilized. Germany is on a gold basis. It is working toward a definite goal instead of trying to avoid getting there under the belief that failure would prove an embarrassment to others, regardless of what happened to itself. It is not to be overlooked that the loan which was extended to Germany has had its part in the payments made. It has been of much assistance and it was expected that it would be. The part it has played must not be disregarded, for Germany isn't going to float such a loan every year but is going to be dependent upon its own resources, and it is in that connection that another year or two will permit of a better judgment as to what the Dawes plan is actually going to do.

Agent Gilbert doesn't say that there is absolutely perfection in the operation of the plan, for the points to certain relations between the Germany states and the government which have not been simplified. This concerns the matter of finances and is apparently the one big thing which should have received attention and has not.

Nevertheless, the fact that the first year has resulted so satisfactorily furnishes grounds for gratification and if it can be accepted as an example of what the years to come are going to be it leaves little to be desired. The future, however, must speak for itself in this respect.

SELLING THE SHIPS

There have been numerous instances of friction within the shipping board which prompted the expression, following the decision to sell a group of government vessels for scrapping, that the board itself ought to be included therewith. It is one of the government boards which could be done away with and its duties placed under a single head or a department.

As a means of relieving the situation the suggestion has been made by the president that the negotiations for the sale of the vessels henceforth be carried on by Admiral Palmer, head of the emergency fleet corporation, whose action would be subject to approval by the board. Admiral Palmer now has the authority to conduct the sale of these vessels but not in charge of a group of them.

And yet when the board undertakes to do its work and sell several ves-into an unsettled land, daring hardships and privations, and being continually ready to fight the Indian enemies, had much to do with developing individuality, power and moral strength. As a boy, John G. Carlisle went to school long enough to learn the so-called fundamentals of education, but not long enough to gain anything of higher education. As soon as he was old enough to support himself he began to teach school. After a time he studied law, as it was studied in those days, with an experienced lawyer, and was admitted to the bar at the age of 23. He was a young man of force, gifted with ability in public speaking, and he took active part in local politics.

It is not surprising that, at the age of 34, Carlisle was sent to the state legislature. From then on his rise to prominence was rapid. He took vigorous part in all debates, made himself recognized as a man of sound thought, and was promoted through various high state offices to the lower house of congress. There again he made himself felt, and became speaker. At 55 he was made a United States senator, and three years later secretary of the treasury. He died at the age of 75, known by all as a man of integrity and the highest political ability.

CONSIDERING THE BUDGET

In connection with the effort to reduced federal taxes interest is born to attract to the meeting of the government's business organization, the heads of the departments who have anything to do with spending money, which is called for Monday by the director of the budget.

This is an annual gathering in connection with the operation of the budget system. It is a time when the president will submit "sures for the budget for the fiscal year of 1926, which begins July 1, of next year, and when he sets forth why these estimates have been arrived at and what he expects in the way of co-operation from these individuals upon whom much responsibility rests in keeping within the bounds of the budget.

It is through the efficient handling of the government's funds, the observance of economy and the elimination of needless outlay that the annual expenditures can be made to help in the cutting of taxation. The president has let it be known that he not only expects constant and conscientious aid on the part of subordinates but he has personally set an example which department heads should be eager to follow.

Good results have been attained in the past from these business meetings. They permit of bringing together those upon whom a common duty rests, to impress them with the importance of individual response and to get the machinery properly oiled for the successful carrying out of the financial programme which is to be later submitted to congress. In view of what is expected from such a meeting it cannot fail to be of deep interest to the country.

YALE'S VICTORY

One more Thames-river regatta has been held and while it is not unusual for Yale to be victorious in the big race it is not always the case that it is successful in the whole four. It was clearly a Yale day.

The outcome cannot be regarded as a surprise. Opinions in advance may not always be well based but this year the performances of the New Haven oarsmen had indicated their strength. They formed a strong combination and they won a race which was by no means a disgrace for Harvard to lose. It was in fact a contest over the four miles. Perhaps Harvard had been outgeneraled in the beginning, that it took its lead for a mile and a half too seriously, that it spent itself so that it had no spurt left at the finish, but Yale gave a demonstration which clearly indicated that it was the better crew. It not only overcame the Harvard eight and forged slightly ahead but it kept there and could not be dislodged at the critical point. It was a deserved victory.

The contest between the two universities never fails to attract a large crowd of witnesses, even though the big event is over in a few minutes. But the classic is held under far different conditions than in years gone by. Here the motor vehicles have against taken away the business of the railroads and the steamboats. It is a case of arriving and leaving the same day without observance of the victory by various forms of demonstrations. The former gala times have given way to changed conditions. This has no effect upon the race, but it changes the whole character of the after celebration.

SUNDAY MORNING TALK

GOD'S PICTURE GALLERY

God knew that not everyone could understand theology; but everyone could understand pictures, and so when He got ready to make a book for us He made a picture book. How much the world is indebted to the Bible for its wonderful pictures!

For the picture of Enoch walking with God; of Noah reaching out to take in through the window the weary dove that could find no rest for its feet, so Christ reaches out to us in our weariness, saying "come unto me and I will give you rest," Come unto the ark of safety of Abraham journeying toward Moriah and his only son looking up into his face inquiring, "Where is the lamb for the burnt offering?" of Moses descending Sinai with a countenance so bright that the people could not look upon it; of David the shepherd boy, with his harp in his hand playing divine melodies among the hills of Bethlehem; of captive Israel sitting disconsolate upon the river banks, their harps hanging upon the willows for how could they sing the Lord's songs in a strange land? of Ezekiel wrapped in vision.

And the beautiful picture of the good shepherd seeking the lost one, the one that had gone astray, so lovingly and tenderly until the lost is brought back into the fold. Paul always rejoicing, even in Nero's dungeon could sing praises. "And at midnight Paul and Silas prayed and sang praises unto God, and the prisoners heard them, of John and Patmos of the holy city," and he shewed me a pure river of water of life clear as crystal, proceeding out of the throne of God and of the Lamb."

John G. Carlisle, the Schoolteacher Secretary of the Treasury

For many years people have been familiar with the fine, strong features of John G. Carlisle, Secretary of the Treasury of the United States under President Cleveland. In that office he showed not only great [illegible] but also a thorough understanding of the financial problems that came before the country in his day. He was more than a mere office-holder; he was a student of affairs, and a man capable of making sound decisions.

Like Abraham Lincoln, John G. Carlisle was born in Kentucky. He came of the sound Scotch-Irish ancestry that has so many times contributed great and useful men to the list of leaders in the United States. There was something in the race that first moved back from the Alleghenies and settled in the wilderness regions just to the west that was fine and strong. Perhaps the very act of moving

The Unheeded Warning

A useless thing it is to plead,
With one who no advice will heed.
—Striped Chipmunk.

Little Smarty Chipmunk sat on the Chipmunk playground on the sunny bank, a little way from home. He was taking a sun bath. He certainly did enjoy those warm rays which jolly, round, bright Mr. Sun was sending down from the blue, blue sky. They made him feel good all over. Yes, sir, they made him feel good all over. At the same time they made him feel a wee bit sleepy.

His brothers and sisters were playing near him, as only little Chipmunks can play. But with all their play, they were keeping continual watch with those bright eyes of theirs. They didn't intend that any enemies should approach them unseen. Every moment one or the other would sit up and hastily look this way and that way. Smarty Chipmunk grinned as he watched them. He thought it all foolishness.

Suddenly there was a sharp warning, the danger signal, from Mrs. Chipmunk. Smarty didn't move, but you should have seen his brothers and sisters scamper. They whisked into their home so quickly that it seemed as if the earth must have opened and swallowed them. But Smarty Chipmunk didn't move. At least, he didn't run. He did sit up a little straighter. "It is another of mother's foolish lessons," thought he. "There isn't any danger. If there was I would see it. My eyes are just as sharp and just as bright as hers."

He looked all around up in the blue, blue sky; there wasn't a sign of any of the Hawk family. Hawks were the only ones to fear from the air. He looked all around on all sides. There was no sign of Reddy Fox. There was no sign of Black Pussy the Cat. There was no sign of Shadow the Weasel. There was no sign of anybody whom he need fear. Smarty Chipmunk grinned again knowingly. "Just as I thought. Mother is trying to give us one of those silly frights. I'm too smart to be fooled in this way any longer. I guess I know when to run and when not to run."

So Smarty didn't heed the warning. He didn't run. He just settled back comfortably and half closed his eyes to enjoy the warmth of jolly, round, bright Mr. Sun. Meanwhile, Mother Chipmunk appeared to be terribly upset and frightened. She was calling and scolding from the old stone wall, where she was dancing about excitedly on a flat stone. Striped Chipmunk heard her, and came over to see what all the fuss was about. At once he joined her, and between them they kept calling and calling to Smarty. But Smarty just chuckled inside and sat still. He thought they were making all their fuss just because he hadn't minded, and he was just obstinate enough and foolish enough and naughty enough to make up his mind that he wouldn't mind. And he was just inexperienced enought not to see that his mother and father were not pretending at all, but really were very much frightened and very, very anxious. And all the time, creeping nearer and nearer was an enemy whom Smarty never had seen before, and whom he didn't see now. It was an enemy that made little Mrs. Chipmunk shiver, for she knew that unless Smarty Chipmunk took to those little legs of his quickly he was bound to be caught. And Smarty showed no signs of taking to those little legs of his. He was trying to show how smart he was, and actually closed his eyes, acting just as if he heard no warning whatever.

SUFFERED YEARS WITHOUT RELIEF

Finally Found Health by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Columbia, S. C.—"Your medicine has done me so much good that I feel like I owe my life to it. For three years I was sick and was treated by physicians, but they didn't seem to help me any. Then I took Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and got strong enough to do my housework, where before I was hardly able to be up. I have also taken the Vegetable Compound during the Change of Life and it has left me in good health. I recommend it as the best medicine for women in the Change of Life and you can use these facts as a testimonial."—Mrs. S. A. HOLLEY, R. F. D. No. 4, Columbia, South Carolina.

Why suffer for years with backache, nervousness, painful times and other ailments common to women from early life to middle age, when Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound will bring relief?

In a recent country-wide canvass of purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound over 200,000 replies were received, and 98 out of every 100 reported they were benefited by its use.

Silver Wedding Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. James Purdon of 28 Prospect street who were married in this city twenty five years ago celebrated their silver wedding anniversary informally Friday evening.

The stronger the butter is in the tub the weaker it is in the market.

OUTSIDE FAIR GROUNDS FENCE

Practically all the articles of wearing apparel that were stolen at the Fair Grounds between 4 and 6 o'clock Thursday afternoon from the automobile of H. Greaves of Hatfield, Mass., was found about 8:30 Friday morning poked under the fence at the Fair Grounds.

There was no case against John Carzaza of Hartford, who had been arrested on suspicion of the theft, and the charge against him was nolled in the city court Friday morning.

Although the clothing stolen from Mr. Greaves' machine was recovered, none of the four motor meters stolen from machines while the horse racing was in progress was recovered. Among those who lost motormeters were Dr. Bitgood of New London and the Dawley Medicine Co.

The property recovered was valued at about $150. It consisted of an overcoat belonging to Mr. Greaves and a valuable leather bag containing clothing belonging to his wife, this including a dress and articles of silk underwear. They were all found pushed under the fence back of the stables so that they were all on the outside of the fair grounds when they were noticed there early Friday morning by a boy named Pecan.

It was apparent that the thief had become heared and had gone out back of the stables, poked his loot under the fence and left it there. It is believed this was done some time during the night and that the man shortly afterwards left town on a truck.

Horsemen at the track told of being approached by a man who wanted to sell them several different articles at far below their real value and it is believed this is the thief who got away with the four motor meters.

WINTHROP HOTEL RAIDED BY NEW LONDON POLICE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, June 19—The police raided the Hotel Winthrop, State street and seized evidence of the alleged sale of liquor and arrested Frank May, one of the proprietors of the hotel, charged with violation of the liquor law. He was held in bail of 1,000 for trial in the police court tomorrow morning. The raid occurred shortly after 10 o'clock and was conducted by Sergeants Nelson Smith and John Cavanaugh of the day force. The sergeants obtained a search warrant signed by Judge S. Victor Prince and accompanied by seven patrolmen visited the hotel and a systematic search was made of the bar, cellar and two rooms adjoining the hotel office. In the bar and cellar there was found a considerable quantity of alleged near-beer, which was seized and at the police station it showed a percentage of about 3 per cent., more than is allowed by law. From the two rooms adjoining the office was found four or five bottles of Scotch whiskey and this was also seized. In a store room was found a barrel of empty whiskey bottles. These were also seized as evidence. The patrol wagon was used to transfer the evidence from the hotel to the police station so great was the amount of the bottle goods taken.

IKE BROMLEY'S LETTER TO JEFFERSON DAVIS

Mr. Bromley wrote as follows

Hon. Jefferson Davis, President of the Confederate States of America:

The position in which you have been placed by this action of the representatives of six newly confederated states, and the magnitude of the business in which you and your associates are engaged, have emboldened me, a private citizen of a New England state, to address you a few words in presentation of the enclosed revolutionary relic.

The associations that cluster around the birth of great events are rarely lost to history. There is no inhabited place where you may not find treasured bits of wood or stone, or consecrated soil, in all respects like other wood, and stone, and earth, except that their association with great events has made them sacred as relics, or immortalized them in history. The landing of a ship load of refugees from tyranny upon the jutting ledge of a barren coast made Plymouth Rock immortal. The bell whose tongue proclaimed the signing of the Declaration of Independence, the hall in which the instrument was perfected, and all the inanimate things connected in the minds of men with that great event, could by no formula of consecration be made more sacred than they are. The world abounds too in relics of its great men who have lived for good or evil, left their impression on the ages and become names immortal. We are not content with a mere observance of the birthdays of our heroes, statesman, philosophers, or any of those whose names we honor, and whose memories we revere. We gather mementoes of their lives, and treasure as relics the most insignificant trifles that have been consecrated by their touch.

Every epoch in the world's history has reached forward its handful of relics to the next incoming era, and every revolution has gathered in this way the tinder in which the fire of the next has been kindled. The power of association links together great events, and it is a single train of thought that takes in Magna Charta, Plymouth Rock, and Independence Hall.

There are events of note in our revolutionary history which will readily be connected in the minds of thinking men with the undertaking in which you are engaged. True, Lexington and Concord may have no significance at Charleston or Pensacola, but I think there are memories of West Point which may not be wholly meaningless in Montgomery.

It is the fortune-good or ill as you may choose to term it—of the town in which I live, to be associated with one of the events to which I have alluded and the memento thereof which I enclose, has a history which I think will appeal more strongly to your sympathies than could almost any other relic of the Revolution.

This penholder was fashioned from a rafter in the roof under which was born, a man-more than any other of the age in which he lived—your prototype. His name figures largely in all our revolutionary history. He was a soldier like yourself, and of the same rank in the army. His name, like yours, was synonymous with bravery. Like you, he fought well and bravely the battles of his country; never flinching from danger, but always in the thickest of the fight; impetuous and rash at times, but never cowardly, and always daring to lead "where any dared to follow." I mean no detraction from the reputation which you have so hardly earned, when I say he was your equal in courage, loyalty, and patriotism. More need not be said. Sixty years have passed since his death, but no monumental marble bears the inscription of his name and virtues. Yet his name is not forgotten. For more than half a century past, the house from which this relic came has been pointed out to the passing stranger as the birthplace of Benedict Arnold.

I have taken occasion to present you this penholder, as a relic whose associations are linked most closely to the movement of which you are the head. Let it lie upon your desk for use in your official duties. In the "eternal fitness of things," let that be its appropriate place. It links 1780 to 1861. Through it, West Point speaks to Montgomery. And if we may believe that spirits do ever return and haunt this mundane sphere we may reckon with what delight Benedict Arnold's immortal part will follow this fragment of his paternal rooftree to the hands in which is being consummated the work which he began.

Hoping that you will accept this gift in the spirit in which it is tendered, I have the honor to remain

Your obedient servant.
I. H. BROMLEY.

CHAUTAUQUA PLAYERS GIVE "SMILIN' THROUGH"

Chautauqua's second evening at the big tent on the Academy campus, Friday evening, was devoted to the play, Smilin' Through. There was a good sized audience and the play was staged in true professional style. Rich in humor and pathos, the story of the play is of tenderness and beauty, unfolding a double romance. The story, written by Allan Langdon Martin, is an intensely interesting one and was given in three acts.

It was produced under the direction of Miss Grace Halsey Mills, who carried the role of Kathleen, the leading lady. The cast was as follows:

SAW FIRST COLLEGE RACE ON THE THAMES

Sitting at police headquarters Friday afternoon and watching the automobiles passing by on their way to the Yale-Harvard race, Chief George Linton and Sergeant Myron Morgan recalled that they saw the first Yale-Harvard race on the Thames river in 1879.

Chief Linton viewed the race from the observation train on the Central Vermont railroad, for which tickets at that time cost but 50 cents, while Sergeant Morgan was perched on a big rock at Mamacoke Island. Yale that year was using the Bob Cook stroke, which the Yale advisor had imported from England, but it was useless just then against Harvard, for The Crimson finished about half a mile ahead of the Blue, one of the worst beatings that any crew ever got. But times have changed in rowing as in other things.

Happiness seldom comes to those who seek it on the run.

VOLUNTOWN

On Friday evening Voluntown Grange of Boy Scouts held a supper in Grange hall for the benefit of the Camp Sokol this fund to help subdistrict scouts endure the members of the troop a week's outing at Camp Tippecan, at Rock Pond. The dance proved to be both a social and financial success, netting about $50 to the fund. Among the out of town visitors were scout executive Frederick Benton and family of Norwich, Mr. and Mrs. William Barron and family of Boston, and Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Gilbert, Jewett City. Driscoll's orchestra of Jewett City furnished the music and F. H. Gilbert prompted. The dances were both old and new and everybody seemed to have a good time. After the intermission a prize waltz for a prize of $5 in gold was held, a large number of entries taking the floor, after a long test the prize was awarded to Miss Driscoll and Mr. James Dolan of Jewett City. After being awarded the prize Mr. Dolan on behalf of himself and partner stated that they wished to present the gold piece to the camp fund, their generosity being loudly applauded. The judges who had a very hard task to decide a winner, amongst the many good dancers were Mrs. F. H. Gilbert of Jewett City, Scout Executive Frederick Benton of Norwich and Mr. William Barron of Boston, Mass. All the work incidental to the affair was done by the local scouts under the supervision of Scout Master Charles A. Downing and Mr. George Edmonds, and their work deserved the success attained. Driscoll's orchestra before leaving gave a donation to the fund and F. H. Gilbert donated his services as prompter.

On Sunday afternoon the local Finnish association held an enjoyable picnic at the farm of Mr. Hayden, on the Westerly road. The Voluntown band was present and gave a very entertaining programme for nearly two hours under the leadership of Mr. Oikenen. Added to this was an address in Finnish by Mr. Oikenen which was followed by a number of vocal and instrumental selections.

Several batteries of Rhode Island artillery passed through the village on Sunday, both men and horses making a fine appearance.

A class of children will make their first communion at the 8 o'clock mass at St. Thomas church on Sunday morning.

On Sunday last the summer schedule of masses at St. Thomas' church were started. The first mass was at 8 a. m. and the last mass at 9:30. This schedule will be in operation until further notice.

News of the death of E. Byron Gallup at Sterling Hill on Monday was received in town with deep regret. Mr. Gallup spent the greater part of his life in this town and had held many positions of trust from selectman to school committee and filled every position with marked ability and was highly respected by the entire community. Several from this town attended his funeral on Thursday.

The Voluntown baseball team will meet the Hard Digs, Norwich, on the Voluntown grounds on Sunday. Manager Brug is strengtheging the team for this game.

Floyd Bitgood another son of Mr. and Mrs. Bitgood, stationed at Block Island, in the same service, enjoyed a weeks furlough at his home here.

The graduating exercises of the Voluntown public schools will take place in Union hall on Tuesday evening next. Assisting in the program this year will be the Voluntown band who have volunteered their services.

DAY OF BAY STATE MEET HERE

One-away day of the Bay State meeting here yesterday was marked by good racing in all three events on the card. The 1:51 one-mile trot, the first year old trot were taken in straight heats but the 3:24 trot went five heats before Gallant, driven by E. Brusie, was returned a winner.

In the first event the first four heats were exceptionally close but the final heat did not impress the crowd to very much, in the first heat Miss Gloaming had a tight brush with Gallant the two-mile distance nearly winning out. In the second heat after Gallant had broken at the first quarter and trailed the field for the first half mile, Brusie took his mount through the field and shot under the wire in the lead by a scant head. The next best went to Gallant in a driving finish with the three leaders closely bunched as they went under the wire. Miss Gloaming took the fourth heat in easy manner, Brusie's mount broke badly twice in the first half-mile and then was able to pass the Crozier horse in the stretch. The time in the final heat was 2:24 1-4, the slowest time of the meet.

Miss Merrie L., ran a pretty race in straight heats the contest being between May Todd, Naylor up, and David G., with McGrath driving. Hartford Dillon won the colt race in straight heats but was pushed by the field in both heats. Velo Guy, driven by Crozier, acted badly in scoring and broke frequently but showed a world of speed at times.

AGGIE BASEBALL TEAM BEST IN HISTORY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

STORRS, CT., June 19—When the Connecticut Aggies whitewashed Massachusetts Aggies 8-0 in their Commencement game at Amherst last Saturday, they brought to a close the most successful baseball season in the history of the college. And incidentally, it was by far the best year that the State College has ever enjoyed in athletics, the major sport teams in football, basketball, baseball and track each going through successful seasons.

Coach Dole's Nutmeg team of this season played thirteen games, winning seven, losing five, and tying one. Games that were scheduled with Maine and Clark had to be cancelled because of rain. This year's schedule was probably as difficult as any attempted at the State College, and the showing of the team has been gratifying to Connecticut Aggie followers.

Dole was not shy too well fortified with experienced material when the season first started, as the Aggies lost heavily by graduation last year. Yet the team showed promise from the start, and development was rapid. Dole had to shift his men about considerably in order to find his best combination, many changes being made from the lineup used a year ago.

The Aggies were handicapped this year by the lack of experienced pitching material. Wells, Nanfeldt and Makofski were the three pitchers on the Aggie team, and of this trio Wells was by far the most reliable. Wells had been on the Aggie squad three years prior to this season, being seldom worked until last year, and then not to any great extent. This year, however, the New Milford boy had to bear the brunt of the Aggies pitching burden, and that he did just that can be seen in the fact that he pitched in every game on the schedule except one, either starting or being sent in as a relief hurler. Probably his best piece of work was in pitching against Massachusetts Aggies on two successive days, losing the first game, but winning the second by a 3-0 score. Wells is a senior, but both Nanfeldt and Makofski will be available next season.

Looking back over the Connecticut records as far as 1916, not a Connecticut team broke even until this year, collegiate games only considered. Before the time the Aggie schedules included some high schools and academies, making a list that was not entirely collegiate. Following is the Aggie baseball summary by seasons considering college games only, from 1916 to 1925:

| Season | Won | Lost | Tl. | Ave |
| 1916 | 1 | 8 | 9 | .111 |
| 1917 | war no team | | | |
| 1918 | war no team | | | |
| 1919 | 5 | 6 | 11 | .455 |
| 1920 | 3 | 8 | 11 | .273 |
| 1921 | 4 | 13 | 17 | .235 |
| 1922 | 8 | 9 | 17 | .471 |
| 1923 | 4 | 9 | 13 | .308 |
| 1924 | 5 | 8 | 13 | .385 |
| 1925 | 7 | 5 | 12 | .583 |

Following is the record of the Connecticut Aggies for the 1925 season:

|---|---|
| 1 | Brown ..... 5 |
| 8 | Wesleyan ..... 6 |
| 4 | Colby ..... 10 |
| 2 | Springfield ..... 6 |
| 9 | Trinity ..... 1 |
| 5 | Clark ..... 0 |
| 13 | Rhode Island ..... 4 |
| 5 | Springfield ..... 4 |
| 7 | New Hampshire ..... 5 |

| 8 | Mass. Aggies ..... 0 |
| 30 | Opponents ..... 59 |
| 7 | victories |
| 5 | defeats |
| 1 | tie game |

Prospects for a fast nine in 1926 look good, for Dole loses but two men this year. They are Wells, pitcher, and O'Brien, shortstop, both members of the Aggie varsity for four years. Provided Dole can bolster his pitching, the Aggies should have another successful season, for most of this year's team will be available another season. Marshall L. Seymour '26 of Suffield, who has played a great game at left field, will lead the Aggies in 1926.

Chicago, June 19—Johnny Moran's hitting enabled Philadelphia to make it two straight off Chicago by winning 5 to 4. ## ROSSIE TEAM PLAYS AT TAFTVILLE THIS AFTERNOON

The second game in the series between the Taftville A. A. and the Rossie Velvet team of Mystic is slated for the Providence street grounds in Taftville this afternoon. The Mystic team defeated the Taftville aggregation in the first game and is equally determined to take the game this afternoon. Manager Troland is banking on Lloyd Jarvis to hold the Mystic team in check while his hustlers pound out enough runs to even up the series. Mystic will use Chappell in the box.

The Taftville team is developing into a hard-hitting aggregation and it is a good man who can keep their bats silent for one afternoon. The boys have been hitting hard, especially Lefty Dugas and Eccleston who have averaged at least two hits each game this season. On Sunday the Taftville team will play in Jewett City.

No Other Way To Get Cadillac Results

To obtain the complete absence of vibration which is so remarkable a characteristic of the Cadillac, it is necessary to adhere to the Cadillac development of the V-type Eight.

Any deviation from these principles of V-type eight construction, inevitably entails the loss of many of the advantages.

The ripened judgment of 11 years of continuous experience with V-type eights has contributed richly to the perfection of the Cadillac of today.

In it you will find no vibration at any speed—because the sources of vibration are not in the Cadillac V-type Eight.

MARKET WAS SPECULATIVE.

NEW YORK, June 19.—(AP)—Speculators for the advance regained control of the price movement in today's stock market. As the session progressed chief speculative interest shifted from group to group with the motors, coppers, sugars, northwestern rails and oils all enjoying at least momentary favor of professional traders. Trading was again in large volume, the day's sales running over one and one-half million shares.

Announcement of the Taxpayers' Bond decision in the last hour of trading brought forth a deluge of buying orders in the oil shares. Sinclair was lifted from 2 7-8 to 34 3-4 and then eased to 34 1-4, where it was up 1 3-8 on the day on total sales of about 100,000 shares. The Pan-American issues, Standard Oil of California, Houston and Martland also closed a point or two higher.

Domestic sugar producing shares moved up in further reflection of the recent decision of President Coolidge not to alter the existing tariff on the sugar product. Great Western Sugar crossed 113 to a new top and then eased to 110 7-8, up 1 3-8 on the day, while American Beet Sugar moved up to a point to within a fraction of the year's high.

Strength of northwestern rails was attributed in some quarters to forecasts of a large crop movement this fall and the expectation of higher freight rates, and in others to the death of Senator LaFollette, who was regarded in Wall street as one of the strongest advocates of government ownership in the country. Chicago and Great Western preferred and Union Pacific each advanced two points or more, while several others advanced a point or so. Special strength of Pennsylvania, which ordinarily moves within rather narrow limits, was based on reports that the Loree interests would join with Pennsylvania in replacing the plans of the Baltimore and Ohio for securing control of Reading.

Revival of activity in strength in White Motors which jumped to 76 1-2 and then slipped back to 75 for a net gain of 2 3-4, was ascribed to merger reports. Maxwell Motors B certificates also were in brisk demand. Pierce Arrow issues lost ground on profit taking.

Sharp advances took place in a number of specialties with the principal interest in American Safety Razor, Dupont, Famous Players, May Department Stores, Montana Power, Postum Cereal, United States Cast Iron Pipe and Yellow Cab. Nash Motors jumped 33 points on a few sales but the Commercial Solvents issues were weak.

Call money continued to rule at 3 3-4 per cent., which rate has remained unchanged since June 12. Time money and commercial paper rates hold steady.

Rallying tendencies characterized the foreign exchange market. Demand sterling held firm above $4.85 1-3 and French francs were quoted slightly higher at 4.72 1-2 cents. Italian lire recovered about 5 points to 3.77 cents, other changes were largely nominal.

STOCKS AND BONDS.

NEW YORK, June 19.—(AP)—A quiet session of irregular character featured the final hour of the specialty market today. Some 30 issues displayed strength, while a similar number yielded fractions to a point or more. Until the last hour of trading movements of U. S. government bonds had been the outstanding feature.

A spurt of almost five points in Sinclair Consolidated Oil 6s, which carry stock purchase warrants, overshadowed all other developments in the late dealings. Other Sinclair issues joined in the upswing, with Skelly and Pan-American liens jumping one to two points at the same time.

Aided by further reduction announced in the government debt, four of the Liberty and treasury bonds pushed through their previous high records. Buying of the Liberty issues was particularly active.

Improvement in the copper and sugar shares, based on favorable trade developments brought corresponding gains in the bonds of these companies and imparted a firm tone to the industrial section of the list. Wilson & Co. liens moved up to two points or more on reports that an early lifting of the receivership was in prospect.

Railroad issues made a better showing today, with bonds of the northwestern carriers following the upturn in these stocks. St. Paul, Northwestern and Northern Pacific mortgages were almost the most conspicuous strong spots.

Offering of a $15,000,000 City of Berlin loan is expected next week.

Developing in Daylight

Topsy-turvey methods of developing photographic films and plates, by which the process is carried out in daylight instead of the darkroom and the film is placed in the fixing bath first, then in the developer, are possible as the result of recent experiments made by Dr. Henry Leffman at the Wagner Free Institute of Science, Philadelphia.

The daylight method, using a special developer, should be a distinct advantage.

CURB MARKET.

NEW YORK, June 19.—(AP)—Stock prices swung upward in vigorous fashion in today's curb market. Oils were somewhat unsettled in the early trading but developed a buoyant tone toward the close on announcement of the Teapot Dome decision. Net gains of 1 to 2 points were recorded by Humble, Imperial of Canada, Ohio, Prairie Oil & Gas, Red Bank, Vacuum and Reiter-Foster, the last named touching a new top.

American Rayon Products was the sensational feature of the industrial list, soaring nearly six points to a record high at 50, as compared to the offering price of 22 a few weeks ago. Tobins, another artificial silk stock, was admitted to trading. The A certificates opened at 193 and then broke to 180 while the B certificates opened at 200, dropped back to 175 and then rallied to 180.

A strong demand developed for the electrical refrigerator issues, Serv-El advancing more than two points to a record top at 14 1-8 while Kelvinator touched a new high mark at 95 1-2, up 1 3-8. Miller and Goodyear rubber stocks also were in brisk demand.

Except for a 3 point gain in Lehigh Power securities, there was little of interest in the public utility group. Trading in the mining shares was quiet.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

CHICAGO, June 19.—(AP)—The speculative buying and higher prices for wheat today followed a report from a leading crop expert that chances are fully four to one for serious damage from black rust in North Dakota and the eastern half of the Canadian spring wheat belt. Closing quotations on wheat were strong, 2-6 to 3 7-8c net higher, July 1.42 1-8 to 1.42 3-8, and September 1.45 1-4 to 1.45 3-8, with the latter, however, that Fuller borrowed any money the day that he went away. His family have heard nothing from him since his departure. Mrs. Fuller who is very much broken down by this affliction is a very estimable lady and has the fullest sympathy of the community.

IN NORWICH FIFTY YEARS AGO

At a meeting of the court of common council in Norwich 50 years ago this week Joseph B. Carrier was elected chief engineer of the local fire department. Alderman Gibbs was elected chief of the police department and William E. Whaley was named captain of police. S. A. Cole was elected street commissioner. During the week there were no developments in the Fuller-Mowry frauds that go startled the staid business men of the city the week previous. In spite of dull times quite a number of small houses were being built on the outskirts of the city. Interesting extracts taken from the files of The Bulletin of June, 1875 are as follows:

Monday, June 14, 1875—It is worthy of note as an uncommon fact that the circus was not accompanied by rain. A heavy fog was substituted at intervals, however.

Capellmeister Roath has just concluded a contract with Messers. Hook of Boston, for the long and much needed repair of the Christ church organ.

John H. Murray's Railroad circus gave two excellent exhibitions on the flats bordering the Shetucket in Franklin near the bridge, Saturday. It was accompanied by the usual side shows. The attendance was large though the big tent was no crowded at either performance. There was some fine riding and the best rope walking ever seen in the city.

Jacob R. Austin, truckman in the employ of S. A. Chapman, died very suddenly Saturday noon. He had loaded his truck with grain, working very hard himself. He mounted his wagon, drove through Water street till opposite the store occupied by Ansel Clark. Here he got down. He staggered from the middle of the street to the gutter where he fell. Dr. Cassidy was called and pronounced his death due to heart disease.

There were no new developments Saturday in the discovery of the frauds perpetrated by Fuller and Mowry of the Chaplin Paper company, and probably there will be none except as the forged notes fall due and are presented for payment.

Tuesday, June 15, 1875—A meeting of the Court of Common Council was held last evening, His Honor Mayor Osgood presiding. On motion of Alderman Carew the council proceeded to the election of the chief of police. Mr. Carew nominated Alderman Gibbs who was unanimously elected.

Ballots were then taken for officers of the force and the following recommended by the police commissioners were elected:

Captain, William E. Whaley.
Lieutenant, William S. Gordon.
First Sergeant, D. W. Grant.
Second Sergeant, John A. Bowen.

Alderman Brewer nominated S. A. Cole for street commissioner and a ballot being taken he was unanimously elected.

The following were elected officers of the fire department; Chief Engineer, Joseph B. Carrier; first assistant engineer, Louis B. Greenberg; second assistant, Austin W. Park; third assistant, William T. Farrington; fourth assistant, Robert A. France. fire marshal, Eliza M. Brewster.

William Hurlburt was elected superintendent of Yantic cemetery and Daniel Holt, superintendent of the City Cemetery.

I. W. Carpenter was elected water commissioner.

Wednesday, June 16, 1875—There will be a large party from Norwich at the Bunker Hill centennial tomorrow. The railroad facilities however are good. The difficulties of getting away from Boston will not be like those at the time of the Concord celebration.

There have been an developments in the Fuller-Mowry frauds. It is de-

Having met fully the requirements of the rules and regulations and passed the examination of the high school inspector, the Westerly High school has been again approved for a period of three years, according to a letter which has been received by Supt. W. H. Bacon from Walter E. Ranger, state commissioner of education.

The full text of Mr. Ranger's letter follows:

"At a recent meeting of the state board of education, the Westerly High school was approved, as provided in Chapter 81 of the General Laws, for a term of three years.

"High schools that are found, on inspection, to meet the requirements of the rules and regulations and pass the examination of the school inspector are approved for three years."

Judge Michael J. Turano held the regular session of Third district court in the district court rooms on Union street Friday morning at 9 o'clock when a well filled courtroom heard the docket read by Clerk M. Walter Flynn Jr., as follows:

Civil Docket

New writs—John E. Fitzgerald and Anna Fennell, of New London, as executor of the estate of the late Patrick H. Fitzgerald, of New London, vs. Westerly General Contractors of Westerly. Answered specially by John F. Gallagher and continued two weeks to July 3rd.

Silverstein Bros. vs. James Bliven. If unanswered during the day, continued one week.

Delegrange Machine company, of Stonington vs. Kenneth Barlow. If unanswered, continued one week.

The Art league vs. Angelo Bonvento. Continued one week.

Elmer C. Smith, collector of taxes of the town of Hopkington, vs. Lawrence H. Hepworth. Continued two weeks for trial with motion to be filed by Attorney John J. Dunn.

Natalie Lappinazzo and Newman F. Tuckerman, operators of jitney busses between Westerly and Bradford, were arraigned before Judge Turano in Third district court, Westerly, on complaint of Chief of Police Thomas E. Brown, charged with violating the jitney ordinance. They were released on their own recognizance to appear next Friday.

Twenty witnesses called in the case were ordered to appear in court that day without summons, unless otherwise directed by Town Solicitor John Ferguson, Jr. Tuckerman's counsel is Everett A. Kingsley.

Attorney General Charles P. Sisson said Friday morning the state board of public roads had requested an opinion in the case, which he would probably give next week.

Chartered, busses are operated between Westerly and Bradford under a franchise granted Mrs. Flora Mooney by the state board of public utilities. Lappinazzo and Tuckerman were operating their cars under permit from the state board of public roads.

In all probability the Kingston Fair will be omitted this year, pending reorganization of the Washington county Agricultural society, which has watched the project for many years, according to Secretary John G. Clarke, of the fair association.

In the movement to straighten out the affairs of the agricultural association and the fair, Thomas Rodman of South Kingston, town budget commissioner and auditor and a member of the former Penal and Charitable commission, has been appointed temporary receiver, under bond of $1,000, by Judge Frank E. Peirce in the superior court in Washington county at Kingston. A hearing on the permanent reorganization will be held July 6.

With Mr. Clarke, T. Prescott Hazard of South Kingston is hopeful of the reorganization of the agricultural society, many retain the same name. He stated, which Mr. Clarke said yesterday declared it was his opinion that the public would prefer to have the fair omitted this fall to give the reorganization a chance to become effective and greatest next year an exposition which would be "modern, up-to-date, larger and better in every way."

"There is no wish to make it privately owned," he said, "it will probably be reorganized on a basis satisfactory to all concerned. The new society will be similar to the old in membership. In the reorganization, no attempt is being made to criticise the old society, which served its purpose successfully for 50 years, but is not constituted in such a way as to meet modern requirements."

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theater

The last performance of the Augustin Stock Company in the great comedy drama A Thief in the Night which has made a terrific hit here at the Palace theater will be given this afternoon at 2:15 and tonight at 8:10. This is really one of the finest plays that you will ever have the opportunity to see and all people who are desirous of seeing something excellent in the line of entertainment will be certain to attend one of today's performances. Starting next Monday night an entirely different line of entertainment will be offered to theatergoers of this vicinity. In conjunction with the stock company a picture will be presented before the play. The picture will start at seven sharp followed by the play at 8:15. The picture offered for the first three days of next week will be Johnny Walker in Lifes Greatest Game. This is an intensely thrilling melodrama vividly depicting the terrific emotional smash of an international disaster—the realistic sinking of a giant liner, knifed at sea by an implacable foeberg, sixty thousands rearing, leaping, frantic fires at the climax of a World's series in giant Yankee Stadium—baseball and human hearts, love and hate, heroism and cowardice—these are but a few of the big moments in this mighty drama with the story by Emilie Johnson. The Augustin Stock Company will present the greatest of three comedies, Fair and Warmer. Fair and Warmer was constructed for laughing purposes only, and from the millions that have seen it, it has always filled its mission. It was written by Avery Hopwood the master writer of comedy and it played for over a solid year in New York. Fair and Warmer is a continuous avalanche of wholesome irresistible fun constructed from an ingenious starting point, developed into side splitting situations and told in dialogue that can't be beaten. The man or woman who can sit thru Fair and Warmer without laughing hasn't been born yet. If you don't believe this come down and see for your self. Fair and Warmer offers the members of the Augustin Stock Company exceptional opportunity to display their abilities in an amazing assortment of roles. The prices for next week are 25, 35 and 50 cents with matinees on Wednesday. Charles Ahrnt the play, not the picture will be presented the last three days of next week by the local stock company.

Broadway Theater

Pola Negri's latest Paramount picture is a Charmer, which brings the star to the screen in her first big society role in a picture laid in an American setting, opens a four day's run on Sunday at the Broadway theater.

The Charmer adapted for the screen by Beda Cowan from Henry Baerlein's highly successful novel, Mariposa, was directed by Sidney Olcott, who made The Humming Bird, Little Old New York and others. The story has to do with a Spanish dancing girl, who is taken under the wing of a prominent theatrical producer and becomes the rage of Broadway.

Robert Fraser and Wallace MacDonald head the supporting cast in the production. MacDonald recently seen with Betty Compson in New Lives for Old, has the role of a multi-millionaire philanderer, who becomes infatuated with Miss Negri, as the dancing girl, Mariposa. Fraser as MacDonald's chauffeur, also is attracted to Pola. All through the picture these two vie with each other for her affections.

Other big names in the cast include Trixie Friganza, noted stage comedienne, who plays Mariposa's mother in the picture and furnishes much of the comedy relief; Cesare Gravina, Gertrude Astor, in the role of a married woman in love with MacDonald; Edwards Davis, who played in Contraband and others, and Mathilda Brundage, MacDonald's mother and Manhattan's leading snob in The Charmer.

The Charmer brings Pola Negri to the screen in the type of role that first won her fame. It's a great story with a great cast and should prove great entertainment.

Walter Hairs will be seen in a new comedy riot entitled Tender Feet and up to date Kinograms will round out this fine program.

Home Week at United Congregational Church

(daylight time) and return from the Beach at 4:15 p. m. Members of the school, under seventeen, will be taken free of charge, all others will be asked to pay a nominal sum for the round trip.

Listen my children
While one at a time
Now twenty-nine presidents
Count you in rhyme!
First comes George Washington
Followed by Adams
Marfia and Abbie
Their faithful madams.
Jefferson third, he who gave to the nation,
The Democrat party
And great Declaration.
Now comes James Madison,
Then comes James Monroe,
Who both sponsored doctrines you all ought to know.
John Quincy Adams took over the reins,
Then Hickory Jackson of Indian campaigns.
Martin Van Buren is next in our view
Then Harrison, hero of Tippecanoe.
Tyler and Texas are words you should bracket,
While Polk is tied up with the Mexican racket.
Old Rough and Ready,
That marine, fierce,
Zachary Taylor, then Fillmore,
Then Pierce after Buchanan,
The friend of the slave, Abraham Lincoln,
Great simple and brave!
Then Andrew Johnson who won little fame,
Followed by Grant who earned much of the same.
Out Hayes, enter Garfield, who shortly was killed,
When the president's office by Arthur was filled.
After Cleveland came Harrison, Cleveland again,
Next William McKinley who also was slain.
Now Roosevelt, South Rider, progressive and tourist,
Then the screen project, Taft, who is famed as a jurist,
The World war and Wilson will live through the years,
For they symbolize sacrifice, sorrow and tears,
Warren Harding, who strove for the normal again,
Was stricken and died on his world court campaign.
Today we have Coolidge, of pioneer Yankee,
A thrifty American,
Let us give thanks!

The Old Dairy Cow

The farmer's best friend is his old dairy cow,
If he owns a debt, she will pay it somehow,
She grazes the roadside to eke out her life
And works without wages, the same as his wife.

The Jersey or Holstein or Shorthorn her breed,
Hard work is her habit and thrift is her creed;
And if, when she comes home at night to the barn,
You praise her or blame her, she don't care a darn.

She brings in the cudpons, just clip them yourself.
Get out the old milk stool, sit down with a bump,
Grab hold of her handles and pumpe-o-pump.

And if in her efforts to brush off a fly,
She happens to switch her tail spang in your eye,
She murmurs "Beg pardon" politely, and then Goes on with her chewing—and does it again.

She helps with the living and keeps us all fat,
The hired man, the baby the pig and the cat;
Then Dad takes the surplus to town, and by Heck!
The creamery gives him a wonderful check.

And when she is ready to die of old age,
The butcher writes "Finis" at the end of her page;
Then back to our table she comes, I'll be bound,
In prime ribs and steaks that cost thirty a pound.

All hail to the heifer, the steer, and the calf,
The smiley faced bull, with his bangs full of chaff.
But when at your evening devotions you bow
Give thanks for that treasure, the old dairy cow.

I loved that old cow as she stood in her stall
Contented and quiet as modest and all,
She knew not her value, how needful she is to ... munches her cud and tended to his.

(thief of the butter, she turned on my bread,
... of ... babies and invalids
... with ...

Of the growth that did gather on Saturday night.

I often took the pail down from the wall
And whistled a tune as I walked to her stall
Then I'd pick up a stool, 'twas the fool of my trade—
Then I'd sit down and milk her, that fine Jersey maid.

OLD WETHERSFIELD

Dear Editor and Sisters of the Social Corner: Our readers are often interested in the early histories of our towns and cities throughout the state. We can scarcely realize there were once many Indian settlements, having their own peculiar names, previous to the advent of the white man. From colonial records we find that about the year 1636 a tribe of Indians known as the Wangums, inhabited a section below Hartford, bordering on the Connecticut river. They had a village named Pyquag. Later records tell us that the chiefs sold their lands in this vicinity and their official signatures appear on the legal documents. As the territory changed hands also the name Pyquag was substituted for Wethersfield, where nearly three centuries ago, was the beginnings of one of our first townships in Connecticut. Today let us fancy a trip into the ancient village, and see the many old land marks. We will leisurely drive from Hartford, and as we cross the boundary line, we are attracted, very soon, to the cove a part of the river. It is dotted with numerous watercraft, canoes row boats and small motors. As we roll along the wide avenue, with its giant trees on either side, we turn abruptly and confront a large stone building, much covered with ivy growth, and standing back from well kept spacious lawns. At this institution the transgressors of the law are paying their penalties to the state of Connecticut, and here it is, many a fate has been sealed. After we pass by those grated windows we turn again into the Main street of the little town. Here are the small stores, the doctor's home and office, the modern little church, the new Masonic Temple and post office building. Also the older landmarks appear for in the center of the village, the First Parish church is conspicuous, with its loft- tapering steeple, which may be seen from the hill tops of the surrounding country, for many miles. We find near by, several very old houses, but all in well kept condition and especially one, we shall notice. It is known as the Webb house, and within its walls, the presence of Washington, Lafayette and Rouchambeau has honored its history. The house is now owned by the Colonial dames and is open to the public every day from 10 a. m. to 6 p. m. Each room is furnished in antique fashion, even the original wall paper appears in the chambers as when Washington slept there. Around the yard are the shrubberies of long ago, and the many flowers of the old fashioned variety. We may be served light refreshments and tea, in the same room, where the distinguished visitors of a century and a half ago have preceded us. It is a most interesting place here, and we would like to tarry longer.

As we step from the porch and pass through the gateway to the street we resume our drive to the park or "common," as formerly called. Let us pause for a moment to see a grand old elm, whose great height and enormous circumference has cast its shadows on the red men of Pyquag. A bronze tablet bearing description of dimensions and acclaiming this to be the largest elm tree in the state, is attached to the trunk about 10 feet from the base. Near by we observed one of the little old red brick schoolhouses, still in use, for the primary grade, of this district of the town. There are many pretty homes to be seen on either side, as we drive along, but now we turn westward and approach Wolcott hill. From here the view is one grand picture, the village, the river with its wide bend, and the hills beyond on the horizon of Glastonbury. Leaving these delightful scenes, and amid the fields, where the daisies are nodding, we will cross over an ancient turnpike road, long known as Jordan lane, and very soon we return to the city streets. As I have led you, in fancy, through the ancient Pyquag and the modern Wethersfield, one more old landmark I must call to your attention.

From the window of my room, as I am writing, I can see, not far away, a very old brown stone, standing close to the roadside, and its mute form has told to many and many a traveler, its mission as a sentinel on the dividing line. On one side is rudely cut a large H, on the other side a generous W. We must never despair the day of small things, and had it not been for the remote Pyquag, of the long, long ago, my present interests of home life, would have failed to be on the W side.

DOING HER PART

Dear Social Corner Editor and Sisters: Well here I am again I feel ashamed of myself when the Saturday Bulletin comes in and I look over all the nice letters sent by the sisters and see that I do not write. So today I will send in a letter. I hope that I will be able to go to the Versailles' picnic. Versailles used to be my home town. I went to Versailles school. I went by there some three or four weeks ago and I think they are putting up a nice school. Oh I wish that I was a little girl again, but those good old days are gone. I also lived in Occum and Canterbury when I was a young girl so you see I must know some of the sisters.

Hope to see you all some time.

FORGET-ME-NOT.

PLEASED WITH PIN

Dear Editor of the Social Corner: I want to thank you for the pretty pin. I was surprised to receive it so soon. I am afraid I do not deserve it for I am afraid I cannot be a help to anyone.

I have lost most of my relatives. I am thankful, however to the Lord that it is well with me as it is. I am happy in what He does for me. I like the name of GRANDMA.

Now I am going to tell you a little story about some Indian slippers, or Moccasin flower (Webster says the latter name is the correct one for those plants which are found in this part of the country) which I have been so fortunate as to possess. Many knows that I am very fond of them, so every year he makes a trip to the woods to gather some, does not have to go very far and has picked around the same place many times but never found any pink ones until this year when he found a pure white one. It was a beautiful thing and as large as any pink one I ever saw. We had never seen a white one before so would like to know if many of the writers have. He has marked the plant and hopes to see what comes from it another year.

This was surprise number one and number two was a pink twin slipper. How many of you ever saw one of those? It was perfect in every detail with two blossoms one just above the other, the low one having the opening on top and the bottom one having the opening on the bottom and they grew so close together the backs nearly touched. I will vouch for the story for she was kind enough to come here with her camera and take pictures of the twins and I hope she got some good ones.

So much for the story and now I am going way back to my childhood days and tell you about a yellow Moccasin flower which I found myself and it impressed me so I have never forgotten it. Father was living in what is called the Sparks district and I was attending that school, could not have been more than six years old for we moved from there the spring I was seven. The teacher was in the habit of taking the scholars into the fields and woods, hunting flowers and berries and teaching us which were good, and which were poison. And it was on one of those trips I found the "yellow slopper" can't remember whether that was the only one found or not. Hope the writers will tell us about the different ones they have found.

The first strawberry husk tomatoes I ever saw were growing in the garden of Eden—now don't get excited and have visions of me as being at Brewsters Neck for I am sane and this garden belonged to Uncle Eden A—(all neighbors were my uncles in those days) and he showed me how to open the ripe husks and find the little yellow tomato which was tucked away inside.

Another good neighbor was Uncle Henry B— at whose home was a large spot of the plant called Hen and chickens. I distinctly remember that because it was so odd and I could not see any thing very pretty about it. Who can tell us more about that?

Uncle Henry S—I did not like very well for instead of giving us nice things to eat or showing us pretty flowers, he was always teasing and scaring us. One horrid thing he had was an imitation of a large black snake, made of wood and wire in some way so that when you shut it in your hand it would writhe around. I liked to play with his daughter, but would not go there after he had shown the snake, till he promised not to again. I feel sure that Cactus Blossom must remember that snake, and then I think there was some sort of a well in the house that always made me feel creepy.

I have an oil painting of the house where I was born and living at the time of this story, it was painted by my own uncle and I feel very proud of it.

The house was torn down several years ago and a stone one now stands in its place. Uncle has also passed on but I hope to have the picture kept in the family for years to come.

Imagine I hear the editor saying enough for one time so will stop and close by wishing the best of luck to all and especially the sick and those in trouble.

TWICE TWENTY.

THE GOLDEN SCHOOL DAYS

Dear Social Corner Friends: I am now in the class who are prone to say, "I remember" and enjoy reminiscences. I do like to live over in my mind the happy old school days. After the schoolhouse burned on the night following my tenth birthday there was some trouble in our small village in finding suitable temporary quarters for the school. The most available central place seemed to be an old building that had once been used by a coffin maker. This sounds a bit gloomy but we youngsters didn't seem to be impressed much by any solemnity that might linger there. It was a case of "Oh, be joyful!" with us most of the time. As there was but one room all grades toiled upward in pursuit of knowledge in close proximity. There were no desks, in place of them two tables, one long and one square, with chairs for seats. Across the gulf of over forty years I can still plainly hear our good preceptor, Mr. N—, saying, "Too much whispering at the square table." I will say in confidence that I sat at this table but please do not conclude that this fact had any connection with the teacher's admonition regarding whispering. I fear I did not have a very keen sense of humor when I was ten and I couldn't appreciate the joke when one noon I was hurrying to get my overshoes on so as to join in the game outside. Mr. N— was complacently eating his lunch and reading a paper, with a portion of one eye on me also, I judge, for when I petulantly exclaimed, "Satan has got into these rubbers," he rather sarcastically remarked, "Has he got in or is he getting in?" Young people didn't answer back as much in those days as they do now and I said nothing but I am willing to wager a jolly-pop that my face blazed. Even though the implication had been true and I will be just enough to myself to say it wasn't true, the teacher took advantage of his position and was wrong in asking such a question. I keenly felt the unfairness though I was but ten and so if in one of the small things that linger in my memory, I used to enjoy mother's stories of her school days. They usually had a new teacher every term and he would put them all back toward the beginning of the books so the brighter pupils never had half a chance. Mother's first name was Deborah and her last name also contained three syllables. It was the custom then for the teacher on the opening day to walk from desk to desk with pencil and paper and take down each pupil's name. As mother was very bashful and her combined names rather cumbersome she usually had to repeat them two or three times and this trial no doubt brought out as vivid flushes on her cheeks as those now purchased at drug stores. If mother had shortened her first name to Dora and Cra'ffo would have been brighter for her on those blue Mon-

WHY WAS IT CALLED BRIDE'S BROOK

Dear Social Corner Sisters: How the Social Corner gatherings do keep up! I always enjoy the letters about them.

Dorindas, I see you have had a wedding anniversary and I think you went to a nice place to celebrate.

Recently I read where a memorial or something of the sort had been placed at Bride's brook. A few years ago I had a ride down that way and saw the sign, Bride Brook Farm. I wonder if any of the sisters can tell us why it is called that.

Interested Reader: Am glad to hear you are on the gain.

THE SIGN CANCER

All persons born in this period are subjects of Cancer. The moon rules sign Cancer and Venus is strong. The sign is cold, watery, moist, phlegmatic, feminine, movable, fruitful and material. It corresponds to the chest and breasts of humankind, governs health and life. Cancer people are very fond of the sea and all large bodies of water. The colors are orange, green and russet. The gems are onyx and emerald. The tribe is Zebulun and the watchword is home. The important days of the week are Monday and Wednesday and the favorable time of the year is on the increase of the moon. Cancer people should avoid entering upon new business or enterprises during the decrease of the moon. The moon rules beryl and diamond also palm and poplar.

Steep the herb wild indigo and apply to varicose veins; it relieves pain and sometimes cures.

Paraffin mixed with soap powder cleans paint, enamel etc.

Banana Salad: Delicious and inexpensive. Slice bananas on lettuce leaves, put salad dressing over, and sprinkle with finely ground peanuts.

Salad Dressing: 3-4 cup of sugar, 1-4 cup butter, 1 large spoon flour, and 1-2 cup each of boiling water and vinegar. Cook until thick in a double boiler. Let cool before using.

I like The Rainbow by William Wordsworth.

My heart leaps up when I behold a rainbow in the sky:
So it was when my life began; so it is now I am a man;
So be it when I shall grow old, or let me die!
The child is father of the Man; and I could wish my days to be Bound each to each by natural piety.

I have sent a snapshot of the Social Corner group to all the ladies who gave me their names and addresses. If any one has been missed I am sorry as the present supply is exhausted. Should others wish a snapshot please remit 10c (with order, each) to cover expense.

Best wishes to all from

USING STRAWBERRIES

Dear Corner Sisters: It occurs to me you might like to try my strawberry recipes at this season when the berries are so numerous and fine.

Party Strawberry Shortcake. Bake a cold water sponge cake in a shallow pan so that the cake will be one and one-half inches thick (no thicker). When cold, with a sharp biscuit cutter (measuring three inches in diameter) shape cake in circles. Spread the sides of each circle with marshmallow frosting and roll quickly in shredded cocoanut until they are thickly coated. Wash, drain and hull large firm strawberries, slice them length wise and pile slices thickly on top of each circle of cake; place the berries with fresh strawberry juice sweetened and thickened with gelatine, allowing one and one-half teaspoons of gelatine softened in two tablespoons of cold berry juice to two cups of sweetened strawberry juice. Just before serving, pipe whipped cream in a frilled pyramid above the sliced berries and finish each service with an unhulled strawberry. This makes an admirable dessert for a wedding breakfast.

Strawberry Sherbet: Make a sirup by boiling one quart of water and two cups of sugar twenty minutes. Chill and add two cups of strained strawberry juice and the juice of one lemon. Turn mixture into the can of a freezer, packed in equal parts of crushed ice and rock salt. Freeze to a mush, then add the stiffly beaten whites of two eggs and finish freezing. To secure the strawberry juice, after washing, draining and boiling the berries, mash and force them through a ricer or rub through a fine strainer; then strain the juice through a double cheese cloth, squeezing out all the juice possible, retaining the seeds in the cloth. Small cones of the sherbet may be set on top of fruit cocktails adding to their appearance and greatly improving their flavor.

May I have a pin? Thank you.

MABS.

CLUB 3 PICNIC JUNE 24

Dear Editor and Sisters: Just a word about Club No. 3. Although it is a week later than we usually have our meeting it seemed best to have it so. This week was planned for graduation in our schools and so many other things were to take place this week it was decided to hold our meeting on the 24th at the chapel of the Baptist church. If there were several sisters coming on the bus the driver would take them up to the church. We hope this will not conflict with any one else's plans but as there were no notices in last Saturday, we thought all was clear. We shall be more than glad to welcome visitors from other clubs and their friends and while it may mean expense to you to come we will try to make it pleasant enough to make up for the outlay. Please bring your necessary dishes and something for the dinner except sandwiches as we have rolls from the bakery.

I want to thank the editor for the pin, I think they are real nice.

It is near mail time so will close now hoping to see a good number from other clubs at Lebanon on Wednesday, June 24, to help Club No. 3 make a picnic of their meeting.

TWO NORWICH MEN PROMINENT AT STORRS

(Special to The Bulletin)

STORRS, June 19—Samuel A. Holdredge and Amos G. Avery, both of Norwich, and members of the class which received degrees at the Connecticut Agriculture College a week ago today, were active in student affairs at the State College.

Holdredge is a graduate of the Norwich Free Academy, and at Storrs took the Teaching Training Course. In addition to his scholastic work, he found time to engage in track, in affairs of the agricultural club of the college, and to make the cattle judging team, at the same time holding several offices. From the 1925 "Nutmeg," student year book, the following activities are credited to Holdredge: Varsity track (1, 2); Debating Club, (1, 2, 3); Class Treasurer (3); Agricultural Club (1, 2, 3, 4); Varsity Club Dance Committee (4); Eastern States Cattle Judging Team (4); Chairman of Agricultural Fair Horticultural Exhibition (4) Varsity Club (1, 2, 3, 4); as a member of the track team Holdredge excelled in the high jump. He is a member of Alpha Gamma Rho fraternity.

Avery is another graduate of the Norwich Free Academy who has made good at Storrs. Specializing in botany and genetics, in which line of work he expects to do graduate work at the college, Avery devoted his spare time to furthering the interests of the agricultural club. This is an organization of students interested in agriculture who have formed the club for the purpose of furthering their work, and it has a large enrollment at Storrs. As chairman of the "Ag" club fair last fall, Avery has the distinction of putting across one of the best Avery also served on the "Ag" club banquet committee in his junior year. He is a member of the newly formed Pi Kappa Pi fraternity at the college.

STREET [illegible] IS ... SPRING ST. MACADAM NEXT WEEK

The first of the new work authorized by the annual city meeting is to be begun next week by Street Commissioner John C. Donovan. This is the tar bound macadam on Spring street from High to Mechanic street, for which $4,500 was appropriated.

By next Monday or Tuesday the street commissioner will put a force of men at work on the street and will push the work along as fast as possible. While the grading work is in progress it will be possible to keep the street open, but when he begins to lay the stone it will be necessary to close the street.

Street Commissioner Donovan expects to be able to begin the Main street work by about the 10th of July. This is the new concrete roadbed over the Main street hill, the entire job covering from Market street to the West Side bridge, which will eliminate the rough Main street hill, with its present surface of block pavement.

The city meeting made an appropriation of $18,500 for the work.

Commissioner Donovan had expected to get to work on Main street before this but he has been held up by the trolley company's inability to get the rails which it will have to lay and also by the approval from the public utilities commission for the work that the trolley company will do in relaying its rails from Market street to Washington square.

Another Main street improvement that the commissioner has in mind is repairs to the easterly end of the street, from Cliff street to Preston bridge, where the vitrified brick is full of broken spots. Commissioner Donovan has learned of a rock compound that can be applied to patch work on vitrified brick, becoming harder as the traffic goes over it and serves to make it amalgamate with the brick. He expects to get a shipment of this rock compound and try it out on East Main street.

UNABLE TO AGREE ON UNIFORM LICENSING

At the present time regional differences of opinion on the subject of licensing motor vehicle operators appear to be so great that it has been moved to exclude provisions relating to the matter from the proposed uniform motor vehicle law, by the Hoover committee on uniformity of laws and regulations, of which Commissioner Robbins B. Stoeckel of the Connecticut motor vehicle department is a member.

This has been done, according to a statement issued by Magistrate W. Bruce Cobb of New York, another member of the committee, in order that New York, Massachusetts, Connecticut, New Jersey, Maryland, and a few other states might not be called upon later to discard those safeguards as to drivers' fitness which they now maintain. "Certainly if any weak compromise provisions are included as to licensing," says his statement, "the passage of any comprehensive act will be rendered well-nigh impossible."

"A most hopeless diversity developed" among the members of the committee when it came to the licensing of operators, according to Magistrate Cobb. "This was so," he explains, "despite the deep impression made on some of the members of the committee by the able and forceful arguments of Chief City Magistrate William McAdoo of New York at a meeting of the law enforcement committee of the Hoover Conference at which he declared that proper licensing based on proper selection through careful examination as to mental, moral and physical qualifications as well as skill, reinforced by effective revocation and suspension of license as to those who later proved themselves unfit, was the surest way to insure safety on the highways.

"It developed that while the Eastern states mentioned were in sympathy with these ideals, in parts of the middle west and elsewhere individual licensing was either frowned upon or was felt that it should be easy of attainment. The committee draft contemplated perpetual licensing of operators; something which the lazy motorist who opposes both for his own good of the public, an annual checkup of those whose identifying data as well as qualifications to drive, for one reason or another, change from time to time."

MOOSE

Forty-two boys and girls have been graduated from the Loyal Order of Moose vocational school at Mooseheart, Ill., and as they have been trained for life, they will not become paupers or industrial slavery, a system which is crushing the very life blood and ruining lives of as many other children. Included with this graduating class was David Phillips of Bridgeport, Connecticut.

Mooseheart was founded in 1913 by James J. Davis, U. S. Secretary of Labor, so that he could carry out his belief that "Every child is entitled to at least a high school education and a useful trade." All children at Mooseheart are taught a useful trade, as well as being trained in heart and head.

Mooseheart is in no sense a charitable project, or orphanage or an institutionalized home. There are no walls, guards, incarceration, uniformity of dress or concerted action. Mooseheart is a co-operative venture as each of the 700,000 members of the Moose order, by paying four cents the week so it, have built and are maintaining it, and by the gift of pennies, buy service for their children. No pay student can enter Mooseheart.

There are 30 useful trades and vocations taught there, including building trades, machine shop, cement and ornamental concrete. Mooseheart took the lead in teaching youth the dignity of labor. Children, to get diplomas, must write their theses by building houses, making machines and doing other actual work. Mooseheart graduates take their places with craftsmen of long experience and are able to do the work as well, and they receive the highest wages paid. There are now 1250 children at Mooseheart and there have been over 2,000 there, since it was founded.

BANKER WHO ABSCONDED IS BACK IN PROVIDENCE

John Wesley DeKay Quartered at the Biltmore Hotel Under Guard—Had Been Sought For Twelve Years in Connection With Wrecking of the Atlantic National Bank in 1913—Had Been in London, Where He Fought Extradition For Months.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 21—(A. P.)—John Wesley DeKay, sought for twelve years in connection with the wrecking of the Atlantic National bank in this city in 1913, arrived here today in custody of United States secret service agents from London, where he fought extradition for months. He was quartered for the night at the Biltmore hotel under close guard. He will be arraigned tomorrow morning.

Henry E. DeKay, a brother, was paroled on January 3 last after serving twenty months at Rhode Island state prison as a federal prisoner on charges growing out of the $200,000 bank failure. Edward F. Metcalf, president of the bank, died in this city last July, six years after his parole from the federal penitentiary at Atlanta, where he had served three years.

The Atlantic National bank closed its doors April 16, 1913. The institution was located in the Banigan building, now wthe Grosvenor building. Five men were indicted following the discovery of the misapplication of $600,000 of the bank's funds.

President Edward P. Metcalf was indicted for misapplication of funds; Henry E. and John W. DeKay, James F. Allen and Hon R. Farrar were indicted for aiding and abetting Metcalf. These indictment swere filed October 9, 1918.

Henry E. DeKay was arrested in Yonkers, N. Y., Oct. 14, 1918. He was convicted after a trial that last four months. He fought a jail sentence and took his case to the circuit court of appeals, Boston. More than $35,000 was spent by DeKay, but on May 1, 1923, Henry began a five year sentence, at Howard. He was paroled after serving twenty months, January 2 of this year.

John W. DeKay disappeared in 1913 and came to light February 21, 1914, in London, where he was defendant in a suit for $15,000, owed to Calloway and Son, Jewelers, for an assortment of Jewels. Miss Elliott, his secretary, testified that much of the money had been spent entertaining Sarah Bernhardt, who was then playing DeKay's composition, "Judas," at the London Coliseum. The French government, in 1914, asked for DeKay's extradition on a charge preferred by the Belgian government.

In March, 1915, President Metcalf of the bank who had fought a jail sentence was sent to Howard for five years.

In November, 1915, John W. DeKay was arrested in London on the Belgian case. The French government claimed that he obtained 315,000 francs from Belgium under false, pretences. It seems DeKay, as agent for President [illegible] of Mexico, had bought 17,000 rifles and one million rounds of ammunition. This material was in Spain at the outbreak of the World war. DeKay it is claimed, saw an opportunity to make a big haul by reselling the stuff to Belgium. The 315,000 francs was given to DeKay, as a deposit on the deal. The goods were never delivered, and the action was instituted.

On August 26, 1916, DeKay was still languishing in Brixton prison, London, pending the outcome of the Belgian case. DeKay claimed that this transaction was perfectly legitimate.

In 1917 DeKay published a pacifist book on the World war, while in London.

On March 25, 1918, President Metcalf was paroled after serving three years of his sentence. He went into retirement and died July 1924, "a broken man."

The DeKays dropped out of sight until December 30, 1918, when Miss Jeanne Anne DeKay, a daughter of John W. DeKay, disappeared from the Hull House, Chicago. On January 30, 1920, John W. DeKay, Jr., was found in Chicago, trying to trace his sister. Another daughter of the elder DeKay, Elizabeth was abroad.

Judge Thomas Z. Lee received a cable from John W. DeKay, in January, 1920, from Charlottenburg, Germany, asking the judge to do all in his power to locate the lost daughter, whose body was later discovered in Lake Michigan.

In October, 1922, the United States Department of Justice issued a warrant in Providence for the extradition of DeKay from Switzerland on the Atlantic National bank case. The United States was unsuccessful in getting extradition fro mthat country.

John W. DeKay countered with sensational charges, issued at Lausanne, implicating prominant Americans, including Samuel Untermyer and Will H. Hays, in being mixed up with the Mesopotamian oil field controversy.

On April 20, 1924, DeKay landed at Southampton from Hamburg and was immediately arrested by Scotland Yard and brought before the magistrate in the Bow street station, who refused him bail, pending a hearing on the United States' demand for extradition.

The trial dragged along until October 3, 1924, when DeKay claimed through counsel that the United States officials were persecuting him for his anti-war work.

DeKay became ill in London, December 5, 1924, and was granted a continuance as his physicians claimed that he was suffering from malignant internal inflamation.

On April 15 of this year he was again taken into custody by Scotland Yard, and on April 17 a London magistrate decided that the United States demand for extradition was valid, and ordered him deported.

On May 25 A special agent of the department of justice from Buffalo arrived in London to bring DeKay back to Providence, from where he has been a fugitive from justice for 12 years.

John W. DeKay was born in Northampton, Iowa, July 29, 1875. He is descended fro man ancient family of Florardy, France.

FAREWELL TO ROALD E. MACMILLAN AND CREW

MONHEGAN ISLAND, ME, June 21—(A. P.)—The villagers and summer folks of little Monhegan Island, 15 miles off the mainland, gave Lieutenant Commander Roald E. MacMillan and his crew of the auxiliary 115 ton schooner Bowdoin their farewell from the United States as the little craft left this harbor at noon, today, headed toward the Arctic.

Just before he sailed Commander MacMillan said everything aboard was ship-shape and declared that he was looking forward with eagerness to flying from Cape Thomas Hubbard, Axel Helberg Island, out over the polar sea, in search of the land that he believes to be there.

As the planes fly out for a distance of about 350 miles on each of their flights, there will be a visibility of at least 20 miles on each side that will permit a close examination of the surface below to determine whether there is land. Thus on an outgoing and return trip of two planes about 20,000 squares miles of area can be examined from the air, and MacMillan is certain that if land is there, he will find it.

The guests on the Bowdoin include Dr. Gilbert Grosvenor, president of the National Geographic Society which is sponsoring and financing the MacMillan expedition. He will go as far as Sydney, N. S. Dr. Grosvenor said he had never seen any explorer so affectionately greeted as MacMillan had been, and expressed his entire confidence in his ability to successfully accomplish the work he had undertaken.

OUTLOOK BRIGHT FOR BURINESS EXPANSION

NEW YORK, June 21, (A. P.)—In view of the unaltered stability of trade with the opening of summer operation, the business world has derived encouragement from the favorable comparison of current activities with those of a year ago.

The seasonal slowing down has been only moderate, as reflected by the fact that steel operations in the Pittsburgh district have been averaging sixty percent. of capacity against 66 per cent. at this time last year, it is believed, quickly would stimulate a general revival of all commercial activities in the fall.

Disagrees With Oil Land Lease Decision

Senator Walsh of Montana Gives His Opinion of Finding of Judge Kennedy at Cheyenne.

NEW YORK, June 21.—(AP)—Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana has sent a telegram to the Brooklyn Daily Eagle stating that he disagreed entirely with the decision rendered Friday by Federal Judge T. Blake Kennedy at Cheyenne, Wyo., in the Teapot Dome oil case.

Replying to the Eagle's request for an opinion on the decision, Senator Walsh, who was chairman of the senate oil investigating committee, sent the following message:

"Norfolk, Va., June 20.—It is sufficient to say that I disagree with Judge Kennedy in toto, both with respect to his finding of fact and his conclusions of law, in view of the striking contrast between his reasoning and that of Judge McCormick. The decisions of the higher courts will be awaited with heightened interest; the pending criminal proceedings will take on an added importance. The press reports available to me failed to indicate the grounds upon which the court held legal the basic executive order, the validity of which no member of either house of congress had the hardihood to defend."

REINSTATEMENT INSURANCE FOR DISABLED VETERANS

HARTFORD, June 21.—(AP)—More than $2,000,000 in reinstatement of government insurance by disabled veterans, unable to obtain commercial insurance, was obtained in the recent drive conducted by the United States veterans' bureau, according to Major T. # ECONOMY MEASURE BY THE ALIEN PROPERTY CUSTODIAN

All Former Enemy Securities Now Administered by Private Banking Institutions For the Government Will be Placed in Federal Reserve Banks—All Income Accruing Will Be Collected by the Custodian and Deposited in the Treasury—New York Office to Be Abolished.

WASHINGTON, June 21.—(A. P.)—Sweeping changes in the administration of millions of dollars in cash, securities and real estate, seized from enemy subjects during the war and now held in trust by the United States, were announced tonight by Frederick C. Hicks, alien property custodian.

As an economy measure and to facilitate the handling of the trust funds, all former enemy securities now administered by private banking institutions for the government will be placed in the federal reserve banks and all income accruing on thme will be collected directly by the alien property custodian and deposited in the treasury.

Through this centralization of control over seized funds and property, Mr. Hicks said, a tremendous saving in effort and money will result. Adjudication of claims will be expedited, he added, so the office can average 900 instead of 650 a month, as at present, while $150,000 will be siphoned from its budget and many other indirect benefits derived.

Under the new plan, such funds as are of a dormant nature will be invested in government securities, and in acting as depositaries for seized securities, the federal reserve banks will make direct deliveries to successful claimants and transact all other business now performed by private institutions. The private depositaries were said to number at one time approximately 250, in various parts of the country.

Abolition of the custodian's office in New York because the amount of business it handled did not warrant its continuance also was announced.

A final statement made public at the same time showed that of the total of $623,597,450 in cash and property originally seized, $276,610,691 in tangible property was on hand June 7, while $290,833,164 had been returned under the law and the remainder represented the value of ships and other property taken over. Approximately 28,000, trusts were were administered on that date.

MULTITUDES VIEW BODY OF SENATOR LAFOLLETTE

MADISON, Wis., June 21.—(A. P.)—Wisconsin paid impressive tribute today to 'Bob' LaFollette as his body lay in state under the great vaulted dome of the capitol.

From noon until last night, persons from every walk of life came for a last look upon the features of the man who had dedicated his life to their service. In the never-ending line that mounted the state house steps in columns of twos and passed single-file on either side of his bier were men and women, old and young, children and even babes in arms.

Only the slow shuffling of feet, and now and then a sob, disturbed the silence as the tide of humanity flowed through the rotunda. Many of those who came had to wait six hour or even more under a blazing sun before they might reach the state house steps, but there was never a show of impatience. Neither police nor the guards directed them, the people themselves maintaining the column formation which stretched around Capitol square into the streets beyond. Tears coursed the cheeks of many, men as well as women, as they looked upon the face of the sleeping senator. Peace was written there. The only lines were those of a gentle smile.

The casket rested under rays of subdued light that stole down from the narrow glazed windows set high in the curve of the dome. A bank of palms and flowers was the background.

A large American flag covered the foot of the plain casket and two others hung from a marble balustrade which blended with the bower of palms and flowers. On each side were Wisconsin state flags.

Besides the thousands who passed through the capitol, unnumbered others visited the spot in Forest Hill cemetery where, tomorrow, interment will be made.

TO EXPUNGE WORD 'OBEY' FROM MARRIAGE SERVICE

NEW YORK, June 21.—(A. P.)—Recommendations that the word "obey" and the promise of the bridegroom to endow the bride with all his worldly goods" be stricken from the marriage service, together with the optional adoption by the clergy of a shortened and more modern form of the ten commandments, are urged in the fourth report of the joint commission on prayer book of the Episcopal church, made public today. The Rt. Rev. Charles Lewis Slattery, bishop coadjutor of Massachusetts, is chairman of the commission.

The report, which is to be submitted for approval to the forty-eighth triennial convention of the church at New Orleans, October 5 to 23, also recommends the elimination from the book of common prayer of the instructional paragraph withholding from the unbaptized, excommunicated and suicides the rite of the burial service.

Numerous other changes in the book of comemon prayer recommended by the commission provide for the introduction of new prayers, substitution of modernized phraseology for obsolete verbiage, and the transportation of certain services to lend logical continuity to the entire book.

Though the proposed changes were approved after long debate at the Episcopal general convention at Portland, Oregon, in 1922, church law requires that amendments to the prayer book be ratified by two successive general conventions. If aproved at the New Orleans meeting, these changes will become permanent.

The suggested shortened form of the ten compandants omits phrases regarded as supplementary and explanatory. The mandatory form proposed by the commission would demand, in the third commandant, "thou shalt not take the name of the Lord, thy God, in vain," but, or leave to the discretion of the individual clergyman, the explanatory phrase "for the Lord will not hold him guiltless who taketh His name in vain."

The constituent organizations holding membership in the national chamber voted overwhemingly in an expression of opinion that the federal government should repeal its present estate tax, should refrain from imposing estate and inheritance taxes in the future and should join with representatives of the states in co-ordinating their taxation systems.

DR. FRANK I. PAYNE ABSENT FROM 'CORPS' MEMORIAL

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Westerly, R. I., June 21.—Westerly Sanitary corps held its sixth annual memorial observance, Sunday afternoon, when the graves of departed members were decorated with a flowering plant. A short program was carried out at River Bend cemetery.

About twenty-five members of the Sanitary corps in uniform gathered at the state armory on Dixon street shortly after 1 o'clock. Due to illness, Dr. Frank I. Payne, long a commanding officer of the unit, was unable to be present. Commanding the unit was Dr. Harold D. Kenyon and the members went to the cemetery by automobile. Forming at the gate the detachment marched to the shelter, where a semicircle was formed and Dr. John Champlin, Jr., called upon Rev. Arnt L. Schoning, pastor of the Broad street Christian church, who delivered a short eulogistic address. The members marched to the graves of departed comrades, where tokens of remembrances were placed. The graves visited were those of William J. Hogg, James Pollock, William P. Laing and Clarence E. Taylor, formerly active members of the corps and also the graves of Louis W. Arnold and Dr. Frank C. Payne, honorary members. In New London the grave of Dr. John L. May and at Rocky Hill, Conn., the grave of F. E. Fowler, also active members, have been previously visited this year.

...circles has been ... banks of late and ... ard wealth they ha... particularly the First National ... which has recently declared a dividend at the rate of 100 per cent. per annum.

It is very interesting from a standpoint of comparison to consider our own National Bank, which is just rounding out its 183rd year of continuous operation.

At the regular Directors' meeting of the Windham County National Bank held Saturday the officers reported the most successful six months in the bank's history. Its deposits have reached a new high mark, and at certain times in the period they have been in excess of three and a quarter millions of dollars, with total assets in excess of three and a half million dollars. Their regular dividend at the rate of 8 per cent. per annum was declared to stockholders, and in addition $15,000 was added to its surplus. This gives the bank now a surplus of $150,000 which is three ti... its capital and it is fully equipped to take care of not only local business, but is commanding attention of industrial enterprises in Eastern Connecticut.

The Bank maintains a very comprehensive credit file, has taken the initiative in activities throughout this territory and has catered particularly to the working class, to conserve their resources by depositing in their savings department where they are allowed interest at the rate of 4 1-2 per cent. per annum.

The officers and directors are being congratulated upon the successful manner in which they have administered the affair entrusted to their care.

Saturday afternoon at 5 o'clock at the Methodist parsonage, Mrs. William E. Keach of the West Side and George W. Kingsbury of Fitchburg, Mass., were united in marriage by Rev. Roger C. Stimson. Miss Corinee Mitchell and Elliott Keach were the attendants. After a brief wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Kingsbury will return here. They are to reside in Fitchburg, where Mr. Kingsbury has purchased a new home and where he is foreman of electricians of the Simons Manufacturing company. Later in the summer they are to visit Michigan, in which state Mr. Kingsbury spent his boyhood years. Nearly a score of years ago, Mr. and Mrs. Kingsbury were neighbors in Fitchburg. There is mutual regret between Mrs. Keach and her friends here upon her leaving Danielson. She is a member of the Methodist church and has been an active worker in its interest.

One of the splendid results of the recent textile exhibit here—and one that is already making itself manifest—is the boost it gave to the argument that people should trade in their home town, insofar as may be convenient, economical and practical, this applying especially to textiles. It was pointed out to hundreds who attended the exhibit that every yard of goods purchased from looms operating in Eastern Connecticut is a boost for this section's textile business. It means work for the textile operatives, business for the manufacturers and for the retailer handling his product. It is a sort of mutual benefit association—a help one another opportunities. Business men along the Quinebaug valley are cooperating in this booster scheme. A buyer need not hesitate to ask for home-made goods.

Largely vote "No" on French soaps

In Paris, Palmolive is one of the two largest selling soaps

THIS is to correct a false impression, in your interest and in ours. But above all, to safeguard good complexions.

Some beauty seekers, we learn, are being misled regarding soaps made after the French fashion. And, for the sake of beauty and youth, you will want to know the facts.

In France, home of cosmetics, French soaps by the score have given way to Palmolive. The cosmetic qualities of Palmolive hold supreme today in French beauty culture. French women gladly pay almost twice as much for Palmolive as you do. And often three times the price of their own "French soaps."

Yet at those prices, Palmolive reigns as one of the two largest selling soaps in France today. Just carry this in mind, madam, when tempted with French claims for soap.

In old days, women were told, "Use no soap on your faces." That soaps were too harsh, and they were.

Then Palmolive came, a scientific soap, based on 60 years of soap study, a soap made for ONE purpose only, to foster good complexions; a soap made of rare cosmetic oils to be used freely on the skin.

Women tried it, and found new beauty. Palmolive soon became the leading toilet soap of the world—"two purpose" soaps, "jack-of-all-trades" soaps had to give way to scientific skin protection.

Would you then go back to old ways? Would you gamble with the good complexion it has taken you years perhaps to gain? Don't expect Palmolive results from ordinary soaps. No ordinary soap can bring them. Protect your skin's beauty with soap made to protect it. Don't imperil it with unproved soaps.

There are soaps, we frankly tell you, at 25 cents and more, that approach Palmolive in complexion results. We know of two. But Palmolive sells at only 10 cents—no more than ordinary soaps. Enormous production brings you this modest cost.

Wash, cleanse, launder with any soap you wish. But when beauty is at stake, use Palmolive, a soap made to protect it. It is nature's formula to "Keep That Schoolgirl Complexion."

PALMOLIVE COMPANY
(Del. Corp.)

Don't Expect

Palmolive Results from "Jack-of-all-trades" Soaps

Palmolive Soap is not intended for laundry work, or even for fine fabrics. To make it good for those things, its cosmetic qualities would need be much reduced. And fine complexions are too priceless to be endangered thus. Palmolive Soap is based on 60 years of soap study. A soap made of rare cosmetic oils for ONE purpose only—to foster good complexions, Palmolive complexion results come only from Palmolive. Don't expect them from ordinary soaps, from soaps claiming to serve many ends, "jack-of-all-trades" soaps. They can't, that stands to reason.

Soap from Trees

The only oils in Palmolive Soap are the soothing beauty oils from the olive tree, the African palm and the coconut palm—and no other fats whatsoever.

That is why Palmolive Soap is the natural color that it is—for palm and olive oils, nothing else, give Palmolive its green color!

The only secret to Palmolive is its exclusive blend—and that is one of the world's priceless beauty secrets.

Note carefully the name and wrapper. Palmolive is never sold unwrapped.

NEW AUTO LAWS

When the legislature was in session there were many measures presented for changes in the automobile laws of the state. Action was taken upon many of them, and as the result it is wise for the automobile owner and driver to become acquainted with them in order to conduct himself in conformity with the general statutes. These changes, which were printed last week, should be studied and remembered. They deal with highway rules, lights, speed, inspection of licenses, taking on gasoline, stickers on windshield and back window, the carrying of animals on running boards, equipment, insurance and seating capacity of public service vehicles, use of markers of two states, use of dealers' markers and the use of the new markers on the last day of the old year.

It should be remembered that ignorance of the law provides no excuse for violation and it is much better to take the time to study the new laws and observe them than it is to go contrary thereto through negligence and be obliged to get acquainted through some bitter experience.

Such changes as have been made have been prompted by conditions which have developed during the past year, changes in the means of transportation and the conduct of motorists. Increased safety is the underlying reason for them, even that provision which has to do with giving the commissioner authority to refuse registration to a vehicle which cannot make twelve miles an hour. This doesn't mean that cars cannot be driven at less than twelve miles an hour but is aimed at vehicles which are a menace to traffic.

No provision was made whereby Norwich motorists can escape that last hour embarrassment and delay in getting markers, which would have resulted through the establishment of a branch office of the motor vehicle department here, even though it was only a temporary one, but those who are fortunate enough to get their markers by mail or after standing in line for hours, possibly in a December blizzard, will be permitted to attach them on December 31 instead of after midnight.

Read over the additional regulations and note well where they are of concern to you in the operation of your car.

MACMILLAN'S QUEST

MacMillan has started on his visit to the far north. He goes on a different quest than Amundsen and he will employ different methods. His departure so close to the time of Amundsen's reappearance has made it necessary to make his preparations without regard for the experiences of Amundsen. His task is lessened by the fact that Amundsen is not lost, and therefore it will not be necessary to devote any of his time and attention to searching for him, though it was to be one of the special endeavors of the MacMillan party to try to locate and relieve the Amundsen expedition which was thought to be in distress.

MacMillan will employ ships as well as airplanes. He will thus be able to have bases from which flights can be made over that unknown territory which he goes to explore without getting so far from assistance in case of trouble. He has taken one most important precaution in having his flying machines equipped with wireless. This was one of the shortcomings of the Amundsen expedition. With radio equipment it will be possible to communication with the base, or with other planes, or other stations should occasion require. The danger of getting lost, or of becoming stranded through accident, is thus minimized, and there will be the additional advantage of overcoming the anxiety over any delay which may be for a longer period than expected at the outset.

MacMillan's objective isn't the pole, but the large area in which is believed to be an undiscovered continent. He isn't depending upon any one means of transportation, or upon a lucky strike. He goes after carefully planning for what he knows in advance and it is his purpose to successfully deal with the conditions which he had encountered on other trips. He carries with him the best wishes of the nation, the interest of the world in general and the hope that his mission will be successful. It is much more than a vacation. It means facing hardships and dangers but he goes well fortified with years of valuable experience and an equipment that should be of great value in overcoming difficulties.

The OIL DECISIONS

In connection with the oil scandal it has been the general feeling that those guilty should be penalized. Such as best has been promised. There have been those however who have maintained that in spite of the indictments that the oil leases were on the level. However much that may have been difficult to believe, the difference of opinion among those who have argued this question seems to be justified, for the present at least, by the decision of Judge Kennedy in the case of Albert B. Fall, former secretary of the interior, who was indicted on charges of conspiracy to defraud the government in connection with the leasing of the Elk Hills reserve to Edward L. Doheny. Fall was also indicted on charges of bribery in connection with the lease of the Teapot Dome reserve to Harry F. Sinclair. Fall was tried on the charge of conspiracy and acquitted. Doheny and Sinclair were tried on charges of bribery and acquitted. Fall was then tried on the charge of bribery and convicted.

Judge Kennedy has now ruled that the Teapot Dome lease was valid, that there was no fraud, that the president acted within authority, that the secretary was for without power and that it was the province to submit the lease to the department of justice for approval. This is the same it will be remembered in which it was impossible to get all the evidence that the government desired because certain individuals fled from the country.

Here we have two federal judges expressing different opinions on similar cases. One of them an appeal has been taken by the defendants and it can be expected that the government will do likewise in the other. This will mean that the matter will ultimately be threshed out in the United States supreme court where a final decision rests. This is a situation where judges disagree and which disagreement will serve as a basis for increased discussion on the part of laymen, each side being able to fall back for support on the particular judge who he feels sides with his view of the matter. Thus far there has been no clarification of the matter.

FOOLING THE PUBLIC

All kinds of efforts are subject to abuse and it is at times difficult to convince the public that it is getting stung. The disposition to yield to the smooth talker, the good promiser and the out and out swindler is strong. The ability to penetrate the disguise is not as keen as it might be. Words rather than deeds too often turn the decision.

The fakir and swindler are always looking for a chance to do business and get rich quick. They have entered many fields with characteristic success for a time, but their latest venture seems to be in the matter of establishing roadside stands for the sale of farm produce. They have no hesitancy in disposing of storage eggs for fresh laid country product. They make no attempt to raise garden truck but they give the buyer the impression that they do. They misrepresent through their fine talk and not only blast the hope of getting any future business but threw all roadside stands under suspicion because of their methods and false pretenses.

Such practices are possible on the highways where there is a heavy traffic and invariably on the outskirts of a large city, where the many residents go into the country for many products, or are lured into buying by the claims that are made for the goods.

Such efforts to drive out the legitimate roadside stand minimized by the farmer and his family will in time lead to a regulation of such places of business. There would be nothing in such for the honest dealer to fear but the fakir would be driven out of business. There is no reason why a higher price should be exacted for a misrepresented farm product than for packaged goods which are below weight and quality. The legitimate dealer and the buyer are entitled to a square deal.

SPEED ON HIGHWAYS

It makes little difference where they have been established the speed traps have always aroused bitter opposition on the part of motorists. Too often it is a case that they are placed on a straightaway section of the road where the mere fact that the car was being driven in excess of an arbitrary speed limit was sufficient cause for a charge of reckless driving. That would mean a busy time for the constable and justice who was interested in the establishment of such a trap.

It can be readily appreciated that the driver who is proceeding on a nice stretch of highway at 15, 20 or 25 miles an hour is not necessarily driving recklessly even if the limit in that particular town is set at 15 miles. Many a driver could proceed at 15 miles or less and be far more dangerous as a reckless driver than many who drive fast but really have their machines in control and are observing the rules of the highway.

With the increase in the number of cars the situation has changed from the curbing of rapid driving to speeding up the slow driver. This is in the interest of traffic in general and to overcome the necessity for so many cars turning out for the slow one. It is in direct contradiction to what is being attempted where speed traps are established, or where low speed figures are fixed unless there are peculiar conditions which actually want them.

Out on a country road the matter of speed may well be left to the driver, provided he is competent and not disposed to be reckless. The reckless driver, however, is a serious menace, whether he happens to be going 15 or 30 miles an hour. It is unfortunately the case that the speed traps seldom catch this type of a driver when doing his worst.

SAFE AND UNSAFE MATCHES

Use safety matches every place in the home except the kitchen. No woman feels she has time to bother with safety matches when getting a meal. But these matches can be made safe by keeping them high and in a tin box with a lid. The lid can be removed over the meal time, but replaced afterward and keep the matches safe from mice and other causes of accident.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

Usually when one has headache, to lie down quietly in a darkened room, warmly covered, with heat to the temples will lessen the pain. Avoid headache powders and tablets, which may contain narcotics, and use corrective measures which will afford permanent relief.

Since a complete renewal of air in the sick room is frequently stimulating and grateful to the patient, even in winter this may be accomplished about once a day by covering the patient very warmly, with the exception of the face. Then open all doors and windows and let cold air rush in till the air is entirely renewed.

On the physical plane, poise means the harmonious co-operation of the muscles. The figure should be carried erect, chest lifted, hips back; the breathing full and rhythmic. The posture of the body should express physical fitness and mental fitness. A noted psychologist has aptly called this latter trait "morale"; it is quite as important to poise as the former is.

An oily skin should be cleansed with pure soap and water every night. Rub the soap to a thick lather on a Turkish toweling face cloth, then rub the lather into the skin. Allow it to remain on for two or three minutes before rinsing off. Repeat the lathering process and rinse well in warm and then in cool water. Bathe the face cloth. Use an upward rotary stroke. Dry the skin and pat on a soothing cream.

ABOUT THE HOUSE

Small gateleg tables have a double use. They make good end tables and they act as handy tables for tea or small luncheon.

A room showing a group of heavy furniture alone, looks awkward and unbalanced. Even though the room itself may be large and high, so that it can well afford heavy pieces, it should also contain lighter furniture to bring about a pleasing effect.

There is an erroneous practice of placing the goldfish stand in the main, or center window, as a sort of balancing effect. Goldfish cannot stand light. It blinds and kills them. A comparatively dark spot, therefore, should be found for the stand.

WHITER IVORY

When ivory articles turn yellow, wash them with white soap and water and place while wet in the sunshine. Keep wetting with soapy water several times during the day and let dry in the sun. Continue this process for several days. Then rinse and the ivory will be as white as when new.

A CANDLE CLEANSER

If the candles you have had out all winter are soiled but otherwise perfect, saturate a cloth with alcohol and rub the candles. All soil will be removed and the lustre retained. They can then be wrapped and put away for next winter's usage.

DICTATES OF FASHION

The deep shade of purple known as ecclesiastic is much in evidence in the late spring fashions.

Wide striped linens in the gayest colorings make excellent coverings for cushions for the swinging seat or the veranda chairs.

A saucy felt hat for the young girl features a gaily printed silk handkerchief draped around the crown and tied on one side.

Most intriguing are tiny handkerchiefs of pastel colored chiffon edged with a fringe of ostrich in the same shade.

The tailored models fashioned of printed chiffons and georgettes with large colorful designs which are so striking that little if any trimming is required on the frock are new and decidedly smart.

The graceful jabot relieves the extreme severity of the collarless dress. They are fluttering and they undoubtedly add a certain feminine charm that no amount of sophistication can completely overcome.

TOUCHES OF COLOR

A buttonhole bouquet with a tailored suit? Not for a moment. The bouquet would hide the buttonhole. In some of the smart tailored costumes the note of color so desirable as establishing individuality is given by working the buttonholes in silk of a brilliant color contrasting to the material of the suit.

AIRY FAIRY FASHIONS

Women need not swim this summer if only their dresses float. There has been a marked tendency in the last few days to abandon the more formal line and adopt airy creations of the lighter materials such as foulards and voiles. The designs which decorate these fabrics are sometimes geometrical, with a noticeable leaning toward the square diamond patterns so popular in London.

LAUNDRY HINTS

It is economical to buy soap in large quantities so that it may dry out and harden during storage.

Naptha soaps should always be used with cold water as hot causes the petroleum product to vaporise and the cleansing effect is lost.

Varnish and paint stains in coarse fabrics may be removed by first saturating them with turpentine and then washing.

Poorly rinsed clothes not only are ugly in color, but are more apt to scorch when ironed.

Curtains that are starched with flour will last longer than if the ordinary starch is used. Mix three tablespoons of flour to a paste with cold water, then pour boiling water on as for proper starch. This will do two pairs of curtains.

HAS IT EVER OCCURRED TO YOU?

That with cretonne and a coat-hanger you can make a convenient laundry-bag? Use a piece one yard square and sew the selvages together. Shape to the top to fit the hanger, leaving a small opening for the hook. Cut a lengthwise slit near the top and bind it. Leave the bottom open but attach a flap that can be buttoned or unbuttoned as required.

That a comfortable chaise-lounge can be made from an old overstuffed chair by adding a padded board the width of the seat, with supporting legs fastened at the end, and covering all with a slip-cover?

To make a baby's dressing-table by hanging a bag of strong material from the frame of an old camp-chair? Attach a pocket for powder, etc.—The Designer.

HOW MANY WATTS?

Some of us do not think of the wattage of our electric light lamps until we are presented with a sizeable electric light bill. Then we realize that the little side lamps that are just for decoration could burn the smallest-size lamp instead of the 40 or 60-watt and that one 60-watt could be used in the reading lamp with practically the same results as the three or four 25-watt lamps now in use. Look over your lights and lamps and see if they cannot be planned so as to lessen your bill.

TAPESTRIES FOR THE HOME

As a variation from the framed picture on the wall, it is most effective, especially in more pretentious homes, to hang a pictured tapestry, at the end of a long room, in a hallway or over a wide and high mantel-piece.

There are many beautiful tapestries now being made, with patterns and colors as rich and interesting as in the far-away days when the Gobelin weavings were bought by kings and nobles for their castles.

A particularly good use for a large tapestry is to hang it over an extensive wall space in some part of the house where there is a feeling of coldness or bareness, for it immediately seems to fill that part of the room.

CONCERNING WOMEN

Women bankers in the United States now number nearly 4,400.

Twenty-one dollars a week is the average pay received by women stenographers in London.

The greatest number of marriages in the United States in 1922 were performed in New York state with 85,727.

The Women's Symphony orchestra, headed by Mme Elizabeth Kuyper, has been incorporated in New York.

Japan has nearly 4,000,000 women wage earners ranking all the way from manual labor to the highest professions.

Gertrude Kibbeler, Germany's oldest women is now past 107 years of age and still retains most of her faculties.

Ohio has 14,000 women farmers, 3,500 of whom operate their own farms, the balance being either tenants or employed by others.

Wives of several prominent Chinese in Nankow are founding an endowment fund to be devoted to establishing an institution for taking care of widows.

PLAN IN ADVANCE

Plan your meals in advance, a day or possibly even a week, so that you give variety at the least cost, avoid repitation and keep the food value. Keep successful menus on file in your kitchen books so that you may refer to them rapidly.

KEEP APPLES DRY

Apples should always be kept in a cool, dry place. Bruised and decayed fruit should be separated from the sound.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Herman A. Metz, who offers a prize of $100,000 for a process of making synthetic opium at a price low enough to make poppy growing unprofitable, is of the belief that such a discovery would be the best method of curbing the traffic. Mr. Metz is a millionaire manufacturer of chemicals and dyes in New York City and is also well known in politics and public affairs. He is a product of the lower east side of the metropolis and, it has always been his proud boast that from the time he was 12 years old, his parents never spent a dollar on him. Obtaining employment at the age of [illegible] with a chemical concern, he studied chemistry in the evening classes at Cooper Union. In course of time he became the head and sole owner of the great chemical concern with which he had first found employment as a boy. As the bridal party entered the church, the bridal chorus from Lohengrin was used as the processional, by Organist Robert W. Otis, who also played "O Promise Me," and "Hearts and Flowers," during the ceremony, and for the recessional Mendelssohn's Wedding March. The bride walked with her father, who gave her in marriage, and was attended by Miss Rose Matassa as maid of honor. Alfred Muench acted as best man. The flower girls were two little cousins of the bride, Elisabeth A. Jones and Shirley Jones, of Waterbury.

The bride's dress was light blue satin crepe with lace trimmings and she wore a hat to match and carried a shower bouquet of pink roses. The maid of honor wore yellow crepe de chine, with black lace straw picture hat and carried a shower bouquet of sweet peas.

The decorations at the church, laurel and roses, were by the Girls' Friendly society, of which the bride is a member and she also is a member of Grace church and has sung in the choir for a number of years.

Only relatives and a few intimate friends were included in the wedding party, which, at the close of the ceremony, adjourned to the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. S. Howard Bishop, of Yantic, where a wedding luncheon was served.

A chest of silver, cut glass, substantial sums of money, linen, pictures, china, etc., were included among the wedding presents. The groom's gift to the bride was a string of pearls and to his best man he gave a five dollar gold piece. The bride's gift to the maid of honor was a string of pearls. There was an aisle of ribbons through which the bride entered with her father, to the music of Bridal Chorus from Lohengrin, most effectively rendered on the piano by Miss Naomi M. Davis, of Elmira, N. Y., a former classmate of the bride. The wedding ceremony took place in the living room where the bride and groom stood in front of a bank of palms and potted plants.

The bride was attended by Miss Carolyn S. Colton, of Boston, Mass., as maid of honor, and Miss Mary L. Hilgring, of Norwich, and Miss Josephine M. Lenox, of Torrington, Conn., as bridesmaids.

The groom was attended by Ronald Bamford, of Danielson, as best man, and Norman E. Platt, of New Haven, Conn., and Richard P. Peale, of Norwich, as ushers.

The maid of honor wore a cream lace over peach colored satin and carried an arm bouquet of ophelia and butterfly roses. The bridesmaids were period dresses of flowered taffeta in orchid shades and carried Colonial bouquets of old-fashioned flowers. ### WESTMINSTER

Sunday morning, Children's Day, the Church school presented the service, "Our Lamp of Life;" prepared by Mary Jenness for the C. S. S. E. S.

The children marched in, preceded by Earle MacLeod and Jake Jones bearing the Christian flag, and Stella Konarsky with the National flag and all singing "Onward Christian Soldiers." A call to worship was given by the Superintendent, and the children sang "Jesus bids us shine," Mrs. Jessie A. Meade being at the organ.

The service was introduced by a short talk on Oil, what is put into our lives, and Light, the results or products of achievements of our lives. The suggested story was also told of the Jewish workman who wrote to early son, Graham Taylor, head of Calvin Commons Settlement, when the boy entered Harvard, as follows: "Do not forget that your education costs more than your father or you can ever pay. Therefore make return in glorious light for all the oil that is now poured into the lamps of your life."

The principal character in the pageant, "Religion," was taken by Mrs. Meade; first, in an exercise on "Light and Oil" by six little ones representing the Primary Dept. Earle MacLeod serving as their teacher. These were, Clifford and Lillian Green, Normie and Victor MacLeod, Jennie Deviatak and Arline Green.

Song—"I think when I read that "Sweet Story of Old," the lighting of a candle by Religion for this Dept. followed by their song—"God make my life a little light," was the order.

Mrs. Barstow then read St. Matt. 25: 1-12 and the Juniors (Clara Green, Olga Deviatak, Harry Helstrom, Richard Rudick) held a dialogue with Religion on "Spreading the Light," using Bible replies to her question. Religion lighting a candle for the juniors. The Supternation then gave a brief sketches of the characters, Carey, Morrison, Moffat, Livingstone, famous missionaries to India, China, Africa, and Neesima, the Japanese who founded the world-known Doshisha" University of Japan. These parts were taken by Olga Deviatak, Louisa Soderberg, Clara Green, Harry Helstrom and John Soderberg. Each of the countries, named, was represented by a character in the costume of that country. Rudick as India, Anna Deviatak as China, Isobel Green as Africa, John Soderberg as Neesima, with Jake Jones at Japan; a candle being lighted for each country and it in turn, having a second candle for mission-work it is, itself, doing.

In continuance of the custom of some years standing, each child who has been baptised, is over a stated age, is able to read, and is a member of the church-school was given a New Testament by the Superintendent, nine being so remembered this year, one, Victor MacLeod, not having been previously tested, received his copy Sunday.

The Superintendent spoke of work being done by College men and women in various parts of this land during their summer vacation; asking for an offering from all to provide oil, in part, for the light carried in ways outlined in the service. While the offering was being received the Green Girls Quartette sag "Jewels."

The morning service was concluded with the benediction by the pastor, after all united in singing "O Zion Haste."

The church at the Green has its Children's Day service in the evening, and six from Westminster, including the pastors, were present; greatly enjoying the fine work done in recitation and song by that school.

The postponed evening worship and fellowship of a group of neighbor churches to be held at Westminster under rthe initiation of Rev. Wm. C. Prentiss of Plainfield, pastor of the "Grand-mother church," is scheduled for Sunday evening.

The flowers, at the Children's service were principally brought by the children and arranged by them assisted by several adults. They comprised large bouquets of roses, quantities of mountain-laurel, daisies, ferns and brakes, peonies, springals and other flowers.

The 12 lighted candles, of different harmonizing shades, used in the pageant, added to the effect, arranged in line on a table in front.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Rollison of Attawaugan were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Barstow, attending church at Westminster.

The 15th being Flag-day, was noted on Children's day in connection with the salutes to the flags.

The annual outing and Ladies' Day of the Windham Ministerial Union was held Tuesday at Abington. Basket lunches were carried.

Madame Walsh is ill at her home with Mrs. Shorter, in North Society.

Tuesday, A. T. MacLeod was a visitor in Moosup and Danielson.

Special credit is due Mrs. Jessie A. Meade for her skillful work with the children, in their preparation for the pageant in which they did so well.

Frank Bakanav was the only Westminster Hill graduate this year.

If you are "down" on this new method of heating, it is because you are not "up" on the BOND.

To understand what constitutes good heating—healthful heating — will make you dissatisfied with anything less than a BOND can do for you.

A BOND will give you comfort by circulating and moistening the air in addition to heating it—and it takes all three to give you comfort.

When you are "up" on BOND results and great economy, you will be "down" on anything else, even though something else may cost hundreds of dollars more than a BOND.

TWILIGHT LEAGUE STARTS IN THIRD WEEK OF PLAY

The Twilight league will swing into its third week tonight with Post Knox leading the Palace team tomorrow night the Centrals will play the Eastern Dons. Every team on Wednesday the Yantic team plays the Niagara and the St. Joseph's and Hallville will wind up the week's play on Thursday. The teams for this week are pretty evenly matched and should produce some real fast games. All managers will present their official lineups for the season starting tonight as no changes can be made after the different lineups are handed in this week. Each team has had two weeks to try out their different men and from now will have the same team for each game.

In tonight's game between the East Ends and the Palace the fans no doubt will receive a real treat as both of these teams will make a strong bid for the honors and each team has a lineup that includes many stars.

For the East Ends Harry Mills will pitch, La Blanc will catch, Tim Coughlin will cover first, "Muggsy" Ellsworth second, Les Newmandin will play short, "Dutch" Leonard third, and Bill Austin, Jimmy Murphy, Jimmy Pedas and Leo Hamil will play the outfield.

For the Palace team Mike Morin himself will do the twirling. Hamil the backstop work, Mulcahy will cover first, Morin second, Nap Simcox short, "Chip" Dugas third, and Shea, Jackson and Shahan will play the outfield.

To pick a winner between these two teams would be a tough job as they both promise to be strong contenders for the pennant this year.

"Hank" Morin will do the umpiring and no doubt he will keep things hopping right to the finish. After tonight's game a meeting of the twilight league managers will be held at the Dutwell club and it is hoped that all the managers will be present as there are many important matters to be discussed.

TRUMBULL STARS BEAT DANIELSON TEAM EASILY

NEW LONDON, June 21.—Limiting the Danielson swatters to a lone single by Gaslorek, the Fort Trumbull Stars a member of the City Twilight league had little difficulty in sending the visitors back on the wrong road. The Stars hit and scored almost at will, crossing the plate eight times while the best the Danielson tribe could do was amble across the last stop twice. And it was Perreault the visiting third baseman who scored twice, the last time by keeping his head up.

Seagraves a third rate pitcher on the Stars roster had little difficulty in turning back the visitors. He deserved a shut out victory but the team behind him was guilty of lax baseball at times, and both runs were unearned. The visitors never had a chance to come within earshot of the Stars, the local brand of baseball being far superior to that played by the teams in the upper section of the state. The Stars never let up in their attack and two single by Seagraves had something to do with the large score hung up by the City leaguers.

Le Gasse a left hander was mystery to the local batters and he was found quite frequently for hits. He was accorded poor support and had to rely upon his own deceptive slants to get him by. But his slants were not fooey enough and he was in hot water almost all of the time. Something unusual took place and that was no extra base hits during the course of the afternoon's play.

WESTERLY HIGH BEATEN IN POST-SEASON GAME

WESTERLY, June 21.—In a listlessly played baseball game, Saturday afternoon at the Westerly Athletic field, the Westerly High school nine were beaten by the Stonington High school players by a score of 14 to 6. W. H. S. were shy three of their dependable players, there being absent from the lineup R. Melkle, a dependable hitter and sure fielder, DeRocco and Payne, who during the past season have given good account of themselves, especially when they followed the Dabrowski boys in the batting order. The game was poorly attended, although a number of girl supporters of the Stonington High school led in a few desultory cheers. It was generally supposed that the teams were to be the same as in the Memorial Day game, and a considerable dissatisfaction was expressed when this was found not to be the case.

CHICAGO, June 21.—(A. P.)—"Mandy" Brooks' home run smash in the ninth inning with a man on base today gave Chicago a 3 to 2 victory over Philadelphia in the final game of the series. ## MISS COLLETT PLACES THIRD IN SPECIAL GOLF MATCH

CHANTILLY, France, June 21.—(A. P.)—Miss Glenna Collett of Providence, R. I., failed today to repeat her victory of Saturday in the women's golf international championship. In medal play at eighteen holes for a cup donated by Baron Edouard De Rothschild for women who competed in last week's championship, the best Miss Collett could do was to finish third.

Pauline De Bellet, of France, the runner-up in France's national championship and semi-finalist in the international tournament last week, won with a score of 78. Mrs. Fowler, England, was second, with 79. Miss Collett's card showed 81, but the American girl again defeated the youthful Mlle. Simone Thion De La Chaume, finalist in Saturday's match who was fourth in today's competition with an 84.

Color Men Beat Printers

The Color men were acclaimed champions of the U. S. Finishing plant Saturday afternoon when they defeated the Printers 14 to 13 in a game that was marked by much heavy hitting. The Printers used three pitchers but that meant little to the Color boys who treated all alike. Boyd pitched good ball for the winners, a large part of the scoring being due to errors. The lineups: Printers, Brennan lf; Swanton lf; Burns cf; Crooks rf; Sullivan 3b, p; Enright 1b; Eddie Mack lb; Edwards p; Tepaut ss, p; Joseph s.

VELVETMEN WIN EASILY FROM COLORED STARS

Bunching hits in the first two innings which netted them seven runs earned the J. B. Martin team an easy victory over the Colored Stars of Hartford Sunday afternoon at the J. B. Martin grounds. The final score was 9 to 2. The largest crowd of the season was on hand to see the game and they were not disappointed after the first two innings for the dusky warriors of the diamond showed plenty of good baseball after the second inning. The batting honors went to the Murphy boys, Jim and Eddie, each getting three hits out of four times at bat. Next Sunday the Herrupe will play a return engagement at the local grounds. The score:

Sachems Defeat Baltic A. A.

Sunday afternoon on the Baltic diamond the Sachems of Norwich came out of a long spell of sleeping sickness which has engulfed them since the opening of the season, when they defeated the fast Baltic A. A. by the score of 4-3. Couture on the mound for the Sachems held his opponents safe throughout while A. ## HORNSBY LEADS HOME RUN HITTERS IN MAJORS

CHICAGO, June 21.—(A. P.)—A new dynasty arose among big league home-run royalty this week when "Mandy" Brooks, Chicago National recruit from the Columbus American Association club, smashed out five circuit hits in seven games, thereby winning his place in a three-way tie for third place in his league, with a season total of nine homers.

Rogers Hornsby, manager of the St. Louis Nationals, still held his leadership of both major leagues with a season total of seventeen, but the week added nothing to his string and left him but a single four-base tally ahead of Catcher Hartnett of the Chicago Nationals.

TILDEN BEATS RICHARDS FOR METROPOLITAN TITLE

NEW YORK, June 21.—(A. P.)—William T. Tilden, second of Philadelphia, today won the Metropolitan Tennis Championship in straight sets from Vincent Richards of Yonkers, N. Y., administering another crushing defeat to his formidable rival for national honors, at 6-2, 6-4, 6-4.

Tilden's triumph, his second on successive days over the Olympic champion, was a most convincing answer for the skeptics who had seen in his defeat a few weeks ago at the hands of Richards a possible sign of the passing of the Philadelphian's supremacy and the rise of a youthful successor. Since that reverse, suffered at Orange, N. J., in an invitation tournament Tilden has thrice taken the measure of Richards—at Boston in the Church Cup series, at Forest Hills yesterday in a benefit match, and at the West Side club today.

WEEKLY FINANCIAL REVIEW

NEW YORK, June 23rd, 1923—With much power, though in some places [illegible] interest in this week's financial movement centered in the Supreme Court decision [illegible] Oil case and in the [illegible] U. S. government [illegible] of coal lands. [illegible]

The collapse of the Sinclair [illegible] the Harding administration [illegible] of public confidence [illegible] Unfavorable trade operations, including heavy purchases of Argentine wheat by Italy, undoubtedly contributed to the decline.

Coincident with the announcement that Italy would begin debt funding negotiations with the United States, there were indications that the recovery in the currency was helped along by publicity employment of the $50,000,000 Mexican protective credit. French francs continued to fluctuate nervously.

With money rates showing remarkable stability in the face of tax day shifting of funds and growing importance attached by financial authorities to the reduction in government debt, liberty and treasury bonds attracted a widening demand and some of them rose to the highest prices ever recorded.

Stock prices to the end of the week moved at the bidding of professional elements, with trading enlivened by a flurry in Sinclair and other oil issues following Sinclair's court victory in the Teapot Dome case. Grain and cotton prices moved moderately higher during the week.

POETRY FOR THE WIDE AWAKES

A Request From the Birds

The early birds are back to-snare
The well-known worm from out his lair;
Their wing and pretty heads are fol-ed
With springtime hopes—they plan to build.
We ask they ask, accept a plac
Around your home, where they may grace
A tree or bird-house with a nest—
That's all they need; they'll do the rest.
And, having taken care of that,
They chirp to say, "Please tell your cat."

C. C. Bradner in Parking Space.

The Lamp in the West

Venus has lit her silver lamp
Low in the purple west,
Casting a soft and mellow light
Upon the sea's full breast;
In one clear path—as if to guide
Some safe, wayfaring guest.

Far out, far out the restless bar
Starts from a troubled sleep,
Where, roaring through the narrow straits,
The meeting waters leap;
But still that shining pathway leads
Across the lonely deep.

When I sail out the narrow straits
Where the unknown danger be,
And cross the troubled, morning bar
To the mysterious sea,
Dear God, wilt Thou not set a lamp
Low in the West for me?

Ella Higginson.

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE AWAKES

Too much cannot be said in favor of good health. Health is all important in the life of everyone of us, for without health we suffer torments, are a burden to others and of no use to ourselves. If one had the choice of riches or good health, the wise man or woman would choose good health. With riches and poor health life is misery, but with good health, no matter what our financial condition life is joy and happiness.

Emphasizing ventilation in our homes and buildings as an aid to good health, Leonard Greenberg, sanitary engineer oof the U. S. Public Health Service writing in the Connecticut Health Bulletin says:

"The atmosphere surrounding us is a mixture of gases, consisting chiefly of nitrogen and oxygen with a small amount of carbon dioxide and traces of certain rare gases. The nitrogen is utilized in the world of plans but plays no direct role in the life of man or animals. The oxygen, however, plays an important part in our existence for without it we cannot live.

"The ventilation of homes is not a serious problem in the summer. Open windows usually provide sufficient air motion and light weight summer clothes are favorable to the loss of body heat. It is in the winter months that ventilation becomes an acute problem, due usually to the overheating of rooms and the failure to open windows.

The rules for ventilation are very simple. The temperature of all living rooms should be kept at 68 degrees. Open the windows wide enough to change the air completely. Windows should be opened at the top and bottom, the cold air coming in at the top. Do not sit in the direct draft of an open window.

LETTERS WRITTEN BY WIDE AWAKES

Lantern Hill

Dear Uncle Jed: Our school on Memorial day decided to have a picnic at Lantern Hill. There were about thirty-ten persons that attended the picnic and it took two automobiles to take us there. Most of us went to the top and from the top we could see Long Pond, Mystic river and Long Island sound. We tried to throw stones into Lantern Hill pond but we couldn't for we were too high up. We then went to see the queer way some of the railroads had been fixed that use to take the silex from the mine at Lantern Hill. After all this walking we were tired, thirsty, and ready to eat anything. When lunch was over some of us played ball and others went fishing in the Lantern Hill pond. When we were rested we went to see the mine that they used to get silex for the making of dishes. Lantern Hill is the highest peak in Ledyard. It is said that there are many red snakes but we did not see any, only a small snake which we did not know the name of. There is a very good spring and a good pond. Many people go to this interesting place.

A Thank You Letter

Dear Uncle Jed and All the Little Wide Awakes: I am writing you a letter of thanks for the nice book you sent me.

I was very much surprised when I received a prize book. I am reading the book out loud evenings to my mother and my little brother. We like it very much. Brother is interested in any kind of camp life and so am I.

My cousin sent me the paper where my letter was published. I wish we could take the paper so I could get better acquainted with your little family.

Thanking you again for the nice book, I remain your sincere friend.

A Fright I had

Dear Uncle Jed: Last night while I was going to the store, I happened to turn around and I saw something black. I was very frightened and ran faster. While running I fell head first into the gutter. When I got up I looked to back and the black thing was still there. I ran again, and at last I ran again and at last I came to the store. Coming home from the store I saw it again.

This time I threw a rock and it went away. When I arrived home I found that it was my brother that scared me all the time. I hope that all the Wide Awakes will enjoy reading my story.

My First Party

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about my first party. Last night when I went to bed I heard my mother saying that she was going to have a party for me. When I heard this I was very much surprised and thought that she was going to have it Sunday. When Saturday came, she sent me to the store for some fruit and candy. Now, I was very sure that it was a party bn me. When Sunday came, I was surprised to find my cousins and friends in my house. My mother told me that it was a party. I told her that I knew it. We played many games and ate our fruits. It was ten o'clock in the night when the party was all over. We had a lovely time.

The Commander-in-Chief

Dear Uncle Jed: I am writing my first letter to the Wide Awake Circle. During the revolutionary war, the corporal of a little band of soldiers was giving orders about a heavy load which they were trying to raise to the top of the wall. It was almost too heavy for them, and the voice of the corporal was often heard in the "Heave away! There it goes! Heave ho!"

A man in citizen's clothes was passing, and asked the corporal why he did not help them. Very much astonished the corporal replied, with the pomp of an emperor. "Sir, I am a corporal!"

"You are, are you?" replied the stranger; "I was not aware of that," and taking off his hat he bowed saying, "I ask your pardon, Mr. Corporal."

Upon this he put his shoulder to the beam and pulled until the sweat stood on his forehead. When the beam was right, he turned to the corporal, saying, "Mr. Corporal, when you have another such job and have not men enough send for your commander-in-chief and I shall come to help you a second time."

The corporal was thunder struck. It was Washington.

Our Last Day of School

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you, and the Wide Awakes about our school graduation. Our school closes the 28th of June, and that evening the graduation exercises will be held at the church. We have only four graduates from our school, but the entire school will take part in the entertainment.

It will consist of essays by the graduates, poems, songs, and dialogues. It is the first graduation to be held in our community hall and we all hope it will be pleasing to the people who are present. I hope all the Wide Awakes will like my story.

Three Kittens

Dear Uncle Jed: I have three Kittens. One is yellow, one is orange and white and one is gray and white. The yellow kittens name is Spotty, the orange and white kitten's name is Tammy and the gray and white kittens name is Tabby. The kittens are six weeks old. The mother cat is yellow and white she always nurses the kittens. I love to watch the mother cat, how she likes her kittens and nurses them. The kittens do all kinds of tricks. Sometimes they fight with each other. Sometimes I take a ball and roll it and I make the kittens run after the ball. One day I took a string and tied a piece of cloth at the end of it. Then I dragged it along the floor or ground and when the kittens saw the piece of cloth dragging along they think its a rat then they chase after it. I like my kittens very much.

The White House

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to write you about The White House. The capital of this country is the city of Washington. The president lives in Washington, in a very plain house called the white house. The white house and the other public buildings belonging to the United States government are open to visitors during certain hours of the day. People who go to Washington and visit these buildings find much in them that is interesting.

Thomas Edison

Dear Uncle Jed: Thomas Edison was born in Ohio. His father was a mechanic who could turn his hand to anything. They sent Thomas to school but as he asked so many questions the teacher, sent him home. He received what education he had from his mother who was a school teacher. He was very fond of reading. As a boy he made his living by selling papers on a train. Later he printed a small newspaper. He spent much of his time experimenting. Thomas Edison learned to telegraph. He was always making some new inventioon. Thomas A. Edison is the greatest inventor that ever lived. He has done more for the world's wealth, health, comfort, and happiness than any other man except Dr. Benjamin Franklin.

The Happiest Family

Dear Uncle Jed: I am going to tell you about a story I am making up. Once upon a time there was a family of five. Mother, father and big brother Tom, little sister, Polly, and baby Dell, only three years old. If any one asked them, "What would you like to have best in the world." They would always answer, "A home." One day the father came home and asked them what they wanted and they all answered, "A home." So father said, "I am going into the forest to cut down trees and build a home."

I have found work for Tom as a carpenter, and you mother can stay home. But little sister Polly said, "She couldn't help." Then father said, "Who will take care of the baby?" "I will," said Polly running to him. Big brother Tom had make a box which was put on mothers mantle. Every penny that was saved was put into this box. So father and big brother Tom left for work.

There was no one so happy as the father in the forest.

No one's axe was sharper than his. He cut down a lot of logs. He sent them across the river, and they came back sawed, already to build a house. Big brother Tom had worked so hard and mother had taken care of the house better than any other mother could do and the baby was so clean and his cheeks were so rosy.

Then they went to the new home and lived happily ever after in this new home.

Going Swimming

Uncle Jed: One day the boys decided to go swimming. We took our bathing suits and some clean clothes and took a towel and soap. We took the dogs and went to the swimming place. When we got there we took our clothes off and put on our bathing suits. We all took a dive and soon were in the water. It was warm.

We chose sides for splashing. One side had four and the other side had four. One boy said "ready" and then the fun began. We splashed till we were tired. Then both sides gave up so nobody won. After having a lot of fun we came out of the water and dressed. As we were on our way to the house, all of a sudden it began to thunder and lightning. Just as we were near the house we heard a noise. We followed the path to the noise and, what do you suppose it was? It was a woodchuck. The dogs gave a chase after him. They caught it and brought it over to us. We took it and went home. We came into the house and washed and then had supper. After supper we played a few games and enjoyed the evening.

[illegible] FINALLY KILLED BY FALL AT NEW LONDON SHOP

(Special to the Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 21.—Carl Phillips, about 55, laborer, was fatally injured this morning when he fell from the veranda of the residence, 290 Bank street, where he was a lodger, sustaining a fractured skull, which resulted in his death at Home Memorial hospital. The man had been a painter and wood-chopper several years and at one time was employed by the R. P. Learned mission.

Phillips went to the veranda of the second story of his lodging house, shortly after 10 o'clock this morning and emerged himself in painting a portion of the structure. While he was applying the paint, with his body resting against the railing, the latter collapsed and Phillips was thrown to the paved area below, a distance of about 25 feet. In landing Phillips struck upon his head and was rendered unconscious. Occupants of the building hastened to Phillips' assistance, but Phillips was bleeding from the nostrils and ears, indicating a fractured skull. The police were notified and Motorcycle Officer Augustus Ray was sent to the Bank street house. As it was apparent that Phillips was seriously injured because of continued hemorrhages. Phillips was transferred to the hospital, where he lingered about an hour, dying without regaining consciousness. Medical Examiner Charles Kaufman was notified of the fatality and rendered a finding that death resulted from accidental cause.

Stephen Yackofsky, 35, a laborer, residing at 9 1-2 Harrison street, was taken into custody Saturday night by Sergeant Patrick Murphy and Patrolman William Riordan charged with breach of the peace. He is a prisoner at the police station awaiting to be presented in the police court Monday morning. Yackofsky went to his home about 9 o'clock and a short time after he arrived engaged in a quarrel with his wife, finally administering a severe beating to his wife, the blows inflicting numerous facial bruises and discolorations. Mrs. Yackofsky lodged complaint with the police and her husband's arrest followed.

Joseph J. Payne, 611 Broad street, reported to the police late Saturday night that his Chevrolet automobile had been stolen. The authorities have failed to locate the car or apprehend the thief. Payne parked his car on Washington street about 3 o'clock in the afternoon and did not return to drive it away until shortly after 11 o'clock when he discovered that the machine had been stolen.

Two sailors in passing along Main street early Sunday morning were observed to enter a veranda and carry away two chairs. The police were notified of the sailors' act and Patrolmen David Nagle and William Riordan were sent to the vicinity of the Central Vermont railroad bridge, over which structure the sailors had passed, but no trace of the bluejackets was found. Neither were the chairs recovered.

No trace of Alex Heversen, master of the schooner yacht Jeanette, who disappeared mysteriously last Thursday night following the yacht entering port for the Yale-Harvard races, has been found by the police. It is now believed that Heversen may have been drowned. Heversen came ashore Thursday night at 6 o'clock and although he had been given orders for a boat to go to the municipal landing four hours later and row him to the yacht, Heversen was not at the pier to meet the boat. Neither did he put in an appearance there for two hours, when the boat returned to the schooner. All effort since then to locate Heversen have failed.

The police received a telephone message this morning at 2:30 o'clock that an automobile had been stolen from Ocean Beach and the car was the property of Sam Pite, New Haven. A short time after the report was received Patrolmen Dennis Murphy and Frank Philopena on their way to their homes observed the automobile in front of a restaurant on Bank street. It then was revealed that the occupants of the car, four youths, were friends of Pite and the latter decided to withdraw his complaint.

Frank Evelyn and Mary A. Archer Evelyn have sold a house and lot on Vauxhall street to Alice B. Loseno.

Victor Prince and infant son, 38 Terrace avenue; Mrs. Sadye York, Westerly; Mrs. Anna DeChronia, Groton; Roger Cure Sylvestre, Lyme; Edith and Master Edwin Hartung, Gales Ferry; William Taylor, United States Coast Guard patrol boat, 137; Clyde Getchell, 618 Williams street, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged Saturday.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel has caused the operators' licenses of James O'Connor, 27 Winthrop street; Charles Stetson, 206 Montauk avenue; Fred English, 189 Willetts avenue, and Otto Eames, 254 Montauk avenue, to be returned to the respective owners. The licenses were suspended several weeks ago when the quartet were charged with violation of the automobile laws.

Capt. Richard Kelley, special agent in the employ of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad and Special Agent Courtland Brown, of the Central Vermont railroad, apprehended nine youths shooting craps on property of the former railroad this morning. All of the youths were under 16 except three and they were turned over to Probation Officer Richard W. Mansfield. The youths who are 16 years of age or more and who are held for trial are Stephen Serzan, 18, Charles Stubelik, 17, and Edward Bednarzskik.

Mrs. Lucy Pierpont Dow, widow of Franklin W. Dow, former assistant postmaster, died at the United States Marine hospital, Staten Island, N. Y., Saturday morning, death resulting from an operation performed earlier in the week. Mrs. Dow, who formerly resided on Franklin street, this city, removed to Staten Island following her husband's death and since that time had been employed as matron at the hospital.

Judge Wolfe, at Norwich Tuesday, will give a hearing on the writ of mandamus brought by Simon Green and wife to make the city of New London show why it should not permit Mr. and Mrs. Green to erect a building on Williams street, New London, for the conduct of their business of dyeing and cleaning. A petition for the erection of the building has been before the city council some two months, but that body has failed to act upon it and the Greens are forced to forego the establishment and extension of their business where they desire to locate it. The action in the [illegible] will [illegible] whether forward to say that an industrial establishment such as is now located at Truman and Bliuman streets shall not be located on Williams street. The case has attracted very general interest in New London and its decision is awaited with much concern.

There was war in Africa Friday night at Ocean beach and it continued till an armistice was declared at the police station after Biff Horton, Sam Carrington, Bob Smith and Alphonse Bentley had related what occurred after they returned from a dance at Plant hall. They were in singing mood when they struck the restaurant where they are employed and they disturbed other residents at the shore who were within a half mile of the place. Policeman Rahn was at the beach and he set out to accomplish his duty. But the negroes yelled at him and created a disturbance that was in the nature of a breach of the peace. They even hurled a bottle at him, but being inferior marksmen they didn't hit him. The officer called the hurryup wagon attached to the police station and there was a load for the court to attend to. Judge Crandall was on the bench and he handed Mr. Horton a fine of $5. The others in the party were allowed to go unpunished farther than their stay in a cell all night had imposed upon them as there was not evidence that they were offenders except as singers. Horton managed to scrape his fine and the cash for the payment of his costs together so he is still employed at the beach.

Izzy Dimon, a peddler, thinks he is to bring suit against Policeman William Riordan for false arrest. Izzy was in a mix-up with the officer Friday midnight and, of course, fared badly. He appeared in court Saturday with a discolored eye. The discolored optic came from contact with the fist of the officer, and was put there after Izzy had landed a blow that cut the policeman's lip. The latter did not happen to have his night stick with him nor his blackjack when he was called by telephone to stop a disturbance at the house wherein Izzy resides. So the policeman was forced to use his fist to subdue Izzy. That means was effectual. The case has not yet been explained to the court as Izzy asked for an adjournment that he may decide what course he proposes to take. There are other cases to be heard on the 3rd as Tony Longo was not on hand Saturday when he was to have appeared for a violation of the parking ordinance and Robert Burchard of Montville could not be there to answer for an alleged violation of the automobile laws.

An automobile, owned and operated by Charles W. Graves, 1003 Lake street, Evanston, Ill., collided with a machine owned and operated by Frank J. Brooks, 371 Farmington avenue, Hartford, this evening on the New London approach of the Thames river highway bridge. Graves' car struck the machine operated by Brooks with such force as to drive the latter car against a car owned by Walter S. Garde, Neptune Park. Graves' and Brooks' cars were damaged but the Garde machine escaped injury of any consequence.

A woman residing at 2 Tinker court complained to the police this evening that some time Saturday a thief had entered her home and stole $10.

Eleven cases are scheduled to be tried in the police court, tomorrow morning. Most of the cases are for intoxication, with one for breach of the peace and three for violation of the automobile traffic laws.

CENTER GROTON DRIVER, DRUNK, HITS TROLLEY

(Special to The Bulletin.)

New London, June 21.—Frank W. Hempstead, 30, Center Groton, where he is employed as a farm worker, was taken into custody this morning by Motorcycle Officer Augustus Ray and Traffic Officer John Courtney, charged with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor. The arrest of Hempstead resulted when his car collided with one of the trolley cars of the one-man type of the Connecticut company. Hempstead was much the worse for indulgence in Scotch whiskey when he was apprehended and a bottle of Sandy McDonald whiskey, the greater part of the contents having been consumed, was found in the machine. Hempstead's car was badly damaged.

PLAINFIELD

Citizens of the village have been thinking seriously about having the main street of Plainfield laid with cement this summer. The fact of such an undertaking would be very small as the contractors' machinery and all other equipment is right in town. It would take but two weeks to lay a cement road from the state highway to the railroad crossing. By putting in this road at the present time the state and town would save money. A special town meeting could easily put this over.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Marriott and family spent the week-end with relatives in New Bedford.

Clifford Gerad and Wilfred Burdar have mailed cards from stopping points on their tour to the mountains of Vermont.

Many Canadians and other residents of the village will leave Tuesday on the excursion to Canada. The trip will last from Tuesday until Saturday.

Farmers are having a prosperous season, as lettuce, radishes and strawberries in particular, are more than plentiful in this section.

Saturday afternoon on the local diamond, the fans witnessed a fast game between the Slashers and the Winders. Goslin for the Winders out-pitched Kelley of the Slashers. The score stood 1 to 0.

Saturday night, Plainfield was swept by an electric storm duplicating that of last week. For three hours the village was drenched.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Houle spent the week end with friends in Brockton, Mass.

The Lillian Gish Girls' club spent Sunday at Ocean Beach.

Miss Helen Peterson is planning a few weeks' vacation at Hyannis, Mass.

Miss Agnes La Barre, Lillian and Cecelia Deschamps, Lillian Kelley and Ora Charron had an outing at Black Point, Saturday and Sunday.

The usual quota of youths from the village were at Hilltop, Saturday night.

The forty-one students who graduated this week from Plainfield High have three months in which to choose their finishing schools.

Tuesday morning, the marriage of Miss Lillian Crooks, a local girl, is to take place at St. John's church.

On the state highway, the four hauling trucks are held up every other day through the road men. The cement layers are just a trifle too fast for the road men.

A new five-tube radio set has been installed at "Dan's." Customers will now have music while they lunch or drink.

Automobile owners are complaining over the way cars are parked on both sides of the Main street. The roadway in this section is very narrow and when cars are parked on both sides of the street it makes it impossible for traffic to go both ways. Parking only on one side of the street should be permitted.

Wednesday, on the local diamond, the college students, home for vacation, are to play the New Village Terrors.

J. C. Bosquet spent a few days in Detroit the past week.

DOE AND FAWN HOLD UP A NORTH-BOUND FREIGHT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

Plainfield, June 21.—Saturday morning at 10:30, the New Haven freight train going north came upon two deer walking up the railroad tracks, a large doe with her fawn about a month old. The engineer sounded his whistle and rang the engine bell but the animals did not clear the track. The crew jumped out to drive the trespassers off, but the young deer did not run. The mother speeded off into the nearby swamps.

At Plainfield the deer was turned over to George A. Babcock, station agent, who is awaiting instructions from the game warden at Hartford.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Bread Theatre.

Eleanor Boardman makes her debut as a screen comedienne in the Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer production, "The Way of a Girl," which opened last night at the Bread theatre for an engagement of three days. After appearing in such pictures as "Wife of the Centaur" and "So This Is Marriage," Miss Boardman, in "The Way of a Girl," demonstrates her versatility by playing comedy with sparkling gaiety and verve.

"The Way of a Girl" itself is a distinct addition to motion pictures. It is a unique combination of comedy and melodrama and is enhanced with some of the most spectacular scenes on the screen in recent months.

For sheer beauty of photography, we have seen nothing in recent months to compare with the prize fight scenes. Robert G. Vignola, the director, and his cameraman, John Arnold, are to be congratulated for the tremendous suggestion of great crowds given in the mysterious lighting.

Besides Miss Boardman, the cast includes Matt Moore, William Russell and Matthew Betz. "The Way of a Girl" was adapted by Albert Shelby LeVino from the novel by Katherine Newlin Burt.

Academy Entrance Examinations.

Results of the Academy entrance examinations are published this morning. Those who are conditioned in the different subjects will find their examination numbers given. They may have another trial in September.

Broadway Theatre.

The Paramount picture, "The Charmer," a Sidney Olcott production starring Pola Negri, adapted for the screen by Sada Cowan from the popular British novel, "Mariposa," by Henry Baerlein, is the feature at the Broadway theatre today, Tuesday and Wednesday.

"The Charmer" brings Pola to the screen in her first comedy role. The story is one of a wild mountain girl of Spain, who goes to America and achieves fame as a dancer in Broadway. It opens in Seville, where Pola, as Mariposa, attracts many patrons to her mother's cafe with her dancing. A party of tourists from New York arrives in town. Ralph Bayne, played by Wallace MacDonald, a wealthy idler, sees Mariposa and becomes interested in her. Dan Murray, Bayne's chauffeur (Robert Frazer) is also taken up with the girl.

An American theatrical agent, who also saw Pola dance in the cafe, makes arrangements to take her and her mother to New York for an engagement on Broadway. She is billed as "The Charmer." Bayne is at the opening performance and seizes the opportunity to renew his acquaintance with Mariposa. His mother doesn't take kindly to the affair and in order to show up the girl invites Mariposa and her mother to a week-end party. Because of their lack of education, they are humiliated and forced to leave.

But Bayne is not willing to give up the girl so easily, and he asks her to visit him in his "study"—really the scene of his many "affairs." The rest of the picture is taken up with young Murray's frantic efforts to steer the girl clear of his employer and win her for himself.

There's drama and suspense in "The Charmer" and a generous sprinkling of sure-fire comedy. To say that it's Pola Negri's best picture to date is but putting it mildly.

Trixie Friganza, popular stage comedienne, is cast as Pola's mother in the picture. Others are Cesare Gravina, Gertrude Astor, Mathilda Brundage and Edwards Davis.

Walters Heirs in Tenderfeet proved to be a riot of fun. A new Kinogram Weekly completes the program.

Palace Theatre.

"Laugh and the world laughs with you" must have been in Avery Hopwood's mind when he was writing "Fair and Warmer," for he produced a three-act farce comedy that has more genuine laughter in it than the ordinary mortal requires during the average week. This famous fun vehicle, which is to be presented at the Palace, the first three days of this week, starting tonight, with a matinee on Wednesday, by the popular Augustin Stock company, is characterized as having brought "sunshine and laughter" into more homes than any single play that has ever been produced on any stage. The theatregoers of this city certainly should feel pleased that they have the opportunity of roaring over the complexities, funny situations and delightful comedy moments of a play that has delighted thousands and is without a peer in the amusement field. To tell of the story in detail is impossible. It can be stated, however, that there is more laughter produced by situations, than both situations and lines give in the average so-called success; and that there is more genuine fun in the dialogue of this remarkable play than in the entire book of the ordinary laugh hit you have seen. Billy, Blanny, Lolle and Jack, some of the characters in the play, form one of the funniest quartettes which have ever been induced into a play. Their perfectly normal, natural experiences during three acts of the comedy, are a riot of tumultuous laughter. You just can't resist them. The person who can sit through "Fair and Warmer" without laughing has lost his funnybone and to miss seeing "Fair and Warmer" will be to miss an entertainment that comes only a very few times in many theatrical moons. In conjunction with the Augustin Stock company, on the screen, starting at 1 p. m., will be shown Johnny Walker in "Life's Greatest Game." Don't forget the picture starts at 7 and the play starts at 8:10. The prices for this week are 25, 35 and 50 cents, higher, with all seats reserved. [illegible] are now selling and reservations should be secured in advance.

KALEIDOSCOPE

One of the few parts of Windsor castle that have remained practically unchanged since its first construction in 1140 is the royal kitchen.

Westminster Abbey, Notre Dame de Paris, and the cathedral of St. John the Divine, in New York, are now equipped with amplifying systems which carry the voices of the preachers to all parts of their vast auditoriums.

When seamen talk about a "strong gale," the weather man interprets it as a wind blowing between forty-seven and fifty-seven miles an hour; a "storm" wind ranges between sixty-four and seventy-five an hour, while above seventy-five miles any wind becomes a hurricane."

To determine the weakest parts of dams and just why they sometimes fail, the Engineering Foundation, the joint research organization of the American societies of civil, mining, metallurgical, mechanical and electrical engineers, proposes to construct a dam at an expense of $100,000 and then cause it to burst. The experiment is to be made near Fresno, Cal. The main object to be achieved is the knowledge how to build dams of maximum thinness of construction and consequent economy of material.

A courthouse janitor in Wisconsin knows his "Tom Sawyer." It seems that the courthouse lawn was invaded by dandelions, which prospered and multiplied. Some one in authority suggested that the janitor ought to do something about it. He borrowed a golf club, sallied forth upon the lawn, and, paying elaborate attention to his technique, began to pick off the dandelions one by one. A passing golf devotee stopped to watch him, was tempted beyond his power of resistance, got a club of his own, and joined in the lawn practice. Others followed suit. The dandelion invasion was exterminated in jigtime.

A LIFE ON THE OCEAN WAVE.

A life on the ocean wave,
A home on the rolling deep,
Where the scattered waters rave,
And the winds their revels keep!
Like an eagle caged, I pine
On this dull, monotonous grave,
Oh! give me the flashing brine,
The spray and the tempest's roar!

Once more on the deck I stand
Of my own swift-gliding craft!
Set sail! farewell to the land!
The gale follows fair abaft.
We shoot through the sparkling foam
Like an ocean-bird set free:—
We'll find fair out on the sea,

The land is no longer in view,
The clouds have begun to frown;
But with a stout bark and crew,
We'll say, Let the storms come down!
And the song of our hearts shall be,
While the winds and the waters rave,
A home on the rolling sea!
A life on the ocean wave!

WITHDRAWAL OF SUIT BETWEEN RING HEIRS

Withdrawal of the $30,000 damage suit instituted by Charles B. Ring, of Springfield, Mass., against Mary M. Ring, of Norwich, has been filed with Clerk George E. Parsons, of the superior court.

SEARCH IN RIVER FOR BODY OF [illegible] MAN WHO MAY HAVE DROWNED

Peter Pietrosewicz, about 40, a boarder, at No. 164 Central avenue, has been missing since Saturday afternoon and is believed to have been drowned in the Shetucket river just above the dam off North Main street. Pietrosewicz left his boarding house during the afternoon and went to the home of Annie Catoco, No. 662 North Main street, about 4 o'clock to put on his bathing suit. Then he went into the river, a few feet above the dam for a swim.

When he failed to return from the river the police were notified of his disappearance about 9 o'clock in the evening and an investigation was immediately started. A boat and boat hooks were secured and the police dragged the river all night without success. Sunday morning Sergt. Myron O. Morgan and Officer Luke Riley continued the dragging of the river and kept it up until late in the afternoon but the body could not be located.

It is thought that Pietrosewicz got too near the wheel house and was dragged under to his death. It is said that a boy saw him struggling in the water. Pietrosewicz is a widower and it is said has one child, a girl. A brother resides on Fantic street.

NEARLY HALF CAR OWNERS CARRY INSURANCE

A study of the financial responsibility of Connecticut motor vehicle owners shows that approximately 42 per cent. of the registrants in this state are insured to cover damage that might be done by their cars. This percentage is far above the average which has been found to be about 18 per cent. in some states.

The financial responsibility act adopted by the recent session of the Connecticut legislature has by some people been confused with a compulsory insurance bill which was proposed in the legislature but rejected. The financial responsibility act does not go into effect in Connecticut until January 1, 1926, and will therefore not effect 1925 registrations. Before that time, the state motor vehicle department will make it the subject of discussion in one of its monthly bulletins.

Inquirers about the new law, many of whom write to the department from other states, are being informed that the the financial responsibility law will affect only such registrants as put themselves under its jurisdiction by their own acts. Owners of cars which have not been involved in accidents under circumstances reflecting on the registrants will not be affected.

The application of the financial responsibility feature will supplement the department's discipline of drivers through the suspension of operators' licenses, extending the department's disciplinary measures to car owners as well. It is expected to have the effect of discouraging the loaning of automobiles to irresponsible persons.

CREDITS HEALTH SERVICE WITH CUTTING DEATH RATE

During the last week of May, this year, the death rate in 65 of the larger cities was only 12.8 per thousand. For this, as well as the fact that the United States is one of the healthiest countries in the world, Frederick L. Hoffman, LL. D., consulting statistian of the Prudential Insurance company of America, says the credit is due largely to our national public health service.

Dr. Hoffman's encomium concludes a brief review of the recent report of Surgeon General Cummings, covering the operations of the service during 1924. Through these operations, with the able assistance of local and other health agencies, he says the country not only extended control over certain hitherto highly destructive diseases, but maintained the health standards which in the last twenty-five years have considerably lengthened the average span of life.

"Attention," he remarks, "is directed to the truly amazing increase in the average length of human life, which, in the sixteenth century, was estimated at from eighteen to twenty years, but which at the present time probably is not much less than 56 years. There has been an increase of approximately fifteen years since 1870—an increase which, it is pointed out, however, was not the result solely of sanitary education, but was due also to the improvement in economic and industrial conditions.

"The prevailing death rate, as reported weekly by the division of vital statistics, census bureau, is approximately 12 per thousand, which is about the rate prevailing only a quarter century ago."

After referring in detail to the numerous activities of the public health service, Dr. Hoffman declares few of its current achievements are of greater importance than the establishment of malaria control. "Life insurance companies," he comments, "no longer look with apprehension upon the south as an area for business operations."

Dr. Hoffman pays further tribute to the service for its work in cancer investigation, in which he has been deeply interested for years, and the prevention of goiter, in which, he adds, considerable progress has been shown. But he especially applauds the results of the quarantine service in keeping the country free of diseases that might have slipped in from abroad to cause considerable sufferings as well as loss of life.

AIMING TO PROVIDE A REAL STATE FAIR

A decided movement to give this state a real state fair is now under way actively in every section of Connecticut, with the object in view of making the Charter Oak event an educational affair, especially for the purpose of encouraging the rural boy and girl to remain on the farm.

Governor John H. Trumbull, in accepting the general chairmanship said: "Agriculture is fundamental. Wealth wrought from the soil is added wealth to Connecticut. Decreasing numbers of farms mean higher cost of the necessities of life in our industrial centers. I firmly believe Connecticut needs a visible inspiration to the rural boy and girl to stay on the farm and become a producer instead of coming to the city and becoming a consumer. Like every progressive state, we need a state fair, and I gladly give my active support to this most worthy movement."

The general assembly has recently appropriated $28,000 for the purpose of assisting in this movement, and a state organization headed actively by Governor John H. Trumbull is now disposing of bonds that will afford finances to completely change the appearance of the fair property, and get started the first unit in the new building arrangement.

Men from this vicinity on the campaign committee are F. W. Browning, of this city, Ernest E. Rogers, of New London, and A. B. Cook, of Niantic. Wilson H. Lee, of New Haven, is state chairman.

ROCKVILLE MEN'S UNION PICNIC AT STORRS

(Special to the Bulletin)

STORRS, June 1.—The Men's Union of the Union Congregational Church of Rockville held its annual picnic here today, on the campus of Connecticut Agricultural College. M. Howe, president; H. L. Hondlow, vice-president; R. M. Latham, secretary; E. W. Maynard, treasurer; David A. Sykes and George B. Hammond.

ST. PATRICK'S [illegible] AT SUNDAY

St. Patrick's school [illegible] graduated a class of 45 pupils. Commencement exercises were held at the [illegible] many a large congregation attending. The two mass was said by Rev. Myles F. Galvin, who is superintendent of the school. Rt. Rev. Mgr. Michael Henry May, rector of the parish, was seated in the sanctuary during the exercises. In compliment to him, the class had chosen as class colors Monsignor red and white; the same colors were repeated in the adornment of the three marble altars, the flowers being roses.

The pews on either side of the nave were reserved for members of the class and their teachers, the Sisters of Mercy from the parish convent. The girls were in dainty white frocks, wearing college caps of white, duck edged with the Monsignor red.

Prof. Frank L. Farrell directed the music, the quartet, Mrs. Farrell, Miss Bellefleur, Frank G. Aubrey and Roderick F. Sullivan, being heard to advantage in the incidental music throughout the service, also during benediction of the blessed sacrament with which the exercises concluded.

The program was given in this order: Processional, Prof. Frank L. Farrell; Hymn of Consecration to the Sacred Heart, Graduates; Sermon, Rev. John J. Reilly; hymn, "Mother Loved" (L. Lambillotte), Graduates; conferring of diplomas and awarding of medals, Rt. Rev. Monsignor Michael H. May, S. T. B.; act of consecration, Graduates; benediction of the most blessed sacrament, recessional, Professor Farrell.

At the gospel side of the main altar was conspicuous the framed portrait of Pope Pius XI above the text of his blessing, granted to this class at the special request of Mgr. May during the latter's recent visit to Rome. Father Reilly's text was Matt. XVIII. 18 and 21—"Go ye, therefore, teaching all nations; and behold, I am with you all days, even to the consummation of the world." This command of Christ comes ringing down the groove of time, through the passing of centuries, the disintegration of monarchies and monuments, an infinity of changes. That the command has been obeyed is evidenced by the countless institutions of learning established by the Roman Catholic church, from the elementary school to the wide-spreading university, the crucifix shining over all, Mary, the Immaculate Mother of God, the patroness of each. Thus the task set the church, "Go, teach all nations," has been carried out.

As loyal and patriotic citizens, Catholic heads of families pay taxes toward the support of their public schools; but because they wish their children to have an education, not alone of the head but of the heart, they pay an extra and self-assumed tax for the support of their parish schools. The church for twenty centuries has kept burning the lamp of learning, sacred and profane; its schools have stood for truth and right. The church warns, stimulates, urges and implores the pupils whom it supervises, as it is the guardian of truth against peril and error, to seek God first; and it holds itself aloft and unchanged as the custodian of truth, the same today as ever. It stands unchanging, in a world eager for the new, as regards fads, superficialities, unrealities, false standards. The lamp lighted by Christ is carefully tended.

The preacher referred to the importance of education, (the longing for truth,) and the beautiful system by which the church takes each child in his plastic years, training him to a knowledge of God and of man's destiny. The deplorable state called ignorance was contrasted with true knowledge; the Catholic church is the wise teacher, as well as the solicitous mother of her children. Hence she avoids any system which eliminates God, a one-sided method which, while developing the intellect leaves students weak and flabby as to the will. The Catholic school trains the student to become a citizen of the world; it also trains him to become a citizen of heaven.

Father Reilly gave an eloquent and warming charge to the class, to continue the command of Christ, going forth as teachers—carrying on, in their way, the principles and lessons taught them in their consecrated Sisters' school, repeating the charity, justice, purity and sacrifice which have been their examples. "Live as you have learned," he admonished them, "making Mary your model. Raise your hearts to God frequently; follow your class motto, 'Fidelity'—to God, to self, to faith, to country."

Diplomas and honors were then conferred by Monsignor May, who earnestly addressed the class. In closing, he bestowed the papal benediction on all. Honors were conferred as follows: Scholarship Medals—Awarded to Elizabeth Catherine Quinn and Mary Eva King.

Prize for U. S. History, gift of Ladies of Columbus, awarded to Richard H. Buckley.

Prize for Penmanship, gift of A [illegible] Valle.

Father Reilly gave benediction of the blessed sacrament, concluding the exercises. After the mass, the graduates, with Mgr. May, descended on the steps of the main entrance to the church, where Don Houghton photographed the group in four poses.

The class officers are: Violet J. Johnson, president; James A. Shea, vice-president; Joseph P. Reilly, secretary; Mary R. King, treasurer.

Class Motto—"Fidelity."

PRESIDENT LAYS SPECIAL STRESS ON ECONOMY EFFORT

Will Recommend Tax Reduction to Congress at the December Session—Announcement Made at the Semi-Annual Budget Meeting—Emphasized the Fact That Economy in the Cost of Government is Inseparable From Reduction in Taxation—Asserted That Every Effort Will Be Made to Prevent Any Surplus in Personnel of Federal Departments—Predicted a Surplus of $200,000 at the End of the Fiscal Year, June 30.

WASHINGTON, June 22—(A. P.)—Executive officers of the government were called together tonight to hear from President Coolidge and Director Lord of the budget, plans to accomplish further reductions in the government's expenditures.

It was the regular semi-annual meeting of the responsible officials and was attended by approximately one thousand men and women, including the chief executive, cabinet members, bureau and division chiefs and others who in some way exercise supervisory control of a government activity.

Director Lord followed President Coolidge on the speaking programme to amplify with details the outline of his policy presented by the executive, whose custom at these meetings has been to discuss a two year programme and to show, by analysing the work of the year just ending, where all for which he had hoped had not been accomplished.

A promise that he will recommend further reductio of taxes to Congress at the December session was made by President Coolidge in his address.

He predicted a surplus of $200,000,000 at the end of the fiscal year June 30, and estimated that the surplus for the coming fiscal year would approximate $390,000,000.

Admitting there was little prospect, for several years at least, of cutting government expenditures below three billion dollars annually, Mr. Coolidge said the outlay for the current fiscal year would total $3,025,000,000, exclusive of money applied to reduction of the public debt and operation of the postal service.

It is his desire, he added, to keep expenditures for the coming year, including the amount applied on debt induction but excluding the postal service, within $2,875,000,000 or $125,000,000, he said, less than estimated comparable expenditures for this year.

Mr. Coolidge also declared he would attempt to hold estimates for the fiscal year beginning July 1, 1926, to $2,600,000,000, exclusive of the postal service. No estimates were given of the amount needed for reducing the debt and operating the postal service.

The President told his audience, made up of cabinet officials, and departmental executives, that they must continue their efforts to decrease the cost of government. He gave Congress credit for supporting the budget, and declared that while the tax burden had been materially lightened, it "is still with the people."

"Back of the tireless, persistent and drastic campaign for constructive economy in federal expenditure," declared Mr. Coolidge, "has been the relief of the people of this nation from a great burden of taxation. It has been successful. Taxes have been reduced. The burden of the people has been materially lightened.

"But the reduction has not yet reached the point where taxes have ceased to be a burden. It is to the reaching of this point that our efforts must be directed. x x x The way has been prepared for further tax reduction. This I will recommend to the Congress in the next budget message.

"Economy in the cost of government is inseparable from reduction in taxes. We can not have the latter without the former. From some sources the statement has been made that this continuing drive for economy in federal expenditures is hurting business.

"I have been unable to determine how reduction in taxes is injurious to business. Each tax reduction has been followed by a revival of business. If there is one thing above all others that will stimulate business it is tax reduction. If the government takes less, private business can have more. If constructive economy in federal expenditures can be assured it will be a stimulation to enterprise and investment."

Reviewing the four years' operation of the budget system, Mr. Coolidge asserted that annual expenditures, which in 1921 totaled $5,116,000,000, had been reduced by $2,091,000,000, while $3,426,000,000 had been lopped from the public debt which then aggregated $22,977,000,000. Interest paid in 1921, he said, totalled $1,000,000,000 as against

"Our sound debt policy," the President obtained, "has progressively strengthened the credit of our treasury. Bonds which in 1921 were selling much below par are today selling well above. As the price of our securities goes up, the interest rate which we must pay on new flotations declines.

"This month the Treasury offered a 3 per cent one-year certificate on which the subscriptions were nearly four times the amount of the offering. Of $180,000,000 of decrease in interest payments between 1921 and 1926, part of the saving came because there are less bonds outstanding upon which interest must be paid. Over thirty million of this decrease is due to the lower interest rates paid on our securities. These lower rates are the result of improved credit, secured by the orderly management of our fiscal affairs.

"Thirty million dollars a year to good pay for a sound policy. It shows how orderly management goes hand in hand with economy."

Declaring that "we are fast approaching the time when we cannot look forward to appreciable reduction in the heretofore cost of government" Mr. Coolidge continued:

"The safest is growing path to the normal course [illegible] a gradual [illegible] business.

to continue this campaign. The task is becoming more difficult, but the more difficult the task the greater is the reward of success.

"In this great business of the government we are undoubtedly continuing activities which are no longer essential or productive. The undertaking of new projects or lines of effort made essential by changing conditions should be marked by the weeding out of those no longer essential. I refer, of course, to those functions which are within your administrative discretion.

"Unfortunately the federal government has strayed far afield from its legitimate business. It has trespassed upon fields where there should be no trespass. If we could confine our federal expenditures to the legitimate obligations and functions of the federal government a material reduction would be apparent. But far more important than this would be its effect upon the fabric of our constitutional form of government, which tends to be gradually weakened and undermined by this encroachment.

"The cure for this is not in our hands. It lies with the people. It will come when they realize the necessity of state assumption of state responsibility. It will come when they realize that the laws under which the federal government hands out contributions to the states is placing upon them a double burden of taxation—federal taxation in the first instance to raise the moneys which the government donates to the states, and state taxation in the second instance to meet the extravagances of state [illegible] which was compiled by the federal collectors.

The President, expressing the opinion that "greater ultimate economy in federal expenditures can sometimes be attained by larger annual outlays on some of our existing projects," said that in some instances it can be attained by undertaking new projects.

"I do not advocate the withholding of additional outlays on projects essential to the best interests of the government," he added. "But our present objective is the relief of the taxpayers of today, and any proposed increase of annual outlay on existing projects or any undertaking of new projects should be scrutinized with this objective in mind, and every doubt should be resolved in favor of the taxpayer of today who is carrying the burden of war taxes."

Pointing out that the number of employes in the executive civil service totaled 554,986 June 30, 1924, as compared with 449,000 nine years before, the President emphasized that every effort be made to prevent any surplus in personnel, although he did "not advocate an undermanned public service," feeling "this would be false economy and disastrous in its results."

DIRECTOR OF BUDGET LORD DEFENDS ADMINISTRATION

WASHINGTON, June 22.—(A. P.)—Critics of the administration's economy policy were answered in detail tonight by Director Lord of the budget, in a speech which, with one by President Coolidge, outlined the government's programme for the next year before a meeting of the government executives.

Calling upon each supervisory official in the spending agency of the government to remember his responsibility to the taxpayer, General Lord complimented the officials on the progress already made in accomplishing savings and eliminating waste, but quoted the president's statement that there was still too much waste and too great a tax burden on the people.

"If earnest intent to conduct federal operations economically, in honest effort to reduce government costs and at the same time increase government efficiency be parsimony and false economy," he added, "then let parsimony be enthroned and false economy be glorified."

The general's statement was a direct reply to expressions in some quarters that the president's economy programme was being carried to an extreme and that it might, in the end, damage business.

"Analyze it as you may," he went on, "after all of the pros and cons are marshalled when the last pro has been pronounced and the last con has been concluded, there has been a saving of $3,191,232,944.94 in the costs of government in the last four years and that will stand in the record for all time as an example of courageous retrenchment unequalled in the history of governments."

General Lord advised his audience to make no mistake about the intentions of the administration. Reiterating that economy must be the slogan. He asserted that the budget bureau was "sitting tightly on the lid" and confidently challenged the years to come in the matter of further cuts in the outgo of government money.

Scores of incidents were related by General Lord to show where savings had been accomplished. Citing the reduction in record personnel by the adjutant general of the army, who was compelled by curtailed appropriations to reduce a force of clerks from 710 to 21, he said the result had been the creation of a new and simplified record system that was being widely [illegible] for efficiency.

[illegible] had actually saved in excess of $200 in the cost of these items. He also related how a United States consul in Java had saved forty dollars a year by the elimination of certain electric lights in his office, and announced that the temporary plan of using army and navy wireless and government leased wires for communication had reduced this item of cost by a million dollars in the current year from the expense of using commercial wires and cables.

It could continue indefinitely," said General Lord, "in quoting examples of economy by government employes who have learned that everything that has value, no matter how small, be it money, time or property, must be conserved. Economy by the small matter is fundamental. Waste[illegible]

SENATOR LADD DIED IN BALTIMORE YESTERDAY

BALTIMORE, June 22—(A. P.)—Senator Edwin Fremont Ladd, senior senator from North Dakota, died here at 10:20 a. m., today from kidney trouble, which developed as a complication of neuritis contracted a year ago in his home state of North Dakota.

Plans tonight were for the removal of the body to Washington tomorrow, where funeral services will be probably Thursday and interment made in a vault until Mrs. Ladd, who was seriously affected by her husband's death, is able to make the trip to North Dakota. She and two of the family of eight children were at the bedside when death occurred, as also was Douglas H. McArthur, Senator Ladd's secretary.

SENATOR EDWIN F. LADD,
Who Died in Baltimore Yesterday.

Mrs. Ladd and the two children, who arrived an hour before death cut off the brilliant life unusually full of honors, he recognized and greeted. He was partly conscious almost to the last, but sank rapidly. Mr. McArthur, who entered the room a few minutes after Mrs. Ladd, the senator failed to recognize.

Senator Ladd was in his 66th year and has been successively chemist, professor, college president, writer and United States senator. His high honors in North Dakota came to him by adoption. He was a native of Maine. His death, following that of Senator LaFollette, was the second overwhelming loss to be suffered by the senate insurgent bloc within four days.

THE "DIVORCE MILL" CASE OPENS IN PROVIDENCE

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 22.—(AP)—Testimony to the effect that a false deposition was presented as evidence in the divorce case of Genevieve F. Thomas of New York City against Edwin T. Thomas was presented by state witnesses today in opening the trial of Leonard W. Horton, master in chancery, and Francis P. Dougherty, both Providence attorneys, indicted after the so-called Rhode Island "divorce mill" investigation. Horton was named in 21 indictments brought by the grand jury and Dougherty in nine.

The indictment on which they were brought before Jerome Hah.. and a jury in superior court for trial today charged "conspiracy to defeat public justice by uttering and publishing a deposition which they knew to be a false, fraudulent and untrue deposition." The trial will be resumed tomorrow.

Over Proposal to Build New Railroad Straight Across State of Pennsylvania.

WASHINGTON, June 22.—(AP)—What promises to be a lengthy controversy among eastern trunk line railroads was launched today before the interstate commerce commission, which took up for hearing the proposal of the New York, Pittsburgh and Chicago railroad, a corporation owned by the estate of the late E. H. Harriman, to build a new railroad straight across the state of Pennsylvania.

L. F. Loree, president of the Delaware and Hudson company, appeared as principal sponsor of the new project, which he described as "the backbone of the premier railroad of the United States." It was, he said, an essential link in a projected New York, Chicago rail system which would be 100 miles shorter than any present railroad mileage between the two centers.

Mr. Loree and engineers who supported his testimony defended the estimated construction of the new line, which is upwards of $700,000 per mile. But Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio, the first of opposition witnesses to be heard, denied there was any necessity for the new railroad, asserting that the existing trunk lines could economically expand to handle possible traffic increases.

The origins; application of the New York, Pittsburgh and Chicago, filed some weeks ago with the commission, asked permission to build from Pittsburgh to Easton, Pa., at a cost in excess of $200,000,000 and the Baltimore Pennsylvania promptly filed opposing reports.

All three opponents were represented at today's hearing.

Mr. Loree, whose own railroad has recently indicated a disposition to take over the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh line, told of the project for using the new enterprise to make up a New York-Chicago route. He did not say whether new construction west of Pittsburgh was contemplated, but declared careful investigation had established the practicability of the plan. No financial arrangements had been made, he said, but he expressed the opinion that the Harriman estate, which had acquired the Pittsburgh company's charter in 1908, could undertake the task.

F. A. Molter and W. B. Harris, engineering witnesses, took up construction and traffic prospects. Mr. Harris estimating that a 3 per cent. per annum increase in traffic volume was the minimum that could be expected in the future. This would guarantee business for support of the new project, he insisted, though on cross examination he said that his investigations had never gone into detail as to what commodities and distances the freight offered the new road would involve.

FUNERAL OF SENATOR ROBERT M. LAFOLLETTE

MADISON, Wis., June 22.—(A. P.)—In an unmarked plot on a green hillside the body of Robert Marion LaFollette, today found rest eternal. A sturdy oak stands sentinel at his grave.

Picturing Senator LaFollette as "the embattled prophet of a new democracy," Dr. A. E. Hayden, of Chicago, said that to remember him would be "to be true to his vision of that democracy as he was true."

Dr. Hayden promised in the final prayer that the senator's people would carry forward the fight where he had in death left it off.

Although the funeral was one of the state's the service was as simple as might have been for the humblest child. The plain casket, covered by an American flag, reposed in a semi-circle of flowers and palms. At the right sat the members of the senator's family and at the left were senators and representatives forming the congressional committee of honor. Behind these in places around the well of the rotunda were members of the supreme court, the state legislature, honorary pallbearers and members of the Dane County Bar association, of which Mr. LaFollette had been a member.

Bearing up bravely under her sorrow, Mrs. LaFollette entered the rotunda with her sons, Robert, Jr., and Philip, on either side, and maintained her composure throughout the service. Besides her boys, she was accompanied by her two daughters and their husbands and a sister of the senator.

When the service had ended, the casket was borne along the corridors and down the long stairway to the east entrance between thousands who stood uncovered.

Then began the journey to Forest Hill cemetery along the shore of Lake Mendota, where thousands more awaited under the glaring sky. The only service at the grave was a short prayer by Dr. Hayden.

Grouped around the oblong plot were the honorary pall bearers. At the head of the grave, beneath the sheltering branches of the oak tree, stood the widow and her children. It was not until she had turned to leave the spot that Mrs. LaFollette gave visible evidence of her griefs, tears then filling her eyes.

Nearby where the senator was buried are the graves of his mother and father. There were flower-covered, but without mark of identification. Besides the oak, only a small urn stands within the plot.

Sir Alan G. Anderson, Deputy Governor of the Bank of England, Declared Before the International Chamber of of Commerce at Brussels That Until the War Debts Are Out of the Way the Recovery of Overseas Commerce Would Be Impossible.

BRUSSELS, June 22.—(AP)—The important bearing the early settlement of war debts has upon the economic situation of the world was again emphasized at the congress of the International Chamber of Commerce today. Sir Alan G. Anderson, deputy governor of the Bank of England, speaking on shipping problems, declared that until the debts were out of the way the recovery of the languishing maritime trade would be impossible.

The British delegate bore rather harshly upon government-owned shipping, asserting that it was partly responsible for world trade stagnation and furnishing figures to show how profitless it was. Australia, he said, lost £11,000,000 on her fleet, the United States £34,000,000, Canada £6,250,000, and France £3,500,000.

"National maritime fleets," continued Sir Alan, "are an expensive luxury. Flag discrimination is more dangerous and catching than the plague. Even were these evils removed, there remained enough other ways in which governments can hamper the freedom of overseas commerce."

Sir Alan was understood by some of the delegates to allude in his reference to "flag discrimination" to the attitude of the United States in reserving coastal trade strictly to American vessels. A reply will be forthcoming from the American delegation if any specific reference to that question is made during the congress.

The British representative said that if world trade returned to the point where it stood before the war there would be enough work for the entire world's tonnage, but twelve million tons of shipping was laid up, while some owners were breaking up their ships. The world carrying trade had decreased 22 per cent. as compared with 1913, while tonnage had increased ten million tons.

COOLIDGE WILL LEAVE WASHINGTON TODAY

WASHINGTON, June 23.—(AP)—The presidential desk was cleared today and Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge were ready for their departure tomorrow afternoon for the summer White House at Swampscott, Mass.

Although expecting to be gone for two months, the president had a relatively light day, having previously disposed of practically all current business. His time was devoted chiefly to receiving government officers, saying goodbye, and in cleaning up current business, and tonight he addressed the semi-annual government business meeting.

Everett Sanders, secretary to the president, and Edward T. Clark, his personal secretary, will accompany Mr. Coolidge to his summer retreat, with a corps of White House employes sufficient to carry on such business as the president finds necessary.

Colonel S. A. Cheney, military aide to the president, and Major J. F. Coupal, the president's physician, will accompany Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge on the train. Mrs. Sanders also will be a member of the presidential party. The train will leave tomorrow afternoon and arrive in Salem, Mass., early Wednesday morning. The four mile trip from there to Swampscott will be made by motor.

President Coolidge's only engagement tomorrow is with the cabinet, which meets then in its last regular session probably until fall.

PLEASED BRITISH MEMBERS AT W. C. T. U. CONVENTION

EDINBURGH, Scotland, June 22.—(AP)—James Cavender, chief of police of Des Moines, Iowa, the first man to speak at the session of the Women's Christian Temperance Union here, upset the convention's schedule today when the British delegates refused to allow him to stop speaking. Cavender enlarged upon the great decrease in arrests for drunkenness in Des Moines during the past decade, although he explained, instead of arresting only those "unable to wiggle their toes," smelled of alcohol or was in possession of a bottle was placed under arrest now."

Cries of "go on. This is what we want to hear," came from the British delegates when the chair called time. Cavender kept on for a while longer, and arrangements have been made for him to address the British women tomorrow morning. He is conducting a special investigation of crime in Great Britain.

$10,000 AWARD AGAINST THE MALLORY STEAMSHIP LINES

NEW YORK, June 22.—(AP)—One phase of the liability of managing operators of United States shipping board vessels was settled for the first time today in the U. S. district court when a jury awarded $10,000 damages to B. B. & R. Knight, a subsidiary of the Consolidated Textile company, against the Mallory Steamship lines.

Testimony showed that the Conoton, one of the company's steamers, was six months late in delivering a cargo of cotton to Boston, during which period there was a depreciation in the market value of the cargo. The shipping board was made the joint defendant but the Mallory company alone was held liable.

Judge Grubb, of Alabama, substituting in the district court, heard the case.

FOUND 20 STOWAWAYS ON THE PRESIDENT WILSON

NEW YORK, June 22.—(AP)—Odd, the "stowaway hound," of the President Wilson, arrived today with a record of having uncovered 20 stowaways in one voyage. According to Captain Zar of the liner, the dog, when he discovers a stowaway, growls like a bloodhound, his fur stands up straight like an Airedale, and his nose, like that of a pointer, shows the way.

The 20 stowaways were transferred at sea to a ship returning to Italy. Odd's ability is credited with saving the ship company $20,000 in possible immigration fines.

PLANNING POLAR FLIGHT IN A SMALL DIRIGIBLE

LIVERPOOL, June 22—(A. P.)—Grettir Algarsson, of Victoria, B. C., explorer, who has been planning an effort to reach the North Pole in a small dirigible, sailed from the Mersey this afternoon in which he said was an attempt to reach the "farthest north."

Algarsson said he would not attempt to fly to the North Pole, but would attempt to reach the most Northern point of any Arctic expedition this year.

FIVE ALARM FIRE ON THE EAST BOSTON WATER FRONT

BOSTON, June 22.—(AP)—Five alarms were sounded for a fire which broke out late this afternoon in the Mason Company lumber yard on the East Boston water front. Apparatus from all parts of the city was dispatched to the scene.

The blaze started in the two story wooden building of the Harris Chemical company, spread to a storehouse of the firm and then into the lumber yard in the rear. Roaring from one stack of piled timber to another, the flames leaped to the four story brick factory building nearby, which is occupied by five firms.

All of these buildings were totally destroyed but two hours after the fire was discovered the firemen believed they had checked its further spread. The roof of the factory building collapsed but warning had been given and no casualties have been reported.

More than fifty factory employes, including a score of girls were assisted from the burning building by the firemen. Occupants fled a half dozen tenements in the vicinity when sparks ignited the roofs. These scattered fires were extinguished with small damage.

The total loss was estimated at $150,000, most of which was sustained by the lumber company which also owned the factory building. The Gem Theatre, two blocks away, and police station even further distant, were among the buildings slightly damaged when flying sparks ignited the roofs. Three firemen were slightly injured when the walls of the factory fell. Besides all the apparatus which could be crowded on the scene, fire boats along the water front brought streams to bear.

DEATH OF FORMER GOV. PHINEAS C. LOUNSBURY

RIDGEFIELD, Conn., June 22.—(AP)—Former Governor Phineas C. Lounsbury died at his home, Grove Lawn's here, early this morning. He suffered a heart attack a few weeks ago. He was Governor of Connecticut from 1887 to 1889.

Mr. Lounsbury was born in Ridgefield about 80 years ago. He came of family stock which had settled Ridgefield. He was brought up as a farmer but later turned to banking and finance and during his life was intimately connected with many financial institutions, some of these until his death.

The funeral of the former governor will be held from his home on Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, standard time, and it will in a sense be a public funeral in that those who care to go so may attend.

Grove Lawn is so spacious that the relatives decided that it could better accommodate those who wish to attend the services than a church here. The arrangements for the services otherwise, have not yet been made.

GIRL SUICIDED BECAUSE OF LOSING INVESTMENT

NEW YORK, June 22.—(AP)—Despondent because of the failure of a corporation in which she invested savings with which she hoped to complete her education, Rose Freedman, 22, a medal student, today committed suicide in a West Side rooming house by swallowing poison.

She was said to be the daughter of a former millionaire Australian lumberman whose fortune was swept away after the war. Determined to finance her own education, the girl came to the United States and by working days managed to attend the City College of New York evenings.

FEAR CAPT. HALVERSON HAS BEEN DROWNED

NEW LONDON, June 22.—(AP)—It is feared here that Captain Alex Halverson, of the yacht Jeannette, who has been missing since last Thursday, has been drowned. Captain Halverson came ashore late in the afternoon and arranged to have a boat at the pier at 10 o'clock to take him back to the yacht. The boat was at the pier at the appointed time but the captain failed to appear. The police have been unable to find any trace of him since that time.

THREAD CO. GETS JUDGMENT IN 28 OUT OF 79 CASES

WILLIMANTIC, June 23.—Judgment was rendered for the plaintiff, in twenty-six of the seventy-nine process cases, involving the American Thread Company versus tenants on mill property. Notices were served a week ago Monday on the former operatives of the company to vacate the tenements which had originally been ordered vacated June 3, the legal period for dispossession being ten days.

The cases were heard before Justice of the Peace Curtis Dean in the town building. Attorney R. O. Wells of Hartford appeared for the company. The tenants did not retain counsel. Charles Lucas acted as interpreter for many who could not speak English. During the two hour and ten minute session the plaintiff was awarded judgment in twenty-six cases, thirty-eight were dismissed and fifteen were continued. It was shown in most of the dismissed cases that the tenants had not moved, due to illness. In most of the cases where judgment was given the occupants stated that they had sought in vain to find other tenements and many had difficulty in meeting landlords who would rent their houses to large families. Many strikers have families numbering ten and twelve, a number of the children being under age. In other cases the mothers appeared to inform the court that the husbands were seeking work out of town and had not had the opportunity to move. Two of the strikers asked why they did not return to work, stated that they were afraid to be beaten up and one man asked to be given one week to make up his mind. Five defendants failed to answer to their names. One family has moved out of town and left the household furniture in a company house. Other tenants said that they would go back to work if the ten per cent. cut was restored. This led Attorney Wells to have the interpreter state for all to hear that there was absolutely no chance of a return of the ten per cent. The company was now in a position where it needed its tenements for other employees and the execution of eviction would be put into effect in a day or two on those who had no right to be occupying the tenements.

Quick Quaker cooks in 3 to 5 minutes
The right summer breakfast . . . no hot kitchens

HEATING your kitchen on summer mornings is a folly. Cook now the vigor food men like and children need without fuss or bother.

Oats and milk . . . that's the right hot day starter.

Quick Quaker makes it easy.

Cooks in 3 to 5 minutes. Doesn't heat the kitchen. Keeps the family well protected against hot weather drain . . . and you against its bothers.

All that rich flavor of Quaker Oats is there. Quaker cooks faster. That's the only difference.

Danielson will make [illegible] Monday morning [illegible] to be on the lookout [illegible] spot. The police have [illegible] able to ride on [illegible] of goods—when the [illegible] not looking. Chief [illegible] instructed Monday morning [illegible] ability be given [illegible] fact that [illegible] are raiding [illegible] here, and that [illegible] have managed within a few days to get away with goods of value, [illegible] evolution in another [illegible] from honesty to crookedness [illegible] that one wants without [illegible] or buying for it. Evolution appears to be a burn proposition from almost any viewpoint, though it is more, or less not so good, it appears, than other three or four million years. Need or entertain the officers and enlisted personnel of the Service battery, of Danielson, on the night of July 1, when the battery will be enroute in a fleet of motor trucks from this place to Tobyhanna, Pa., for the annual period of field service.

Being entertained by the chief of police of Danbury doesn't by any means indicate apprehension of the entire battery for any breach of the law or because Danbury fears an invasion by Connecticut troops. Far from it.

It means a real welcome to a sister town of the state and very special privileges. It so happens that the chief of police of Danbury and the commander of Battery D, 103d, Field artillery, of which the Service battery is a unit, is one and the same person. He is Captain Schroen, a friend of Captain F. O. Armington of the Danielson company. It also happens that the men of the Service battery and the men of Battery D are very chummy, and have been for years past at their annual encampments.

So when the boys from Danielson day's run of over 100 miles from their arrive at Danbury after their first lunch station the prospect of many of the duties that would naturally fall to them in camping at the Danbury drill grounds will be displaced by a program of entertainment. Their uniforms will permit of their riding without charge on the trolley lines of the city and likewise will afford them free admission to the theaters. And also the officers and men from Danielson will be guests of Captain Schroen at a banquet to be given in their honor at the Danbury armory. That's the way Danbury plans to do things. It must be a regular town with regular people. One can almost hear the representatives of Danielson cheering now, but the Lord only knows whether they chief of police or for Captain Schroen are "hollering the loudest" for the They're both good fellows.

Here is The Bulletin's own forecast for July. It is uncopyrighted and appears only in this paper. It is guaranteed absolutely reliable: Strange it may seem, there will be 31 days in July of this year. The month will open on Wednesday. From the first to the Fourth there will be great scurrying around, a hurly burly of preparation and more or less neglect of regular duty. The moon will be full on the 5th, just two days, or possibly only one, later than the same achievement is accomplished by thousands who are inclined that way. From the Fourth to the 7th dry period—most people having made some mid-year New Year's resolutions which should endure until the next heat wave. From the 8th to 13th storm period during which many will be engaged in straightening out the indiscretions into which their holiday excesses have led them.

From the 13th to 17th lazy period with hot weather and hot tamales running wild. A number of games will be played in the American league during this period. Clambake season in full flower.

About the 18th and extending to the 23 cool period, induced by arguments over vacation, trips and allowances among family members. Treasurer of family funds holding out, on account of losses in poker game.

The 25th to 31st will be the most peaceful of the month. Everybody exhausted, tired of work and worn down through weeks of shuffling the cards so the breaks will come right for August—last month of the general vacation season.

The weather will be as usual, without snowstorms or cold waves.

One must rise early if he would be first to read The Bulletin in Danielson on its arrival here each morning. It is getting in now at 5:25 a. m. This arrangement began Monday morning, when the milk and baggage car that is all that remains of the boat train arrived here attached to what local people know as the boat freight.

ESCAPED NORWICH PATIENT ACCOSTS STATE OFFICER

Danielson, June 23.—If you must run around hatless and coatless at 2 o'clock in the morning, brandishing a club and threatening in manner intended to scare the average human being out of his skin, don't try it on a state officer. That's what Herbert Russell, age about 25 years in the wee small hours of Monday morning, and now he is back at the state hospital at Norwich.

State Officer Edward Streamens, of the Danielson barracks was riding south about 2 o'clock Monday morning on his way to Moosup, when he encountered a strange character brandishing a club at him from a position in the center of the state highway near the Wauregan school. The man, without hat or coat, wanted him to stop and the officer was very accommodating.

Officer Streamens hopped out to see what all the excitement was about. His uniform, not to mention his courage, seemed to awe the strange figure who obligingly surrendered his dangerous weapon and proceeded to answer questions as to what his strange demeanor was all about.

The officer did not make much out of his strange customer for a moment or two, answers to his queries being more or less irrelevant and incoherent. Stumped for a time the officer, taking a long shot, inquired: "Did you ever live in Norwich?"

The strange one brightened up a bit and replied: "I lived there—patient til last Friday, but I don't like that town."

The officer had guessed right, sensing that he had encountered an escaped inmate from Norwich State hospital.

Russell admitted that he had made his way out of the retreat for the insane last Friday and since has roamed along the Quinebaug valley, sleeping in barns and eating from garbage cans as opportunity offered. This strange man had been reported during the week end as loitering about places in Central Village and other parts of the town of Plainfield. He is a half breed, with negro and Indian blood, and was committed to the institution at Norwich from Norfolk, this state.

Officer Streemens did not deny him the automobile ride he appeared to crave. Russell was taken into the officer's car and the machine headed for Norwich. In that city Officer Streamens stopped to buy the man a feed. What Russell disposed of was a caution—three orders of ham and eggs, four coffee cakes, five cups of coffee and two glasses of water. That's the kind of an appetite one gets by roaming around at night without a hat or coat. Having given Russell his fill, the officer took him over to the hospital and turned him in.

THE PRESIDENT'S GOAL

In his address to the business organization of the government, those who are responsible to a large degree for the successful operation of the budget system, President Coolidge took occasion to emphasize the fact that "Fidelity to our oaths of office admit of no other course" than the prosecution of a campaign of relentless economy and well did he point out that "if this policy means sacrifice, it is sacrifice for the benefit of 115,000,000 people." That means of course getting down to brass tacks and doing their duty. There is the interest of the whole people to be considered and respected.

President Coolidge showed with telling effect that in the four years the budget system has been in operation the annual expenditures have been reduced $2,981,000,000 and the public debt decreased $3,428,000,000. That has meant a lowering of the interest account by $130,000,000 of which $20,000,000 a year decrease is due to the fact that our securities have been decreased, and fittingly does he say that $38,000,000 a year is good pay for a sound policy."

The president got down to cold fact in making his statement of the situation as it exists and setting before those who have anything to do with spending what is expected of them. He calls for inflexible support of the administration's policies and insists that it is not solely the cutting down of expenditures that is sought, but through that to make possible the reduction in taxation, the direct beneficiaries of which are "those who file the federal tax returns. The indirect beneficiaries are all the rest of the American people, who must and do make an indirect contribution to the payment of the enormous sum of more than $10,000,000 every day in the year which goes out from the national treasury."

The president has previously said that his aim was to give the people more money. This would be accomplished through lowered taxes, but to the budget gathering he further said: "We are seeking to let those who earn money keep more of it for themselves and give less of it to the government. This means better business, more of the comforts of life, general economic improvement, larger opportunity for education and a greater freedom of all the people. It is the high privilege of the people of this country to spend their own money."

Hearty endorsement will be given to these statements from all sections of the country. There is no more laudable aim than the reduction of taxation and it is to be fondly hoped that the policy of the federal administration will in time percolate through and make a much needed impression upon state governments and local governments. The president has set a most worthy goal. It is in keeping with public demand.

THE WINTER'S COAL

For the past few months there are those who have given freely of their advice, offered from positions of advantage, to guard against the embarrassments of other winters by putting the winter's supply of coal in early.

Such advice is not required by many who have long followed such a policy. It is not needed by those who were caught napping during certain coal shortages and it ought not to be required by those who stop to realize that during the spring, summer and fall months that the transportation and delivery of coal can be accomplished to the best advantage.

The advice to fill the bins has come from such authorities as fuel administrators, or those who formerly held such offices, and their warning, in addition to the general desirability of such action, was largely based upon the fact that the agreement between the operators and the miners expires with August and there is no telling how long a time will be necessitated in reaching a new one.

A meeting of the miners is to be held this month to formulate their demands. There is talk of a demand for a 15 to 20 per cent. wage increase, while the operators are expected to seek a 10 per cent. reduction. How long it will require to come to an understanding, whether the consumer gets any consideration or not, no one would dare guess. It is quite evident that those who can and do fill their bins will have nothing to worry about. Past experiences bring heavy pressure to bear on the importance of self protection.

ITALY'S PROPER MOVE

When Italy decides to send a commission to this country at an early date for the purpose of discussing the terms under which the indebtedness to the United States can be refunded, it is a welcome decision and indicates a desire on the part of that country to meet its obligations at best it can.

Italy has been wrestling with its financial problems. It has not gotten out of the trouble as yet but it recognizes the fact that there should be no further delay in coming to an understanding. That is to its credit and all do the first that it is getting with-that, but how about the others! I believe injustice done the property owners will only be multiplied by the method adopted. The new purchasers and owners of new homes in the meantime will be paying on much higher valuation before all property is revalued. It may take years to do something if it took 50 years to do nothing. We have fire department up to date with many trucks and automobiles which only protect the fire insurance companies. Street department got trucks and automobiles, telephone, gas and electric. Police department has autos or patrol wagon. How do we expect our assessors to go around the city and town to view different parcels of property without a single car? How long will we have to wait for readjustment if they have to walk?

I live beyond the city limits and I am taxed an additional amount by the water department besides the meter charge. My neighbor pays additional too but only one fifth the amount charged to me. Is the water coming into my house any better? Answer this if you can.

A property owner who collects rents puts up the rent when the tax goes up. But the man who occupies his home and is taxed far beyond the amount assessed on like property simply must pay the increased tax himself, pay the interest to the bank for mortgage and in fact hundreds of other expenses.

Let's give the laboring man a chance to live; and above all let's have equity in all the property assessments in the town and city of Norwich.

DANIEL KUDLIK

Stories That Recall Others

A Safe Way

A western automobile organization in its safety first drive has resorted to poetry. One of the rhymes conspicuously displayed along the highway reads:

Stop! And let the train go by—
It hardly takes a minute:
Your car starts out again intact,
And better still—you're in it.

Yes, the Devil, Probably

George, age two, talks very plainly despite his years. His parents took him to church one night recently and the preacher turned exhorter before the services were concluded and his strenuous gestures included clinched fists vigorously shaken in the air. The little boy watched him earnestly and then spoke right out in "meeting". "Is he going to fight, mamma?" he demanded.

SENATOR EDWIN F. LADD

Just as the last rites were being performed for Senator LaFollette of Wisconsin death again invaded the United States senate and removed Senator Edwin F. Ladd of North Dakota, another of the insurgent group.

Senator Ladd was serving his first term in congress having been elected by the non-partisan league. He was a New Englander by birth and following his college course had devoted many years to chemistry in state experiment stations and agricultural colleges. He was a writer on chemistry and had come into high standing in his adopted state through his institutional activities. He was carried into political office during the period when the non-partisan activities were at their height in the northwest. When he organized with the republicans on going to the senate he came under the sway of the LaFollette influence and was numbered among the radical group in the republican organization.

When it came time for the republicans to read the insurgents out of the party Senator Ladd was included amongst them. He was the one who probably resented this action the most. He was disposed to combat the move and to endeavor to retain his position within the lines but without changing his tactics. This was even after his state had shown itself strong for the president. His death strikes another blow to the radical group.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Revaluation

Mr. Editor: May I have a few lines in your valuable paper to express certain facts regarding the valuation of property in Norwich, as we are in need of a thorough readjustment of our taxation system. At the last town meeting the citizens voted an increase in salary to our assessors. They themselves asked for assistance of an expert who has the proper charts, etc., and we refused them this. Do we expect an expert over night?

The help the assessors asked for was refused because of the talk and work of the minority members of the special committee. Can anyone build a skyscraper or a battleship without special plans, charts, specifications, etc?

It's a disgrace to the people of Norwich to stand for such a menace any longer and neglect one of the most important offices in the town where truth, justice, equity and fair dealing should prevail.

Prejudice, distrust and hatred should have no rightful place in democracy.

The writer is assessed on his home of five rooms at $4,000 when some new homes larger and more valuable are in the list at $1,500, some two family new homes at $1,800 and less and some are not in the list at all. Where is the fair play?

Is that the new system going on? Assessors told me they put in fair value on my home. I do not dispute

Mr. Black Snake Didn't Stop to Make His Dinner of Smarty Chipmunk Right Where He Caught Him.

If poor little Smarty Chipmunk, being carried away by Mr. Black Snake, didn't know that all that noise being made by the chattering neighborhood might bring help to him, Mr. Black Snake knew it very well. It had happened before. That is why Mr. Black Snake didn't stop to make his dinner of Smarty Chipmunk right where he caught him. He wanted to get out of sight. And so he was going right straight for the old stone wall as fast as he could, carrying Little Smarty Chipmunk with him.

Now just by good luck it happened that Farmer Brown's Boy was coming through the Old Orchard just at the time that Smarty Chipmunk was caught on the sunny bank at the edge of the Green Forest. Farmer Brown's Boy had heard Striped and Mrs. Chipmunk making a great fuss, but he didn't think anything of it until he heard the birds begin to scream and saw them hurrying over to the edge of the Green Forest.

Farmer Brown's Boy stopped and listened for a moment. "That means trouble," said he, "and I've got three guesses as to what that trouble is. It is Reddy Fox or Black Pussy or Mr. Black Snake, and my guess is that it is Mr. Black Snake. Probably he has been robbing a nest. I must teach that old robber to keep away from the Old Orchard."

So Farmer Brown's Boy began to run toward the scene of all that fuss. Kitty the Cat Bird saw him coming. Her nest was in the bushes along the old stone wall not far distant, and in that nest were four precious eggs. So Kitty was most anxious that Mr. Black Snake should be driven away. She flew a little way to meet Farmer Brown's Boy and went back into a bush right above Mr. Black Snake.

Farmer Brown's Boy knew right away just where to look. He stopped long enough to cut a long switch and then he made his way in amongst the bushes. Mr. Black Snake had heard him coming, and had coiled. He still held Smarty Chipmunk. Farmer Brown's Boy gave a whistle of surprise that carried away by Mr. Black Snake, didn't know that all that noise being made by the chattering neighborhood might bring help to him. Mr. Black Snake had heard him coming, and had coiled. He still held Smarty Chipmunk. Farmer Brown's Boy gave a whistle of surprise that but how about the others! I believe injustice done the property owners will only be multiplied by the method adopted. The new purchasers and owners of new homes in the meantime will be paying on much higher valuation before all property is revalued. It may take years to do something if it took 50 years to do nothing. We have fire department up to date with many trucks and automobiles which only protect the fire insurance companies. Street department got trucks and automobiles, telephone, gas and electric. Police department has autos or patrol wagon. How do we expect our assessors to go around the city and town to view different parcels of property without a single car? How long will we have to wait for readjustment if they have to walk?

I live beyond the city limits and I am taxed an additional amount by the water department besides the meter charge. My neighbor pays additional too but only one fifth the amount charged to me. Is the water coming into my house any better? Answer this if you can.

A property owner who collects rents puts up the rent when the tax goes up. But the man who occupies his home and is taxed far beyond the amount assessed on like property simply must pay the increased tax himself, pay the interest to the bank for mortgage and in fact hundreds of other expenses.

Let's give the laboring man a chance to live; and above all let's have equity in all the property assessments in the town and city of Norwich.

Stories That Recall Others

A Safe Way

A western automobile organization in its safety first drive has resorted to poetry. One of the rhymes conspicuously displayed along the highway reads:

Stop! And let the train go by—
It hardly takes a minute:
Your car starts out again intact,
And better still—you're in it.

Yes, the Devil, Probably

George, age two, talks very plainly despite his years. His parents took him to church one night recently and the preacher turned exhorter before the services were concluded and his strenuous gestures included clinched fists vigorously shaken in the air. The little boy watched him earnestly and then spoke right out in "meeting". "Is he going to fight, mamma?" he demanded.

WESTERLY GARAGE AND 25 AUTOMOBILES BURNED

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, June 22—The Westerly garage at 33 Main street owned by the estate of B. Court Bentley and occupied by Frank H. Crandal as a garage and paint shop was practically destroyed by fire tonight with about 25 automobiles it contained. The loss is estimated at $50,000, partly covered by insurance.

The fire was discovered shortly after 11 o'clock, when the flames were seen on the second floor above the main entrance of the combined combination brick and wooden structure, located at the corner of Main and Union streets. The fire alarm from Box 52, brought the Westerly department under Acting Chief Robert Bonner in the absence of Frank H. Crandall as a garage who was attending the convention of the New England fire chiefs in Pittsfield, Mass. When the firemen arrived the whole top floor was a raging furnace, with flames shooting out of each of the second story windows. The Ahrens-Fox pumper was taken down Vincent lane and located on the dock of the Pawcatuck river and two lines of hose were laid to the fire.

Later another alarm was sounded from the whistle of the Pawcatuck fire district at the Dress Works of the C. B. Cottrell and Sons company and the P. S. Barber Hose company responded under Fire Chief Pierce Harrison, who came with their hose wagon to assist the Westerly firemen.

Frequently explosions were heard, sending showers of sparks skyward, the flames leaping hundreds of feet above the burning structure, lighting up the neighborhood for miles around. The flames ate their way through the oil soaked floor to the one below, which was soon a roaring furnace, extending back through the wooden ell at the rear occupied as a machine shop. The adjoining two and a half wooden frame building occupied also by the garage as a storehouse for accessories caught fire at the Northerly end but was quickly put out. Three lines of hose were directed at the building from Union street, two from Main street front and three on the rear.

Another garage, situated in the rear of the burned building, occupied by C. B. Bliven, was not set afire by the flying sparks. The automobiles stored in the building were taken out in case the building became afire.

COMMDNT, WILBUR ENDS ARMY WORK TONIGHT

Commandant E. W. Wilbur will conduct his last service tonight (Tuesday) in charge of the Norwich citadel of the Salvation Army. Capt. and Mrs. Cashman will come here from Putnam Wednesday and will conduct their first services on Thursday.

Commandant Wilbur has put in seven years in Norwich in the Salvation Army work, having had three different appointments here, an unusual thing in Salvation Army records.

There is but $175 more needed to reach the $4,000 goal for the home service fund and the commandant hopes that his friends and those interested in the Army work will put that amount in his hands today in cash or in pledges. He hates to feel that he is defeated in his last campaign and he believes the friends of the Army will not let that happen.

Flowers For Kennedy Funeral.

MADE THRILLING RESCUE AT OCEAN BEACH

Two thrilling rescues at Ocean Beach were made Sunday afternoon by Life Guards Howard Corey and Jack Rose, who saved from drowning a small boy and a woman who had been drawn out of their depth by the suction from the propellors of the Nereco while the boat was at the dock with its engines running.

Both life lines were snapped by the strong undertow and the woman and the boy sent up yells that attracted the attention of the two guards. Corey reached the boy who was about 25 feet out, and Rose got hold of the woman, but neither guard could make any progress towards shore against the swirl of the waters. Corey managed to hold the boy up till Guard Daniels reached him with a boat into which the boy was lifted. Corey then went to the help of Rose who was about exhausted by his struggles to keep the woman afloat. Together they held her up till she, too, was taken into the boat. But for the timely help that Guard Daniels gave with the boat it is believed that the other two men could not have got their helpless charges ashore and some lives might have been lost.

A man named Merriam, who is said to be a school janitor, also went into the water and rescued a frightened bather.

MARRIED AT QUAKER HILL FIFTY YEARS AGO

SAINT'S DATE FESTA BY ITALIAN RESIDENTS

Street parades, a band concert, bombs and a brilliant display of fireworks on Monday comprised the celebration of Saint Maria of Soveresi Day by the Italian residents of Norwich. It was an all day celebration, starting at 6 o'clock in the morning when a score of bombs were set off on Edward's Hill. At 9 o'clock the Italian band gave a short street parade through the center of the city and up Broadway to St. Patrick's church where mass was celebrated. After the mass the procession went to the Franklin street park where a brief band concert was given.

At 12 o'clock sharp there was another score of bombs fired at Edward's Hill and heard all over the city. Starting at 5 o'clock there was another parade by the Italian band through the central section of the city and up Franklin street to the Boswell avenue park. Beginning at 8 o'clock the Italian band gave a splendid concert at the park which was gaily decorated with lighted lanterns. The park was crowded throughout the concert which lasted an hour and a half and scores of automobile parties were parked on Franklin street and up Boswell avenue. The concert programme was as follows:

1—Military March, "Salaam Temple," J. G. Morell; 2—Gazza ladra, Overture, G. Rossini; 3—Traviata "Grand Selection" G. Verdi; 4—Tiina, "Fox Trot," L. After the concert there was a very brilliant display of fire works on Edward's Hill starting promptly at 10 o'clock and lasting about a half hour. It was one of the finest pyrotechnique displays ever seen in the city. There were set pieces and sky rockets and bombs galore and heard from a distance the fireworks programme gave the impression that a gigantic battle was being waged between conflicting forces. The final number on the fireworks programme was a noisy but very beautiful one and could be seen and heard from all sections of the city. The celebration came to a glorious and noisy end about 10:30 o'clock.

The committee incharge of the day comprised the following:

WASHINGTON WINS VARSITY RACE

POUGHKEEPSIE, N. Y., June 22—(A. P.)—At a gray twilight settled softly across the historic stretches of the Hudson river late this afternoon, a navy crew, championing the cities of the West, shouted its way to a thrilling triumph over six other college crews in the 4one mile varsity race, blue ribbon event of the 25th annual regatta of the intercollegiate rowing association. A boat load of huskies from the University of Washington trailed the muddy shell across the finish line by three quarters of a length, with the University of Wisconsin third, seven lengths behind the flying leaders.

But Washington's defeat in the varsity event was partially vindicated by a crack junior varsity eight which swept its way to an impressive victory in the "J. V." race, leading Cornell's crew across the wire by three quarters of a length of open water. Pennsylvania finished third in this event, two lengths behind Cornell.

The East triumphed in the freshman event when Jim Ten Eyck's crack yearling crew from Syracuse University led a parade of five shells to the finish, winning by a length and one half.

The varsity race, from the start, was a two-boat affair, with the naval academy and the Washington shells jockeying for position right to the wire, in as gruelling a test as has been seen on the Atlantic seaboard this year. Pennsylvania was up in the running for a brief period to the half mile mark, but found the terrific pace set by the leaders too tiring and dropped back to a poor third. The Wisconsin crew, last away from the starting wire, crawled along in last place until the crews passed the railroad bridge, one mile from the finish, when a terrific spurt carried them by the second division field and they finished ahead of Pennsylvania, which had held third place for more than three quarters of the race.

A slight drizzle of rain fell just after the crews got to the starting line and continued during most of the race, abating soon after the crews completed the four miles.

NAME OF LLOYD JARVIS OMITTED THROUGH OVERSIGHT

In the list of letter men of the Academy baseball team who will attend the Academy banquet this evening, the name of Lloyd Jarvis, pitching ace of the team this season was omitted through an oversight. The banquet would be a sad affair if Lloyd was not present for it was his sturdy left arm that pitched the Academy team to its championship. The pitching of Jarvis was the outstanding feature of the season and this lad pitched himself into the hearts of all followers of the high school team. Not only did Lloyd pitch brilliant ball but it was his hitting that won many a ball game and he is given credit for being the most valuable player on the squad this season.

AMERICANS FARE WELL IN WIMBLEDON TENNIS

WIMBLEDON, June 22.—(AP)—Americans did fairly well in the first round of the British tennis championships today, five of the nine entered passing into the second round. Among the winners were the two young stars, Ray Casey of San Francisco, and John Hennessey of Indianapolis, who put away a pair of Dutch opponents without much trouble.

Hennessey beat his man, Vanderfeen of Holland, 6-3, 4-6, 6-1, 6-2; and the young Californian player eliminated C. Bryant, of Holland, 6-3, 2-6, 6-0, 6-3.

Upon Casey and Hennessey devolves the task of carrying on the American tradition at Wimbledon and whatever hopes there are for an American to reach this year's finals are pinned upon one of the other of these two youths.

Although neither Casey nor Hennessey was extended to the limit of their play today, they gave the Wimbledon critics, to whom they are unknown, a sufficient display of their tennis wares to carry out the promise of their performances at Eastbourne last week in the international matches with the British team.

Hennessey, particularly, is regarded as dangerous and it would not be surprising to find him matched against the agile Borotra of France, or the steady going Frenchman, Lacoste before the tournament is completed.

AMERICANS FARE WELL IN WIMBLEDON TENNIS

WIMBLEDON, June 22.—(AP)—Americans did fairly well in the first round of the British tennis championships today, five of the nine entered passing into the second round. Among the winners were the two young stars, Ray Casey of San Francisco, and John Hennessey of Indianapolis, who put away a pair of Dutch opponents without much trouble.

Hennessey beat his man, Vanderfeen of Holland, 6-3, 4-6, 6-1, 6-2; and the young Californian player eliminated C. Bryant, of Holland, 6-3, 2-6, 6-0, 6-3.

Upon Casey and Hennessey devolves the task of carrying on the American tradition at Wimbledon and whatever hopes there are for an American to reach this year's finals are pinned upon one of the other of these two youths.

Although neither Casey nor Hennessey was extended to the limit of their play today, they gave the Wimbledon critics, to whom they are unknown, a sufficient display of their tennis wares to carry out the promise of their performances at Eastbourne last week in the international matches with the British team.

Hennessey, particularly, is regarded as dangerous and it would not be surprising to find him matched against the agile Borotra of France, or the steady going Frenchman, Lacoste before the tournament is completed.

TIGERS WIN THIRD GAME OF SERIES WITH RED SOX

BOSTON, June 22.—(AP)—The Detroit Tigers cleaned up the three game series with the Boston Red Sox by winning today, 8 to 4, behind the steady pitching of Whitehill. An unusual feature was the non-issuance of any base on balls by the winning pitcher. Errors by Lee and Wambsganss were partly responsible for three Detroit runs in the second inning. In their first eastern trip Detroit had a record of nine wins and six reverses. Score:

FINANCE AND COMMERCE

MARKET WAS IRREGULAR

NEW YORK, June 22—(A. P.)—Marking up of the call money rate from 3 3-4 to 4 and thence to 4 1-2 per cent. inspired sufficient selling to turn the course of prices downwards towards the close of today's stock market. Previously, the market had drifted within narrow and irregular limits. Although bullish demonstrations had been successfully staged in about a dozen issues, including a few motors and public utilities. The rise in call money was attributed to the calling of loans by out of town banks.

There was little in today's trade news to affect market sentiment. Commodity markets were irregular. Cotton futures opened higher but cancelled all their gains in the late wave of selling, while wheat was reactionary most of the day. French exchange sank to the lowest level since March, 1924, on selling pressure by inspired by the views expressed by foreign business men and financiers at the meeting of the International Chamber of Commerce in Brussels.

Du Pont responded to the declaration of a 40 per cent. stock dividend by mounting to a new high record at 188 1-2 but it broke 5 points from the top on profit taking, closing 1 1-2 points net lower.

Special strength developed in several of the motors. Buying, apparently based on expectations of an increased dividend this year, sent General Motors up one point to a new high record at 88, on total transactions of about one hundred thousand shares, or approximately one tenth of the day's entire business. Dodge preferred crossed 23 to a new top and White moved up to within a fraction of the year's high on heavy trading. Mack trucks, Jordan, Chandler, Hoon and Pierce Arrow common each fell back a point or two, while Pierce Arrow preferred and prior preferred lost 3 3-8 and 4 points, respectively.

Equipments were rather heavy throughout on unfavorable trade reports. Union Tank Car broke 5 1-2 points on a few sales, American Locomotive sank 3 3-4 to 114 and losses of a point or so were recovered by Baldwin, American Car and Foundry and Lima Locomotive.

Oils were again slow in responding to favorable production and consumption statistics. Houston St. Chair, and Mid-Continent lost about a point each and most of the others yielded fractionally.

Tobacco stocks moved upward under the leadership of United Cigar stores, which touched a record top at 51 1-2 and then yielded a point on realizing. Tobacco products came within cancelled its gain in the late selling movement.

Robert Weis crossed 2 to a new top a small fraction of the year's high, but and good trading was noted in Brown Shoe, Calumet and Arizona Central Leather preferred Mullins Body and Weber and Heilbronner all up 1 1-2 to nearly two points.

A flurry in call money failed to affect the time money and Commercial Paper rates which remained unchanged at 3 3-4 to 4 per cent.

Reactionary tendencies predominated in the foreign exchange market. Demand sterling was slightly lower around $4.85 7-8 and French francs broke 6 1-2 points to 6.65 and then rallied feebly. Italian lira ruled about 3 1-2 points lower around 3.75 cents.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, June 22—(A. P.)—Increasing receipts of new winter wheat led to lower prices today in the wheat market here despite reports that about every field of spring wheat between Huron, S. D., and Aberdeen, S. D., is infected with black rust. Closing quotations on wheat were unsettled 3-4c to 3c net lower, July 1.53 1-4 to 1.53 5-8 and September 1.52 1-4 to 1.52 3-8. Corn finished at 1 1-4c to 4c down, oats 1 3-8 to 1 5-8 off, and provisions varying from 25c decline to a rise of 10c.

Curtailment of buying power in the wheat trade was apparent from the outset. The lack of aggressive buying was all the more noticeable on account of advices at hand telling of the spread of black rust into one of the heaviest wheat producing regions of South Dakota, and saying that spring wheat elsewhere Northwest was just in condition to be subject to black rust attack. However, speculators appeared for the moment to have transferred their attention chiefly to evidence that the movement of winter wheat to market Southwest had been decidedly enlarged, and was in progress much earlier than usual.

Favorable weather for corn growth in Iowa, Illinois and other important states brought about free selling in the corn market. Oats prices followed the downward decline of wheat and corn.

For the most part, provision traders took their cue from the action of grain.

CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, June 22—(A. P.)—Stock prices turned reactionary towards the close of today's curb market after fluctuating within rather narrow and irregular limits during the early part of the session. Oils were fairly well supported, net losses in the active issues being held to fractions. American Maracaibo showed independent strength by crossing 15 to a new high record for the year.

A strong demand developed for the electrical refrigeration issues Kelvinator touching a record high at 32 3-8 while Nizer and Fleet-it advanced to within a small fraction of their record tops. American Gaseo products, which was offered to the public a few weeks ago at $21 a share, touched a new maximum figure at 51 7-8. Happiness Candy responded to the declaration o fan initial dividend of 25 cents a share by touching a new top at 3. DeForest Radio continued its steady advance by moving up a point to 25 but the other radios showed little change.

Establishment of a new high record by power corporation of New York at 58, an streme gain of 5 1-2 points, featured the Public Utility group. Commonwealth Power and National Power and Light each broke about 4 points while losses of a point or more were recorded by several other issues in that group.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, June 22—(A. P.)—Strength and activity of United States government bonds again was the leading feature of trading in today's irregular bond market. Getting off to a slow start and ignoring the firmer tendency of money rates, three of the liberty issues and the treasury 4s, attracted a growing number of buying orders as the day progressed and broke int onew high ground.

Conflicting price movement marked dealing in the main body of domestic liens. The flurry in oil issues which followed the unexpected victory of the Sinclair interests in the Teapot Dome case continued to invite profit-taking, under which Sinclair Pan-American and Skelly obligations eased off. The decline in Sinclair Consolidated 6S was extended to two points.

Announcement that the Dupont 7 1-2 per cent. bonds would be called on September 1 at a price of 106 caused a quick reaction in these liens, which had been selling above 108. A break of 1 5-8 points carried the price back to 106 3-4. A few specialty issues, such as National Acme 7 1-2S, were in demand and some of the copper and rubber mortgages displayed a firm tone. Railroad issues generally were neglected during the day, moving within narrow limits.

European obligations held steady despite the heaviness of exchanges. Considerable interest was manifested in reports that substantial loans would be arranged for several countries following discharge of their war debts to the United States.

METAL MARKET

NEW YORK, June 22—Copper easier. Electrolytic, spot and futures 13 3-4, 13 7-8.

Tin steady. Spot and nearby 56.12; futures 55.75.

Lead steady. Spot 8.20—8.30.

Zinc steady East St. Louis spot and futures 6.95—7.00.

Antimony spot 16.50.

MONEY

NEW YORK, June 22—Call money firmer; high 4 1-2; low 3 3-4; ruling rate, 3 3-4; closing bid 4 1-2; offered at 4 3-4; last loan 4 1-2; call loans against acceptances 3 1-4; time loans steady; mixed collateral, 60-90 days 3 3-4; 4-6 months 3 3-4 and 4; prime commercial paper 3 3-4 and 4.

COTTON

NEW YORK, June 22—Cotton spot quiet; middling 24.10.

MYSTIC

It was considered the best parade Mystic has seen in years when, Saturday afternoon, the first anniversary of Ahab Sanctorum, No. 230, was celebrated. The local Sanctorum was led by Swahn's band, of Norwich, followed by Koram, Sanctorum, of Hartford, headed by its famous patrol, under command of Major G. P. Heard; Asir Sanctorum, of Providence, headed by its own band of 30 pieces and about 300 sheiks and tribesmen, followed by a large number of candidates decorated with red paint and other ornamentation. Other large delegations in line were Asmie Sanctorum, of Worcester, Mass., Asop, of Boston, and representatives from Sanctorums Springfield, Pittsfield, Poughkeepsie and New York city. Four floats, representing different scenes of the trip across the desert were in line while a live white goat was in a light delivery truck and apparently not displeased with being in the parade. The patrol drills were held in Cottrell street, under the Koram, of Hartford, in command of Major Heard. This body of men is considered one of the best drilled patrols to be found and they were followed by a drill of Asir, of Providence, under the command of Captain William B. Newton. Although this patrol has been organized but a year its work was decidedly good. The work of the local Sanctorum, under the command of Jesse B. Stinson, was exceptionally fine when it is considered that they have been organized only a few weeks. After the drills they retired to the lodge tent on the lot of the Holmes Coal Co., where a chicken salad supper was served by a caterer from Providence. Later the ceremonials were held in Odd Fellows hall. The degree of humility was conferred by Koram Sanctorum, of Hartford, followed by an interesting program as follows: Mrs. Mildred Keg-win, piano solos; Ruth Marea Brewer, versatile entertainment; Louis La-Vigne, premier baritone; Madden and Antinelli, music nonsense; Bennett and Co., A Little Cabareting.

While the drilling of the Sanctorums on Cottrell street was in progress Saturday afternoon, a Hartford automobile, in trying to get through the crowd on Haley street, struck Robert Smith, 13, son of Walter Smith, of 19 Danish avenue. Dr. C. F. Congdon was called and with much difficulty he drove through the crowd to his office, where he took 10 stitches to close the three and a half inch cut on the boy's leg. This boy was knocked down by a bicycle a year ago and broke his leg. The driver of the car did all he could for the boy and it was not considered his fault.

BUILDING OPERATIONS IN NORWICH

Building operations continue to show marked activity as the summer progresses and early indications that this year would set a record in building in Norwich seem to be borne out. About this time of year there is always a noticeable falling off in new building but, from the records in the fire marshal's office there seems to be no such decreases in the number of building permits issued.

During the past week seven building permits were granted by Fire Marshal Howard L. Stanton bringing the total for the month close to 40 which is a record for June. The permits this week include only one for new dwellings, the rest being for additions and alterations.

The permits issued are as follows:

To Joseph Jankowski to erect a verranda on the present house at 308 Boswell avenue. The veranda, will be 5x26 feet and of frame construction.

To John Kowlaski to erect a cottage house on Everett street. The house will have a cement foundation and cellar and the superstructure to be of frame. The house will be 28x28 feet and will contain 5 rooms and bath.

To Isaac Telfaud to build a small frame addition to the present frame house on Summit street. The addition will be 7x9 feet.

To F. P. Pratt to add a frame porch, 2 stories high, to the present house on Prospect street for J. D. Shea. The veranda will be 5x20 feet.

To A. V. Covello to alter present frame building at 436 Main street. The alterations include the changing of the ground floor into a store and making a three-room apartment on the second floor. The store will have a plate glass front.

REAL ESTATE SALES AND MORTGAGE LOANS

The cost of new buildings in these same towns totals $4,114,934, as compared with $1,463,697 for 1924 but is a substantial gain over the same week in 1923, when permits were issued for $702,937 worth of buildings.

The front will be of brick and plate glass. Steam heat and other improvements will be provided, the estimated cost being $20,000.

The proposed layout for the Masonic Temple on Huntington street, at the head of State street, for which competitive plans are being received, calls for a building in the rear of the present residence. The structure will be of brick, about 52x82 feet, with a banquet hall on the first floor and a lodge room above. An ell, about 25x50 feet, will contain a kitchen on the first floor and an armory and equipment room on the second floor. George E. Waters, 528 Montauk avenue, chairman of the building committee appointed by Brainard Lodge, No. 102, A. F. and A. M. has been authorized to secure plans for the proposed construction.

TO A BUTTERFLY.

I've watched you now a full half hour,
Self-poised upon that yellow flower;
And, little Butterfly! indeed
I know not if you sleep or feed.
How motionless! not frozen seas
More motionless! and then
What joy awaits you, when the Queen
Has found you out among the crowd,
And calls you forth again!

This plot of orchard-ground is ours;
My trees they are, my Sister's flowers;
Here rest your wings when they are weary;
Here lodge as in a sanctuary!
Come often to us, fear no wrong;
Sit near us on the bough!
We'll talk of sunshine and of song,
And summer days, when we are young;
Sweet childish days, that were as long
As twenty days are now.

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, June 21. — City Manager William A. Holt today caused a communication to be forwarded to Captain of Police Charles A. Pinney, which paid emphatic compliment to the members of the police department for the very efficient work performed by the officers last Friday, race day. Particular praise was accorded the numerous traffic officers.

Marcus Smith and Amanda McGee, both colored and both residents at 31 Hempstead street, this city, were before Judge Cornelius C. Costello in the Groton town court this morning, charged with breach of the peace. They pleaded guilty and a fine of $10 and costs, the latter amounting to $15.13 was imposed. Smith went to the residence of Genevieve Adams, Thames street, Groton, several days ago and Saturday the McGee woman appeared there, in quest of Smith. When the McGee woman entered the house she let fly a flood of vile names at Smith and a fight followed with the result that the Adams woman sought and obtained the arrest of the couple.

The continued case of Abe Zaslow of West Cpit street, this city, technically charged with manslaughter, in causing the death of Lois Crandall, 14, who fell from a bicycle and was run over by the truck that Zaslow was operating in Mystic, two weeks ago, was again continued a week, in the absence of a report on the finding of Coroner J. J. Desmond, of Norwich.

Fred Peltier, of High street, Groton, was charged with violation of the automobile law in driving his automobile by a motionless trolley car that was receiving and discharging passengers. The case was continued a week. Peltier was arrested last Thursday when his auto struck and injured Rodney Carlyle, of New London, as the latter was leaving the trolley car on Thames street.

Several delinquent personal taxpayers were arraigned on a charge of evading the payment and a fine of $2 and costs was imposed. A woman resident of Noank, was not penalized as her case was continued until the session of the court next Monday as she intends to defend the action, declaring that her constitutional rights are being taken from her by the enforcement of the tax payment.

Ludwig C. Larsen, of Boston, will be in the court next Monday charged with violation of the law pertaining to automobiles for he has furnished a bond of $50 for his appearance. Larsen was arrested Saturday, having speeded through the borough at an estimated speed of 40 miles an hour.

John W. Cuddy, son of Mrs. Bridget Cuddy, of 18 Methodist street, and Miss Margaret C. Coady, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Coady, of Margaree Forks, Nova Scotia, were united in marriage this morning at 8 o'clock at St. Joseph's church, the nuptial mass being celebrated by Rev. William C. Fitzsimons, the pastor. The couple were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Andrew J. Havrilla.

The funeral of Mrs. Elizabeth J. Klein, widow of Edwin Klein, was held this afternoon at 2.30 o'clock at the parish house of the First Church. The services were conducted by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth and were attended by a large gathering of mourners. Relatives acted as bearers. Burial was in Cedar Grove cemetery.

Anson J. Beckwith, 81, died this morning at his residence, 27 Willetta avenue, after a lingering illness. He is survived by his widow and by two sons, Horace and Warren Beckwith and by a daughter. Mr. Beckwith was for many years proprietor of a picture frame store on Bank street, having retired several years ago when his health began to decline.

Charles A. Benjamin, 73, former well known New London businessman, died at his residence, 94 Broad street, Sunday. He is survived by a son, William P. Benjamin, employed as teller at the Mariners Savings bank.

Mr. Benjamin was born in New London and was a life-long resident of this city. He was employed a number of years by his father, the late William P. Benjamin, in the drygoods business and later became a partner until about 12 years ago when he retired and during the past 10 years he has been confined to his home because of impaired health.

Arnold Clemens, of Stonington, and Miss Beth Keeney, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry G. Keeney, of 117 Blackhall street, were married this morning at the parsonage of the Second Congregational church by Rev. J. Beveridge Lee, pastor of the church. They were unattended. Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Clemens received relatives and friends at a luncheon served at the home of the bride's parents, after which they left for a wedding trip. When they return to New London they will take up their residence at 117 Blackhall street. Mr. Clemens is employed as operator by the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad. His bride has been in the town clerk's office many years and seven years ago was appointed assistant town clerk.

James R. May has qualified as administrator of the estate of George H. Beck, former North Bank street resident, whose death occurred last week.

Houston Stakey of Waterford was a passenger on one of the late trolley cars leaving Ocean Beach early this morning. As the trolley car passed through Bank street, Stakey was stricken by a fainting spell and falling from his seat, landed upon the pavements and was injured. Patrolman Dennis Murphy caused the police automobile to be summoned and Stackey was taken to the police station where he was attended by City Physician George F. Cheney. Stackey sustained injuries only of a slight nature and he was later turned over to the care of his sister, Mrs. Putnam Burhoe, of Huntington street. The latter declared that her brother had been subject to fainting spells for some time.

John J. Simons, 56 Sharon street, Hartford, complained to the police this forenoon that while his automobile was parked on Westerly place, Ocean Beach, Sunday afternoon a thief stole a brief case containing personal articles and valuable papers. When Simons left his machine he caused the doors to be locked but the thief forced open the windshield, reached through the opening and took the case from the front seat.

Another theft occurred at the shore resort Sunday for Errick Foreski, 127 Worcester street, Hartford, this afternoon reported to the police that a spare tire was stolen from his automobile.

Mrs. Fassler, 66 Shaw street, complained to the police this morning that a thief had entered her home on Sunday and had stolen $15 and several articles of jewelry. After the police had investigated the complaint and gave little credence to the reported theft, Mrs. Fassler notified the authorities that she had recovered the money and jewelry, which she found wrapped in a stocking in a bureau drawer.

Walter J. Hullivan, of 49 Colman street, and Miss Nellie C. Brouillard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Obide P. Brouillard, of Montville, were married this morning at 8 o'clock at St. John's church, Montville in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends. The nuptial mass was sung by Rev. James A. O'Meara, pastor of the church. Henry Brouillard, brother of the bride was best man and Miss Helen Foss of this city, was bridesmaid. Mr. and Mrs. Hullivan will make their home at 49 Colman street.

The police court had its usual Monday volume of business. The most aggravated offense was that of Frank Hempstead of Groton accused of operating an automobile while intoxicated. Hempstead said he was guilty when his case was presented. At least he said he had taken "a drink." His plea was all that was necessary to secure conviction. He was ordered to pay a fine of $100 and the attaching costs and this he did. His operating license was taken from him so he will not operate an automobile again until the state motor vehicle department notifies him that he can have that privilege. The ride was a costly one for Hempstead, for his car was in collision with a trolley car on Broad street and when it was gathered up it was found to have been raked fore and aft. A bottle of Scotch was found in the car with a good portion of its contents gone. Scotch is said to be selling at $8 a quart now. That was the cause of the trouble into which Hempstead and a companon drove. It is reported that in the future persons who are convicted of operating motor vehicles while guilty of mixing gasoline and alcohol are likely to be sent to jail to ponder over their recklessness. Such a penalty as that appears to be the only one that will put a stop to such a disregard of human life.

Tony Longo, the driver of an automobile used in the delivery of fish, seems to regard a summons to court as a trifling warning which he has the privilege of ignoring. He has three times been warned to be in court for violation of a city ordinance that seeks to regulate the parking of cars but he has not yet answered the warning by appearing at the bar. Today an order was given to the police that will be effectual in bringing Mr. Longo in to court tomorrow. He will come in if it becomes necessary to give him police escort.

Samuel Kostofsky, a stranger in the city, parked his car on Main street with the front wheel against the curbing but with the rear overhanging the trolley road tracks so that street cars could not pass. He admitted that he came from a town where parking regulations were enforced, but said he did not realize that his automobile was hanging out on the tracks. He was fined $3, and was fortunate in that the fine was not larger, just that he should remember in the future.

J. A. Main of Groton got into his car and whisked about the city. But it happened that he got into a jam and then an inquisitive officer asked to see the authority Main possessed for operating a car. He couldn't produce it and was told to report in the court. He explained that he changed his clothing and unconsciously left his operating license in the suit he discarded. That fact brought a suspension of judgment.

Three young men were charged with indulging in the southern pastime known as "shooting craps" on the Sabbath. They are to come into court tomorrow after Richard W. Mansfield has had a talk with them as to the seriousness of their offense.

Frank Hicks, a negro with a white woman as his wife, was charged with getting so gay at the Star restaurant that he became engaged in a breach of the peace when he was not paid as much as he wanted for his services in the eating place. The prosecutor recommended a nolle of the complaint on the payment of costs by Hicks. That made the colored gentleman smile and he settled.

Nick Tafaconda, charged with violating the parking ordinance was not in court when the session was proceeding so that case went over till Tuesday.

Steve Yaskalowski was arrested on complaint of his wife for striking her Sunday. He got mixed up on the time of day and supposed the court was operating on standard time instead of on daylight so that case was continued until Tuesday.

There were three cases of intoxication on the docket with one accusing a familiar figure to the court. He is Andrew Fallon. The accused said he was guilty and Judge Crandall ordered him to pay a fine of $5. Andy did not have that much money after his Sunday spree so he went up to the county jail to work out his fine and costs at an allowance of a dollar a day. He can earn several times that amount at work for himself.

Newton Lanphere cast aside the stone-cutters' hammers Saturday and imbibed so freely in liquor that he was arrested down and out. He paid $5 and costs of his trial for his indiscretion today.

George McLean, a soldier in the service of Uncle Sam only four weeks loaded up Sunday and was arrested. He apeared in court hungry and dejected. Judge Crandall allowed him to return to Fort Wright where there will be a degree of punishment imposed upon him.

Randall Browne Newbury, of Mystic, and Miss Ruth Cady Topping, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clifton H. Topping, of Riverview avenue were married Saturday afternoon at the residence of the bride's parents. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, pastor of the First Church of Christ. Cecil Spicer, brother-in-law of the bride was best man and the matron of honor was the bride's sister, Mrs. Cecil Spicer. At the conclusion of a wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Newbury will reside at 34 Church street.

Rezanne Harris of 453 Bank street; Emily Ranson, 29 Shaw street; Mrs. Paul Conant and infant son, Mystic; Peter Chimesci, Westerly; Mrs. John Donohue and infant daughter, 26 Franklin street; Mrs. Thomas Kiley, 98 Hempstead street; Mrs. Ralph Harris and infant daughter, 453 Bank street and Mrs. Thomas Koret, Westerly, patients at Home Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

Mrs. William Tourjee and infant son of Noank; Ralph Cook, United States Coast Guard; Erwin Duchonceau, Willimantic; Jeremiah Donovan, 280 Connecticut avenue; Master Walter Ickrath, 3 Ocean avenue; Mrs. Annie Richards and infant daughter, Waterford; Miss Maru Dean, Black Hall; Mrs. Colondia Oliverl, Fishers Island; Mrs. John Noonan and infant son, of Groton; Mrs. William Edwards, Waterford; Mrs. William Cole and infant daughter, Niantic, and Mrs. Hazel Hubbard, Saybrook, patients at Lawrence hospital were dismissed today.

Henry G. Welson, 58 Park street, complained to the police that a neighbor named Brighton, is harboring a vicious dog. According to Welson, the animal has made several attempts to bite pedestrians.

Frank Quinn, 108 Golden street, reported to the police this evening that a thief entered the yard of his home some time Sunday afternoon or night and stole his bicycle.

Sergeant of Police Nelson Smith went to Hartford today and carried with him a quantity of beer seized in the raid at the Hotel Winthrop last Thursday night for the purpose of determining the alcoholic content of the beer. At the time of the raid, Sergeant Smith tested the beer at the police station and according to the officer the test showed that the beer was more than three per cent. alcoholic content. The trial of the proprietor of the hotel is scheduled to take place next Friday morning in the police court.

Traffic officers were busy again today tagging automobiles whose owners are alleged to have been guilty of violation of the city's traffic ordinances. As a result of the watchfulness of the officers several autoists are scheduled to be given hearings in the police court tomorrow morning.

PERMISSION TO GREENS IS FINALLY GRANTED

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, June 22.—The city council held a brief meeting this evening, at which ten applications for structural work were approved, mostly garages or minor alterations and additions to existing property. The council gave permission to Simon and Bertha Green to erect two buildings on Williams street, the same being permission that has been refused week after week. Now a hearing has been assigned for Tuesday on a writ of mandamus and that may have actuated the council in proceeding in the matter. The buildings are to conform to the specifications approved by the inspector of buildings.

The matter of the apearance here of a couple of New York police officers to report on plans to make the police force of this city more efficient was referred to at the meeting this evening, but it was represented that the New York officers had only made recommedations to the city manager and that no rules or regulations to govern the force had yet been prepared for consideration. Mayor Clark took occasion to correct a report that has been given currency to the effect that the New Yorkers had recommended that the head of the New London uniformed force be given an opportunity to put the rules that are adopted into force. He said no such recommendation had been made in the report of the New York officers.

The city manager reported that the city had been unable to secure the quality of fencing for the town mill grounds and other city property that would conform to the analysis which was promised by the manufacturers and that thus all the fencing had not been placed in position.

The city manager reported that the vote of the council relative to placing the wharf at Home-Memorial hospital in condition for use had been carried into effect at a cost of $1176, the Merritt-Scott-Chapman company doing the work as the lowest bidder. The wharf is now at the disposal of yachtsmen and boat owners and has been quite generally been made use of.

A very large number of gasoline storage tanks were authorized by the council this evening.

A request has been made by the school ball teams and athletic leagues of the city for the fencing in of Morgan park, so that the local teams may charge an admission to the park when games are in progress in order that visiting teams may be paid a guarantee. The city manager has referred the matter to the council and that body to a committee, that the director of law may be consulted to determine whether the city has the right to enclose a public park and to charge admission to citizens for entering there even when sports are in progress. The director of law will report to the committee on the matter and then the requests will come back to the council for action.

Remarkable Crater Discovered

Aniakchak crater, on Alaska peninsula, is one of the most remarkable natural objects on this continent. It is an enormous basin, whose floor measures 6 3-4 by 53-4 miles, an area more than half as large as the District of Columbia. The rock walls that form the rim of the crater rise to a height of 2,200 feet, four times that of the Washington monument. In a hollow in the crater's floor lies a lake that is 3 1-2 miles long and that has a area of 3 square miles.

That Was the Life of Miss Hollister Until She Started Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Wyandotte, Mich.—"After my baby was born I did not get my strength for six months and could hardly take care of my own baby. My back ached all the time and my right side pained me. I was getting pale and thin. I would feel well one day and then feel so bad for three or four days that I would be in bed. One Sunday my mother came to see how I was, and she said a friend told her to tell me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. So the next day I got a bottle and before it was half taken I got relief. After I was well again I went to the doctor and he asked me how I was getting along. I told him I was taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and he said it did not hurt any one to take it. I am always recommending the Vegetable Compound to others and I always have a bottle of it on hand." — Mrs. HENRY HOLLISTER, R.F.D. No. 1, Box 7, Wyandotte, Mich.

A Week to Think About the Feet

To be gently reminded by various "weeks" to watch the baby's health, brush the teeth, consult the oculist, go to church, paint the house, clean the back yard, etc., is more and more coming to be accepted as part of American life. The influence of these events, when one thinks about them, in making for more intelligent and happier living, has been enormous.

For example, Foot Comfort Week has for nine years brought relief to millions of people through its publicity on behalf of strong, healthy feet and correctly fitted shoes. Particularly since the great war, when the draft examinations showed often 90 per cent of the candidates for service had foot defects of some sort, people began to sense to a far greater extent than ever before, the marked influence that the feet have on one's physical well-being, comfort and efficiency.

Dr. William M. Scholl, internationally famous foot specialist and orthopedic surgeon, is sponsor for this great movement for better foot health and comfort. His zeal in promoting the idea of giving the feet more intelligent care through his books, lectures and articles on the subject, have unquestionably made the lives of millions of people happier.

Foot comfort week this spring is from June 20th to June 27th. It is an event in which most of the leading shoe and department stores take part in, and stress particularly at this time the service they are prepared to render those who suffer from foot troubles.

Broadway Theater

Pola Negri came to the screen at the Broadway theater yesterday in her first comedy role in the Sidney Olcott - Paramount production, The Charmer, based on Henry Baerlein's novel, Mariposa, which was adapted to the screen by Sada Cowan.

The Charmer, a story of the Spanish dancing girl, Mariposa, tells how she and her rather uncouth, though affectionate mother come to try their fortune in New York under the wing of a kindly theatrical manager. Her success is instantaneous. Two men fall in love with her — a prominent man-about-town and his chauffeur, played by Wallace MacDonald and Robert Frazer, respectively.

MacDonald, in the role of Ralph Bayne, immediately falls for Mariposa's beauty and wants to marry her until her mother, through a clever little plan of hers, reveals the girl in her real light—an uneducated country girl entirely out of place with the set Bayne is accustomed to associate with. Still he is unwilling to give her up and invites her to visit him in his "study." Despite repeated warnings from the chauffeur, who sincerely loves her, that he has driven many girls there before her, Mariposa goes Bertha Sedgwick, a foolish young married woman, infatuated with Bayne, also arrives at the apartment, closely followed by her suspicious husband. Mariposa's quick wit prevents a scene, and everything is straightened out with the arrival of the chauffeur, who Pola announces she is going to marry.

Trixie Friganza, Cesare Gravina, Gertrude Astor and others play in the cast.

A Walter Heirs comedy and Kinograms helped to round out a perfect picture program.

There will be five acts of Keith vaudeville and the Paramount picture, The Goose Hangs High at this playhouse Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

Coming to the Breed

Tom Mix' latest picture depicts the stirring deeds of England's famous robber, Dick Turpin and because of Dick's bold attacks and dashing escapes this new William Fox picture is as full of thrills as an egg of substance.

Tht the Robin Hood of the Road out-guessed, out-fought and out-rode the officers of the law follows as a dramatic certainty and the story closes with Dick and his lovely bride safely at home in France.

Dick was younger than the other famous rascals of his time, far less brutal, far gayer and far more generous to the poor. He robbed the haughty Lords and laughed at their anger and as he took the purses of the lovely ladies he smilingly swept the ground with the plumes of his hat in graceful obeisance. He dressed like a London dandy and nightly took his life in his hands by visiting the White Hart Inn in Drury Lane to sip his ale. There he was known as John Palmer, barrister—a good fellow and a spender with a well lined purse.

In this picture titled Dick Turpin, extra care was taken with every detail, for it will rank as Tom Mix' masterpiece, being far more elaborate and far more expensive than anything in which Mr. Fox has presented him. Director John Blystone surrounded him with a powerful cast. Alan Hale has the great role of Tom King. Kathleen Myers, who is claimed one of the most beautiful woman on the screen, has the leading feminine role; Philo McCullough has that of Lord Churlton. James Marcus is seen as Squire Crabtree, and Bull Montana as Bully Boy a fighter of the old school, is at his ugly best.

Dick Turpin will be the feature attraction at the Breed theater, this week beginning Wednesday, and it is promised as an extraordinary novelty replete with thrills and Tom Mix with a bag of brand-new tricks.

For today The Way of a Girl with Eleanor Boardman and Matt Moore will be shown for the last time.

Palace Theatre

"Fair and Warmer" heralded as the play that kept Broadway laughing for one solid year certainly lived up to its reputation when presented by the popular Augustin Stock Company last night at the Palace Theatre. The play will be repeated tonight and tomorrow afternoon and evening. "Fair and Warmer" is a clean snappy riot of laughter in three acts, replete with genuine humor of the spontaneous variety, and proves a scream from start to finish. From curtain to curtain the audience was kept laughing and enjoyed throughout the rapid action of the plot. "Fair and Warmer" has been called the "Laugh a minute farce" and there is every justification for the title. As a matter of fact, it is no exaggeration to state that there are times when the laughs tumble over one another so fast that the time between them is measured in seconds; and others where the laughter is not forcible enough and the audience, just naturally shrieks. You have only to follow Billy and Blanny, after they have wheeled in the mysterious "Teawagon" and mixed "an eight story building with a green elevator" to get more wholesome laughs than you ever supposed there were in the world. "Fair and Warmer" opens with a laugh, keeps the laughter ball rolling during the entire performance and sends the audience home chuckling over the adventures of the people in the play. For the blues, that restless feeling or almost any other complaint, it is the greatest sugar pill that any prescription could produce. Bill Augustin gives an absurdly funny performance of Billy and proves that he is a finished comedian. Ruth Floyd as Blanny again covers herself with glory. Blanny is a hard part to play but Miss Floyd more than was equal to it. Bernard Pate, gave a very pleasing performance of Jack Bartlett and was ably seconded by Jean Arden as Laura Wheeler, Nellie Gray, Frank Sadler and the supporting members are all fine in their respective roles. The play starts at 2:10 and starting at 7 p. m. on the screen is shown Johnny Walker in "Life's Greatest Game." This is a very interesting picture with a well told story and plenty of stirring action and pathos. There will be a popular matinee tomorrow.

The prices for this week are 25c, 35c, 50c, no higher. Seats are now selling for all performances. Charley's Aunt" will be presented the last three days of this week by the Augustin Stock Company.

Crops may come and crops may go, but the annual crop of sweet girl graduates never fails.

TAFTVILLE

The flock of 2,000 chicks at the farm of Peter Pisarko on School street attracts the attention of passers-by, and those interested in poultry.

Mr. and Mrs. Conrad Pepin have returned from their wedding trip which was spent motoring to points of interest in the Province of Quebec, Canada. Mrs. Pepin was before her marriage Miss Hermina Cantara, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theophile Cantara of South B street.

Miss Anna Bezinet of Providence street and Emile Bellerose of Southbridge, Mass., were married Monday morning at a nuptial high mass at Sacred Heart church by the assistant pastor, Rev. Henri F. Chagnon. The edifice was filled with relatives and friends of the young couple. The bride was attractively gowned in canton crepe with veil of tulle and carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. Directly after the ceremony there was a breakfast and reception at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bezinet of Providence street. The gifts were numerous and valuable. The bride has always made her home in Taftville where she has many friends. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edmund Bellerose of Southbridge, Mass. Before taking up his residence in Southbridge, he resided in the village and was employed as a third hand in the drawing-in department of the Ponemah mills.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Wunderlich will leave Wednesday to attend the Moose convention at Baltimore, Md.

The pupils of the seventh and eighth grades of the Wequonnoc school held their annual picnic Monday at Mohegan park. The trip was made by motor truck. The affair was planned by Miss Martha Reynolds, principal of the school.

In its extensive coal mining operations Pennsylvania uses practically half of the country's total production of permissible explosives.

Be generous!

"MUCH better to let children have the right kind of candy regularly," say scientists today.

And there is one kind candy for little folks—Life Savers—those wholesome little aromatic mints with the hole.

So deliciously flavored, crispy, and so hard—children don't linger out on them. You can be generous with Life Savers.

Good for little digestions

Trial was begun in the common pleas court at New London, Monday afternoon, with Judge C. E. Waller presiding, in the suit of Mrs. Stella W. Bazalowitch against Joseph Buturia, of Norwich, to recover $1,172 which she claims to have loaned him.

The defendant is an uncle by marriage of the plaintiff, while the latter, who is also married, does not at present live with her husband, according to testimony brought out in court. Buturia's property was attached by Mrs. Bazalowitch last January. According to the testimony, the plaintiff, trusting the defendant, had loaned the latter the money, while she resided at the defendant's house.

Witnesses in the case included Guy B. Dolbeare, a Norwich banker; Annie Fulks; Meicha Afanencho, G. Stenkowilch, the plaintiff and defendant.

Attorney J. J. Desmond appeared for the defendant and Perry Hollandersky for the plaintiff.

Other business in the court session, Monday, included the following:

Judgment of foreclosure by sale was entered in the case of Jacob Schleifer against Charles P. Bliven, et. al., of Waterford. The plaintiff claimed he had a mortgage of $1,100 on the property and that interest since May 17, 1924, was due, amounting to $72.46, making Schleifer's claim $1,172.42. Two other mortgages were alleged to be on the property, which has been ordered sold on or before June 27.

SUMMONED TO COURT TO SETTLE THE BLAME

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, June 22.—An accident, which witnesses claim could easily have been avoided, resulted in the summoning of Mrs. Daisy A. Chase, of Norwich, and Peter M. Kagan, of Plainfield, to the police court for tomorrow morning to determine the blame. Mrs. Chase was driving a Hupmobile touring car owned by her son, Sterrill Chase. She was making a turn into Church street and the front of her machine had nearly reached the crosswalk when the Plainfield machine, a Maxwell touring car, approached from the east. Both cars were traveling slowly at the time. A little more speed on the part of Mrs. Chase or a turn of the wheel on the part of the Plainfield man would have avoided a collision. The running board and fender on the Norwich machine were damaged and the Maxwell received a dented mudguard, damaged steering apparatus and flat tire. Motorcycle Officer Grant Bombria notified both drivers to appear in court when they failed to agree who was to blame.

STATE ATTORNEY BROWN TAKES SPECIAL APPOINTMENT

HARTFORD, June 22. — (AP)— State's Attorney Arthur M. Brown authorized the announcement today that he has accepted an appointment by Governor Trumbull to prosecute condemnation proceedings to secure for an extension of the Seaside state sanatorium at East Lyme about five acres of the McCook estate adjoining it, according to a Norwich dispatch to the Hartford Courant. Action will be started in the superior court here at the opening of the September term, which is the next regular term of the court. The previous action started by Attorney-General Healy, for the condemnation of a lesser area of the estate will be dropped.

State's Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn represents the McCook family in the litigation, so the case will be unique in that it will be one in which two state's attorneys will be opposed to each other. Mr. Brown was asked to represent the state in the matter about a week ago, and notified the governor today of his acceptance.

PROSPECTIVE BRIDE IS A "DIPHTHERIA CARRIER"

GOSHEN, N. Y., June 22.—(AP)—A wedding was postponed and 200 wedding guests were hurriedly notified that all invitations had been cancelled when it was discovered today that the prospective bride was a "diphtheria carrier."

Only a few hours before the ceremony was to have taken place a physician who examined Miss Rose De Narde to see if she had entirely recovered from a recent case of diphtheria, discovered that germs were still lodged in her throat although she herself was in perfect health. Her marriage to Daniel Leon will take place as soon as the condition is corrected.

DULL PERIOD FOR RAIL EQUIPMENT MANUFACTURERS

NEW YORK, June 22.—(AP)—Rail equipment manufacturers are experiencing this month one of their dullest periods, orders for cars and locomotives thus far having been insignificant. The trade sees no prospect for immediate improvement. Equipment builders, however, are said to have been assured by rail officials that while the roads probably will be able to get through this year's harvest without additional equipment, large orders will be placed in the fall for 1926 delivery in anticipation of continued good traffic. Equipment makers generally are said to be sound financially and able to go through the present depression without borrowing or danger to their dividends.

NORWICH DOINGS 75 YEARS AGO

The city tax of Norwich in 1850 was set at eight mills by the voters in session and there was no opposition. Various items of 75 years ago taken in part from the Courier, are as follows:

Tuesday, June 18, 1850—At the city meeting convened at the town hall on Saturday afternoon, a vote was passed laying an eight cent tax for the current year. The meeting then adjourned until three weeks from date to receive the detailed printed report of the city auditor.

At the annual meeting of the stockholders in the Norwich bank, the following gentlemen were elected directors for the year ensuing: J. G. W. Trumbull, Nathaniel Shipman, Jedediah Huntington, John Isham, Jacob W. Kinney, Joseph Williams, George Bliss, Patrick Fanning, Henry Strong Joseph Otis, Russell Hubbard, Charles Johnson and John Dunham.

A number of newspapers in the country noticed that the governor of Connecticut used the first person plural in his executive message, and they have commented upon it, saying that these are truly leveling days.

Evidently Norwich will have no Fourth of July celebration this year and all credit will go to New London where $800 has been appropriated for the big event.

Thursday, June 20, 1850—The New London county court commenced its June term on Tuesday, last with the Hon. Judge McCurdy presiding.

The democratic members of the house held a caucus at New Haven Tuesday in reference to a United States senator. After three ballots were cast Loren P. Waldo was nominated receiving 64 out of 95 votes cast.

Balloting in the house for United States senator was begun Wednesday but after six unsuccessful ballots it was voted to defer balloting until the following day. The democrats find that they cannot elect Waldo and are seeking a compromise candidate.

The Texas and New Mexico situation is commanding interest all over the country. Not long ago Texas tried to organize New Mexico and the state is now forming it's own government and will seek admittance into the Union. What people are most interested in, however, is whether New Mexico will be a free state or a slave state.

Saturday, June 22, 1850—We record with much satisfaction the fact that the legislature, among its last acts, authorized an increase of the capital stock of the Quinebaug bank to $350,000.

During a severe lightning storm last evening the house of Calvin Tyler, corner of Main and Washington streets, was struck and set fire to. The alarm was sounded and the firemen came out in a heavy downpour of rain. One "extinguisher" ended the fire and the occupants of the house spent the remainder of the night in peaceful slumber.

Resolutions for establishing a state reform school were taken up in the senate yesterday. The bill calls for the trustees to pick out a site for the school and $10,000 be appropriated for the school when a like amount is raised by the citizens.

In the senate Wednesday Mr. Perkins was appointed committee of conference on the resolution releasing the Citizens bank of Norwich from paying the bonus of $5,000.

Some of the unhappiest people on earth have more money than they know what to do with.

President's Train Routed Through ...

Passed Through This City at 11:10 Last Night—The President and Mrs. Coolidge Were on the Rear Platform as Train Passed Through Various Cities—The President Waved His Cap and Mrs. Coolidge Her Hand to Persons Who Had Gathered to See Them—At New Haven Mrs. Coolidge Affectionately Greeted a Friend.

President and Mrs. Coolidge, en route to the summer White House at Swampscott, Mass., on a special section of the Bar Harbor express, passed through Norwich at 11:10 last night.

President Coolidge's Train En Route to Swampscott, Mass., June 22.—(AP)—President and Mrs. Coolidge are traveling back to New England tonight to set up their home for the summer at Swampscott on the Massachusetts coast.

Mr. Coolidge does not look forward to the two months' visit as a real vacation, feeling the presidential office does not permit of an actual layoff. However, a broad smile broke over the president's face as he waved goodbye to Washington from the observation platform early in the afternoon.

Such government business as is pending Mr. Coolidge has with him, including tariff commission reports and some data on the foreign debt situation.

An office has been set up in Lynn, Mass., and lines of communication with the White House established. Part of the executive office force is accompanying the presidential party north.

After a rather busy morning spent with his cabinet and other government officers, the president took the afternoon off. With Mrs. Coolidge he retired to the observation car after lunch and spent the time reading. At Baltimore and Philadelphia, where brief stops were made, he and Mrs. Coolidge appeared on the platform of the car to greet railroad workers and passengers.

The president told visitors the purpose of his trip was to obtain a change in atmospheric conditions. The weather has been very warm in the Capital lately, but it broke today and the railroad ride was comfortable. The president traveled in a light summer suit, however, doffing his straw hat for a cap.

The presidential yacht "Mayflower" will be at Marblehead, near Swampscott, and occasional cruises along the coast are anticipated by Mr. Coolidge. Later they hastily will go to Plymouth, Vt., birthplace of the president, the home of his father. A trip made each year and a place where they hope to get a "real vacation."

Other members of the party on the train included Everett Sanders, secretary to the president, and Mrs. Sanders; Col. E. A. Cheney, military aide, and Major J. F. Coupal, the president's physician.

A section of a regular train was given over to the president and his party, Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge with their guests occupied a regular Pullman car. The train will arrive at Salem, Mass., four miles from Swampscott, early tomorrow morning and the trip from there will be made by motor.

Arrived in New York at 6:20.

NEW YORK, June 22.—(AP)—The special train which is carrying President Coolidge to the Summer White House at Swampscott, Mass., arrived at Pennsylvania station at 6:16 o'clock eastern standard time and left at 6:20.

The president was greeted in his car by Elisha Lee Rogers, station master at Pennsylvania station, who walked to the president for several minutes.

"I knew the president when he was vice-president," Mr. Rogers said, "and I just told him that I was glad to see him again."

There were only about forty persons on the platforms when the train arrived, and most of these were newspapermen or railroad employes. Detectives at the gates kept a few curious persons from descending to the platform, but most of the persons in the station were apparently unaware of the president's arrival. When word that he was in the rear car of the train spread, many passengers on the train on the opposite side of the platform got off to look at the president and Mrs. Coolidge.

Until a few minutes before the train left the president sat in his private car reading a magazine, with Mrs. Coolidge beside him reading a book. Just as the train was leaving they went out to the observation platform in the rear of the car and the president acknowledged the salutations of persons on the platform by gravely lifting his cap.

Passed Through Bridgeport.

BRIDGEPORT, June 22.—(AP)—The special train carrying President and Mrs. Calvin Coolidge from Washington to Swampscott, Mass., arrived at Bridgeport at 7:42 o'clock standard time. The train was preceded by a pilot train running two minutes ahead. President and Mrs. Coolidge were seated on the rear car observation platform.

There were about twenty persons on the platform at the time. The Coolidges waved as the train passed through. Arthur Lee, of Stamford, was engineer, and William Smith, of South Norwalk, fireman, on the president's special.

MRS. COOLIDGE GREETED FRIEND IN NEW HAVEN

NEW HAVEN, June 22.—(AP)—The Bar Harbor special on which were President Coolidge and Mrs. Coolidge passed here at 8:37 o'clock standard time and stopped a few minutes while the electric engine was exchanged for a steam engine and the diner was dropped. The President and Mrs. Coolidge remained seated on the rear platform of the car. Only a few persons had been admitted to the platform and by them the President and Mrs. Coolidge had been greeted and engaged in conversation.

The last person admitted to the platform was Mrs. Edward Kennedy, who had been a classmate of Mrs. Coolidge at Mrs. Hemenway's school in Boston. Mrs. Kennedy was accompanied by her husband, a professor at Yale University.

The train was scheduled to have stopped at the station here only long enough to change engines, but Mrs. Coolidge's greeting to Mrs. Kennedy was so cordial that the train remained here for several minutes.

Mrs. Guptel embraced each other and then were in conversation for five or six minutes while President Coolidge shook hands and exchanged greetings with the other members of the Guptel family.

DESCRIPTION OF WHITE HOUSE AT SWAMPSCOTT

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., June 22.—(A. P.)—On their arrival here tomorrow, President and Mrs. Coolidge will find White House court, the spacious house near the seat that has been placed at their disposal for the summer, in readiness and friends at hand standing ominous to make their stay restful and pleasant.

Detraining at Salem before breakfast, Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge will be greeted by Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Stearns, their close friends, who will spend the summer at their estate adjoining White court, and Senator Butler, of Massachusetts the president's confident, who had charge of his preconvention campaign last year and later became a chairman of the republican national committee.

At the president's request there will be no formal or elaborate welcome, and after a brief exchange of greetings, he will motor to Swampscott.

White House court, itself, is situated, with a half dozen other summer homes, on a projection of land from which one can see, in one direction, Marblehead and in another, Nahant, home of the late Senator Henry Cabot Lodge.

Back a stone's throw from the rocky coast, the summer white house is an imposing frame residence, surrounded by trees and flower gardens, a curving driveway leads up to the house from the main road and the first sight that catches the eye of a visitor is a circular line of 12 stately pillars, which form the main portico. A broad veranda, part of it enclosed on the right side of the house, affords a fine view of the sea and shore.

On the first floor are several reception rooms, the chief among which looks out on the ocean, and in one wing a living room, study and den. The president's bedroom will be on the second floor overlooking the sea.

While Mr. Coolidge is expected to center from day to day with a limited number of callers many of whom will be old friends desiring to pay their respects, and will be kept in constant touch with governmental affairs, an effort will be made to relieve him of many of the cares of his office.

Routine business will be handled either at the White House in Washington or by Secretary Sanders at his office in Lynn, and only matter needing the president's personal attention will be laid before him. From his study he will be in direct telephone communication with the Lynn offices which in turn will have a four wire connection with the White House.

DEFENSE ENTERED FOR MRS. IDA MAY SYMINGTON

NEW YORK, June 22.—(AP)—A blanket denial of all charges and a move for the dismissal of the complaint of Thomas A. Symington, millionaire motor accessories manufacturer, was the defense entered today in behalf of Mrs. Ida May Symington, to his suit for divorce on gounds of infidelity. Justice Ford reserved decision on the motion.

Asserting the evidence produced had not been sufficient to constitute a case, Defense Attorney Max Steur charged Symington with "deliberate perjury" and announced he would seek the husband's prosecution on that charge, following disposition of the divorce case.

The sweeping denial by the defense was the high light of a day's developments which opened with the arrangement of Talbot W. Chambers, wealthy coal dealer. He had been arrested on a statutory charge based on his testimony of intimacy with Mrs. Symington. Chambers pleaded not guilty and was released under $1,000 bail for appearance tomorrow.

Dr. Edward S. Pope, of Montclair, N. J., the Symingtons' family physician, testified that Mrs. Symington had told him, last May, of "her domestic difficulties" and that she had asked him to intercede.

PUSHED "ALARM SIGNAL" IN FRENCH CHAMBER

PARIS, June 22.(A. P.)—When the fighting began during today's turbulent session of the French chamber of deputies a young substitute for the aged Eugene Pierre, permanent secretary general of the chamber, pushed the wrong button, adding unexpected seriousness to the situation.

He intended to give the signal that M. Herriott had suspended the session, but instead he pushed the "alarm signal," which is supposed to be used only in case of riot and revolution.

The result was that for five minutes the chamber of deputies was in a state of siege. All of the doors were locked, soldiers automatically went on guard and the chamber building became a fortress until the error was explained.

18 PERSONS INJURED BY EXPLOSION IN LAUNCH

KINGSTON, Ont., June 22—(A. P.)—Fifteen of the twenty-five persons on board the launch Thousand Islander were injured today when the boat was destroyed by an explosion. The passengers were thrown into the water, the steering gear, which they were able recovered by parties from the village of Ivy Lea.

The explosion was believed to have been caused by the ignition of gasoline fumes.

FIRST CONFERENCE ON FEDERAL TAX REDUCTION

WASHINGTON, June 22.—(A. P.)—The first definite step looking to a tax reduction of $300,000,000 by the next congress was taken today at a conference between Chairman Green of the house ways and means committee, and Secretary Mellon and Under Secretary Winston of the treasury.

Mr. Green and the treasury officials were understood to have been in agreement as to the general principles of an administration programme. The committee chairman maintained his opposition to repeal of the estate taxes, favored by the administration but was said to have found little other ground for difference on the proposal to lighten the burden on the people by a cut of about the proportions as was involved in the last tax revision.

No attempt was made to go into details of new rates and the discussion was confined almost wholly to a question of policy. The treasury's position has been stated repeatedly in official expressions by Mr. Mellon and Mr. Winston, and it will go no further than to submit its facts and figures to the house committee with statements of its views when they are sought.

FACTORIES IN JERSEY CITY DAMAGED $600,000 BY FIRE

JERSEY CITY, June 22.—(AP)—A factory square on the Hudson Boulevard was swept by fire today with an estimated damage of $600,000.

One large factory was destroyed, another badly damaged and the Jersey City International League baseball park was threatened for a time. One section of the outfield fence was burned but a shift of the wind saved the bleachers and prevented postponement of today's game.

Fireman John Brenhan was thrown from a ladder by a fierce back draft which hurled him two stories to the ground. He was taken to the city hospital badly bruised, three other firemen and two plant employes suffered slight injuries. Miss Alice Meany, a women employee suffered shock.

The blaze was said by the authorities to have started, when a passerby cast a lighted match into a flow of gasoline that trickled from an overturned can of the material used in the plant and thus factory to the sidewalk outside the plant.

MRS. MARY JONES FOUND GUILTY OF KIDNAPPING

NEW YORK, June 22—(A. P.)—A verdict of guilty was returned today by the jury which heard the trial of Mrs. Mary Jones on a charge of kidnapping Raimonde Maluski, 5 year old. The child has not been seen since March 29 and is presumed to be dead.

A sentence of from 10 to 50 years imprisonment is carried by its verdict. Mrs. Jones maintained her innocence throughout.

After the jury had returned its verdict Judge Collins told the prisoner that she would be brought before him for sentence Friday morning.

"I can sentence you to from 10 to 50 years for this offense," he said, "if you do not immediately furnish the authorities with full information of the boy's disappearance and aid them in his recovery I will give you the limit."

Mrs. Jones was said by the prosecution to have kidnapped the Maluski boy to avenge herself against the child's father who had previously caused her arrest for petty larceny.

HUNTER SOLVES MYSTERY OF STEFANSSON PARTY

NEW YORK, June 22 — Another mystery of the polar region was solved today, when H. A. Snow, big game hunter and explorer, just returned from a two years' photographic exploration of the Arctic regions, announced the discovery of the remains of missing members of Vilhjalmur Stefansson's North Pole expedition of 1914, on Herald Island.

Snow's discovery clears up the eleven-year-old mystery of the fate of the five members of the crew, one of the two parties in which the expedition was divided, who quit the ice-locked and sinking "Karluk" and started out on the long trank back to civilization.

The first party, led by Stefansson, completed the long journey after hardships. The other party, led by the ship's doctor, was never heard from and relief expeditions found no trace of it.

YOUTH ACCIDENTALLY SHOT BY CHUM IN NEW BRITAIN

NEW BRITAIN, June 22.—(A. P.)—Milton Brown, 13 years old, 579 West Main street, is in the New Britain general hospital, probably in a dying condition, as the result of being shot in the head by George Prusslow, 18 years old, late this afternoon. The boys were chums.

Prusslow is employed at the Suburban gas filling station and was showing a gun to the Brown youth at the time of the accident. Prusslow "broke" the gun and the cartridges fell to the floor. Thinking the gun was unloaded, according to his story to the police, he began pulling the trigger. One cartridge had remained in the gun and this exploded, the bullet entering Brown's head.

Following an investigation by the police, Prusslow was paroled in the custody of Clarence Palmer, owner of the gas filling station.

AMUNDSEN GOING TO OSLO

KING BAY, Spitsbergen, Monday, June 22.—(AP)—Roald Amundsen, Lincoln Ellsworth and the other members of the expedition which recently made an unsuccessful attempt to reach the north pole by airplane from Spitsbergen, will sail tomorrow from Kings Bay on board the steamship Alby W. Selmar for Oslo, Norway. They will take with them the seaplane which brought them back from the Arctic Circle to Spitsbergen.

Guns Against Chinese.

CANTON, China, June 22, (A. P.)—British and French marines protecting the British concession used machine guns today against Chinese demonstrators who were parading along the Bund and around Shameen, the European quarter. One man was killed and several were wounded.

Thousands of students, workmen, citizens and soldiers took part in the parade and demonstration, opposite the Victoria hotel in the British concession firing broke out. The British and French marines replied immediately and the firing lasted twenty minutes.

Chinese soldiers fired from the western side of the Bund.

A French merchant, J. Pasquier, was killed, and with Commissioner of customs, Arthur Edwards, a British marine and two civilians were wounded.

All the evidence, it is declared, indicates that the first shots were fired by the Chinese from the Bund.

SHAKE-UP IN PROHIBITION ENFORCEMENT OFFICIALS

Washington, June 22—(A. P.)—The biggest shake up in enforcement machinery since prohibition was established in the United States, has been ordered by the treasury department, effective August 1.

The new programme, under which Assistant Secretary Andrews will seek to make the country dry was announced today, and the way was paved for radical changes in the personnel now engaged in the work. Only the broad outlines of the programme were made public.

State lines will be abolished, federal directors for each state will be eliminated, new districts founded wholly on lines bundling federal judicial districts will be created, and a general decentralization of authority will take place in the reorganization.

Neither Mr. Andrews nor other treasury officials would discuss the probable changes further than to say that only those with ability would be retained. The weeding out of undesirables will be accomplished without haste.

The Washington headquarters where authority has centered since the Volstead Act was passed, will be conducted under the same officers as at present, but their duties will be more of a supervisory and les of an administrative character. They will also have a greater opportunity to spend time in the field and to work more closely with the prohibition administrators, twenty, of whom will be named to take charge of as many districts in the United States, with two others for Hawaii and Porto Rico.

Each of the district officials will have two assistants, one of whom will have charge of permissive work, or the control of permits and distribution, while the there will devote his efforts to enforcement. The district officers also will have a chief chemist and a nounce, eliminating the necessity for transmission of thousands of cases to Washington.

Mr. Andrews is convinced that a substantial savings in expenditures will be effected under the new scheme. He is believed to contemplate a reduction of personnel, while establishing salaries as high as $10,000 a year for the administrators, in order to obtain the right type of executives.

A centrally situated city has been designated as headquarters for the administrators in each of the twenty two districts in the United States. These cities, listed in the order of their district number, with the territory to be administered from them, were announced include:

Boston—Maine, New Hampshire, Vermont, Massachusetts and Rhode Island.

New York—Southern and Eastern districts of New York and Connecticut.

ATTORNEYS FOUND GUILTY IN "DIVORCE MILL" CASE

PROVIDENCE, R. I., June 22—(A. P.)—Leonard W. Horton, master in chancery, and his law partner, Francis P. Dougherty, both Providence attorneys, were found guilty of conspiracy late today by a jury trying the first cases arising out of a recent investigation into an alleged "divorce mill" in Rhode Island after forty-five minutes consideration the jury returned a verdict of "guilty as charged in the indictment" in which it was alleged that the pair had conspired to defeat public justice by procuring a decree of divorce through a false and fraudulent deposition.

The divorce degree involved was granted in March of this year to Genevieve F. Thomas, in her suit against Edwin T. Thomas, Mrs. Thomas is said to be now residing in New York city. Emmanuel George Rands of Providence, purported signer of the deposition which the state charged was fraudulent, denied knowledge of its contents and said that he had signed the paper by request of Dougherty. A police inspector and a private detective testified that street addresses in other deposition admitted in evidence were false.

Counsel for the defense indicated tonight that a new trial would be sought. A total of 27 public and seven secret indictments were brought by the special grand jury which was summoned in May to consider evidence gathered in the investigation by Attorney General Charles P. Sisson which, he said, disclosed a hundred or more fraudulently obtained divorces in the 23 Indefinite Horton and Daugherty were named jointly four times and individually Hotons was named 17 times and Dougherty five.

At the time of the investigation, Attorney General Sisson declared that evidence had been revealed indicating the operation of a well organized "mill" for supplying divorces to persons living in New York and other states. At that time he said there had been collusion, that false information regarding residence in Rhode Island had been placed in evidence and that false depositions had been made in many of the cases he investigated.

Vice President Addresses ... Manchester, N. H., Chamber of Commerce—Discusses the Purpose of the Senate to Deprive the Majority the Right to Hold Up the Majority—Declares That the Present Rules Permit Legislative Trades and Barters Not in the Interest of the Public Good—They Also Give to One Senator Greater Power Than the Presidential Veto.

MANCHESTER, N. H., June 22.—(A. P.)—Vice President Dawes' address before the Manchester Chamber of Commerce tonight follows:

"The purpose of a reform in the senate rules is not to deprive the minority of an opportunity to be fully heard upon every public question or to deprive them of any of their constitutional rights.

"The purpose is to take away from the minority the right to hold up the majority, which continually results in legislative trades and barters not in the interest of the public good.

"These barters are made in large part secretly. There is no merit in the claim that the right of unlimited debate and absence of proper cloture bring complete publicity into the business of the senate. On the contrary, it results in the necessity for the majority in secret, time and time again, to buy off the minority or individuals by concessions in legislative transactions, many of which could not endure publicity without reflecting upon the motives of those exacting them.

"Threats to hold up the business of the senate unless concessions are made in legislation in which individual senators have a political interest, have been openly and successfully made on the floor of the senate itself. No one has more forcibly testified to this evil out of his personal experience than has Senator Oscar W. Underwood, of Alabama, who says:

"I had served with great permission for 20 years in the house of representatives. I had been the leader of that body; I was responsible for the legislative conduct of a great party; and I have come to the conference table with senate amendments on my bill, and convinced a conference of the representatives of the senate in conference—that their amendments were wrong and then they would say to me they would not yield unless I got a Senator So and So would talk the bill to death if I did not accept his amendment, and with great governmental issues at stake, I have been compelled to accept minor amendments to great bills, that I will not say were graft but they were put there for the purpose of magnifying the importance of one man with his own constituency, at the point of jeopardizing good legislation in America.'

"In the attempt to change the senate rules, we combat one of the deepest instincts of selfish human nature —a desire to retain personal power and prerogatives. Human nature, when there is involved the release of individual power for the common good is weak.

"The power of filibustering and of debate without limit of time, made possible under the present defective rules of the senate, has produced such continuous and such serious obstructions to legislation that since May 12, 1910, in 66 instances the majority and minority leaders of the two parties have been compelled to arrange for unanimous consent agreements to enable the consideration of important legislation. This means that they must go like suppliants to every individual member of the senate, to get his consent that the majority shall act on important legislation, and consider the conditions in regard to other legislation which the individual senator may desire to impose as the price of his agreement.

"When in great matters it is possible for a selfish human instinct to gratify itself at the expense of the common good it leaves a trail so broad and so deep that when once pointed not only the blind can see it.

"It stands to reason that any body which at times may grant concessions to individual members in order to secure the right to act as a whole will pass more laws in proportion than a body not under that handicap.

"Now what are the facts?

"In the last five congresses the senate bills and resolutions passed by the senate with 96 members, exceeded by 183 the house bills and resolutions passed by the house, with 435 members. The exact figures are 5,113 for the senate and 2,931 for the house.

"But more significant even than this as evidence of the inevitable exactions of selfish human nature when given a chance, is the fact that the senate passed these 5,113 bills and resolutions out of a total of 29,823 introduced, while the house passed its smaller number of 2,931 out of a total of 32,683 introduced.

"During the last five congresses, therefore, the senate passed 10 1-2 per cent. of the bills and resolutions introduced in the senate while the house of representatives passed only three and one-half per cent. of the bills and resolutions introduced in the house. In other words, of bills and resolutions introduced, the senate without effective cloture passed in proportion three times as many as did the house of representatives, with cloture.

"There have been vague claims made by the opponents of reform in the senate rules that the absence of effective cloture tended to prevent multiplicity of legislation. My contention is that the figures I have given establish the fact that the absence of effective cloture tends to increase the number of laws.

"It is an absurdity to maintain that any essential right which it is claimed is now protected under the senate rules cannot be protected unless there exists in connection with all legislative procedure this power of hold up.

"The whole theory of our government is based upon the principle of the power of majorities to act, limited by the checks and balances of the Constitution which protect the rights of the minority. The establishment of which has ever marked the progress of civilization.

"Those who uphold the cause of reform in the senate rules recognize that the senate and the senate alone has the constitutional right to change them. So far from making a plea contrary to the spirit of the Constitution, their protest is against the usurpation at times by a minority of even one senator of power under the senate rules to thwart the right of the majority to transact business in the manner provided by the Constitution.

"The people of this nation believe in their Constitution, but they do not understand the justice of senate rules under which at times one senator can exercise a power greater than the veto power granted by the Constitution to the president of the United States, under which at times one senator can render the senate impotent, and under which secret legislative barter is encouraged, which not only meets the due course of legislative procedure, but legislation itself.

"Such a power brings the senate into disrepute, demoralizes its orderly procedure, and interferes with the powers to properly act under its constitutional authority. It protects no essential right. It is wrong. It is un-American and, in my judgement, the American people demand that senators abolish it."

TO PROTECT FOREIGN LIVES AND PROPERTY

WASHINGTON, June 22.—(AP)—Consul General Jenkins at Canton advised the state department today that orders have been issued by the governor for the protection of foreign lives and property.

The message added that the senior consul at Canton had been informed by Representatives of the local government, "that foreigners will be protected" and that the assurance was taken to mean that the authorities "are beginning to realise their responsibility and will exercise some measure of control over parades and demonstrations."

If there were no acts of violence during the demonstration scheduled on the day the message was sent June 22, the consul general said, there were indications that the general situation would begin to improve. He added that the strike applied to all firms and residents and that the Canton-Hongkong rivers steamers would be completely tied up.

ARGUMENTS BEGUN IN THE SHEPHERD MURDER TRIAL

CHICAGO, June 22—(A. P.)—Three minutes of denial of all state charges and an hour and a half of cross examination in which the accusation was not touched upon filled William D. Shepherd's day of days when he testified today in his trial for murder.

As he stepped from the witness stand after a cross examination which left a crowded courtroom gasping at both its brevity and trend, the defense announced "that's all, that's our case," and the prosecution echoed, "We rests."

Five minutes more and the first state argument to the jury was under way.

It was a demand for the death penalty for Shepherd for the "coldly calculated, brutal and atrocious murder" of his millionaire foster son, William Nelson McClintock.

So into one brief session of court was crowded more drama than in all the previous days of the five weeks and one day the case has dragged through Judge J. Lynch's court.

Detail by detail Shepherd was led through a denial of each of the 22 counts in his indictment for the youth's murder.

"Did you murder Billy McClintock?" asked William E. Stewart, Shepherd's chief counsel.

"I did not," responded Shepherd.

In turn he denied he ever had given the youth poison, death-dealing potash, or had slain him, "in manner and form unknown to the grand jury."

Replying in a calm, firm voice, Shepherd completed his denial of all that the state alleges by stating that prior to the investigation of Billy McClintock's death he never had seen Charles Faiman, his chief accuser, nor John P. Marchard, a Faiman associate, nor ever had written a letter to Faiman's National University of Science concerning a course in bacteriology.

Joseph Molitsky, counsel for Miss Macri in the recent trial in which 11 jurors were for the acquittal and one was opposed, desires that re-trial should be in New Haven county. The state's attorney on the other hand claims that owing to the publicity given to the previous trial it will be impossible to obtain an "fair and impartial jury" from talesmen called in this county. In his motion he asked the court to designate a county other than this one.

The motion was heard today before Judge John B. Booth, of ... who opened the June term of ... court. All day proceedings ... be put to sleep with ... pills of two grains.

KAGAN AND MRS. CHASE HAVE THEIR CASES NOLLED

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, June 23.—In the city court, Tuesday morning, in the case of Peter Kagan, of Plainfield, and Mrs. Daisy Chase, of Norwich, who figured in an automobile collision at the corner of Main and Church streets, Monday afternoon, it was found by Judge F. H. Foss that both drivers had done the thing each believed possible to avoid an accident. As neither was willing to compromise in the matter of a settlement it would be necessary for them to resort to civil action. The cases of both defendants were nolled. Kagan claimed that he jammed on his brakes and heard no warning nor noticed any signal from the other car. Mrs. Chase claimed that Kagan came along at about 25 miles an hour, and that she sounded the horn and shouted "Look out!" His car struck hers midway on the right side, damaging the running board and both fenders. Motorcycle Officer Grant Bombria, who investigated the accident, stated that the collision could not have been a heavy one, as the Chase car, struck by the other, was not pushed to one side. Both Kagan and Mrs. Chase pleaded not guilty to the charge of reckless driving.

The Willimantic Rotary club members and guests met, Tuesday evening, at North Coventry grange, where a delicious chicken supper, topped with strawberry shortcake, was followed by a merry session of varied entertainment. The fun was furnished by club members, with the exception of the featured numbers, which were songs and whistling specialties by Michael J. Farrell, of this city, with Mrs. Farrell at the piano. As a supplement to the minutes, Acting Secretary Girard E. Loisell read a humorous treatise on his recent surgical operation, entitled Bones to Spare. A quartet, My Wild Irish Rose, was effectively given by John Ahern, Harry Standish, Michael Farrell and Dr. R. Bullock Jones; the last two led to the singing of several numbers. Mr. Farrell entertained with several clever imitations of song birds. The speakers were Representatives A. Linn Weatherhead and Charles S. Pomeroy. The former spoke on What I Did To and For the Legislature, and the latter's subject was What the Legislature Did To and For Me. Harry Standish and John Brick pleased with whistled solos. A quartet was sung by Michael Farrell, Harry Standish, James P. Sullivan, Mayor Thomas M. [illegible]

GOSHEN

The rain of late Saturday afternoon was greatly needed. The electric part of the storm was not so welcome however, as much damage was done. A bolt of lightning killed a pair of horses for C. L. ## FOURTH OF JULY CELEBRATION TO BE ON A BIG SCALE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

JEWETT CITY, June 23—A fine enthusiasm marked a very harmonious meeting of the several Fourth of July celebration committees, which was called to order by the chairman, Warden Matthew J. Geary, at 7:30 in the town hall, Monday evening.

Alex McNicol, chairman of the committee on cats, declared that there was no lack of interest. Already $5 floats are promised, from the lodges, stores and business concerns.

Counting in the $480 available from the town and borough, the committee will have close to $1,400, in hand. Not nearly all this money is at present apportioned, and at a meeting to be held at 7:30 Thursday evening, in all probability, $100 will be added to the $160 set aside for the evening's display of fireworks.

Reports from the publicity committee given by J. W. Payne, acting chairman, and P. W. Chase on sports and contests, were heard and approved.

Coroner Fenner A. Brown, who has been conducting the inquest into the death of the Anthony boy at Central Village on Tuesday last week, of Augustus Anthony, 15, who was killed in the road beside the bicycle he had been riding, Coroner Brown says he has taken all the testimony he has not completed his ruling.

The inquest established that the car of George Baril of Lebanon ran over the boy. The coroner says the machine which killed Anthony was a Ford touring car, dark green in color in the opinion of the Baril car. Anthony was riding, as do many bicyclists, in violation of the law, inasmuch as his machine was not equipped with a proper light. He was carrying an electric flashlight, a substitute adopted by many young riders of bicycles, when set at night, but it is not established that this light was burning immediately prior to the accident or that it was in condition to be lighted. In any event, it was not in working order when picked up near where the body lay.

As the case stands, it may have been that Anthony had fallen off his bicycle prior to being run over by the Baril car, or that he was walking beside the bicycle when he was hit, or the extreme possibility that he had been struck and knocked off his bicycle by another car than Baril's before the Moosup machine ran over him.

One outstanding thing developed by the inquest was that the Anthony boy was not complying with the law relative to carrying a proper light on his bicycle when he met with the accident that caused his death. Unfortunate as is the terrible price that young Anthony paid for his negligence in going out riding a bicycle at night without having a proper light on the machine, it should serve as a warning to many others who are doing the very same thing, and inviting serious injury or even death every time they try it.

There have been no arrests in connection with the case, and it was not indicated on Tuesday that there would be.

Norwalk are listed some important changes in fish and game laws made by the Connecticut legislature of 1929, and effective July 1. All are of interest.

On and after July 1, the taking of yellow perch under 7 inches in length will be a violation of the law, and the catch of perch is limited to 30 in a day for any one person. This is a new restriction and will be enforced by County Game Warden Charles A. Letters and his deputies.

It also will note that the closed season for partridge extends to October 5, 1930; that the "closed season" for quail extends to October 1, 1935, and that taking of these game birds prior to the dates mentioned will constitute a violation of the law. The closed season on raccoon is from February 1 to October 31.

Of special interest hereabouts is the new restrictions on the taking of perch. This fish has been regarded by many fishermen hereabouts as a moonfish, not worth much of anything and given little consideration. Tiny perch have been caught and cut up for pickerel bait, or caught and thrown away. It is nevertheless a fact that perch are a very good fish to eat, an excellent pan fish and to be relished when properly prepared. The state has now said that perch shall have protection, and has limited the size that may be legally taken and the number allowed a fisherman in a single day.

The close season on quail is another matter of interest to hunters hereabouts. Since the close season was established quail have multiplied surprisingly in territory hereabouts, and the same is true of other parts of the state. The close season on quail has two more years to go, so these game birds should be quite plentiful by that time. Ring Hungarian partridge are to be found hereabouts, but all of them are protected until October, 1930, when they are expected to be as plentiful as starlings—maybe.

Parishioners and friends of Trinity Church assembled at the parish house on St. Alban's church on Broad street, Tuesday evening, for the formal opening of the building. The new structure will fill a long felt want of the parish. It provides an assembly hall, with small stage, parlor, kitchen and other appointments. A delicious supper was served Tuesday evening as a feature of the opening of the new building.

The selectmen have had completed a general renovation of the three-cent-a-mile [illegible] installed in the town hall building by D. Blumenthal. This store produces a considerable revenue in rent for the town of Killingly each year. The store has been painted, a new steel ceiling put in, new light fixtures installed, the effect being to brighten and greatly improve the appearance of the store.

From nearby sections that are just off state highways come complaints of residents relative to the dumping of garbage, old tin cans, bottles and other debris by slovenly persons who will not take the trouble to be respectful of the rights of others in disposing of such matter. That the practice may be stopped, those observing anyone dumping such matter at the side of a highway are requested to notify the police.

Effective July 1, the [illegible] Division of the automobile law relative to reckless driving that makes speeding a form of sub-offence and fixes a special penalty therefor. It is a matter of congratulation for all concerned that cases of speeding are not numerous hereabouts, and this is due to the careful control maintained by state officers and the vigilance of local police.

Warden and Mrs. W. A. Burrowe have gone to their cottage at Oakland Beach to remain for the summer. Mr. Burrowe will return here week ends or as occasion requires to give attention to his business interests.

A number seeking medical advice attended the monthly clinic held by Dr. Hugh R. Campbell, of Norwich, Tuesday, at the Health station in the town hall building.

The 1929 season for taking black bass opens Wednesday of next week, and fishermen have the date in mind.

No definite information is available as to when construction of a stretch of concrete highway between Danielson and some point near Plainfield will be undertaken, but it is expected to be during the present season.

Stebbins' new and nicely appointed ice cream parlor now open in the Keystone block.—Adv.

There is need of extra care on the part of motorists in going over grade crossings hereabouts, now that the Bar Harbor expresses are again in operation.

Camp sites at Old Killingly pond are being made ready for the season's occupancy.

It is recalled that General Israel Putnam was a frequent guest at the historic Mortlake house, built at Brooklyn about 1771, and still a hostelry that welcomes guests.

It may be as early as 4 a. m. on July 4, when the Service battery assembles at the state armory and makes ready for its long overland run to Tobbyhanna, Pa.

Following a service, the body of Daniel B. Hatch, of Brooklyn, where he died last Friday, was taken to Bridgeport for burial. A. F. Wood was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

Raymond A. Preston of the faculty of Washington and Jefferson college is here to spend the summer with his parents, Town Clerk and Mrs. Frank T. Preston.

Howard A. Elliott and Chauncey Genung of the commissioner of domestic animals department at Hartford were here Tuesday on business.

Bagpipers and lassies who danced were here Monday and entertained man ywhile advertising a confection.

Mrs. Philias Jodoin, injured in an automobile accident at Elmville a week ago last Sunday, is now at her home on North Main street after spending more than a week at the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam. Mrs. Jodoin is steadily recovering from her injuries.

The usual half-holiday season for the store forces of Danielson will begin in July and extend through August, as has been the rule for several years.

John A. Benedict of Hartford was a visitor with friends in Danielson on Tuesday.

Governor Trumbull has as yet taken no action to fill the vacancy in the membership of the board of county commissioners, this vacancy caused by the death of John A. Dady of Putnam. The Windham county members of the legislature failed to agree on an appointee, after taking many ballots.

King George W. Jacques, of East Killingly, recently injured his hand severely, when a section of chimney he was rebuilding toppled over and crushed the member.

Observers who are a-field a great deal say there are many more rabbits this year than for several seasons and that hunting prospects are good for this fall.

East Killingly workers are raising a fund for the observance of the Fourth at that place. There will be a programme of events of special interest.

Powerlube

Any good lubricating oil, designed for internal combustion motors, has three major functions to perform.

First, to prevent metal-to-metal contact, by maintaining a film of oil between moving parts. Second, to maintain a leak-proof seal between piston rings and the cylinder walls. Third, to resist the thinning-out process to which all oil under heat is subjected.

Socony Motor Oil meets them all.*

Used in the proper grade, it presents the most effective metal-to-metal film. Its body and consistency effect the maximum leak-proof seal between piston and cylinder walls. It resists to a high degree the excessive heat of a motor, no matter what the pulling load. Insist upon Socony Motor Oil; resist spurious and cheap imitations sold at a price.

THE PRESIDENT VACATIONING

That the president has gone to the Massachusetts coast from Washington to have a vacation and spend the summer doesn't mean that he is to cast aside all the responsibilities of his office. It does mean that he will get away from the national capital during the hot period and this being the quiet season for government activities with congress not in session he will have a chance to let up on the stiff routine he has been maintaining and get some relaxation under a much modified schedule.

The country will most certainly feel that he deserves the rest that is anticipated. He has devoted himself most assiduously to the duties of the office during a trying period both before and since the election of last November. It has been some time now since congress adjourned but the president has found plenty to occupy his time in dealing with government matters. Many are the invitations to speak which he has found it necessary to decline in order to properly take care of his work.

President Coolidge has never shown any disposition to shirk his responsibilities He has in fact taken a most serious view of them, a fact which has made a strong impression upon the government and he has even this summer been unwilling to start his vacation until all matters have been cleaned up and the business meeting of the government heads held.

The president comes to a delightful section of the country for a rest and it will be the common wish throughout the country that the stay at Swampscott will prove to be all that is anticipated. Even here there will be certain routine matters that will require his attention but for the most part there will be a letting up of the arduous tasks for the next two months or until weather conditions in Washington are more favorable.

The rest period is most certainly deserved and should put the president in fine fettle for the coming winter when he will again have congress upon his hands.

DECREASED LYNCHINGS

From a study which has been made of lynchings in this country for the past 40 years by a special commission of the Federal Council of Churches there is an interesting disclosure to the effect that this form of crime has been undergoing a steady decrease in that period. The inference is that public sentiment has reacted to the efforts which have been put forth to bring about the reform, states have shown a steadily increasing opposition and the people have been crying for a better enforcement of the law in order to correct such an evil.

By decades the number of lynchings has steadily dropped. There were 1726 in his first ten years, 1239 in the second, 701 in the third and 537 in the fourth, ending with last year, during which year there were but 16.

This steady decrease is cause for gratification. It speaks well for the work that has been done to obtain such results and it also shows the good effect that it had upon those who needed such educational endeavors in order to bring them to their senses.

Encouraged by the reduction the aim is for a lynchless year in 1926. The goal is certainly a worthy one, but one questions if it has not been established too soon to be reached. The few lynchings of last year lend encouragement to such an undertaking. There could be only the heartiest desire for the attainment of a lynchless year, but while the cases where lynch law and mob rule have been resorted to are comparatively few, it is nevertheless evident that there still prevails a sentiment in certain states which, while changing, still furnishes evidence that it is dying hard.

No harm can of course come from the ambitious undertaking. It is highly desirable that this should be a lynchless country and the time cannot arrive too soon when such an announcement can be made. The fulfillment of such a hope will however mean a much greater effort on the part of certain commonwealths than upon others, but everything worth having is worth striving for.

NOT A NEIGHBORLY SPIRIT

States have much trouble in correcting conditions which originate within their own boundaries, but there are even stronger reasons why they are anxious for checking of other and bothersome conditions when they are due to the acts of others.

A case in point is that of New Jersey which is making a strenuous protest over the garbage which New York dumps at sea only to have it pile up along the Jersey shores. Jersey eventually becomes the dumping-ground for the material which New York is anxious to get rid of because of the manner in which the Empire state is destroyed it very long before directing the unfavorable or too costly results with unwanting glance. New York is now dumping its garbage to see a certain number of miles and dumping it. If [illegible]

ALIEN PROPERTY

Alien Property Custodian Hicks, who has recently taken up the duties of that office, has made an interesting announcement to the effect that there is to be a sweeping reorganization of the methods of handling the property under his control. This means much to others as well as ourselves.

There came a time during the early days of the war when for our own protection it was advisable to seize the property of the enemy located in this country, and it was considerable in amount. That has been kept in the hands of the alien property custodian for return at the proper time to the owners. It is of course a fund which serves as a means of collecting our claims against those countries whose subjects are interested in this property, for if it is found that adjustments can be made in no other way it might be used for such a purpose.

Something less than a third of a billion is now in the custodian's control, having been placed in banks throughout the country for safe keeping. There are of course unproductive and as might be expected the owners would like to get possession of them. From the custodian's statement it would appear that it was his purpose to hasten this distribution as rapidly as possible if we are to judge by his plan to hurry along settlements by which he contemplates the examination and disposition of about 900 a month.

The war is over, progress is being made along certain lines for the settlement of vrious claims and debts and it is apparent that such funds would be of much value to those who own them in meeting present day conditions and contributing to developments along various lines. It is to be supposed that in this sweeping reorganization that the interests of this country in such funds will be adequately protected

THE PERKINS CASE

There is no denying the fact that Judge McIntyre of New York fully appreciates the responsibility of the court in bringing respect for the law, if we are to judge by the statements which he made to counsel and accused in sentencing the 17 year old girl, Dorothy Perkins, to 5 to 15 years in prison for killing a youn man acquaintance.

Judge McIntyre made it plain that he recognizes the harm which comes to the distribution of justice through the general inclination to delay cases and by the sex appeals which are made in a effort to bring about acquittals and, in a straight talk to the jury during his charge and to the young woman at the time of the sentence, he let it be understood that justice calls for no distinction between male and female, that too many studied efforts have been made to play upon the leniency of the courts and that by neither approved nor would tolerate such conduct. With telling effect he pointed out the necessity for putting a stop to such methods by dealing with the facts as they are presented and disregarding the sob stuff that is injected into the cause for the purpose of causing a guilty person to be declared innocent.

The judge expressed his sympathy for the convicted young woman but he spared her in no respect when he pictured her as a bad woman despite her years and declared that she had murder in her heart some time before the shooting. He deplored the fact that young people were today responsible for so much of the crime and insisted that the way to correct it was through conviction and not through giving them their undeserved freedom.

He made it evident that he had seen too often the harmful effects of leniency, that carried no punishment. The young woman regarded her sentence as light which, in view of the fact that she has taken life and it is possible for her to get her liberty on parole in about three years seems not an unreasonable view.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Up-to-the-Minute Female

Mr. Editor:—Much has been said and written about the up-to-the-minute female. She probably likes it because it brings her into the lime light and feeds her vanity, for as old fellows she is a "strange animal." We don't know where she belongs for she is certainly not ornamental and we don't see her doing anything that benefits anyone, just masculine stunts that get no one anywhere except to make herself ridiculous; she don't know that although she thinks she knows everything that is worth knowing, it is difficult to decide from outward appearance and behavior which sex she belongs to; except that she straddles around and takes particular pains to show her legs, and quite a lot of them are a long way from being ornamental, attractive or worth looking at. Science has done a lot to assist nature in producing many queer specimens in the vegetable world but in the animal kingdom, including the human race, this one has nature beaten a mile. Another thing that she don't know is that she is a good-for-nothing, lazy loafer. We are very glad that the skirts that dragged on the ground, the hoop-skirts, the bustles and the waspish waists have gone, but that form of apparel was not indecent exposure. This one appears almost anywhere with as little clothing on as possible and not get arrested; the savage did not know any better. Long hair, unpainted faces, maidenly modesty, graceful appearance still have their place among those who have any natural refinement.

The Marriage Vow

Mr. Editor:—Because it is well to keep in step with the progress of the modern procession moving towards perfection, we desire to notice what appeared in your columns in relation to some improvements to be made in the Book of Common Prayer used in religious worship, and are being proposed by a commission of which Rev. Charles Lewis Slattery, bishop coadjutor of Massachusetts, is the head chairman.

The effort, is to abridge the Ten Commandments, modernize the obsolete verbiage, by phrasing in new forms of expression; but more particularly, perhaps, to rectify the marriage ceremony by eliminating the word "obey" from the obligation of the bride. Anything that will make the yoke of matrimony sit easier on the necks of the participants may surely be thought desirable, if possible of attainment.

The stern implication "Thou Shalt," and "Thou Shalt Not," prefixing the ten commandments indeed, always seems an impenetrable barrier to their fulfilment.

In the matter of the groom's promise to "endow" the bride with all his earthly goods, when many times nothing earthly is visible beyond the bare promise itself, might indeed be "cut out" without loss to any one. Better also to leave out the words "As Long as Ye Both Shall Live" and to substitute for these—"As Long as Ye Both Shall Find it Agreeable and Advantageous."

Wouldn't this eliminate the vexatious litigation of the courts and the crimination and recrimination attending future divorce suits? We only make these hints for the consideration of those who have the improvements in mind, hoping by brief suggestions to assist them in the great work on their hands.

Wanted Hard Ones

A small boy came to the library desk with a book which was regarded as too old for him. When this was explained to him he said: "O but I like to read hard ones. At school I read Jographys" and Boyce-Merrill and things like that."

Use of a Blowout

The June moon lighted the heavens with that romantic splendor of soft light seldom known in other months. He was courting a girl to whom he had been swearing the oaths of everlasting love for several nights along the full moon road, held the skies. She had been taking his proposals lightly, partly because of the fact that much of the courting had been underway while driving in the auto. Little had been said this night, it appearing that the young man had almost given up. Just presently as they were driving along the loud report of a rear tire blowing out disturbed the warm atmosphere. He rolled up his sleeves and went to work. At first he worked quietly, but after three such blowouts had occurred, his spirit was fired and he no less sincerity than had it been at swore softly to himself, though with the top of his voice.

"It's the 13th sure enough for me today," he said appallingly. "With all this trouble can't you see how badly I need a wife? Won't you marry me?"

Foolish thing! She accepted him believing that trouble would be less burdensome for two than for one.

From Small Beginnings

Murillo, the Orphan, the Great Spanish Painter

Everywhere in the world people know and love the marvelous picture of the Madonna, in a painting called, The Immaculate Conception, painted by the great Spanish artist, Murillo. That picture, in its original form, now hangs in the great gallery of the Louvre in Paris. It was bought by the French Government in 1852 for no less a sum than 586,000 francs. It is one of the world's most beautiful paintings and one of the most valuable. It shows a gentle feminine form instinct with life and grace and yet expressive of the heavenly. Below is a crescent moon, suggesting elevation, and around the figure are numerous angelic forms. The leading of colors, the suggestions of dim distances and the underlying thought of painting, combine to make Murillo's Immaculate Conception one of the world's best loved paintings.

The painter of this great picture was at one time almost an object of charity. Without money, living among the lowest beggars, he was obliged to paint rapidly and cheaply to gain enough money on which to live. He made flashy colored pictures for a kind of weekly publication, and painted for any poor little church or convent that offered him a job. His father and mother had died when he was only 10, and had left him at the tender mercies of the world. As a child he had shown such natural talent for drawing that he had been sent to a teacher who taught him how to draw and to paint. Then came the years of struggle when he did what he could to keep from starving.

If it had not been for the great painter, Velasquez, in Madrid, whither Murillo walked, the story of the artist's life would have been far different. Velasquez helped the struggling young artist and watched his development. Then came the period of fortune. Murillo gained popularity for his paintings, and became president of the academy. He married a woman who was so rich that, with her help, he was able to become a patron of art instead of remaining a starving artist. At all times he was a most industrious painter, and he made many pictures. In the best of these there is always the sympathetic touch of humanity, the noble idealism that is shown in The Immaculate Conception and a contrast of colors that is magical. No one of the great painters appeals to the heart more than does Murillo.

Overcoming "Line Busy"

The "line's busy" nuisance in telephoning has been mitigated in Stockholm through the use of an ingenious arrangement called the "waiting line." It will apply the "first come first served" rule to places much in demand, such as hospitals, drug stores, doctors' offices, ticket agencies, information bureaus and newspapers. This is done by the creation of a special central and whenever a number is reported "busy" by the operator or automatic switching machine, the "waiting line" is called and the desired number duly recorded in the sequence of its receipt. Then, as soon as the line is clear, the connection is made.

Smarty Chipmunk is Very Humble
You will never find it necessary
That humbleness is born of Fear.
—Striped Chipmunk.

Striped Chipmunk said that to little Mrs. Chipmunk. They were talking about the great change that had taken place with smarty Chipmunk since he had been caught by Mr. Black Snake and rescued by Farmer Brown's Boy. Smarty Chipmunk was a very different little Chipmunk. You wouldn't have known him for the saucy little Chipmunk who had thought himself so smart. Smarty no longer suited him for a name, for he wasn't a smarty at all. He hadn't been a smarty once since his dreadful adventure. He was a changed Chipmunk. He was so.

When Farmer Brown's Boy had returned to look for Smarty Chipmunk after driving Mr. Black Snake away he had expected to find just a dead baby Chipmunk. So he was both surprised and delighted to find that Smarty Chipmunk was more frightened than hurt. In fact he had had some difficulty in catching Smarty Chipmunk. Of course, being caught by Farmer Brown's Boy gave Smarty as much of a fright as being caught by Mr. Black Snake. But Farmer Brown's Boy had simply carried him back near where Mrs. Chipmunk were still calling.

But his mother came to him and led him home

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Daniel Guggenheim, who has given $500,000 to New York University for the establishment of a school of Aeronautics is the second of the seven sons of the late Meyer Guggenheim, who came to America in the steerage and began his career on this side as a peddler of stove polish and clive. When he died, Meyer Guggenheim left each of his sons a millionaire many times over, the family group rivaling in wealth and influence the famous European family of the Rothschilds. Daniel Guggenheim, as the eldest surviving son, is now the directing head of the great mining, smelting manufacturing, transportation and financial enterprises founded by his father. Just as the sons have followed their father in business, so they have continued his philanthropies. And of all the prominent American philanthropists Meyer Guggenheim was known as among the most open-hearted and least ostentatious.

Begins Spring Street Work

Street Commissioner John C. Donovan has begun the work of putting in a new turbound macadam in Spring street from Mechanic street to High street.

request of Rev. Peter M. Kennedy, then pastor of St. Patrick's church. Mr. Farrell had then just passed his 17th year.

He began at an early age the study of piano, organ and theory with his father, Lawrence Farrell, who for the past four years has made his home with Professor and Mrs. Farrell in Norwich. He continued the study of piano and organ with John J. Worsten, the English pianist, harmony and composition with William W. Lewis, later with Heinrich Gebhard, in Boston, the American tone-poet. While in Germany he studied with Alberto Jonas and with Alexander Siloti, the famous Liszt student and teacher of Rachmaninoff, the Russian pianist.

At the age of twelve, he held his first position as organist at Seymour, Conn., continuing at school. At sixteen, C. Marshall Darrah, the Shakespearian reader, hearing Mr. Farrell play, engaged the talented youth to tour with him as "the Boy Pianist." It was while he was playing at Binghamton, N. Y., that Rev. Father Kennedy, who had known him as a child and had watched his development, called him to Norwich, to become organist at St. Patrick's church.

Since then he has worked most faithfully, never missing any time except when preparing for the concert stage, for seven months in Germany. He returned, making his debut in New York city. He has continued his recitals, filling engagements each year at various places in New England and New York.

In Norwich, Professor Farrell has done much for the advancement of good music, working particularly hard with young and ambitious students. He conducted the Norwich Symphony orchestra of fifty local men, and engaged as artists Lillia Snelling, Metropolitan contralto, and Samuel Levanthal, violinist, of Hartford. This was the first concert of this kind ever given at Slater hall.

Then, co-operating with the late Archibald Mitchell and others, he worked in obtaining subscriptions to the first Mitchell concerts held in Slater hall in Norwich, at which Eugene Ysaye, world-famous violinist, played. Mr. Mitchell, of the firm of Porteous & Mitchell, was always and ever a warm friend and enthusiastic admirer of Mr. Farrell's playing and it was largely Mr. Mitchell's encouragement and belief in him as an artist, that decided Mr. Farrell to appear in public as a concert pianist.

Mr. Mitchell, having heard many artists, and loving and understanding music, continued in his enthusiasm for Mr. Farrell's genius until his death. Mr. Farrell has given again and again his services, free for musical affairs, several times playing a piano program for the Norwich Musical association and twice playing concertos with orchestral organ accompaniment by his colleague and friend, Frederick W. Lester, both at Park and Broadway churches, under the auspices of the same association.

Each year he has brought out before the public one of his most promising students, preparing each for public free recitals. Beginning with Gladys Latimer, (now Mrs. Welles Lyman), at the Norwich Club house, Henry J. LaFontaine, Adolph Dugas, Hortense Caron and Eloise Hawes, under the auspices of Norwich Music association, have been presented to the public.

His most promising student, James Olsen, of Jewett City, was heard this year at a private recital and later at a public recital, the second one in Providence, where his playing was broadcasted.

Mr. Farrell was engaged a few years ago among the first all-American artists to appear in a musical festival at Lockport, N. Y., which festival was opened by former President William H. Taft.

While William A. Slater lived in Norwich, Mr. Farrell was engaged to play for him at his home, with the Boston string Quartet; also at the home of the late E. N. Gibbs, now the Gale mansion, where he was assisted by Mrs. Elizabeth B. C. Sleight, of New York, then a leading Norwich singer. He was the choice of the women of the United Congregational church to open the Community House with a piano recital, played as soloist in the Slater Hall course with the Philadelphia Symphony orchestra, twice for the Norwich College club for their Connecticut College scholarship fund and he gave several recitals at the old Y. M. C. A. hall. Most of these recitals were for the benefit of some public or private cause.

The last recital in Norwich, one of the Sunday Lenten concerts at the Palace theatre, one long to be remembered was arranged by Mrs. Edwin W. Higgins, Mr. Farrell playing Liszt E-flat concerto, with organ accompaniment by Mr. Lester, the Dominican organist, having Mrs. [illegible]

[illegible] Mr. Lester for [illegible] Dominican Sunday Chorus [illegible] realized that he was [illegible] an artist, and that next [illegible] recital he [illegible] accompanist. [illegible] Mr. Farrell [illegible] with great success [illegible] Dominican [illegible] Mr. Farrell [illegible] as pianist by [illegible] Orchestra.

While in Cologne, Germany, through some musical friends, it was arranged for him to play the great organ at the Cathedral. Here he gave a recital on the Lobach Piano Manufacturing company, of Passaic, N. J. There he was the first of the United States consul, who was his personal friend.

Mr. Farrell has had a class in New Haven the past year, also one in New York city, but has discontinued the latter because of the distance in commuting.

Mr. Farrell has a prodigious memory, memorizing and having at his command an unlimited number of compositions; he has, as one musicianlover has said, "an almost super-human mind."

At St. Patrick's church he has been noted for always rendering the best of music, the choir singing masses written by the old composers and arranged by their director with masterly skill.

His new church in New Haven is situated among the Yale university buildings, in one of the oldest, wealthiest parishes of the Elm City, had a highly paid quartet choir, and he will have an assistant organist.

Mr. and Mrs. Farrell reside at 242 Washington street. While the former will take up his new duties in September, Mrs. Farrell will not leave town for New Haven for several months.

It is also a matter of general regret that she, too, is to remove from Norwich.

For fifteen years, Mrs. Farrell has given her services for Sunday and special church devotions. Before coming to Norwich she studied with John W. Karl, of New York, and was a member of the Damrosch chorus. After coming to Norwich Mrs. Farrell studied with the late Charles D. Geer, of Norwich, and with William Heinrich, of Boston.

She has been active in all civic causes, especially for the Red Cross, and in combination with the late Mrs. William Camp Lanman, in several visits to Hartford, was largely instrumental in persuading the state commission to make the appropriation for the Norwich State Tuberculosis Sanatorium, for New London county.

With Miss Bella Leavens, Mrs. Farrell promoted the organization of the Junior Red Cross in the Norwich schools. She was one of four women chosen for the first large War drive in Norwich; is a charter member of Norwich Music association, member of the Art association, charter member of the Catholic Women's club, also of the Catholic Council of Woman, on the visiting board of the Backus hospital and for one year served on the State Board of Charities. She has given generously of her time, talents and energy in a multitude of local, religious, social and charitable projects.

Her pleasing singing has been a feature of all the important services in St. Patrick's church.

COUNTY DETECTIVES UNDER STATE POLICE SUPERVISION

HARTFORD, June 23.—(AP)—Governor Trumbull has informed State's Attorney Arthur M. Brown of New London county that he has decided to put all county detectives under the general supervision of the state police department. Acting under authority of a bill adopted in the recent session of the legislature, he will require all who want to continue to be county detectives after July 1 to become members of the state police by special appointment of the state police commissioner.

All but one of them have, at some time, been state policemen.

The county detectives affected by the governor's order are:

Edward J. Hickey, Hartford county; Anthony Tomasie, Litchfield county; William E. Jackson, Windham county; Stanley Giselli, New Haven county; William G. Lewis, New London county; Roland G. Alling, Waterbury district.

The general orders of Superintendent Robert T. Hurley of the state police by the new arrangement, their relations with the state's attorneys with whom they are now serving will remain undisturbed, except that all records of their work shall be available to Superintendent Hurley at all times. In some instances lately, county detectives and the state police have been working at cross-purposes, and conflict over the possession of articles of evidence has arisen.

Governor Trumbull said he was determined to have co-operation between these two police agencies, both of which are maintained by state funds. He found State's Attorney Brown readily agreeable to the plan. The only other state's attorney who has approached the governor on the subject, is Charles E. Searles, of Windham county, who has written the governor announcing his reappointment of County Detective Jackson and an increase in his salary from $2,500 to $3,000 a year subject to the governor's approval.

Tuesday evening, before a large crowd of excited fans, the Centrals defeated the Eastern Connecticut Power Company in a hair-raising contest 7 to 6. The game was by far the best of the Twilight League to date and kept the fans on their toes throughout the game.

In the sixth inning, the game threatened to come to an abrupt close when the whole Central team caused a near riot over one of Hank Morin's decisions. Davis opened the frame with a single to left. Harris walked and when Gaudette juggled Joe Hull's tap to the box, the bases were filled. After Charley Rinley had pulled the "Casey" the play that nearly disrupted the battle occurred. Cormier shot a liner to right, and L. Dugas, the Central's right fielder, catching the ball, attempted to get the ball away too soon, and it rolled to the ground. Dugas claimed he held the ball long enough for the putout, but Umpire Morin ruled otherwise. The whole Central team then went to pieces temporarily,- throwing the ball every where but the right place, and before they settled down, both Davis and Harris crossed the plate. The Centrals then gathered around the umpire, disputing his decision on the play on Cormier's fly to right, and for a time it looked like a battle royal. After much arguing, however, the Centrals returned to their positions, and the game was resumed. Ferguson then flied out to Murphy, who threw to the plate to prevent Joe Hull from scoring. Joe after getting half way to the plate turned back, and Eccleston the Central's catcher, threw the ball to third. Yerrington let the ball go through him and both Hull and Cormier scored. Ringland then lined to Gauthier and the score was 6 to 5 in favor of the E. C. P.

In their half of the sixth the Centrals tied up the game. With one out, Eccleston singled between first and second, stole second and went to third on a wild pitch. Eddie Murphy then fanned and with two strikes on A. Dugas, Eccleston started to steal home. Dugas struck at the ball when Ferguson dropped it. Eccleston scored and Dugas was safe on first. Gauthier then popped to Harris.

After the E. C. P. had been retired in order in their half of the final inning, the Centrals scored the one run necessary to win. After Yerrington had fanned, Gaudette shot a single to left, and reached second when Davis dropped the throw from the outfield. Bruce Dean batted for Gere and drew a pass. Gaudette stole third and scored the plate with the winning run on Lefty Dugas' sacrifice fly to right.

The Centrals broke into the scoring column in the very first inning, when they scored once on singles by L. Dugas, an error, and A. Dugas' single to right. There was no more scoring until the first half of the fourth when the E. C. P. forged ahead by counting twice. Gaudette had himself to blame for the scoring in this inning when he committed a balk. With two out and Hull on third as a result of a pass and two infield outs, Ed Harris drew a pass. Gaudette after facing the batter attempted to catch Harris in stealing second, and the umpire rightly called a balk. Hull scored, and Harris took second on the steal and third on the balk. Harris then tallied on Joe Hull's hit to the infield.

In their half of the inning the Centrals counted four times on singles by Yerrington and Eddie Murphy, two walks, and two errors. The fifth was sporadic on both sides and what happed in the two final innings has already been related.

The game marked the third straight win for the Centrals and makes them the only undefeated team in the league. Gaudette on the mound for the winners held the E. C. P. nine to five hits, all of them singles, and fanned seven.

Tommy Simcox pitched the first four innings for the Power Company but was forced to retire on account of illness. Tommy did not have his usual good control and was far from his usual self. Ed Harris twirled the last three frames, and although the winning runs were scored during his stay on the mound he did not deserve to lose. The score:

| Centrals | Com. Power Co. |
| [illegible] | [illegible] |

Two base hits, Yerrington. Hit by pitcher, by Simcox (A. Dugas). Struck out, by Gaudette 7, by Simcox 2, by Harris 2. Bases on balls, off Gaudette 2, off Simcox 2, off Harris 2.

Tonight's Game.

A few more games like those played at the Duwall field last night and the night before and the fans will forget that there ever was a National or American league. The kind of games that have been played over there for the past few nights are the kind that a man with a weak heart wants to keep away from, because every inning something has happened to make an ordinary man's heart stop beating.

The fans may think that they have gotten their money's worth during the past few games but according to George Madden, manager of the Nuggets, and Lane, at the helm of the Tantic team, which clash tonight they haven't seen anything yet, as both of these wise old owls have signed up men with reps that would make the best of them take a back seat. For Tantic either "Steve" Posick, who last year pitched for the State Hospital and this year is doing his stuff in the New London league, or else "Tilly" Daniels, mainstay of Bulkeley, state championship team, who in high school circles has only met defeat in two games out of eighteen starts will do the pitching. For the Nuggetts, Madden will start either Lloyd Jarvis, the only man that stopped the Bulkeley team this year or Johnny Greene, another star of the Academy team, who has won his way to the hearts of local fans with superb work on the mound for the Academy.

It is remembered that when Lloyd Jarvis at the head of the Academy team turned back Bulkeley this year Tilly Daniels was not pitching for Bulkeley. This has been the cause of much an argument as to whether the Academy team would have turned the trick had Daniels been in the box for Bulkeley and should all these fans have a laugh on them? Daniels will be on the mound for Tantic while either Jarvis or Greene will be on the mound for the Nuggetts. Both games will be played at the Tantic Memorial field and Middletown fans will have a chance to see the two games for the price of admission.

MANAGER WILHELM TO PROTEST GAME WITH ALBANY

BRIDGEPORT, June 23—(A. P.)—Albany turned the tables on the Bears here today, a seven-run start in the first inning paving the way for a 13 to 7 victory. The win gives the league leaders a margin of three and one-half games over the local club in the pennant chase. Thirteen Albany batters faced the pitcher in the first inning and nine in the second. Reisinger hit a home run over the right field fence in the ninth inning, with one man on base. Kiso Wilhelm, local manager, is to protest the game upon Umpire Summers' refusal to call Genin out in the second part of what Wilhelm called a double play. The play happened in the second inning with the bags crowded. Caulway popped to Batch and the latter in throwing to first to double up Genin threw high over first baseman Wotell's head into the bleachers. Genin got back to the bag and then raced to second Schinkel, who was on third, scored on the peg. After the ball had been returned to the field, Batch took it and raced to first to touch the bag to double up Genin. Here Umpire Summers refused to call the runner out, declaring that Genin had returned to his base before going to second on the erratic peg.

The score:

Albany ..... 140 000 082—13
Bridgeport ..... 202 021 000—7

KAPLAN MUST MEET HERMAN AS FIRST OPPONENT

NEW YORK, June 23.—(AP)—Louis (Kid) Kaplan of Meriden, Conn., featherweight boxing champion, must accept the challenge recently filed by Babe Herman before he can meet any other boxer in New York, the state athletic commission ruled today. The commission refused to sanction Kaplan's proposed meeting with the European champion, Edouard Mascart, at Coney Island next Tuesday.

Jimmy Slattery of Buffalo, youthful candidate for heavyweight honors, has been added to the July 3 card, a benefit for the Italian hospital fund, but his opponent has not been selected.

The commission approved contracts for six boxers who will appear in the hospital fund engagements, those of Greb, Walker, Harry Wills, Charley Weiner, Jack Sharkey and Joe Lynch.

SOLOMON GETS JUDGES' VERDICT OVER AD STONE

NEW YORK, June 23.—(AP)—King Solomon, Panama heavyweight, was awarded the judges' decision over Ad Stone, of Philadelphia, in a sensational ten-round bout here tonight. Solomon was fast and strong in every round, outboxing his opponent at long range and finishing with sensational rallies in the ninth and tenth.

Solomon, with weight and reach in his favor, fought much more impressively than he did in scoring over Romero Rojas a few weeks ago. He flashed a stiff left jab and crossed his right heavily to body and face as they came to close quarters. In the last two rounds, Solomon was all over his opponent, his aggressive attack earning him the verdict of the judges.

The weights were announced as Solomon, 184 1-2; Stone 178 1-2.

CANNEFAX IS SUSPENDED BY BILLIARD LEAGUE

CHICAGO, June 23.—(AP)—Robert L. Cannefax of New York, three cushion billiard champion, today was suspended by the National Three Cushion Billiard league for one year as a result of his conduct in a recent game with Willie Hoppe, of Chicago.

Cannefax, after losing to the former balk line billiard titleholder, slashed the cloth on the billiard table with a pocket knife, causing Hoppe to refuse to continue the match. The suspension means that Cannefax will not be eligible to play in the league next season.

Chapman Gets Decision.

CLEVELAND, June 23.—(AP)—Red" Chapman, Boston, was given the decision by newspapermen over Al Corbett, Cleveland featherweight, in a ten-round bout at Olympic arena here tonight. Chapman took eight out of ten rounds.

SOCCER TEAM BEATS SECTION IN HECTIC GAME

NEW LONDON, June 23—In one of the wormiest games played here for some time the Standard Oil nine, profiting by Bill Barry's home run to deep left field with the bases full in the fifth inning, defeated the Section Base nine by a score of 5 to 4. The arguments which arose frequently during the game, an infuriated fan struck him, found the umpires committing grave mistakes in rendering their decisions. The mob was at times uncontrolable and it surged upon the field and, at one instance after Umpire Bailey called Decoteaux out after he hit a double, an infuriated fan struck him.

The game was a thriller from the start to finish and will stand out as such for a long time to come. Kicking strenuously at each decision, the Section Base received the worst part of the deal. The game would have been in the bat bag but for the poor decisions on the parts of the umpires. The Standard Oil nine had all they could handle in the fast place team, and Posick came close to being knocked unconsciously out of the box. His support saved him while that accorded Dickson was poor.

Two base hits: Barrington, Ellt by pitcher, by Dickson (Barry). Struck out, by Gaudette 7, by Dickson 2, by Harris 2. Bases on balls, off Gaudette 2, off Dickson 2, off Harris 2.

Harvard with 628 was third and Yale trailed fourth with 637.

J. M. ## ENTRIES BEING RECEIVED FOR INVITATION TOURNEY

The July Fourth Invitation Tennis Tournament at the Norwich Golf Club is now open for entries and all tennis players in eastern Connecticut are urged to enter this tourney. The entrance fee is nominal being $1. It will be constructed on a basis of a handicap tournament and will consist of the men's doubles and singles. The first round will start on Friday July 3rd and will continue through the fifth.

That is the second of these informal tournaments to be sanctioned by the Norwich Golf club the first being on Memorial day and which was a decided success. These tournaments lead up to the final Eastern Connecticut championship which this year is sanctioned by the United States Lawn Tennis Association.

Tennis is gaining such a firm hold in Norwich that the Norwich Golf club has sanctioned the establishment of a special tennis membership at the club which gives the privilege of the tennis courts, two of the best courts in the city. The membership is, however limited and many of the memberships have already been taken. The growing popularity of the game has brought about this special membership and gives evidence that Norwich will soon be back in the tennis world as it was a number of years ago. The Norwich Golf club is to be commended on the opening of the club to tenis players and it fills a long-felt want of good tennis courts. In Norwich there are some real good tennis players and such action by the club opens a new field for them.

Entries for the July Fourth tournament should communicate with Russell A. Clapp, chairman of the Tennis Committee of the Norwich Golf club.

THREE AMERICANS QUALIFY FOR BRITISH OPEN GOLF

TROON, Scotland, June 23—(A. P.)—Numbered among the eighty-one players who have qualified for the British open championship are MacDonald Smith, Jim Barnes and Joe Kirkwood, American professionals, whose aggregate scores in the two qualifying rounds were well up with the leaders. Kirkwood had 153, Smith 154 and Barnes 155.

With only two exceptions everyone who has ever been anybody in British professional golf played well enough to get in with the survivors, and most of the unhonored and unsung competitors fell by the wayside. The only notable failures were James Braid, several times title holder, and George Gadd, the professional for the fashionable Roehampton club.

All the well known foreigners who came here in quest of the championship are also among those who earned the right to try for the cup when the battleground shifts on Thursday from Troon to Prestwick.

Moses O'Neill, a lanky Irishman from the Robin Hood club of Dublin, contributed the lowest score, 144—71 for the first round yesterday and 75 today. Only one stroke behind him was the professional of the St. Cloud club, near Paris, Aubrey Boomer.

In a tie with Boomer for second place were Ernest May and Arthur Compsen, both British professionals.

From the appearance of things tonight this championship is likely to have the keen flavor of an international battle. Everyone considers the three American aspirants especially dangerous. MacDonald Smith will start favorite over all the field.

The inexorable influence of father time was responsible more than anything else for the failure of James Braid, who a score of years ago formed part of the grand triumvirate that shared most of the championship honors on this side of the Atlantic.

"My eyes are getting weak," he said when he had finished the second round today. "I cannot judge the distance flag as well as I used to."

Braid's scores were 80 and 79, a total of 159, which left him one stroke outside of the selected fold.

George Gadd's fall was due largely to an accident that robbed him of the use of his wooden clubs. At the third hole he twisted his knee so badly that he was unable after that to bend it sufficiently to use his driver.

ATHLETICS RALLY IN 9th AND BEAT RED SOX, 3 TO 2

PHILADELPHIA, June 23.—After being blanked for eight innings, the Athletics made a rally in the ninth and scored three runs to beat Boston by a score of 3 to 2. Two wild throws by Lucey, a former pitcher, playing short for the visitors, helped the Mackmen, but Bill Bagwell pinch hitter for Rommel in the ninth hit to left for two bases, sending the tying and winning run across the plate after two were out. ## Ponies Beat Senators HARTFORD, June 23.—Hartford errors were responsible for Springfield's scoring four runs in the first, third and fourth innings, the Ponies defeating the Senators today 5 to 2. Hartford outhit the visitors, Solomon knocking in all the locals' runs with two doubles. Score:

SPORT WORLD BRIEFS

Water polo is much more popular in Great Britain than in America.

The first rowing regatta on the Hudson river course at Poughkeepsie was in 1827.

The English Football Association has voted in favor of amending the rules allowing a player to remain onside when two defenders are between him and the opposing goal, instead of three as now.

When first organized in 1894 the United States Golf association had a membership of only four clubs.

Miss Cecil Leitch of Great Britain is the only woman golfer to win the British, French and Canadian championships.

The first cinder path in America was built on the grounds of the New York Athletic Club at Mott Haven in the year 1871.

Taking the world over, more people play billiards than any other game.

Some of the nicknames still borne by prominent baseball clubs have descended from the earliest days of the game.

The record for the four-mile eight-oared varsity race over the Poughkeepsie course is 18.53 1-5, made by Cornell in 1921.

First prize for the 3500-mile race from San Francisci to Tahiti is a trophy, costing $5,000 presented by Sir Thomas Lipton.

The season of professional football in England usually begins the last week of August and continues until nearly the middle of May.

The Trudgeon stroke, which is generally regarded as one of the fastest strokes for short-distance swimming, originated among the natives of the South Pacific islands.

A celebrated Finnish sculptor has been commissioned by the government of Finland to execute a statue of the famous runner, Paavo Nurmi, which it is proposed to erect in one of the public squares in Helsingfors.

The first notable rowing regatta in the South was held at Charleston, S. C., in 1857. The races extended over two days and attracted famous crews and individual oarsmen from points as far distant as New York City.

The old prize ring saw some wonderful examples of pluck, but none finer than the famous battle between Tom Sayers of England and John C. Heenan of America. They kept at it long after Sayers had an arm out of action, and Heenan both eyes blinded, the match being declared a draw at the end of 42 rounds. It was the last battle in which Sayers engaged.

In all his twenty-two attempts to swim the English Channel Iabel Wolffe was never nearer success than in his first one. After only seven hours' swimming he had covered 15 miles, 12 of them on the direct course. Success seemed assured, and in his elation he put on a tremendous spurt, with the result that his left leg gave way. The pain was very severe, and, as he relied on his left leg for propulsion, every stroke became an excruciation. Nevertheless, he kept on, and it was not until nearly three hours later that he allowed himself to be taken out of the water, when only three-quarter miles from the French coast.

Russian Ambassador To Berlin

Here is the newly appointed Russian Ambassador to Germany, who succeeds Nikolai Krestinsky, who has resigned his position to go to Soviet Russia as Ambassador. Krestinsky is one of the old guard of the Bolsheviki and has been in the diplomatic service of the country since the days of the Czar. He is said to have been the author of the famous Zimmerwald manifesto, which "broke" between Germany and Soviet Russia. Krestinsky is a Jew.

Radio for Miners

Experimental work designed to test the availability of radio as a means of communication between miners entombed following mine fires and disasters and rescuing parties on the surface, conducted by the department of the interior at the Pittsburgh experiment station indicates that ordinary radio apparatus would not be practicable for the purpose, says the Scientific American. There is some promise, however, in the application of "wired wireless," or line radio, which under mine conditions means transmission along conductors pipes, power and lighting circuits and mine car tracks, and the use of ground-current methods of signalling.

Because of the higher conductivity and resultant attenuation of the high frequency radio waves in penetrating the earth, relatively high-power equipment which means bulk and weight, would be required for mine rescue purposes. For reliable communication by pure radio over distances of even 1,000 to 3,000 feet through strata, transmitting equipment with an input of from 50 to 200 watts or more, and used in conjunction with a sensitive receiver, would be required.

Such equipment would be much too bulky, heavy and complicated to fulfill the requirements for practical mine apparatus.

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, June 23—It seems to be difficult for the new operators of automobiles in New London to understand that parking and traffic ordinances are in effect here. The opinion created by the fact that almost every day there are cases before the police court in which violations of the traffic ordinances are alleged and the accused persons plead guilty. Today there were several such cases. Women are the offenders as well as men. Tony Longo, a man the police have endeavored to get into court several days, was there today. He was what the traffic officers called "thick" and did not seem to understand the necessity of answering a subpoena to get-thing to court. Tony said he was willing to go on with the case, but as his lawyer had telephoned that he was on the way the case was carried over on the docket till the 26th inst. The fellow who brought Tony, one Jimmy Marino, was himself arraigned for failing to heed the signals of Traffic Officer Frank Lenihan, who gave Jimmy signals to stop when he was mixed up in traffic, and the officer pursued him to overtake him. Jimmy said he got mixed as to the signals and supposed the officer wanted him to keep going. Jimmy was fined $5. What the penalty will be for Tony is not yet known. His case has been continued four times.

Lillian Moran, a resident in the rural section stopped her car on Bank street and allowed it to remain there more than an hour. She said she did not realize the passing of time. Judgment was suspended in her case as it was in a complaint against Lauretta Glenn, for the same offense.

Monroe L. Beckwith a Waterford farmer, hopped into his car and drove to New London in his shirt sleeves. He had left his operating license in his coat so he did not have it to show when an officer stopped him for some reason. His carelessness cost Monroe $3.

Roger Halstead Tinker was charged with reckless operation of a car he ran down a boy on Howard street several weeks ago and put the boy under the care of a doctor. But Beckwith was reasonable about the matter though the boy ran in front of the machine that was approaching. Tinker should have stopped, but his judgment was that he could avoid playing that southern game known as He has paid the bills attending the injury of the lad so that the court called the case upon Tinker paying the costs of trial.

Steve Stobolik, a youth, and two companions, were charged with indulging their passion to gamble by at the Underhill residence, 307 Huntington street. They are not gamblers in the true sense of the word, so the case was continued till the 12th of September that their future conduct may be observed.

Clarence A. Willis, 164 Homestead street, Hartford was taken into custody this noon by Patrolman John Sullivan charged with operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor. He was locked up and will be given a hearing in the police court tomorrow morning. A companion who was in the machine with Willis, was also locked up on a charge of intoxication. Willis and his friend came to New London about 12 o'clock and in passing through Bank street, Willis ignored a signal of Officer Sullivan to come to a stop to permit an elderly woman to cross the street. After the pedestrian had been escorted to the sidewalk in safety, Officer Sullivan commandeered a passing automobile and gave chase to Willis' car. The machine was overtaken on Shaw street, near Hamilton street and Willis and his friend were placed under arrest. Willis had a partially filled bottle of liquor in his possession when arrested.

PRESIDENT'S SPECIAL TRAIN RUNS THROUGH AT 10:37 P. M

(Special to the Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, June 23.—President and Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, en route from Washington to Swampscott, Mass., where the presidential mansion will be located during the summer and where the nation's chief executive will handle the affairs of his office, passed through New London on a special train of the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad tonight. Others aboard the train include 4 secret service men.

The train reached New London at 10:37 p. m. and left at 10:43 o'clock, for Worcester, where it will be transferred to the Boston & Maine railroad for the balance of the trip, the train stopping in New London only long enough to permit a supply of water being taken by the locomotive. Fifteen minutes prior to the arrival of the train here Acting Lieutenant James D. Gaffney had four patrolmen and several special agents of the railroad to handle the crowd of curious men and women who assembled in anticipation of obtaining a glimpse of the president, but in this they were disappointed for President Coolidge did not put in an appearance and the only activity observed aboard the train was an occasional shadow of some of the occupants of the special moving about.

To assure the safety of the president's train a pilot preceded the special being composed of a locomotive and coach and it was operated less than ten minutes ahead of the special.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Palace Theater

The last performances of the Augustin Stock company in the big laugh hit Fair and Warmer will be given at the Palace theater today with a matinee starting at 2 p. m. and tonight at 8.10. On the screen starting at 7 o'clock is 'Johnny Walker in Life's Greatest Game. Fair and Warmer is a gale of laughter from start to finish and it is drawing large crowds to the Palace. The members of the local stock company are all giving excellent performances and everyone who enjoys good wholesome laughter—plenty of it—will be certain to see Fair and Warmer today. For the last three days of this week starting Thursday night the Augustin Stock company are presenting that famous stage classic known the world over, Charley's Aunt. This play has been a reigning success for the past 20 years and its presentation here will be hailed with delight by the theatergoers of this vicinity. William Augustin will portray the leading role of Charley's Aunt from Brazil where the nuts come from, and it will give him the finest opportunity he has yet for a display of brilliant comedy talent. We have seen him in farce and melodrama but Charley's Aunt will be the funniest he has yet appeared in. Miss Floyd will be seen as the girl of the story which is a very good part. That she will be delightful in it is certain from the little leading lady's performances here. The rest of the members all have excellent roles. Charley's Aunt is now playing in New York at two dollars a seat and the theatergoers of this city who miss seeing it here at popular prices will miss one of the best entertainments that they ever had the opportunity to witness. On the screen starting at seven o'clock will be shown Richard Talmadge in Youth and Adventure.

Richard Talmadge never has to study stunts. The daring deeds which he makes his screen followers gasp, come almost as second nature to him; and he has a picture packed with new deathdefying tricks in his latest offering, Youth and Adventure, which comes to the Palace theater on Thursday for a three day run. But in addition to being an athlete who leaps from aeroplanes, roller-coasters and automobiles, as he does in this production, Talmadge is a stickler for getting things right. Therefore he spent several days in the office of one of the largest Los Angeles newspapers getting posted on his part of a young newspaper editor which he plays in the current attraction. Margaret Landis takes the feminine role opposite the active star, while Katherine Lewis, Joseph Girald, Pete Gordon and Fred Kelsey are in support.

Broadway Theater

James Cruze, noted Paramount producer, who jumped into the directorial limelight with The Covered Wagon and other cinema successes recently completed a new Paramount picture which is being hailed as another screen masterpiece

The Goose Hangs High is his latest of photoplay epics, and local film fans will soon have the opportunity of judging its worth because it is due at the Broadway tomorrow for a three day run.

The story was adapted by Walter Woods and Anthony Coldewey from the Lewis Beach stage play of the same name which reigned in New York and Chicago for several seasons.

It deals with a small-town American family—the Ingalls parents and children. All their married life Ingals and his wife Eunice have sacrificed themselves for their children with the result that Hugh, Lois and Bradley have grown up pleasure-livin- extravagant and self-centered.

The plot takes an unexpected turn when disaster threatens the family. How the children rise to the occasion and prove their real worth is developed in a series of vivid, absorbing situations which lead to a surprising climax.

The hand-picked cast includes such popular players as Constance Bennett, Myrtle Stedman, Esther Ralston, George Irving and Edward Peil, Jr.

This great picture will be seen in addition to five acts of B. F. Keith vaudeville which opens tomorrow, the only vaudeville in town.

Bread Theater

Fox Film Corporation promises rare entertainment at the Bread theater today where will be shown the special production Dick Turpin, a picturization of the thrilling life of the celebrated English highway robber hero with Tom Mix in the title role.

Dick Turpin was the original Anglo-Saxon devil-may-care horseback rider and the association between he and his peerless mare, Black Bess, is comparable to that existing between Tom Mix and his wonder horse Tony. For this reason, though the picture might be called a "costume" picture and not the kind usually associated with the name Tom Mix, the followers of this dashing western star will see him at his best, performing marvelous feats of horsemanship in eluding the law officers of England of 175 years ago.

Dick Turpin is the most expensive production in which Tom Mix has ever appeared and it will win him many new friends here.

The presentation of the life of the dashing bandit with Tom Mix in the pivotal role marks the most important forward milestone in the artistic career of this Fox star, for it will be his first premier on Broadway despite the fact that for years he has been a prime favorite in New York's outlying and neighboring theaters.

A feature of the presentation is the carefully selected and unusually powerful suporting cast. The players include the lovely Kathleen Meyers, proclaimed the most stunning woman on the screen, Philo McCullough, James Marcus, Alan Hale, Sid Jordan, Lucille Hutton, Bull Montana and Jack Herrick.

TO RESTORE BOAT TRAIN ON NORWICH & WORCESTER BRANCH

Superintendent E. B. Regan and Assistant Superintendent R. M. Smith, of the New Haven railroad, attended an important conference in Worcester, Tuesday, concerning passenger service of this division.

While returning to New London these officials stopped over in Norwich to inform the Chamber of Commerce that the former "boat train" service on the Norwich and Worcester branch would be restored to the schedule next Monday.

The new schedule will not be exactly the same as the old one because of important connections to be made in Putnam. In the former schedule the first train arrived in Norwich at 5:59 a. m., going to Putnam. The new schedule will bring this train to Norwich a little earlier. The last train to New London formerly left Norwich at 8:10 p. m. This train will also be advanced a little.

The gasoline bus will again operate on this division, making its first trip to Norwich about 7:15 a. m. Its trip from Norwich will be made about 4 p. m. to New London.

The officials have not had time to make an accurate schedule of the changes quoted above. A special bulletin will be issued and the changes will go into effect next Monday.

While the early and late railway mail service has been restored to Norwich and eastern Connecticut, the business men and manufacturers may be hampered in the deliveries of the American Railway Express. The traffic bureau of the chamber will look into this matter. The bureau has performed a splendid bit of service to eastern Connecticut and Norwich in this matter of pushing the restoration of the former railway mail service.

Chagnon, assistant pastor of the church. Preceding the ceremony, the insigne of the bride's membership in the Children of Mary society was removed at the altar of the Blessed Virgin by Miss Lillian Laramie and Miss Alma Frechette. The church was filled with relatives and friends of the young couple, and was prettily decorated for the ceremony. The bride was handsomely gowned in white crepe de chine, with veil of tulle, and carried a bouquet of white rosebuds. Her maid was her sister, Miss Coranne Paradis, who wore old rose crepe with hat to match and carried pink rosebuds. The best man was James Hanlon, a personal friend of the groom.

NORWICH FIRM BIDDERS FOR MANCHESTER CITY HALL

At Manchester, Conn., bids for the construction of the new city hall were opened Monday night at a public hearing of the selectmen and the building committee, named as a joint committee to award the contract. Frank Farley, of New York, who drew specifications, was also present. There were six bidders.

The first bid was that of the Manchester Construction company which bid $179,798 and would require 272 days. Gustave Schrieber, who has built many large buildings, bid $193,755. The Eastern Construction company, of Bridgeport, bid $203,938 and wanted 400 days to complete. The Central Engineering company, of Rhode Island, bid $185,000, but gave no time in which to complete. In its bid the Manchester Construction company also gave an alternate bid agreeing, with the changes to be made from the plans of the architect, to do the work for $160,000, with limestone instead of marble and a New Haven firm bid $188,756 with 1177 days in which to complete.

They also put in an alternative bid which provided for substitution of limestone instead of marble, and if this change was made they would do the work $18,000 cheaper, bringing their bid to $170,750.

The lowest bidder was the Peck-McWilliams company, of Norwich, for $174,500. Instead of sending a certified check, it sent a surety bid bond. Objection was made by William Knofla of the Manchester Construction company, but the committee ruled that there would be no arguments, as details would be taken up in executive session.

The committee has decided to give the matter further consideration before announcing to whom the bid is to be awarded; there will probably be an announcement within ten days.

MAKING STREET CROSSINGS VISIBLE FOR DRIVERS

The street crossings in the center of the city are being repainted by Street Commissioner John C. Donovan in conjunction with the police commissioners. A pure white paint is being used in the work and it is the intention to keep the white lines clearly visible at all times during the summer months. Drivers are expected to watch all crossings and to give pedestrians the right of way while they are crossing the streets.

TWO CITY RESERVOIRS ARE HOLDING THEIR OWN

The thunder and lightning storm of Saturday night gave a rainfall of .38 of an inch as measured by the water department office.

The two city reservoirs are not gaining any but are holding their own with the assistance of the pumping station at Trading Cove brook which is still operating and has been operating daily ever since the last week in December. As the pumping station supplies 2,900,000 gallons daily, it is apparent what the condition of the reservoirs would have been at this time if there had been only the rainfall to rely upon without the pumping station. It is probable that it will be considered advisable to keep on pumping until the first of July.

At the present time Stony Brook reservoir is down 3 inches from the old pond measurements before the 5 foot addition was put on the dam. Fairview is down 4 feet from full pond.

Should the pumping be discontinued during the summer, the draft of water will result in lowering the reservoirs considerably as the summer rainfall will undoubtedly be insufficient to match the draft of water, and it would then be necessary to start the pumping station again in the early fall.

GUSTAVE HOFFMAN FIGURES IN AN ODD EPISODE

A former Norwich resident and brother of the late Paul Hoffman, Gustave Adolph Hoffman, noted artist, discussed at Rockville this week his side of the episode which resulted in Judge John E. Fahey on June 12, fining Oliver H. Neff of Grove street $10 and costs of $12 for an assault and battery upon the artist June 7. It had been reported that the assault arose from Miss Martha Hoffman, the artist's sister, calling Neff's wife a "name" on the street. Neff resenting it and retaliating with his fists. Mr. Hoffman denied that his sister had called Mrs. Neff a name. Miss Hoffman testified in court that what she did say, was that Mrs. Neff was a "little snobbish." She denied that she had used a word which sounded like "mob."

Neff's story in substance was that he had gone to Hoffman's house to demand an apology from the artist for his sister's remark, the artist refusing and picking up a club, Neff had struck him to defend himself. Hoffman's story is that Neff came onto his premises with clenched fists, and so infuriated that he was incoherent. Hoffman ordered him off the premises, and Neff struck him a blow which felled him. Miss Hoffman attempting to defend her brother rushed between them with a little basket, but did not strike Neff with it, she said. Neff thereupon wrenched Miss Hoffman's arm, and crushed the basket, as Hoffman also testified, on the stand. When Neff struck at his sister, said Hoffman, he picked up a small surveyor's stick to defend her, and Neff tore it out of his hand and struck him in the eye.

From that point there seems to have been a scuffle in which Hoffman's left seventh rib was injured. In commenting on the case at the time of the hearing, Judge Fahey said that Neff had not taken the proper means to redress his grievances against the Hoffmans, that the means he did take might have resulted in a state prison offense. He expressed at the same time some sympathy with Neff if the latter had acted as he had because he thought his wife had been insulted. Prosecutor Dennis J. McCarthy said he never had any intention of preferring any charges against Miss Hoffman.

There was a sequel to the incident Friday last when Neff publicly acknowledged that neighbors had reimbursed him for the fine which he had paid the court.

JUDGE TAKES PAPERS IN CONTESTED FORECLOSURE

Judge Isaac Wolfe took the papers in the civil action of Pawel Sablewsky of Norwich, against John Dydo, of Preston, at the conclusion of testimony and arguments in the superior court here Tuesday afternoon. The case, which was originally set for trial before the jury, and which was taken from the jury last Wednesday, took up that day and Thursday. The plaintiff sues the defendant for foreclosure on a mortgage for $2,500 while Dydo has entered a counter claim for $1,000 damages. He makes the claim that he was deceived in the purchasing of the farm from Sablewsky as to its acreage, the condition of the buildings, the size of a milk route, and the condition of the well water. Three or four days after Dydo moved onto the place the state dairy commission served notice on him that he must not sell milk from the farm because the well water was contaminated.

WATER BOARD TO HAVE ITS ORGANIZATION MEETING

The organization meeting for the board of water commissioners is to be held this (Wednesday) evening at which the resignation of John J. Corkery as president of the board will be presented. As has already been announced, Mr. Corkery finds that his health requires that he be released from the active duties which holding these positions call for, but he will continue as a member of the board.

In consequence of his retirement from office, the board will be called upon to fill the vacancy and it was the impression in certain circles Tuesday that the choice for supervisor would be William H. Callahan, who is now cashier of the department and clerk of the board. The name of Joseph Williams was also suggested as a possible candidate for the position of cashier.

ASSESSORS AT WORK ON TAXATION PLAN

The board of assessors have taken up the work of revaluation of the taxable property in Norwich, the task which was turned over to them by the instructions from the special town meeting. Miss Mary A. Dolbeare has been engaged as the clerical assistant to the board and Arad R. Manning continues as president.

At present the assessors are attempting to evolve a plan by which they can accomplish the revaluation of the property of the citizens in order to reach the equalization which is the object in view.

JUNIOR SHORT COURSE HAS ENROLLMENT OF 600 BOYS AND GIRLS

(Special to the Bulletin)

STORRS, Conn., June 17—Six hundred boys and girls from all parts of the state are expected to attend the seventh annual Junior Short Course at the Connecticut Agricultural college, to be held July 21-26. This was the statement of A. W. Brundage, state leader in boys and girls club work, in his announcement of this year's course Monday. It will be, by far, the largest enrollment in the history of the short courses at Storrs, and but for the lack of facilities to carry a larger group the enrollment figures would run to a much higher total.

As explained by Mr. Brundage, the Junior Short Course is planned for boys and girls who are members in good standing of the 4-H clubs organized under the county farm bureaus. These boys and girls are conducting home enterprises in agriculture and home economics, and in attending the State College for this short course, they take the courses in either agriculture or home economics in which they are the most interested.

Following are the subjects which will be taught in the short course: Leader training, radio, floriculture and home ground improvement, nature study, homemaking, poultry, dairy animal husbandry, bees, farm management, gardening, farm shop work, and farm machinery and concrete work. Swimming lessons will also be given to those who desire to take them.

The daily program, which all boys and girls enrolled in the course must observe is as follows: 6.15, rising; 6.45, morning exercise; 7-7:45, breakfast; 8:15-11:45 classes and inspection trips; 12-12:45, dinner; 1:15-2:15 assembly; 2:30-4:15, laboratory work; 4:30-5:30 recreation; 5:30-6:15, supper; 7-8, vespers; 8-9, evening program; 9:30, lights out.

A number of additional features are being planned that will add much to the pleasure and value of the courses this year. Men and women of state and national reputation will be brought to Storrs to talk to the students on appropriate subjects. Athletic contests between counties and members of courses will be held each day. The last day of the short course will be given over to the conduct of a typical club exhibit which will include displays, demonstrations and a judging contest. Evening vespers conducted daily by the students will be a feature of the course. The last night of the short course, July 25, a banquet will be given. This will be followed by several one-act plays which will be put on by the club members.

The growth of the Junior Short course can be seen in the following figures: 1919, 77; 1920, 110; 1921, 159; 1922, 259; 1923, 258; 1924, 319; 1925, 406 (estimated).

Both boys and girls from every county in the state are represented in the foregoing figures. Poultry, with dairying coming a close second has been the most popular course with the boys. Clothing with foods a close second has been the most popular course with the girls. Much interest has also been shown by the girls in nursing, several former short course students later entering hospitals to train for this work.

STATION TRAFFIC OFFICER AT WASHINGTON SQUARE

A number of changes in the beats of police officers have been put into effect. The changes which were made by the board of police commissioners affect six officers. Officer Henry Fenton who for several months had been on day duty on Franklin square and Main street has been transferred back to his former beat on Water street, night duty. Officer John Donovan has been transferred from night duty on the Thames square beat to day duty on Franklin square and Main street. Officer Frank Gwiszdowski, appointed a regular member of the force at a recent meeting of the court of common council, has been given the Thames square beat, taking Officer Donovan's place. Officer Charles McFadden who has been patrolling the Water street beat has been transferred to the Thames street night beat. Officer Peter Sullivan being transferred from the Thames street night beat to night duty in Greeneville.

The commissioners have transferred Officer Luke Riley from night duty in Greeneville to day duty as traffic officer at Washington square, this being a new traffic appointment.

Baltic Birthday Party

LEGHORNS RING CHANGE AS STORRS EGG LAYERS

During the thirty-third week of the egg-laying contest there were several significant changes among the leading pens in the White Rock section. In the Barred Rock class Everett M. Clark of Brookfield Center, Conn. has taken third place of R. W. Davis and sons from Rockland, Maine. In the Rhode Island Red group Deer Brook Poultry Farm from Short Falls, N. H. has passed Pinecrest Orchards from Groton, Mass., and is now in second position. The leaders among the Wyandottes and Leghorns all held fast. The total production for all pens in the thirty-third week was 4,423 eggs or a yield of just over 47 per cent. J. C. Patton's pen of Leghorns from Charlotte N. C. lead for the week with a score of 58 eggs. Two other pens of Leghorns entered by LeRoy Wilcox from Spoonk, L. I., and Rechle's Sunnyside Farm from Pleasant Valley, N. Y., were second and third for the week with scores of 53 and 52 eggs respectively. Harriet Smith's pen of Barred Rocks from Newburyport, Mass., was fourth from the top with a tally of 51 eggs.

Rose chafers, rose bugs or rose beetles as they are variously called have made their annual appearance in Connecticut. These pests feed on grape vines, roses, daisies and other flowering shrubs and chickens in turn feed on these bugs that are unfortunately poisonous. The chafers emerge from the ground in the adult stage regularly about this time of the year and in general all have disappeared by the middle of July. These insects do no damage to hens but kill chicks up to ten weeks of age. Rose bugs are slow moving, slow flying beetles that seem to invite chicks to chase them. The result is that the indiscreet chick consumes these beetles sometimes in large numbers. The chicks die the next day. The only remedy is to separate the chafers and the chickens. The latter are probably safe on clean mowed fields and as a last resort chicks can be confined to their quarters or bare yards until the rose chafer season is past.

The leading pens in each of the principal varieties are as follows:

Washington Sees Little Prospect For Early Subsidence of Anti-Foreign Wave Now Sweeping Parts of China—Fear Expressed That Provisional Government's Stand May Serve to Encourage Disorderly and Riotous Elements—Canton Refugees Claim Russian Officer Ordered Chinese Troops to Fire on the Shameen Foreign Settlement.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—(AP)—Official advices from China today increased the concern with which officials are watching developments there.

While no report has reached the state department from Peking on the Chinese note to the diplomatic body, and while official word was lacking today as to the immediate situation in Canton, there is no doubt officials here have cause for anxiety and see little prospect for early subsidence of the anti-foreign wave sweeping parts of China.

In the absence of definite word from Charge Mayer at Peking of the new note, comment was withheld on the reiterated insistence of the Chinese provisional government that extra territorial treaties be revised. The fact that Mr. Mayer had not resorted to emergency methods for rapid communication with Washington, however, was taken in some quarters as indicating that he and his diplomatic colleagues had not abandoned hope in their dealings with the central authorities.

The most alarming aspect of the Peking diplomatic correspondence as seen here was the probability that the provisional government's stand might encourage the disorderly and riotous elements engaged in anti-foreign demonstrations.

The assumption of the Peking government that the diplomats are prepared to proceed immediately with a joint confessence covering the wider aspects of extra territoriality rather than the immediate incidents at Shanghai is not in accordance with fact. The diplomats suggested that they would consider requesting authority from their governments for such a conference, provided the Peking authorities agreed to an immediate settlement of the Shanghai case on its own merits. Ostensibly the provisional government has replied by reiterating hopefully the same demands that abruptly terminated the recent abortive conferences at Shanghai.

The Peking diplomats have not as yet requested authority for a general conference nor does it appear likely that the Washington government will send any instructions to Mr. Mayer in that regard, until his report and recommendations have been received. Short of such an outbreak or attack upon Americans as would require drastic action and the augmentation of American naval forces in China, it is unlikely that the Washington government will consider any departure from its policy of acting in general harmony with the other powers through the Peking diplomatic representatives.

RUSSIAN OFFICER ORDERED CHINESE TROOPS TO FIRE

LONDON, June 24.—(AP)—Dispatches from Hong Kong received here today say Canton refugees who have reached Hong Kong declare a Russian officer was in command of the Chinese who fired upon the Shameen foreign settlement at Canton yesterday, when J. Pasquier, a French merchant, was killed and several foreigners were wounded.

The dispatch attributes to the refugees the statement that a procession of cadets from the Chinese Wampoa military academy, armed with machine guns and rifles, headed a procession which was marching along the bund at Canton. A Russian was in command of the cadets, the refugees said. Foreigners were at Shameen, their concession.

The dispatch says: "They say the Russian officer ordered the cadets to fire whereupon a ragged firing was directed on Shameen killing M. Pasquier and injuring others."

JURY DISAGREES IN [illegible] CASE

[illegible] DEAD MAY BE TO JURY FRIDAY

CHELAGO, June 24.—(AP)—Two more victims of William "Dashing Dan" Caswell were buried by the hurried undertaker today.

That of a prohibition [illegible], a victim of a dastardly plot, prosecuted by powerful interests bent upon breaking a $2,000,000 will was the portrayal the jurors, were left to ponder over when an early adjournment cut short the opening argument of William Scott Stewart, chief of defense counsel.

Just what it, however, was the representation of [illegible] as a diabolic plotter who had introduced a new species of murder into Illinois, a gang who had used typhoid germs to slay his rich foster son, Billy McClintock and worthy of death upon the gallows for it. Such was the painting of George E. Gorman, first assistant state's attorney, in his opening plea for the state.

A crowded court room was electrified by Stewart's opening statements.

"Our platform in this case is that Shepherd is innocent," shouted Stewart. "If you gentlemen think Shepherd had dealings with Fatman, hang him. You are either dealing with a man who killed and should be hanged or with a man who is the victim of the vilest plot ever heard of.

"If you believe that he dealt with Fatman, hang him. He had no business having dealings with Fatman."

"Let the verdict in this case say in no unmistakable terms 'Obey the law: the wages of sin is death,'" concluded Gorman.

Upon completion of Stewart's opening address, probably before noon tomorrow, his associate, W. W. O'Brien, will appeal to the jury.

Robert E. Crowe, state's attorney, will follow in the closing argument of the trial. The prosecutor said tonight that it was his opinion the case would go to the jury some time Friday.

"The lawyers are speaking without time restriction," Gorman required nearly four hours. Stewart spoke nearly that long, and said he had not nearly finished at adjournment.

Prosecutor Crowe, Judge Harry Olson, Alexander F. Reichmann, Chicago newspapers and various witnesses for the prosecution were subjects for several tirades in Stewart's argument.

Charles C. Fatman, chief accuser of Shepherd, and jointly indicted with him, was dealt with in particularly harsh language.

Fatman testified he gave Shepherd typhoid germs, and taught him how to use them to slay young McClintock before his proposed marriage to Miss Isabella Pope could nullify the will by which the youth had named Shepherd chief beneficiary of his estate.

Coolidge at [illegible] Summer White House

Presidential Party Takes Up Residence At "White Cedars" For Extended Vacation Period.

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., June 24—(A. P.)—The summer White House became a reality today with the arrival here of President and Mrs. Coolidge for an extended vacation period. Plainly pleased at the prospect of spending several months among old friends and neighbors, they took up their residence at White Court, a roomy mansion that commands a sweeping view.

Detraining at Salem after an overnight journey from Washington, Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge motored through a lane of North Shore residents to Red Gables the summer home of Frank W. Stearns, a friend of long standing. There they had breakfast and lunch with Mr. and Mrs. Stearns and Senator Butler of Massachusetts and during the afternoon, they took possession of White Court, adjoining the Stearns estate.

At Salem, the president was greeted by Mr. Stearns, Senator Butler, Representative A. Piatt Andrews of the Congressional district including Swampscott, and Mrs. John Jacob Rogers of Lowell, who is a candidate for the house seat made vacant by her husband's death last March.

At Red Gables the three selectmen of Swampscott were waiting to pay their respects, and later William Young, president of the Lynn Chamber of Commerce, which arranged for executive offices in the nearby city of Lynn, was presented to Mr. Coolidge.

The only other engagement the president had before dining quietly tonight in his new home, was with a small army of photographers and newspapermen. The reporters got little news but the camera men had a field day.

In jovial spirit, the president and his wife spent half an hour posing for pictures. First they were photographed at the front door, with the twelve towering pillars that form the portico as a background. Then to please the photographers, the president ordered one of the White House automobiles from the garage to "stage an arrival" as he put it, entered the car with Mrs. Coolidge and Rob Roy, the White House collie, which was tugging at the leash, and stepped out at the entrance to the accompaniment of clicking and grinding cameras. Eager for more pictures of Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge in their new surroundings, the photographers asked them to pose down by the sea. After they had accommodatingly done so, the president remarked:

"The only other resource we have is the garden. Do you want a picture of that?"

The camera men did, and standing in front of an arbor of roses, Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge and their dog completed their round of posing. Four little neighbors' children edged shyly up to the president, who greeted them with a smile, when Mrs. Coolidge made them feel at home by joking with them.

Mr. Coolidge chatted with the newspaper men, a number of whom had accompanied him from Washington, and expressed to the white delight at being back for a vacation in his adopted state, over which he once presided as governor; at the reception given him at Salem and along the highways to Swampscott; and at his new surroundings.

No engagements have been arranged for the president tomorow, and it is probable that he will remain in seclusion, seeing few, if any callers. From his study in White Court he will have direct telephonic communication with Secretary Sanders at the Lynn offices and through the telephone switchboard there can talk directly to Washington.

Cool weather which would be almost unseasonable at this time of year in Washington greeted the president today, the thermometer at noon in the temporary executive offices, where a sizable clerical force will be maintained, being below 70 degrees.

Difficulty Over Radio Equipment Settled After Secretary Wilbur Serves Ultimatum on Expedition Leader That Navy Radio Equipment Must Be Taken Along Or the Navy Section Would Return to Washington—Standard Long Wave Apparatus Regarded as Essential For Safety and Efficiency of the Expedition.

WASHINGTON, June 24.—(AP)—Complications over the radio equipment of the MacMillan expedition, which for a time threatened to terminate its life, were adjusted today at Sydney, N. S., and tonight the party was said to be preparing to proceed late this week toward its main base at Etah, Greenland.

The adjustment was not reached, however, until Secretary Wilbur had served an ultimatum on Donald B. MacMillan, leader of the expedition, through Lieutenant Commander R. E. Byrd, chief of the navy section, that standard long wave radio equipment which had been left in the United States must be taken along or the navy section would return to Washington.

Announcement of an amicable solution of the difficulty through acquiescence in Mr. Wilbur's demand was made here by the National Geographic society, one of the sponsors of the expedition, after a long telephone conversation with its representatives in Sydney.

The society's announcement said the navy radio equipment, which Secretary Wilbur regarded as essential to the safety of the naval section, had been left behind because of an oversight. Mr. Wilbur said the department was first informed it had been left behind because neither the Peary nor the Bowdoin, base ships of the expedition, had room for it.

The expedition had entered an agreement with the navy department, Mr. Wilbur asserted, to carry the navy long wave apparatus.

The equipment weighs 3,000 pounds and was to have been landed at the Peary at Boston. It was left behind, however, and when navy officers found it at the dock, it was sent by a tug to Wiscasset, Maine, where the Peary was to call and be joined by the Bowdoin. Both vessels sailed from the Maine port without the equipment, and the next day Commander Byrd reported to Secretary Wilbur that it had been left behind.

The destroyer Putnam was at once sent to Wiscasset and picking up the radio apparatus, started for Sydney, N. S., the next port of call of the expedition, where it was due today. At the same time, Mr. Wilbur dispatched an order to Commander Byrd that the equipment should be taking aboard at Sydney or the navy section would return to the United States.

The equipment was regarded by the navy as essential, not only to the safety but to the efficiency of the expedition, to supplement the short wave apparatus on both planes and ship. As the expedition sailed it was equipped only with short wave apparatus, except for a long wave apparatus, except for a long wave set on one of the planes for communication with the base ships. The apparatus now to be taken aboard the Peary at Sydney will be set up on that ship and used to communicate with the planes when in flight.

Upon receiving word from the Geographic society that the difficulties had been smoothed out, Mr. Wilbur expressed pleasure and said he was "glad the expedition could go on in a systematic way and do its work surely and cautiously so that what is done will be worth while."

NEW HAVEN, July 24.—(AP)—Olympia Macri, charged with the murder of John Bagnasco, alleged father of her child, will be brought to court tomorrow morning to hear the decision of Judge John R. Booth on whether or not it is now possible for her to receive a fair trial by an impartial and unprejudiced jury in New Haven county.

Following completion of arguments of State's Attorney A. A. Alling's motion for a change of venue, the judge indicated that he was ready to announce his decision from the bench, but owing to a question whether the accused had a right to be present, decision was reserved until tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock.

Defense Counsel Joseph Koletsky based his arguments chiefly on the contention that the state had no right in law to ask for a change of venue that it was the exclusive right of the accused. After Attorney Koletsky had quoted decisions in numerous states and other authority to bear out the contention, the court made the observation that these decisions did not have a bearing on the Connecticut situation, as in every instance quoted, the constitutions of the states guaranteed the accused the right of trial by jury in the county or district where the alleged crime was committed.

In the authorities quoted by Koletsky it was set forth that the request for a change of venue was the exclusive right of the accused, unless legislatures had provided that such a step could be taken by the state. After a glance at the authority the court observed that it did not see anything there that affected the present case, in view of the fact that Connecticut had a statute.

TROLLEYMEN TO REJECT COMPANY'S PROPOSAL

HARTFORD, June 24.—(AP)—In spite concession by the Connecticut company which returns the wage scale to the same figure as from June 1, 1920 to June 1, 1925, made at the conference just ended at New Haven between committees from the men and President J. K. Punderford, Hartford trolleymen will reject the proposal by vote tomorrow, according to sentiment expressed tonight at a mass meeting at Central Union hall. The sticking points, say members of the committee, are the refusal by the company to establish a nine-hour day, standard working hours, and to give seniority to trolleymen on the bus lines. The wage scale "probably would be acceptable," although the raise they asked was rejected, union officials said.

It is the second time within two weeks that a vote has been taken on the proposals by the company, the first being on a wage cut of three cents an hour and general maintenance of last year's working conditions. Unanimously the trolleymen throughout the state rejected this. Hartford employes sending their committee back to a second conference at New Haven with instructions to try to arrange for standard working hours. The contention made here is that the present hours, while according to proper schedule where length is concerned, are spread over twelve to sixteen hours a day.

WESTERLY

For a fire in the dump at William Loudon's, off Lincoln avenue, Pawcatuck, the West Side fire alarm whistle on the press works of the C. B. Cottrell and Sons company was sounded on Wednesday afternoon, about 4 o'clock. The alarm was reported to have been pulled by a boy from Box 62, Liberty street and Stillman avenue, when the flames were seen arising from the frequently burned place. The truck of the P. S. Barber Hose company of Pawcatuck responded and a line of fire hose was laid down Lincoln avenue from the fire hydrant at the corner of Liberty street. A well directed stream soon had the fire out. The wind was taking it in the direction of the Quality Ice Cream factory. There was no loss.

During the noon hour Wednesday, fire was discovered burning briskly on the shingle roof of the stone model shed of the Smith Granite company, on Granite street. The fire is supposed to have been set by a spark from the chimney of the adjoining blacksmith shop which the high wind prevailing fanned into a flame which was burning freely, at the time of the arrival of three trucks of the Westerly Fire department. The alarm was sounded from Box No. 34, corner of School and Granite street. Water from two hydrant streams were directed on the blazing roof under direction of Assistant Engineers George McKenzie and Columbus Pasetti, in the absence of Fire Chief George E. Egger, who is in attendance at the third annual meeting of the New England Fire Chiefs in Pittsfield, Mass. In addition to the fire department hose lines, a line of hose from the Smith plant was used to put out the fire, which burned over a considerable area before brought under control. In the model room were many models which were uninjured, but which, if destroyed it would have been impossible to replace.

DANIELSON

The meeting Wednesday was that another special borough meeting will be called to again consider the matter of constructing a sewer through a portion of Reed street between Hohenzollern and Carter streets. A proposal to build this line of sewer was defeated by a close vote in Tuesday evening's special borough meeting.

In explanation of their plans to ask for another special borough meeting to reconsider the adverse action of Tuesday evening proponents of the plan to build the sewer point out that they have built or are building homes and should not be denied sewerage facilities for disposing of sewage from these homes—that it is not fair to make their build contracts when their homes, on one of the best streets in the borough, are in the immediate vicinity of constructed sewer lines, part of the cost of which is rebated in their tax assessments. They argue that all in the proposed sewer building zone do not want sewers, because of the cost that will be assessed against each abutting property owner. This is a small consideration, they point out, as an excuse for blocking progress for the general good of the community. They contend that widespread would have left Danielson, if followed out generally, back in the days of oil street lamps and kerosene lanterns.

The petitioners for the next special borough meeting will appeal to all the people of Danielson who live along streets where sewers have been built, with the aid of all taxpayers, to assist them in getting what they regard as their just dues—to give them only what many have received through the years at the expense of all taxpayers. The cost will be minor compared to some of the sewer building operations the borough has undertaken in the past.

The proposal to build a sewer in Hutchins street was also turned down by the special town meeting, but the meeting did authorize the construction of a sewer line in L'Hommedieu street, newest of the borough streets, and not nearly as well developed as Broad or Hutchins street.

The meeting also voted to dispose of the old borough hall property on Water street and the borough is expected to realize $2,500 from this sale.

Having had two weeks' vacation, as do many in the summer time, the boat trains will be back next Monday morning on something approximating their former schedules. This good news, brought to town by The Bulletin Wednesday morning, was hailed here with great satisfaction. The return of the evening boat train will lessen the rush of many to get out mail to catch a train leaving here at 4:47 p. m., the last south-bound of the day. Appreciation expressed here over the restoration of the boat trains was in line with the feeling about the subject in all the towns along the railroad.

Danielson people did not have the pleasure of seeing President and Mrs. Coolidge when their special section of the Bar Harbor express ran through here Tuesday night. Neither did the townspeople know that the chief executive of the nation was scheduled to ride through this town on his way to his summer home in Massachusetts. Announcements of celebrations indicate that there is to be a revival of interest in gurth of July. Goodyear, Dayville and East Killingly all have their plans, and so has Jewett City. Danielson is resting on its laurels. It had a wonderful celebration of the Fourth in 1923.

Operations of the inter-state bus line running big coaches over the highways between Hartford and Providence are understood to be seeking ways and means of removing the ban which prohibits their taking on or discharging passengers excepting at terminals. The operators want to accept passengers in all the towns along the route and let off patrons, without restrictions.

Sidney R. Morland is coaching a cast made up largely of Brooklyn people that is to present a comedy drama in that place for the benefit of Trinity church. The cast includes Sidney W. Bard, J. Kimball Hargraves, J. Dyer Potter, Mamie H. Potter, Oscar V. Atwood, Henry Bock, Myra J. Frink, Florence Blake, Florence Hargraves and Laura Pike.

Another thing that leads to the tagging of parked cars by police officers in Danielson is the thoughtlessness of drivers in leaving their machines astride a cross-way, as indicated by white bands painted on the pavement. These crossways are in a measure regarded as safety lanes and are to be kept clear for pedestrians.

A warning of the early part of the week relative to shoplifters operating in Danielson has stirred merchants and their staffs to a more careful watch to detect the thieves. While this watchfulness has not brought guilty ones anyone, it has served, no doubt, to handicap the operations of those who would live by their dishonest wits.

As soon as the new schedules of the boat trains are announced for the period beginning next Monday, Postmaster E. H. Bacon will make known the changed arrangements for the closing of the mails.

Wednesday morning some thermometers in Danielson showed readings as low as 47 degrees, an exceptionally low mark for June.

George R. Hadley of Springfield was a visitor with friends in Danielson on Wednesday.

Misses Margaret Morrison, Helen and Madelyn Cronin are at Eastern Point for the summer season.

It has been remarked by many that the evening motor traffic all through this section is lighter than has been the rule for several years. This is attributed to the general condition of business.

Sayville Pioneers, headed by Arthur Hughes, have the distinction of being the first group to occupy the new sleeping lodges at Camp Woodstock, the Y. M. C. A. tri-county camp at Black Pond.

Frank L. Bonney of Attleboro visited with friends in Danielson on Wednesday.

Repairs and renovations will be made in schools of the town of Killingly during the summer vacation period.

There have been no recent developments relative to the plan of permanently paving the road leading from Main street, to the state armory. It is seen, the start of this work will be begun by summer.

THOMAS WEAVER'S BRAVERY TO BE DULY REWARDED

NORTH GROSVENORDALE, June 24—That heroism has its reward in time of peace, as well as of war, will be exemplified in Central Village Saturday afternoon. The presentation ceremonies are to be held in the town hall. For the Humane society, Speaker E. P. Darbie of the house of representatives at Hartford, will make the address and present the medal of white gold. Men of prominence in the political life of the state and county will be present as well as prominent citizens from many walks of life. The ceremonies will be public.

was drowned, the Pearl children had ventured on thin ice over the stream near what is known as the "old dam." Hollow mill, had broken through, and were struggling for their lives when Mr. Weaver happened along. He was traversing that territory in connection with his duties as an employe of the Connecticut company, operating the trolley line between Danielson and East Killingly.

Heavily clad against the bitter cold, Mr. Weaver hesitated not an instant. He broke through in attempting to reach the boys and was so exhausted by his efforts and so chilled by the icy water that he came near to giving his own life as a forfeit for his bravery, before he succeeded in bringing two of the boys to safety. In the meantime the third boy had gone down and lost his life. Mr. Weaver suffered a severe reaction from his heroic effort and was brought to the state police barracks here and given attention.

Much honor will be shown Mr. Weaver at Central Village Saturday afternoon. The presentation ceremonies are to be held in the town hall. For the Humane society, Speaker E. P. Darbie of the house of representatives at Hartford, will make the address and present the medal of white gold. Men of prominence in the political life of the state and county will be present as well as prominent citizens from many walks of life. The ceremonies will be public.

HARTFORD CHEMIST TO TESTIFY IN NEW LONDON HOTEL RAID CASE

(Special to The Bulletin)

NEW LONDON, June 24.—That the authorities intend to introduce every possible fragment of evidence in an endeavor to convict Frank May, one of the proprietors of the Hotel Winthrop charged with violation of the prohibition law for keeping liquor with intent to sell, was revealed today when Henry McDonald, chemist in the employ of the Newlands laboratory, Hartford, notified the police that he would be in attendance at court next Friday when May is placed on trial. McDonald made the analysis of the samples from the 212 cases of beer that was a part of the seizure at the hotel, and his report to Acting Prosecuting Attorney Percy J. Hollandsky today shows that the beer contains an alcoholic percentage of three and three quarters. Besides the beer seized by the raiding officers several bottles of Scotch whiskey were taken in the raid, which was made by members of the New London police department on the night of the Yale-Harvard race last Thursday. The raiding of the hotel attracted a large throng, so great was the crowd that the sidewalk in front of the hotel was impassable during the progress of the raid.

Clarence A. Willis, a Hartford plumber and William Datro, also of Hartford, but not a plumber, came here yesterday with the intention of bathing at Ocean beach. They did not carry out their plans. Instead, they got into the police station and this morning they were presented in the police court where the former was fined $50 for reckless operation of an automobile and the latter was fined $5 for intoxication. The pair drove down Bank street, headed for Ocean beach regardless of how they got there. An aged woman was crossing to Montauk avenue, and she had to dodge to escape injury by the Willis car. She was successful in that. Policeman John Sullivan was a witness of what took place and he sounded his whistle for Willis to stop. The latter did not mind whistles, but speeded on. Sullivan commandeered a car and pursued and overtook the fleeing pair. They had a bottle of liquor in the car and this was confiscated by Officer Sullivan. Datro admitted that he was drunk for he pleaded guilty when arraigned. Willis said he was "reckless" in operating the car for he, too, pleaded guilty. Willis didn't have the money to pay his fine and the attending costs so he spent the day in the county jail. The car the fellows had was a borrowed one belonging to a man named Lyons of Hartford who came here later in the afternoon to recover his property. The price of baths has never been determined in this city, but when they cost more than $60 the figure is regarded as a large one. And the bath was not obtained even at that price. The seekers after it just got a look at the water.

John Hefferman, about 60, who has been a wanderer in this city several years, was today committed to the workhouse as a vagrant. He has not had a happy life in recent years for he has battered about from pillar to post without a place that he could call "home." He admitted that he had no shelter and that he could not work, so the court mercifully provided him with a place where he would be fed and protected and where he could be kept clean for the six months that are to come.

Faust Pierferrici, a young man, was fined $2, a cheap price at that, for parking his automobile on Bank street, yesterday afternoon while he attended a theater. Faust admitted that he did not read the papers often enough to keep posted on what autolists were supposed not to do. It was expensive to be thus ignorant, a fact that Faust admitted as he paid his bill.

There is a good deal of complaint because the price of fish at the boats that moor at the public landing is the same as in the markets of the city. The council made a low rate for wharf moorings in the belief that citizens could buy fish at a lower cost than is charged at the markets. That agreement, if it was ever made with the fishermen, has not been adhered to. The fish sold at the boats is not always fresh fish either, as it is received by the fishermen from Boston and New York and is iced for preservation. Perhaps the city council will hunt up the agreement with the fishermen if such a document can be found and secure compliance with the agreement.

Mrs. George H. Crandall returned to her home 285 Broad street, today following being under treatment several days at Home Memorial hospital.

Edward Barrett, of 46 Dean street, Groton; Andrew Cushier, 171 Poquonock road, Groton; Mrs. Joseph Gomes, 17 Hill street; Mrs. James Armstrong and infant daughter, 104 Howard street; Joseph Lester, 171 Poquonock road, Groton; Fred Borowinkel, United States Coast Guard; Miss Arlene Lambdin, Greenwood park; Stefano Cholast, United States Coast Guard; Miss Olive Sibrat, 303 Huntington street; Edwin Pergil, United States Coast Guard and Miss Ethel Chaperap, 19 Summer street, Westerly, patients at Lawrence-Memorial Associated hospital, returned to their respective homes today.

The body of Lorraine Carroll, 7, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Carroll, of New York, formerly of New London, which reached the latter city Monday, was brought to New London this afternoon for burial in Jordan cemetery. The committal service was conducted by Rev. Charles S. M. Stewart.

Miss Ruth Skaling, little daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred S. Skaling, 65 Montauk avenue, was operated upon at Lawrence hospital today for a condition of the ear caused several months ago when the child tripped and fell against a barbed-wire fence that divided the property occupied by her parents from that of an adjoining owner. The injuries the child sustained resulted in a court action for damages at the time, but was settled without going to trial.

Harry Brightman, Hartford automobile salesman, a summer resident at 29 Park street, Ocean beach, is the owner of a massive police dog. While residents of that section of the shore colony do not object to the size of the animal, so strenuously have they voiced their grievance at the conduct of the dog that the matter was today placed in the hands of Dog Warden John Sweezey. The entrance of the dog warden into the case resulted in an order being served on Brightman this afternoon, following complaints being made that the dog was both a nuisance and vicious by Henry J. Welsch and Mrs. Etta Weimer, both Hartford residents, who are summering on Park street. Unless the dog is kept securely chained in the Brightman yard and a discontinuance of the continual yelping of the animal the owner will be prosecuted. The notice on Brightman was served at 4 o'clock and becomes effective at once. According to Welsch and Mrs. Weimer, the dog has attacked pedestrians of late and although kept on a leash, is frequently in charge of a little girl, who is unable to restrain the dog when he starts to attack people. Patrolman Ernest Opperman, on duty at the beach, was attacked by the dog this week, but the officer was without his club and could not beat the animal off and before the officer could pull his gun, it is alleged that the dog started on a run, in another direction, dragging his girl charge.

MORE

The funeral of Ansen J. Beckwith, former well known business man, was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at 49 Shapley street and was attended by many mourners, including a delegation of members of Mohegan lodge, No. 55, in which order Mr. Beckwith had held membership many years. The services were conducted by Rev. J. Romeyn Danforth, pastor of the First Church of Christ. Members of Mohegan lodge acted as bearers. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

An automobile owned and operated by Mrs. Annie McKee, 71 Blackhall street in passing through Main street last night struck Mrs. Kate Sunby, colored, 394 Main street, as the latter was crossing the street. Mrs. Sunby was thrown to the pavement and injured. She was taken to a doctor's office where the injuries were determined to be not of a serious nature and after the wounds had been treated, she was taken to her home.

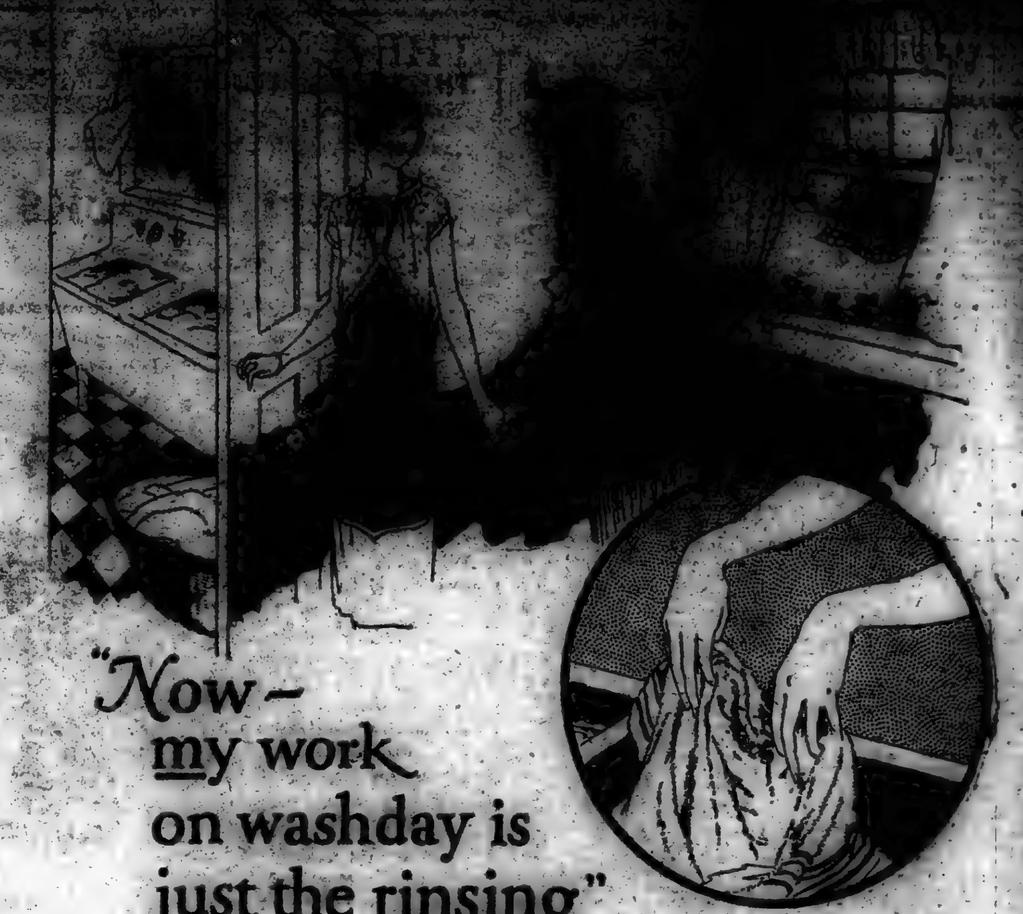
An automobile, owned and operated by Albert R. Crane, Bronxville, N. Y., was in collision this afternoon with the police speed automobile which was in charge of Officer Howard Sloan. The police auto received damage and Crane assumed responsibility for the collision by paying the cost of making repairs to the car, $4.

Stephen Delmarte, 16, residing at 78 Shaw street, complained to the police this afternoon that his bicycle, which he had left by the curb on Shaw street, had been struck and damaged by a team driven by Mendel Adel, a peddler.

Elisha Stanfield, colored, was arrested today by Patrolman Howard Sloan, charged with intoxication and breach of the peace. He was released tonight when Nathan Peck became surety on his bond of $50 for appearance in the police court tomorrow morning. Stanfield was in the vicinity of Atlantic and Potter streets which is a loitering place for many of the colored population because of the location there of a barbershop, catering to negroes, and a negro club room. Stanfield had been drinking considerably when he appeared among other negroes and he was in an argumentative mood. He argued long enough to argue into trouble for in a short time he engaged in combat one of the other frequenters of that vicinity with the result that he was quickly subdued and placed in a cell only to be later liberated pending his court hearing.

James G. King, 92 Main street, Hartford, an automobile dealer, came to New London this afternoon and took possession of the Ford coupe, which the police have been holding 24 hours. Clarence A. Willis, also of Hartford was disciplined in the police court this morning on the charge of operating this motor vehicle while under the influence of liquor. It developed following the arrest of Willis that the machine was purchased by him on a conditional bill of sale and as the car was not the property of the operator at the time of Willis' arrest, the owner came here and took charge of the machine.

Patrolman Ernest Opperman reported to the police this afternoon that the highway bridge on Montauk avenue was in a condition of danger in as much as several supports of the planking of the structure were loose and threatened injury to passing autoists. The highway department was notified.



"Now—my work on washday is just the rinsing"

This new kind of soap works alone . . . it does the washing . . leaves me just the rinsing to do . .

"I put my clothes to soak at night and in the morning I find them so clean that I do not have to boil them. The thorough rinsing brings everything out white as snow. I am saved so much time and labor—it gives me an extra two hours."

Mrs. B. W., Arlington, Mass.

"By personal use I have found Rinso a marvel for cleaning sinks, tubs, enameled furniture, oil cloth, etc. It works like magic and when I am through there is my cloth saturated with sudsy water so that it itself is easily washed out clean."

Mrs. A. J. R. B., Chicago, Ill.

THOUSANDS of women have written us thanking us for this new kind of soap: "Bless you, makers of Lux," say they, "for making washday so much easier, so much cheerier, so much shorter with Rinso."

Today, in more than a million homes, Rinso has taken the place of bar soap for the weekly wash. It really does the work you have always had to do yourself. It leaves you just the lighter work of rinsing to do. That's why it is called Rinso.

This rich, mild soap is made in tiny granules, so boiling water sets free all its fine cleansing power to wash for you. Each thread of the wash is soaked with soap so rich that you can feel it all through the water with your hand. Gently, safely dirt is loosened and floats out.

Never a bit of hard rubbing. Even places where dirt gets ground in need only a light rub between your hands.

Rinso does the wonders with your weekly wash that Lux does with your silks and woolens. Use Rinso the way you like best to wash.* It washes as perfectly in any washing machine that 22 leading makers of washing machines recommend it.

Rinso lightens the work of cleaning all these things, too

Women write us, too, how wonderful Rinso is for general household cleaning. They use it for dishes, pots and pans, bathtubs, basins, linoleums, floors and woodwork. It makes your cloths and mops so soapy that dirt and grease just melt away without any hard scouring.

Because it dissolves completely, there is nothing harsh to mar smooth surfaces or dim the freshness of paint and colors. Keeping all these things bright and new-looking is made easier and pleasanter.

*For the best results: For washing clothes dissolve Rinso in boiling water to set all its wonderful cleansing power free. Use enough to get creamy lasting suds. For household uses just sprinkle it right on.

Mr. Whiton has entered into negotiations for the acquisition of the property, the purchase price of which is said to be $12,000. The property, which adjoins the residence of Councilor Whiton, was formerly the residence of Dr. Manwaring, a practicing physician in this city, and later and upon the death of Dr. Manwaring, became the property of his son, the late Wolcott Manwaring. Since the death of the son the property has been occupied and used as the home of nurses, who have graduated from either Lawrence or Home Memorial hospital.

DAWES UNDAUNTED

Recently it has been indicated that Vice President Dawes has not received as yet a majority support in the senate for the changes in the rules of that body which he has suggested. It has in fact been indicated as the result of a poll that there are so many opposed to his plan that it can be said to be headed for a sure defeat. Opposition comes from republicans as well as democrats. And yet it can be said that democrats as well as republicans are favorably disposed to some action that would overcome the undesirable feature whereby it is possible for one or two in the upper house of congress to prevent action by the majority.

But is is evident nevertheless that General Dawes is by no means discouraged by such claims. He has been heard in some states where senators have endorsed his views and he has been heard in others where one or more are opposed to them. Because a senator is against him and his suggested alterations in the senate rules doesn't deter him from making his appeal to the constituents of such a senator. He has declared that he was going to carry his messages to the people and he appears to be faithfully keeping his promise.

This is especially to be noted in connection with his address in Manchester, N. H., an important center in the state of Senator Moses, a republican and president pro tem of the senate, who is unalterably opposed to the Dawes suggestion and has lost no opportunity to ridicule it.

Thus it becomes evident that while the vice president may not have a majority of the senate with him, and some disposed to spank him because of the manner in which he launched his effort of reform at the organization of the new senate, he is by no means discouraged. He is convinced that he is right and he knows no other course than forward. He has never anticipated quick success for his effort as was shown by one of his early statements to the effect that he was prepared to push it for the next four years and to go to the country with it in order to get results.

LEAVING THE RUHR

In less than two months on the 15th of August, France is to withdraw its forces from the Ruhr. That marks a change that should be of decided benefit in bettering the relationship of France and Germany. It should remove one of the causes for friction, even though that occupancy was one of the important moves in getting results following the peace treaty negotiations.

French troops would never have occupied by the Ruhr but for the attitude that was maintained by Germany concerning its obligations under the treaty. Germany was balking; it was refusing to meet the reparation requirements, and it had gotten to the point where it was convincing the British that it was doing its best and actually could not do more. France believed otherwise. It was not disposed to be lenient. It was inclined to bring pressure to bear through concerted action by the allies, in accord with the terms of the treaty. It failed to get the proper amount of support for such action as an international move whereupon it decided to exercise its rights and do it alone.

French forces were sent into the Ruhr, the important industrial section of Germany to collect reparations. Germany resented such a move and conducted a costly opposition. Bad feeling was made worse but France stayed, and by that very action brought Germany to recognize the futility of trying to dodge its obligations. In time Germany recognized its mistake, changed its attitude and gradually paved the way for the Dawes commission and plan.

The changed situation since the adoption of the Dawes plan has made further occupation of the Ruhr unnecessary. Even France is now convinced that it can safely withdraw its remaining forces from that district and when they go it will be a day of rejoicing for Germany. France will always have the satisfaction, however, of pointing to that occupancy as one of the most important moves that changed the whole tendency of Germany's conduct in the perilous days following the war.

NEVER AGAIN?

The story which comes from Washington to the effect that the president of the United States will henceforth keep aloof from acting as arbiter in disputes between nations doesn't contain any direct statement on the part of the chief executive, yet it is reasonable to believe that it echoes the sentiment of the head of the nation.

In the first place such a responsibility involves much more time than a president has to give to it, and it inevitably is a duty which cannot be neglected, even if it is unwanted. And on the other hand it is particularly evident that in making a decision to control what the trusts is exacted, he expected [illegible]

THE HIGHWAYS AND CROOKS

We seem to have gotten to the days when one hardly knows what to do on the highways. If he is so disposed to give a fellow a lift, he may be held up and robbed or even murdered. If he refuses to an appeal for a ride he may also be shot at. If he comes to a halt when commanded at night he may be stepping at the order of a properly constituted authority, or he may again find himself in the hands of highwaymen. If he has a hunch that he is about to be held up and steps on the gas he may be defying the law and be prosecuted for it, or in the attempt is put away may wreck his own car or that of someone else.

Only a few nights ago a motorist was obliged to get out and change a tire. He was happy when what he supposed were honest men offered to aid him but his joy quickly turned to dismay when it developed that the only aid they were disposed to give was in divesting him of his valuables. He was trapped without a chance of escape.

In these days when the roads are used so much it might be urged that one caught under such circumstances might appeal to passing cars for help. That is of course if he is willing to take the chance under the one sided conditions, but how does that one to whom he may appeal know that such an appeal isn't in fact just a scheme for drawing more into the net of thieves.

The conditions on the highway have been made such by crooks and desperate characters that drivers are disposed to be suspicious. Keep away from the unknown and what may prove dangerous is the policy which many have adopted through a study of the experiences of others, or possibly through some unhappy incident in which they have figured.

ANOTHER ENFORCEMENT TEST

Added interest in the fight to enforce the dry law was created a short time ago by the new tactics employed against rum row. The smuggling of liquor into the country hasn't been stopped, but much has been seized and the easy time that was enjoyed by the ships making up rum row has been seriously interfered with. Fewer vessels are getting through the dry fleet.

Now comes the announcement to the effect that the movement is to be made nationwide. The attack upon rum row was heralded as being only the beginning of a real enforcement campaign and the radical changes which are to be made in the reorganization of the dry forces seem to bear that out.

Not only is there to be a fight against the violators of the Volstead act but the campaign is to be directly also against the fanatics, grafters and politicians, if we can rely upon the outline of the plans which are to go into effect the first of August.

Instead of dividing the nation into districts by states the judicial district divison will be followed, and thereby it is expected that some of the the long standing evils will be overcome.

What seems to be the most serious effort as yet made in behalf of the dry law is being organized. In the past there have been serious lapses in enforcement. Liquor is obtainable in large quantities and it remains to be seen whether the new districts, new officials and new efforts will be able to make the dry law mean to the country what was expected of it. There is apparently another and more serious test going to be made of the possibilities of enforcement. The country will look on with interest.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

The Girls of Today.

Mr. Editor: The writer would like very much to reply to a letter recently printed in your columns by one "Uncle Billy" wherein he surely "raised" the girls of today. One is perplexed to imagine just what reason prompted this outburst of anathema.

However, the girls of today surely deserve some credit to offset Uncle Billie's "slams" against their general uselessness, freakishness, mode of dress, and indecent exposure of lower limbs. It is a fact that more and more girls are daily striving for higher education in all the sources of instruction; they are rapidly fitting themselves to occupy important positions in all lines except those where extreme muscular strength in required: their scholastic average the world over, is very noticeably better than that of their fellow students. Yet they are called freaks.

It is unfair to call them freaks of nature. They may at times dress and decorate to the limit of imagination, but they are hardly freaks in the literal sense of the word, and if Uncle Billie didn't mean it to be used literally, why not get an accurate word?

And lastly, their dress is really not so immodest. If Uncle Billie remembers the day of hoop skirts he surely should remember the other end of those dresses; indeed, was there another end? Several pictures of the olden days show a very marked absence of even shoulder straps! So let's give the girls some credit.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

Mrs. Red-Eye Leaves Her Nest

You'll find it risky at best
To e'er unguarded leave a nest.
Mrs. Vireo.

Out near the end of a branch of a maple tree, close by the sunny bank which was the playground of the little Chipmunks was a dainty nest. It was really a wonderful nest, for it was woven so that it hung in the fork of two twigs. A beautiful swinging cradle it was. It was the nest of Mrs. Red-eye the Vireo. Very proud was she of that nest, and she had every reason to be. Well hidden was it, for the broad leaves of the maple covered it from prying eyes.

Now of course Mrs. Red-eye had heard the excitement when Mr. Black Snake had caught Smarty Chipmunk. Little as she was, she had at once enemy know of it she was quite certain. Sharp as are the eyes of Sammy Jay, Sammy hadn't yet discovered it. He and Chatterer the Red Squirrel were the only ones she really feared. Chatterer hadn't been seen about for a long time. So Mrs. Red-eye felt that her secret was safe.

"I don't see," said he, "that there is anything we can do about it."

At last she flew back. The excitement was all over and everybody was going about their own business. With a light heart she flew to her nest, making sure that nobody was watching her. She alighted on a branch just above it and looked down into it. She blinked her eyes several times and then stared again down into that little nest. Then she called to Red-eye who was singing close by. Red-eye came over at once.

"Do you see anything wrong in that nest?" demanded little Mrs. Red-eye.

"Not a thing," replied Red-eye promptly. "It looks all right to me. When did you lay that fourth egg, my dear?"

"There!" cried little Mrs. Red-eye. "I knew that my eyes hadn't fooled me! There is a fourth egg there, and I didn't lay it."

Red-eye looked puzzled. "Well, if you didn't lay it how comes it there?" he demanded.

"That's what I want to know," declared little Mrs. Red-eye. "When I left this nest I left three eggs in it. Now when I come back there are four. If you had really used your eyes, my dear, you wouldnt have asked me when I laid that fourth egg. You would have seen that it is bigger than any of the other eggs, and it is marked differently. Has Sally Sly the Cowbird been around here that you know it?"

Red-eye shook his head. "No," said he, "I haven't seen her myself this summer and I haven't heard anybody ever in the Old Orchard mention her. I don't believe that she has been around this year."

"Well, I do," retorted little Mrs. Red-eye. "I don't believe she is very far from here right this minute. I never have seen one of her eggs but if this isn't one, in our nest I am greatly mistaken. The question is, what are we going to do about it?"

But that question was too much for Red-eye. "I don't see," said he, "that there is anything we can do about it."

From Small Beginnings

Philip Van Cortlandt, the Surveyor, A Maker of America.

Everyone knows that George Washington was a surveyor and he carried on his work in a rough, back-woods country where he was largely dependent upon himself. Philip van Cortlandt, another hero of the American Revolution, was likewise a surveyor. Unlike Washington, Philip van Cortlandt was born in the north, in the state of New York or, rather, in the colony of New York; for in 1749, when Philip van Cortlandt was born, New York was still a royal colony, a place where people held the name of the king in respect and saluted the English flag. In the hills of Westchester a number of enterprising families had made great clearings and had prepared the way for great estates.

Among such families were the Van Cortlandts. In the Westchester hills they cleared their land, built their houses, ploughed their ground and aided in opening up a new country. In those days, while there were aristocratic people, there was no room for those who would not work. It was the common necessity for work that gave the American colonies the spirit that enabled them finally to establish the United States. Anything that takes away from the spirit of work endangers a country, for all happiness and all prosperity are founded essentially upon work and the love of work. Philip van Cortlandt, like Washington, was only a boy when he set out as a surveyor. Manfully he carried on his work, scrambling through thickets, climbing up hills, plotting maps and establishing boundaries. He was only a youth when the mutterings of the Revolution were heard.

"Will you be a soldier?" some one asked him one day, when it was suggested that the colonists might fight. "I am a soldier," he laughed back. "If New York fights, why, of course I fight!" That was the spirit of those times—the spirit of youth and strength. Philip van Cortlandt had had military training and at 26 he was enrolled in the army of the colonies—not as a private, but as a lieutenant colonel. Then he did new service, fighting now against General Burgoyne and his invasion now against the Indians whom the English set upon the colonists, now down in the Virginia swamps fighting Cornwallis. At the end of the war when Cornwallis surrendered, Philip van Cortlandt was a brigadier general. In times of peace he was as active as he had been in war, and represented the people of New York in the state legislature and in the national congress. He lived until he was 82. In New York city the name of Van Cortlandt is still one of the most honored of names, as is shown by Van Cortlandt park, the Van Cortlandt Manor House and Cortlandt street.

A beauty parlor for pet dogs and cats recently opened in Los Angeles is said to be the first establishment of its kind in America.

Studebaker—Now

You may buy a Studebaker today—or on any day of the year—with the confident assurance that no act of ours will stigmatize it as a "last year's model"

STUDEBAKER has discontinued the custom of presenting a new line of automobiles each year. Instead of bringing Studebaker cars dramatically up-to-date once in twelve months, we shall keep them up-to-date all of the time—with every improvement made available by our great engineering and manufacturing resources.

Improvements and refinements, of course, will be made from time to time. New features will be added. As in the past, we shall continue to pioneer all vital betterments. But Studebaker will have no yearly models to make your July car obsolete in August.

A dramatic story

There is a dramatic story behind this new Studebaker policy that vitally concerns everyone who expects to buy an automobile this year.

Amazing records of Studebaker performance and endurance prove beyond question that the present line of Studebaker cars is so soundly engineered and manufactured and so satisfactory in the hands of owners that drastic annual changes are not required.

Authentic reports show that hundreds of Studebaker cars have given from 125,000 to 400,000 miles of sturdy, dependable service. One Studebaker Big Six, used as a mail car, traveled almost 500,000 miles in 5½ years, giving 24-hour round trip service between Bakersfield and Los Angeles, California.

Stupendous mileage! But the same stamina and rugged dependability is built into every Studebaker that leaves the factory.

A Studebaker taxi in Jewett City, Conn., has traveled 81,308 miles without even having the valves ground or the carbon removed.

In Stockton, Calif., a Studebaker Big Six has piled up 128,000 miles over steep mountain grades and rough country roads with negligible upkeep—not a single major part has been purchased or considered by reason of wear or accident.

It is a significant fact that wherever travel conditions are most severe, Studebaker by far outnumbers its normal proportion of cars.

Bus Operators, Rent-a-Car Companies, Police and Fire Departments—all turn to Studebaker year after year for their transportation equipment, because they have found that it always yields scores of thousands of miles of reserve transportation, and has low upkeep costs.

At the mileage when other cars are breaking up—Studebaker cars are breaking in. It's the second and third fifteen thousand miles that prove Studebaker superiority. It's this reserve mileage—even though you may never use it—that greatly increases Studebaker resale value.

Stamina is in-built—inherent—a vital and indispensable part of the Studebaker formula for building fine motor cars.

Buy this "One Profit" car now

Remember—under this new Studebaker policy—there is no need to delay the purchase of your new automobile until annual changes have been made. Come in and see these sturdy, dependable, "one-profit" automobiles. Today Studebaker offers greater values than ever before. It is sound judgment to buy now.

BIG PICNIC BY UNITED CHURCH SCHOOL

Everybody in the United Congregational church school family was at the annual outing and picnic at Ocean Beach, Wednesday, from start to finish, according to the treasurer, who found there were 240 who went down by trolley at 9:15 o'clock and over two score by automobiles.

Circumstances compelled also to allow most of the officers of the school to be present and the committees appointed by Supt. Ernest Latimer had plenty of assistance to aid them in putting through the program as scheduled time.

From the time of arrival at the beach until 1 o'clock in the afternoon, bathing, and other sports, basket luncheons and Sherman's pink lemonade aided somewhat by the cool temperature, kept the younger people actively interested and satisfied.

At 1 o'clock the games were started under the direction of the committee, consisting of Donald Bullard and Arthur Adams, with Oscar Mooneman as starter. First and second prize ribbons were awarded the winners of each event by Charles I. Smith, the names of winners appearing in order, as follows:

Boys' relay race, juniors—first, team captained by Thomas Sargent; second, team captained by Richard Morris. Girls' relay race, juniors—first, team captained by Julia Johns; second, team captained by Elizabeth Whitehead. Girls' 50-yard dash, juniors—first, Elizabeth Sargent; second, Nancy Pitcher. COMFORT CIRCLE'S OUTING AT MRS. UTLEY'S COTTAGE

The annual outing of Comfort circle of the King's Daughters was on Wednesday with a former leader, Mrs. Albert T. Utley, at her summer home in Neptune Park. Nineteen members and several children attended. The leader, Mrs. Stanton W. Brown, conducted the devotional service and presided at the brief business meeting.

It was voted as usual to donate $10 each to the Salvation Army and the County Home, the latter for the children's summer outing.

For the luncheon, always an event of these meetings, the table decorations were carnations. Cold meats, salads, rolls, pickles, olives, cake, ice cream and coffee formed the appetizing meal.

During the afternoon there was an auction of articles made or donated by the members and this netted upwards of $10 for the Circle's charitable fund.

DRAGGED BY TROLLEY AT CENTRAL VILLAGE

Richard M. Powers, of 9 Cliff place, the well known fish dealer, was injured about the arm, leg and neck at Central Village, Wednesday, when he was dragged a considerable distance by the 5:45 p. m. trolley car which he was about to board.

Mrs. Powers had preceded him on the car in order to get a seat and he had hold of the handle when the car started unexpectedly. He was knocked off his feet and some part of his clothing caught in the car so that he was dragged along the platform before the car was brought to a stop. He was considerably shaken up by his experience, and suffered scratches and bruises, but was able to return in the trolley to this city and go to his home.

The trolley car was in charge of Conductor Norman and Motorman Spreader.

CALIFORNIA AND FLORIDA GREETINGS TO ROTARIANS

Committee reports and a five-minute talk by Nathan A. Gibbs on "The Effect of Taxation on Business" constituted the major portion of the meeting of the Norwich Rotary club at the Wauregan hotel on Wednesday noon. President Joseph N. Weymouth presided and M. LaRue Bliven acted as song leader.

The meeting was well attended, there being a number of guests among whom was Hugh A. Graham, president of the Eureka, California club. Mr. Graham, who was the guest of George L. Ingalls, a former member of the Norwich Rotary club, brought the greetings of the California club saying that he had attended the Cleveland convention and could not resist the invitation of George Ingalls to visit the Norwich club.

Another guest of the club was Avery C. Smith, a former Norwich boy, who recently returned after several years spent in Florida. Mr. Smith expressed his pleasure at being back home again and he complimented the people of Norwich on the many improvements he spoke of several sections of the business district which have been improved in many ways. He spoke especially of the White Way which he said was as fine as any he had seen on his trip north.

Dr. R. R. Agnew, recently returned from a trip to Canada, told of the pleasures he had enjoyed while in the Canadian woods.

In his five-minute talk Mr. Gibbs referred to the economic program of President Coolidge and also referred to a recent address by the president on taxation and its effect on business. Mr. Gibbs said that he personally would see what high taxation had done in a business way in Norwich and advocated a tax reduction as much as possible. He said that taxation was good if it worked the right way but if it was the reverse if it was excessive.

Mayor Milo R. Waters, chairman of the public affairs committee, made a very gratifying report, saying that he had several good things to report. The morning and evening boat trains that were removed from the New Haven road a week ago are to be put back next week, assuring Norwich business men of late mail service to New York. He also said that the re-paving of Main street from Market street to the end of the present concrete pavement on West Main street would be started about the 10th of July if the steel work for the bridges had arrived by that time. He said that already a dredger was at work deepening and widening the channel at Allyn's Point. He said that this, however, was not a special contract such as has been proposed but came under the government appropriation for maintenance. He made the prediction that the Shantok Park movement would ultimately be successful as he understood that the appropriation for state parks would include this.

Chairman Alex McNicol announced the program for next month as follows: July 1st—Meeting t obe held at Norwich Golf Club, the five-minute speaker to be Charles F. Wells and a report on the Cleveland convention will be given by Hugh B. Campbell. July 8—At the Hotel Mills B. Following the service at the church a reception was held and wedding breakfast served at the home of the bride's parents at Perry avenue, Thamesville, about 150 guests being present, among them being Monsignor May, pastor of St. Patrick's church. The house was tastefully decorated, Japanese lanterns, crepe streamers and floral decorations making a most pleasant effect.

The groom's gift to the bride was an aquamarine link bracelet and the gift of the bride to the groom was a pearl stick pin. To the maid of honor the bride presented a white gold ring set with pink sapphire and the groom presented the best man a pair of gold K. of C. cuff links.

The bride received many beautiful gifts of money, cut glass, china, linen, household articles, a set of dishes from neighbors, and numerous other presents.

Later in the day the couple left for a wedding tour to New York, New Jersey and Long Island, to be at home to their friends about July 1st. For the present they are to reside with the parents of the bride.

TO VICTORY OVER THE [illegible]

In a thrilling six-inning game Wednesday evening, the Yantic Mills team took the measure of the Nuggets, 5 to 3. The Yantics presented an entirely different lineup from that of last week, having acquired Cuillard, Burns, McKiernan and Tillie Daniels, members of the Shoosay team in the New London Twilight league. Although playing fine ball, the Nuggets, composed largely of young players, were hardly a match for their more experienced opponents, who won the game by superior hitting.

Tillie Daniels, Bulkeley school's star twirler for the past three seasons, pitched for the winners. He limited the Nuggets to five hits and sent seven back to the bench via the strikeout route.

Opposing Daniels in the box was Lloyd Jarvis, who pitched such fine ball for N. F. A. the past season. Although touched for eleven hits, and five runs, Jarvis did not do so bad, considering the team he was up against.

The Yantics started their onslaught on Jarvis in the first inning, when a hbbs hit by Cuillard and three successive singles by McKiernan, Smith and T. Lamphere scored two runs. In the third, they scored two more which brought the score to 4 to 0. Smith, the first batter, lined to Gullotta at short, and when the latter dropped the ball, the runner was safe. Smith stole second and took third on T. Lamphere's single to left. Tillie Daniels then socked a long fly to center and Smith counted after the catch. T. Lamphere stole second and after his brother Jerry had popped to Burke, scored on Marchand's one base hit to right.

The Nuggets revived interest in the game in the last half of the fourth by scoring three runs, failing to tie the score by a single counter. Lloyd Jarvis walked and after Fox had flied out, went to second on Hinrich's safe hit to left field. Jarvis and Hinrich then worked a pretty double steal and both crossed the plate on Lesseman's single through short. Johnny Greene, the next batter, hit the ball to McKiernan at third, who let the ball go through him. Jerry Lamphere, backing up the play, attempted to get Greene at first. Cuillard got the ball too late to catch Greene and threw to third to head off Lesseman, and when the throw went wild Lesseman scored. Daniels then put a stop to the scoring by fanning Burke.

The Yantics picked up another in the fifth on a double by Smith and T. Lamphere's third hit, a single to right. The Nuggets could do little with Daniels' shoots in the last two frames and the game ended without further scoring. The score:

Tonight's Game.

Tonight's game between the St. Joseph's team and the Hallville team will wind up a week of the fastest baseball ever seen on a local field. The first two games being won by only one run, while last night, the Yantic team only nosed out ahead of the Nuggets by two runs. Every game has been filled with thrills galore and every person that has journeyed to the Duwell field this week is well satisfied that this year's Twilight league is bound to be a huge success. It has been noticed that included in the large crowds that turn out every night are many new faces which means more fans and it is predicted that by the end of the season every man, woman and child in this city will be eating, talking and sleeping baseball, which will be a great thing for Norwich, as in late years the local people have neglected the national pastime to a certain extent.

While the games this week have been quite satisfactory there is no reason at all why tonight's game should not be every bit as good as the previous games. Although the Hallville and St. Joseph's teams have been rather weak in their past games, like all the other teams they have strengthened considerably and tonight will see many new faces on the field.

The St. Joseph's team includes S. Hoffman, Mihaski, Ishicki, Busch, Stroubel, Mish, Toney West, Koslowski, Stankiewicz, Keller, Cimmykowski, Labenski, Chmielecki, J. Cimmykowski, E. Busch, Joe Buch, Grabowski and Komap.

The Hallville roster includes Boyd, Mansfield, Tennant, E. Charron, Keanes, of J. B. Martin; A. Charron, Berbick, Almquist, Fuller, Sullivan, O'Connor, Spicar, Collins, Dillworth, Mullholland, Williams, Clements and Woodard.

"Toney" West is slated to do the twirling for the Polish boys and if they give him any kind of support they stand a good chance of coming out ahead. Mgr. Taylor refused to announce the name of whom he would start except that the pitcher is a newcomer in these parts and last year twirled in the Canadian league.

"Hank" Mayin will again do the mauling.

DARROWSKI ELECTED CAPTAIN OF WESTERLY HIGH TEAM

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WESTERLY, June 24.—At a meeting held in the yard's latter men, held Wednesday morning, Walter Dabrowski of this year's junior class, received the election as captain of the Westerly High school baseball team for the 1926 baseball year. There were but nine players awarded letters Wednesday morning by Charles Mason at assembly exercises. They were James Salimano, Ralph Cornell, Theodore Dabrowski, Walter Dabrowski, Guy DeRocco, Samuel Payne, Raymond Meikle, Gerardo Pasciera and Hjalmar Larson. Letters were also given to the manager, Colbert Sawyer, and the cheer leaders, Oscar Murphey and Milton Saunders.

Second team "W's" were awarded to the following: Thomas Capalbo, Louis Kapian, Harold Ribner, Joseph Haggerty, Alexander Greig, David Meikle, Edwin Sawyer, Harry Lyman, Leo Spellman, Myer Bostwick and Maurice Kapian.

Track letters were also given out by Mr. Mason to the following who scored points in the various meets during the year: Sam Farago, Thomas Visciglio, Leo Grilli, Raymond Meikle, Salvatore Turco, James Doherty, Gordon Fiddes and Arthur Novogroski. At a recent meeting of the track men, Fiddes was elected captain of the team for next season.

Other players who made extra base hits were as follows: Meikle, two home runs, five triples and three doubles; Cornell, two doubles; T. Dabrowski, one triple and five doubles; Larson, two doubles; Payne, three doubles; DeRocco, one triple and two doubles; Salimeno, one triple.

Fiddes, the new track captain, is one of the fastest men on the team. He should be a big point winner next year and his election as captain was a good choice.

[illegible] AND MILL LEAGUE
with THEIR BROKEN BATTERY

WIMBLEDON, June [illegible]—(A. P.)—Today was a dull tennis day at Wimbledon. There was a cold drizzling rain throughout most of the day and only three matches, none of them of any great importance, were played.

Jean Borotra and Rene Lacoste, the French stars, eliminated Dr. Fyzee and Lal, the Indian players, 2-6, 6-2, 6-4, 6-3 in an interesting battle. In the men's doubles, the Indians displayed fine team work and often had their opponents in trouble with their accurate placing of drives down the center line.

On the center court there was a lively battle between the time-tried veterans, Miss Elizabeth Ryan, formerly of California, and Miss Suzanne Lenglen, the champion, and Mrs. Lycett and Miss E. L. Colyer. Miss Ryan and Miss Lenglen won 6-2, 6-4. In the second set both Mrs. Lycett and Miss Colyer, when they finally had shaken off theeffects of the cold afternoon, played an agile game in the fore court and got over nice smashes that proved unreturnable.

Jean Washer of Belgium romped away in the second round of the singles competition in his match against F. S. E. Lindop of England, winning 6-1, 6-2, 6-2.

Ray Casey of San Francisco and John Hennessey of Indianapolis were unable to play their doubles match against R. W. Heath and A. H. Taylor owing to weather conditions.

The prospects tonight were that the event for which all the Wimbledon fans are waiting, the match between Miss Lenglen and Miss Ryan, would be fought out on the center court tomorrow in the presence of King George and Queen Mary. Tomorrow's program had not been definitely determined upon tonight, but it seemed likely that Casey and Hennessey would play in their third round of the singles and that their doubles match would be held over another day.

AMERICANS POLO TEAM ### SHOWS BRITISH SOMETHING

LONDON, June 24.—(AP)—The United States army polo team today again proved its superiority over the British army team at Hurlingham in the second game of the series for the international military championship, and by winning by a score of 6 to 4, retained the championship trophy. On Saturday the Americans won the first game of the three-game series by 8 goals to 4. Notwithstanding the fact that the Americans are the victors in the competition the final match of the series will be played Saturday.

Today's game was not so one-sided as that of last Saturday. The British army team put up a much better fight, although the Americans always seemed to have a little in hand. The Americans led by only 5 goals to 4 when the final period began.

DEMPSEY HAS TO LOOSEN ### UP FOR GERMAN TAXES

PARIS, June 24.—(A. P.)—Jack Dempsey is reported to have told friends here on his arrival from Germany with $82,000 and a grievance that he was "a victim of the Dawes plan."

Dempsey contracted to give exhibitions in Berlin for $15,000 per week. He worked for two weeks, less one day, and received $28,000 from the impresario who staged the exhibitions.

Tax collectors, however, immediately interviewed the world heavy weight champion after he received his payment and Jack was obliged to sign his autograph to a check for $6,000 for income tax and a special tax instituted under the operation of the Dawes plan.

CURB SECURITIES STRONGER.

NEW YORK, June 24.—(A. P.)—Prices of curb securities showed greater strength in today's trading than in several recent sessions, resistance to selling pressure by professional operators being generally displayed throughout the list.

Mixed movements featured the oils, public utilities and miscellaneous industrials, but early losses with a few exceptions, were recovered on rallies. The oils developed a firmer tone, aided by the decrease in domestic crude oil production last week, most of the leading issues closing with fractional gains.

The outstanding feature of the public utility group was an advance of 9 points by General Gas & Electric, which, it was announced after the close of the market, planned to retire its bonded indebtedness and improve the capital structure. United Light & Power, Western Power and Power Corporation of New York were other strong issues. American Light & Traction developed weakness, losing 2 1-4 points on the day.

White Rock shares, which were expected to be listed on the stock exchange, scored a new high at 46 1-8.

WHEAT MARKET

CHICAGO, June 24.—(AP)—With black rust reported from practically all parts of Minnesota and the Dakotas and with widespread rain a hindrance to the winter wheat harvest, wheat averaged much higher in price today but reduced as a result of profit-taking at the last. Wheat closed unsteady 1-8 to 3-4c net lower, July 1.54 7-8 to 1.55 1-8 and September 1.53 3-8 to 1.53 1-2. Corn finished at 1-4 to 2 3-8c down, oats 3-8 to 1-3c off and provisions showing 2 to 20c decline.

The fact that today's advance carried the wheat market up to about six cents a bushel above Monday's low point brought about a greater volume of offerings in the final hour than could be readily absorbed. New buying power failed to develop on the later upturns in price. As a result the earlier gains were soon more than wiped out, notwithstanding fresh export business estimated at 1,100,000 bushels of wheat and $400,000 bushels of rye.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, June 24.—(AP)—Bond prices drifted aimlessly in today's quiet trading, with only the establishment of further new high records in the United States government list to indicate the trend of investment sentiment. Scattered buying of oil liens and western rail issues was noted but price changes were held within narrow limits.

The steadily diminishing supply of long term government bonds enabled the treasury issues to scale new peaks on an extremely small turnover today. The 4 per cent. bonds established a new record at 103.29 and the 4 1-4s at 107.29. Liberties held firm around the year's top levels.

New South American financing occupied the limelight insofar as new business was concerned. Following the announcement that a $10,135,000 bond issue would be sold for the Providence of Santa Fe, Argentina, it was learned that negotiations virtually had been completed for a $20,000,000 loan to the Chilean Mortgage Bank. Both are new borrowers in this market.

Tom Mix Stages Greatest Ride of His Career in Dick Turpin

Of course everybody knows that Tom Mix can ride. That's why his wonderful ride on Black Bess in the new William Fox picture Dick Turpin didn't make him famous. It was the high spot of the picture, but Mix's riding is always the high spot of any picture. Dick Turpin opened a four days run yesterday at the Breed theater.

The unique thing about Dick Turpin is the costuming and the really remarkable sets. It is the story of that famous "Robin Hood of the highway"—Dick Turpin of England who robbed the rich to give to the poor. It is excellent screen material, colorful and dramatic and Director J. G. Blystone has handled it well.

The photography has been beautifully done. The picture shows flash after flash of sun-speckled high road, shaded by fine old trees and picturesquely dotted with rambling inns and quaint villages.

Tom Mix, clad in velvet and brocade; Tom Mix with lace at his throat ano wrists; Tom Mix in a plumed hat which he doffs with the wide sweep of an eighteenth century cavalier. Tom Mix—as Dick Turpin—is a Tom Mix his fans have never known before. When the picture reaches the wide open spaces of Tom's own west, it is probably that some "gallery god" cowboy who "knew him when"—will cut loose with a grand and glorious whoop. But, notwithstanding the strangeness of the role, Tom plays it well and instils into the picture all the pep, dash and thrills worthy of the Mix label.

Next best to the wild night ride to save the fair lady, is the prize fight between Dick Turpin and Buckhorse. It is exciting and thrilling from start to finish.

Alan Hale, who has figured in many a bandit role plays Tom King, who was Dick's boon companion.

Kathleen Myers, a new and very beautiful young woman, wears the clothes of the period with much grace and dignity through the leading feminine role opposite Mix.

Lord Churlton, the gentemanly villain, is played by Uhlo McCullough. Others in the cast are James Marcus, Lucille Hutton, Bull Montana, Fay Holderness, Jack Herrick and Fred Kohler.

The organization meeting of the board of water commissioners was held Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the water office at the court house with the full membership of the board present: John J. Corkery, Frank H. Quinley, Arthur E. Story, Charles J. Hagberg and John A. Mitchell.

Mr. Corkery was elected chairman of the meeting and Mr. Story clerk.

FRANK H. QUINLEY
Elected President of Board of Water Commissioners

much satisfaction to the citizens, as was evidence from the many expressions along that line which had been the latter taking occasion to speak in laudatory terms of the services of Mr. Corkery as president of the board and supervisor of the water department in which Mr. Corkery was completing his term of office and had given notice that he would not be considered a candidate for re-election. Mr. Story said board from entering of all political affiliations. Mr. Story reminded that Mr. Corkery's health obliged him to refuse to continue in the offices he was relinquishing and that he would have been unanimously re-elected, but that it had been impossible to prevail upon him to take up another term in these offices that he had held with so much credit to himself, and with so had held, but said he was glad Mr. Corkery was still to remain as a member of the board.

The election of officers was next taken up by ballots, it was stated after the meeting that the elections were unanimous.

Frank H. Quinley was elected president and William H. Callahan was elected supervisor, dividing the offices which were formerly held by Mr. Corkery. Mr. Callahan has been the efficient cashier of the board during Mr. Corkery's term at the head of it.

The election of a president and supervisor marks a return to the former practice before both offices were held by the same man.

Thaddeus Leahy, who has been inspector, was elected cashier, and Miss Mary H. Maloney was re-elected assistant cashier.

Neal Bresnahan of Greeneville was elected inspector and it was decided to continue the two caretakers at the reservoirs, Hiram Amburn at Stony Brook and Charles Pierce at Fairview.

The salary of the president of the board was set at $500 and that of the supervisor at $2,000, these two amounts totalling what was paid when both offices were held by the same man. The other salaries remain as they have been in the past years.

It was decided to hold the regular meeting of the board Thursday evening, July 2, at 7 o'clock, advancing it one night ahead of the regular date because the regular date would fall on the eve of the Fourth of July.

LIMIT YOUR DIET, IS KEEP COOL ADVICE

Limit your diet and lower the heat, says Dr. Chester T. Brown of Newark, N. J. in answer to the question of how to keep cool in hot weather.

"The idea is not new or original. It is widely known and acknowledged, but not so widely followed" says Dr. Brown, who is associate medical director of the Prudential Insurance Company of America.

"It is most inconsistent to complain of the heat when you are dining on thick soups and rich meats and finishing off with a heavy dessert. For while you complain you are adding fuel to the fire. Sweets especially are to be avoided in hot weather. They generate heat. This applies to drinks as well as foods. A light diet, consisting for a large part of green vegetables, is best."

There are other hints for hot weather which Dr. Brown gives. Wear light and loose clothing, he says. Style, if necessary, should be sacrificed to bodily comfort. Frequent bathing will help too. "Perhaps you have found that a warm shower followed by a cold one leaves you warmer than ever" he says. "Then leave off the cold shower, for it closes up the pores again."

"Don't hurry, don't worry, and drink plenty of water" is his advice in conclusion.

PHILATHEA CLASS WENT TO GROTON LONG POINT

Thirty-one members of the Philathea class of the First Baptist church enjoyed an outing at Groton Long Point, Tuesday, where they were guests of Mrs. Alfred Haring, at her cottage on the Point. The members made the trip by automobile or by trolley and the day proved a most enjoyable one.

At noon a delightful chowder was served, the menu including cold, tongue, escalloped potatoes, strawberry ice cream and cake. During the afternoon members enjoyed swimming and other sports or spent the time in visiting. Supper was served in the evening and the party arrived home in the early evening after thanking the hostess for the day for her hospitality.

RUMMAGE SALE BY CENTRAL BAPTIST WOMEN

A very successful rummage sale was conducted Wednesday in the Bedwith block No. 45 Main street, by members of the Woman's League of the Central Baptist church. The sale was well patronized throughout the day and over $44 was realized. The sale is to be continued today (Thursday) and it is expected that the amount taken in will be sent much closer to the century mark.

Those in charge of the various tables and the sale were Mrs. Allyn L. Brown and Mrs. Charles W. Barton, chairmen, Mrs. Henry H. Pettis, Mrs. John E. Hawkins, Mrs. Herbert Richardson, Mrs. George Ayer, Mrs. Henrietta Tefft, Mrs. W. L. Shortell and Miss Hazel Pierce.

I had dizzy and faint spells, pains in my back and lower parts and was so nervous I could not bear my children around. I hope the Vegetable Compound helps other women as it did me. I do all my own work now and feel so well. I have told my friends about it and my sister and my aunt." — Mrs. OLIVE AUGER, 19 Howard Street, Lowell, Massachusetts.

Over 200,000 women have so far replied to our question, "Have you received benefit from taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?" 98 out of every 100 of the replies say "Yes," and became the Vegetable Compound has been helping other women it should help you.

Canning in comfort with Focused Heat

YOU don't have to dread the season of canning and preserving any more. It is a time of interest and pleasure when you use the Florence Oil Range—the stove with the focused heat.

The heat goes directly where it will do the most good, the bottom of the pot. And there it stays, concentrated and intense, sending its energy straight into the cooking, and not out into the kitchen.

For cold-pack canning, for sterilizing jars, for gentle cooking you can adjust the heat to any degree you need, by the simple turn of a lever.

The Florence burns a gas-like flame from the vapor of kerosene. It is not a wick flame, such as you see in an ordinary oil lamp. As soon as the cooking is complete, turn out the flame—all the work of placing the fruit in jars will be done in a kitchen without a fire.

When you go to the store to look at the Florence Range, you will be struck by its substantial beauty. See it in action—then ask yourself if you can do without this oil range with the focused heat.

The famous Florence flame will not burn your hand. The "baker's crust" and the [illegible] heat [illegible] to that.

REVOLUTION IN GREECE A SUCCESS

Revolt Was Spontaneous in Athens and Salonika—Government Under Premier Michalakopoulos Has Been Deposed—General Pangalos is Complete Master of the Situation—Former Premier Papanastasiou Has Consented to Attempt to Form a New Government—Cabinet Portfolios Are to Be Offered to Leaders of the Revolution.

ATHENS, June 25.—(AP)—The Greek government under the premiership of Michalajopoulos has been deposed and a new government under military control is installed at Athens. The revolutionary movement started at dawn simultaneously in Athens and Saloniki, where anti-government forts after a brief and harmless fusilade, seized the telegraph offices and cut communications.

The military movement had been foreseen for several days, but up to the last minute the government had declared itself master of the situation and was absolutely convinced of the loyalty of the troops.

At 5 o'clock this morning, General Pangalos, who was former generalissimo of the Greek army and held the office of minister of war for a short time, with a number of officers occupied the barracks of the regiment of engineers and forthwith issued an ultimatum to the government, demanding its resignation and holding the ministry responsible for any bloodshed.

At the same time an ultimatum was issued by Admiral Hadjikiriakos former minister of marine, who was aboard the warship, Averof, and by the commander of the troops at Saloniki.

The whole of the Athens garrison did not at first declare in favor of the revolution, and Premier Michalakopoulos and his cabinet remained in session in the parliament building, guarded by loyal troops.

In the afternoon General Pangalos and his staff took up quarters at the war ministry, where he assumed the attitude of leader of the revolution and issued orders accordingly. In the meantime, the government resigned, and the provisional president of the republic, Admiral Coundouriotis, sent an urgent message to the parliamentary leaders, who formed Mr. Papanastasiou [illegible] to attempt to organize a [illegible] cabinet. It is [illegible] that Mr. Papanastasiou has succeeded in the task and will be willing to [illegible] the premiership and [illegible] portfolio to General Pangalos.

Admiral Hadjikiriakos, assumed becamand of the fleet and is expected to become minister of marine. It is understood that Admiral Coundouriotis intended to resign the presidency, but was dissuaded.

Though there were possibilities of a really serious situation and a collision between the troops of the two parties occurred, the revolution from a military standpoint was a mild affair. Except for a few blank cartridges fired nothing that seemed like War happened. Revolutionary troops are patrolling public buildings, and General Pangalos received an ovation from the loyalist troops assembled in front of the capitol. It is no longer necessary to [illegible] the capitol. This was not necessary.

The populace became extremely excited by the event, and is evidently becoming accustomed to such coups, which have been increasingly frequent in recent years.

Pangalos issued a manifesto declaring that in acting as he did he was merely carrying out the wishes of the people, who demanded the redemption and purification of the country.

The cars with which the revolution was engineered is evidenced by the elaborate preparations made in the principal garrisons throughout the country, where agents of the revolutionists seem to have found fertile soil to work upon. The adherence of the entire fleet has put the seal of success upon Greece's latest coup d'etat.

The discontent of the officers, to which the movement was chiefly due, was caused by the feeling that the Michalakopoulos cabinet had not paid sufficient attention to the reorganization of the military forces, and had neglected to develop the national rights of the country, while its foreign policy had achieved only failure, notably with regard to Serbia and Turkey. The officers further complained that too great concessions had been accorded foreign capital, making Greece financially tributary to foreigners.

All the leaders of the military movement are strong Republicans and are anxious to set up a more democratic government.

REVOLUTION SUCCESSFUL THROUGHOUT GREECE

[illegible] June 25.—(AP)—A semi-official statement issued tonight announces that the revolution has been successful throughout the country, that all the garrisons have given their adhesion, that the public is satisfied and complete calm prevails everywhere.

Admiral Coundouriotis, the provisional president, summoned the leaders of the various parliamentary parties to discuss the situation and it is stated that former Premier Papanastasiou has undertaken to form a cabinet. It is still believed probable, however, that General Pangalos will become premier.

VIOLENT ELECTRICAL STORM IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, June 25.—(AP)—Lightning struck two of New York's famous buildings during a spectacular thunder storm late this afternoon, which followed upon a day of unusual humidity.

An arm of a 250-pound marble cross surmounting one of the steeples of St. Patrick's Cathedral was shattered and fell to the pavement in fragments. At the time of the crash 100 persons were in the cathedral, but no one was hurt by the plaster which fell from the roof and walls and the material damage was said to be slight.

Lightning also struck the Museum of Natural History on Central Park west, slightly damaging its slate roof. A five-story loft building in Third avenue was struck but was little damaged.

Rain descended in sheets for half an hour. Overhead lightning flashed in brilliant sheets, illuminating suddenly darkened streets and the tall buildings shook under the constantly reverberating thunder shocks.

Subways were jammed with drenched commuters and for the first time in months New York's excess of taxicabs was non-existent.

The storm broke suddenly as it had appeared over the city. Owing to the storm, the fights scheduled tonight at the Dexter Park stadium in Coney Island were postponed.

Viewed Passing of the Surf.

SWAMPSCOTT, Mass., June 25.—(AP)—In the mood of prayer and reverence, President Coolidge returned to stay indoors today despite a stinging rain driven in from the sea by a stiff northeast wind. Twice during the day he took long walks accompanied only by secret service men.

After breakfast, Mr. Coolidge found himself a quarter of a mile from White Court the summer white house, without rain coat or umbrella, when it began to drizzle he quickened his already brisk pace, but received a slight wetting before reaching home.

Late in the day after there had been a slight let-up in the rain, the president again ventured out for a stroll, this time wearing a brown soft hat and a black slicker. He made his way along the rocky coast to Little's Point near White Court, and for a quarter of an hour, stood on the rocks, looking down at the pounding surf and out beyond the choppy water.

Also prompted by the weather, Mrs. Coolidge took both a morning and afternoon walk in the rain along the shore and about the grounds with Rob Roy, her white collie, scampering at her side.

Aside from their brief excursions outside the White Court grounds, President and Mrs. Coolidge spent the day in seclusion. Mr. and Mrs. Frank W. Stearns, their close friends, were luncheon guests, and twice Secretary Sanders motored from his office in Lynn to White Court for conference with the president on routine matters.

Transacting his first business since arriving here, Mr. Coolidge appointed Harry Bassett of Indianapolis, to be a member of the United States employes compensation commission. An announcement was made that tomorrow he would receive his first caller, Mayor Edward F. Quinn, of Cambridge, Mass. The latter will outline to Mr. Coolidge plans for his appearance in Cambridge July 5 to deliver an address in connection with the celebration of the 150th anniversary of George Washington's assumption of command over the continental army.

GOV. TRUMBULL VETOED THE SMALL LOAN BILL

HARTFORD, June 25.—(AP)—Governor Trumbull today returned to the secretary of state without his signature the senate bill number 612, the so-called small loan bill, thus killing the measure with the authority of the pocket veto.

The bill reduced the interest companies or corporations making small loans may charge, from 42 to 36 per cent. per annum, that is the monthly interest was reduced from a 1-2 per cent per month to 3 per cent. that, and it also amended the law so that the borrower might pay off the loan at any time prior to maturity.

The bill was reported in the senate many weeks before adjournment, but it was objected to on the ground that persons who are obliged to borrow money from concerns making a business of small loans could not pay off their contract until it matured. The bill in its final form cut down the interest rate and gave the borrower the option of paying up before the loan became due.

It was claimed that lenders usually refused to receipt payment of a loan in advance of the time it was due because of the high rate of interest received, and that the borrower was always at mercy of the lender. The bill also provided that the banking commission could revoke license of any person or corporation refusing to accept payment at any time of the full face of the loan during the term of the loan.

The bill vetoed was a proposed amendment to the present law.

"Predictions about the impossibility of transferring payments under the Dawes plan seem as premature as contrary predictions would be," declared Dr. Schacht. ## DANIELSON

Transportation continues to occupy a place in the forefront of subjects of interesting general discussion. It is predicted that within a year there will be important changes in Danielson and vicinity. The New Haven road has plans for launching a $1,000,000 bus line subsidiary. One of these lines may run through this territory. It is hinted, but cannot be checked up or verified, that monster busses may replace trolleys in this territory. The impending change is indicated in one way by the recent cutting down of passenger service on the local steam road because of lack of patronage, due largely to motor vehicle competition.

Mill men here are reading with interest a suggestion that has appeared in the current issue of a leading textile paper featuring the recent textile exhibit held here by the Eastern Connecticut Mills association. This suggestion is that mills display large signs on their properties these signs giving the name of the mill and setting forth the nature of goods manufactured.

It is argued that that the number and size of New England's textile plants amazes the thousands of visitors that come into this section of the country, especially during the motoring season. They would be even more impressed, it is argued, if signs told the names of the mills and the kind of goods manufactured. These signs, it is held, would be worth any times their cost as advertisements of the plants and their prdoucts.

Arthur Stone of Attawaugan was injured Thursday when he was sideswiped by a Rhode Island motor truck while he was walking along the highway near Attawaugan on his way to work. The blow from the truck injured Mr. Stone about the head and shoulder and tossed him against a wall. He was not regarded as critically injured in what is regarded as an unavoidable accident. A wet roadway, and the fact that the driver of the truck had to turn out for two women who were walking on the other side of the highway is regarded as having set the stage for the incident. The driver of the truck did everything possible to assist Mr. Stone and in making a report to a state officer.

Funeral services for Mrs. Mary E. Heath were held at her home in the Mashentuck section of Killingly, Rev. W. D. Hetherington of East Killingly officiating. Burial was in Westfield cemetery. The bearers were Henry Smith, Martin Fitzsimmons, Hartwell E. Shippee and John Moran. A. F. Wood was in charge of the funeral arrangements.

The body of Mrs. Elvira Sarault, 28, who died at the Day Kimball hospital in Putnam was taken to her home in Woodyear by Undertaker L. E. Kennedy, Thursday. Mrs. Sarault was the wife of George Sarault. She was a native of Brooklyn, N. Y., a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John McGovea.

The "buy at home" movement that was given great impetus at the recent textile exhibit of the Eastern Connecticut Mills association held in Danielson, is regarded in textile publicity fields as a movement that is bound to bear abundant fruit. It is a movement that points a way to boosting the textile industry so that the mills will run full time with profits to the owners and good wages for the operatives.

CORONER FINDS MOOSUP MAN NOT TO BLAME FOR FATALITY

DANIELSON, June 25.—Following is the coroner's finding in the death of Solomon Anthony.

The undersigned, Coroner, within and for the County of Windham, having received notice that Solomon Anthony of Central Village, Conn., had been killed in an automobile accident at Central Village on Tuesday evening June 15th, 1926, I viewed the body of said deceased and on the 17th day of June 1926 held an inquest as to the cause and manner of said death at my office in Danielson, Conn.

From the testimony taken at said inquest I find that said Solomon Anthony died at said Central Village on June 15th, 1926 from a fracture of the skull and other injuries received, same being struck by an automobile, while riding a bicycle on the public highway between Moosup and Central Village.

I further find that said bicycle was not equipped with lights in front and rear, as required by law, and that although said death was caused by an automobile driven by George Bard of said Moosup, he was not guilty of [illegible] degree of criminal negligence which would warrant [illegible] holding him responsible therefor, especially in view of the fact that said Solomon Anthony was guilty of negligence in not having said bicycle provided with lights as required by law.

I further find that said death was not caused by the criminal act, omission or carelessness of any other person or persons. I delivered the body of said deceased to his parents for burial. I file with this finding a copy of the testimony taken at said inquest.

This death should be a warning to all parents not to allow their children to ride bicycles on the public highways unless the bicycle is equipped with lights as [illegible] and [illegible] [illegible] is properly [illegible] as required by law.

THE MACMILLAN RADIO

In the controversy between Secretary Wilbur of the navy department and Donald B. MacMillan the difference was not whether radio equipment should be carried or not, but whether the type of equipment which the navy department believed was necessary for the safety of the fliers should be taken along.

Here was a difference of opinion relative to the efficiency of the short or long wave length equipment for use in the Arctic region. MacMillan has been in the far north before and has the radio along with him. As the result of his experiences he was convinced that the short wave length outfit would meet his requirements. Secretary Wilbur didn't pose as an explorer or one acquainted with the conditions in the Arctic circle through experience. His contention was that too much safety cannot be thrown about those who are going to operate the airplanes in the vast expanse of snow and ice and for the purpose of furnishing them the information that will be of value under their guidance the long wave is regarded by him as necessary.

How many mats he had the cap and he ordered taken the outfit which would in his opinion give the greater protection. There was no alternative except stay at home for the fliers. The weight of the equipment adds another load to the cargo of the MacMillan vessels but certainly it is far preferable that it should be available in case of need in the polar regions than repose at some point in this country.

The radio is bound to be of much value to the expedition. As to that neither MacMillan nor Secretary Wilbur have any doubt. It may be that the latter is imposing a greater tonnage upon the MacMillan ships than is actually necessary but when it is done in the interest of safety and increased protection there cannot fail to be the feeling that his action was entirely justified. The disposition in too many directions is to be negligent rather than overcautious. Secretary Wilbur exercises his responsibility in connection with the navy fliers in a way that cannot react upon him.

SNAP JUDGMENT

Opinions differ greatly as to what punishment is justified in the disciplining of children. "Spare the rod and spoil the child" is an old saying which is frequently resorted to when such a matter is under discussion.

Possibly that is what Judge Gresser of New York had in mind when he witnessed a case where the stepmother was charged with beating a girl. He defended the use of the whip, placed much stress upon the importance of child discipline and declared that he beat his own children so that they could not sit down. He stands out as an opponent of corporal punishment. He believes children should be made mind and when it is necessary he orts to such methods himself. That ings the case he did not consider t he should undertake to penalize stepmother who did likewise.

Judge Gresser's reasoning seems a strange in some respects. It may readily admitted that a certain ount of such punishment under cer- conditions is justified and in fact what is needed in order to get ed results in the training of children. t in this particular instance he justified the acts of the stepmother be- use he had done something similar himself. He inferred that the cases re similar when there was no evi- ce taken and no indication of what circumstances were in the case ught before him by the Society for evention of Cruelty to Children. did not wait or endeavor to find out the facts were, whether the child ved the beating, whether she was ted cruelly, whether it was a mat- of common occurrence. He decided t case in a manner not expected a judge, and certainly in a way it is to be hoped he does not em- with other cases.

It may have been that for the good the girl the disciplining she got was t she needed. The unfortunate rt of it all is that the judge didn't ow enough interest to find out. He med to take every thing for granted on as a matter of fact the child may ve been unmercifully treated for trivial thing.

CURBING THE SWINDLERS

Secretary Jardine of the department of agriculture has been making an investigation in 26 cities of the country for the purpose of finding out what the conditions are in stores and stalls where meat is sold at retail. He has been getting at the facts through inspection of the stores and through interviews with housewives, and he will found conditions which will be interesting to the public but not to the dealers.

Here he should discover deplorable conditions in stores which are kept by foreigners, or those of recent foreign descent and not again on an equal with those who have lived in this country for a number of years.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Costs of Health

Mr. Editor: Uncle Billie's letter in the Bulletin in regard to the wearing apparel of the up-to-date female would indicate sour grapes.

Now, Uncle Billie, listen to the opinion of a famous English physician, as published by a prominent Boston paper, who finds that the future generations of girls will be healthier than the boys because they wear such flimsy attire that it allows the ultra-violet rays to penetrate to their skin giving them literally a coating of health.

It is for this reason that the doctor has come to the support of silken hosiery which encase beautiful limbs, the decolette gowns which milady wears and the one piece bathing suits.

He would like to see this mode, which is sometimes decried by reformers, continue. In fact he declares that the knee high skirt is sane not only because it gives freedom of movement but also it helps develop the legs of the fair sex, another aid to health.

On the other hand boys clothing he finds tends to throw off the health-building ultra violet rays and it is on this fact that he bases his statement that the future generations of girls will be healthier than the future generations of boys.

Now, Uncle Billie, what have you got to say about that? Of course the old saying is that it is hard work to change old costumes for the new, after we get to be 75 or 80 years young or old as the case may be, but to me they look very comfortable shorn of so much of the raiment they wore in the sweet long ago when you and I were boys.

Now, Uncle Billie, if it affects your eyes get some smoked spectacles and perhaps that will help you over until you get used to the situation. It did me and at present writing I get along without them very nicely.

An Appeal to History

Mr. Editor: History is the greatest teacher of mankind. Let us study it without any prejudice whatever. Let us be broad-minded and seekers of truth. Truth ought never to be feared or shunned, but loved. Truth is always the same wherever it is sought, whether it is in scientific realm or in religious realm.

We often hear and read statements like that which was made last Sunday by one of the local preachers: The church of Rome for 20 centuries has kept burning the lamp of learning, sacred and profane; its schools have stood for truth and right.

This may be true here in America, but it is not so in Italy. The Italian history shows this well. The church there has ever been opposed to education, otherwise Italy would not have suffered the way she did, and to-day she would be different country altogether. She would have her place among the leading nations of the world, and her citizens would not be as illiterate as they are. The historian Ranke says: Who can say, after having enumerated all the great men Italy has given to the world, to what level the science in Italy would to-day be if the church had not committed so many outrages?

During the medieval time Italy was the fountain of all knowledge; men from all over the world went there to acquire knowledge in all realms. From the renaissance on Italy has given many illustrious men to the world. Most of them, because of their great desire to advance their knowledge and know the truth suffered the fiercest persecution that the human mind can think of. The philosophers Bernardo Telesio, Davide Levi, Agostino Nifo, Tommaso Campanella and many others that I could mention suffered the most awful tortures from the church. The latter lived 27 years in agony, ill treated in a cold cell of the Roman prison.

The scientists Galileo Galilei and Luigi Lilio suffered also from the church. The former is known as the father of th experimental science. Inventions and discoveries were always opposed by the church.

Before the unification of Italy the schools were very scarce, people were not free to think as they pleased, and only the sons of a few wealthy people could go to school. The country was in a very deplorable state. One of the greatest problems which had to be met, before anything else, by the new government was that of a common education, for illiteracy covered the land. There were only four per cent of the people who could read and write. Now the situation has changed immensely. Under the new regime, which has really fostered the value of education, Italy has made remarkable progress.

Here are some hints of the educational state of Italy before 1870 and after as are reported by the historian Pietro Orsi in his book of 50 years of Italian history. The grammar schools were composed of very few grades. In many places there were only three grades. When a boy had finished the third grade, if the parents had some means to send him to a private school he could go, otherwise he had to go to work. Now there are 6 grades almost everywhere and education is compulsory and democratic. In 1871-2 in all the kingdom there were 79 lyceums which correspond to the American colleges with 3,775 students; in 1906 there were 159 of them with 14,000 students. In 1871-2 there were 104 gymnasiums which correspond to the American high schools with 8,249 students; in 1906 there were 269 of them with 35,600 students. In 1871-2 there were only 2 technical schools; in 1908-9 there were 93 of them with 71,000 students. In 1871-2 there were 13,577 university students; in 1908 there were 26,184 of them.

Are we ready to admit as to who gave the school system and fostered education in Italy. Was it the church or the government of the third Italy? Had Italy continued to be under the dominion of the church she would still be in the darkness, in "the deplorable state called ignorance." Thank God she did not.

Not only Italy has suffered for lack of education, but other countries have also suffered. Here are the latest statistics of illiteracy prevailing in some of the countries where the church of Rome has its dominion:

Austria 13.7; Hungary 32.3; Brazil 85.2; Mexico 70.7; Portugal 63.9; Porto Rico 66.5; Italy 37.6.

Does this show that the church has really fostered education. Kept the lamp of learning burning, and has obeyed the command of Jesus: "Go ye, therefore, and teach all nations?" Give facts and that will suffice us. With these facts before us each man can make his own conclusion.

From Small Beginnings

Robert Carruthers, the Clerk, a Literary Leader.

"Aw, I got no chance here! There's nothin' in this job! What's the use o' tryin'? I don't work any more'n I have to in this place, I tell you that!" With such words many a person who has a humble position speaks and then looks ahead wondering what the future has in store for him, altogether forgetting that the seed of the future is sowed in the present. Doing well the work that one has—that is the seed of the future. Thus, when "Rab" Carruthers, as the Scotch boy was called, or Robert Carruthers, as we would put it had to go to work for a book-seller, he took the work as a great opportunity. He did not grumble because the store was small and the business not of the best. He had come from one of the thousands of poor homes in the Scotland of the first years of the Nineteenth century he was one of the first of his people to go into the realm of books, and he intended to do thoroughly good work.

Thus it came about that patrons of the place said to the owner: "Tom's a fine lad over there! Sure, he'll be a man o' pairts. He's ever pourin' over books." And so he was whenever there was opportunity, bending over a book, studying, making himself familiar with what he sold. "The lad makes me like books," said one man. "I come to look and the lad talks about a book—and before I know it, I buy it." Robert Carruthers continued to read, until at last he himself was well read, a lover of books. Then he became an editor, and made his paper a success, finally saving up enough money with which to buy it. Nevertheless, he continued to read. He wrote about books for his paper, talked with men about books, became acquainted with writers, and little by little became a literary leader. He very much admired Alexander Pope's poems, and so, like a good disciple, he brought out a scholarly edition of Pope's works. When he was 53 he united with another book lover and brought out an encyclopedia of literature, one of the first of its kind. He lived to be nearly 80 and he basked in the warm friendship of some of the greatest of Nineteenth Century authors. The little Scotch bookwork had made himself a leader in literature—and all because he worked with his heart in his work.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

Miss Annie J. Cannon, is the first woman to receive an honorary degree of Doctor of Science from Oxford University, in England, has long been revered as a leading American woman astronomer. She was graduated from Wellesley in 1884, and has been associated with the Harvard Astronomical Observatory for more than 25 years. During this time she has completed a monumental catalogue of the spectra of some 220,000 stars all over the heavens, which when published will occupy nine quarto volumes. No such comprehensive study has ever been made before. She has also discovered three new stars and 150 variable stars, and has completed a bibliography of variable stars containing about 45,000 references. The latest honor from Oxford is not the first to be bestowed upon Miss Cannon by a European university. Several years ago she was the recipient of an honorary doctor's degree from Groningen University in Holland.

Dignity.

A dignified chauffeur was at ease in the front seat of an aristocratic car on the square. He was all dignity with an expression that defied one to make him laugh. Two newsboys approached. Their eyes sparkled with mischief. One of them Putting his thumbs, manlike, in the lapels of his coat, he threw out his chest and strutted toward the dignified chauffeur and his aristocratic car.

"Take the car home now, James," he ordered in a shrill voice.

Passersby laughed loud and long, but dignity prevailed. The chauffeur did not crack a smile, but moved his car forward to another parking place.

A Surprise.

There had been some amateur theatrical stuff indulged in by this group. One of the stunts included the placing of black wax on one or two of the front teeth to give the appearance of toothlessness.

"Sure," she said boldly, "That's easy." And forthwith she grasped the wax firmly between thumb and forefinger and smiled.

PREVENT THE ACCIDENTS

It is the conviction of the chief of police and the health commissioner of Chicago that inasmuch as many automobile accidents are often unnecessarily fatal, every autoist should know the simple first aid laws. Where is no getting away from the fact that when a person has been injured he should get help as quickly as possible. If it isn't possible to get the services of a doctor right away there is much that can be done by the administration of first aid. This is particularly true in cases of head cuts and other injuries.

The Chicago chief of police speaks highly of the service rendered by the California automobile club in maintaining 32 cars equipped for first aid treatment on the highways and says, "I certainly feel that every motorist should know how to care for himself or his fellow motorist in time of accident. If every man and woman would study the first aid manual at the time of going over the road guide, I am sure there would be fewer automobile tragedies this summer."

Great as is the need of being prepared in case of an accident, even greater is the importance of so using the highways that there will be no accidents. Prevention is one of the best treatments that can be applied. There will always be some which can be classed as unavoidable, but there are altogether too many which are preventable and if every driver would use a liberal amount of care yield just a little bit to the other fellow if necessary and avoid taking chances which are known to be against the rules of the highway and against safety of self and others there would follow the greatest possible reduction in the highway accidents.

In view of the many deaths and the many injuries during the past year the effort in behalf of safety and the prevention of trouble is certainly worth making. Prevent the accidents and eliminate the first aid treatments.

FORD AND THE SEAMEN

Henry Ford is apparently a man who believes in treating all branches of his activity alike. His latest demonstration is in connection with the steamships which he has bought for the transportation of his products to other countries. It was necessary of course that there should be a rate of pay for his steamship employes and he has established the wage of the crew members at $100 a month. Considering what is paid to other seamen this may well start a rush of such help to Mr. Ford's employment bureau, but at the present time he is limited in the number of such to whom he can give employment. What the future has in store for his shipping activities it is only possible to guess.

When Mr. Ford established the rate of $5 a day for the employes in his factories his move was regarded as the demoralizer of industry. What the effect would have been under normal conditions was not disclosed because of the war. But he has followed similar tactics in regard to his railroad and other enterprises and now he applies the same methods with his seamen.

He has thrown a big surprise into the shipping circles. Heretofore it has been maintained that our seamen's

The Unwelcome Egg

When you're imposed upon be quick
To register a lively kick.
—Mrs. Vireo.

Little Mrs. Red-eye the Vireo felt much as your mother would feel if she discovered a strange baby left on her doorstep. To be sure that egg wasn't a strange baby but unless there was some way of getting rid of it it would be a strange baby by and by unless her home and those three beautiful eggs which were really her own should be deserted. She really thought of doing this very thing. Yes, sir, she did so.

Then she explained how she had Kicked it out, and they both flew down for a look at it.

But there had been so much hard work put into the building of that dainty nest, and it was so exactly the home she wanted, that somehow she couldn't make up her mind to leave it. Besides there were those three eggs. Of course she could hatch out this unwelcome egg when some one had left in her nest, but that would mean an extra baby to feed. Mrs. Red-eye was sorely tempted to drive her bill into that egg and break it right away. But that would spoil her nest.

She tried to pick up that egg, but it was too big for her, she tried to poke it out of the nest with her bill, but the nest was just a little bit too deep. Though she tried and tried, she didn't succeed. Finally she gave up trying. Perhaps her own eggs would hatch out first and then she wouldn't have to sit on that unwelcome egg and hatch it out. So with a sigh little Mrs. Red-eye resumed her household duties.

The next morning she had a fourth egg of her own in the nest, and now the nest was rather crowded. That big, unwelcome egg left there by Sally Sly the Cowbird took up altogether too much room. It made Mrs. Red-eye uncomfortable. She shifted about, trying to find a more comfortable position. In doing this she found that egg resting against one of her feet. She knew it was that egg by its size. The very feel of it caused her to lose her temper for a minute. Lifting herself slightly she suddenly kicked out and up with all her might. Really she hadn't meant to do it. It was done in a fit of temper.

And then as she settled back she missed something. She didn't feel that big egg. She got up and looked in her nest. There were just four eggs there and all were her eggs. Then she looked down on the ground, and there lay the unwelcome egg, broken. Excitedly she called to Mr. Red-eye. He was not far away, and he came hurrying over to see what new thing had happened to excite Mrs. Red-eye so.

"I've got rid of it! I've got rid of it!" she cried.

"What have you got rid of?" demanded Red-eye, looking puzzled.

"That egg that Sally Sly laid in our nest," replied Mrs. Red-eye. Then she explained how she had kicked it out, and they both flew down for a look at it. Afterward Red-eye sang and sang for pure joy, while Mrs. Red-eye once more sat on the eggs. And this time she had no difficulty in making herself comfortable.

Meanwhile, unseen by Red-eye and Mrs. Red-eye, a feathered person dressed in brownish-gray who was much bigger than the Vireos, had been spying and had seen that egg kicked from the nest. It was Sally Sly the Cowbird, and she had been watching for a chance to lay another egg in that nest. But now she, suddenly changed her mind. She must find the nest for some one smaller than herself, but who was not smart enough to get rid of an extra egg.

FOUND NOT GUILTY ON RESISTANCE CHARGE

Richard Hackley, colored, 47, was discharged by Judge Arthur F. Libby in the city court Thursday morning, the charge against him being breach of the peace and resisting an officer. The case has been in the city court since Monday morning, having been continued each day until Thursday morning when the accused was discharged. The accused man had Attorney R. M. Douglas for his counsel.

The charge against Hackley followed something of an argument which Officer Peter Vuono had with Hackley over the blowing of a whistle similar to a police whistle by Hackley's small son. The officer heard the whistle and mistook it for a police whistle and responded to what he thought was a call for help. He told the boy to stop blowing the whistle and Hackley interfered with the result that the officer told him to go along with him to the police station. Hackley declined the invitation to go to the police headquarters in handcuffs and the policeman landed three blows on Hackley's head with his club, inflicting a gash which called for seven stitches to close it.

Witnesses in the case were William Rooney, James Lee, Fred Jackson, Catherine Carpenter, Francis Geer and Mrs. Peter Harris, all of whom told of the argument between the officer and Hackley and of how it resulted.

The grand matron and the associate grand conductress, Mrs. Frannie A. Gear of Norwich were presented respectively with a cut glass cracker and cheese dish and sugar and creamer by the chapter. ### FIGHT IN GREENEVILLE OVER BOYS' FIRE

A good sized piece of a brick which is in the possession of the police is said to be the implement used in a fight on North Main street between Fourth and Fifth streets about 7 o'clock Thursday evening from which Mrs. John Turcsuk of 420 North Main street went to the Backus hospital with a bad bruise and lacerations on the back of her head and Melk Trusko, 43, of 43 Fourth street landed in a cell at police headquarters.

It is claimed that Trusko applied the brick to the back of the woman's head, while cuts in his upper lip came from a piece of pipe which she wielded.

After Trusko had been arrested at his home by Sergeant Mathew Delaney, Officers Peter Sullivan and Patrick Murphy, he explained that the trouble started because he kicked out a fire that had been started by some boys of the Turcsuk family. Then he claimed the father of the boys attacked him and tore off his shirt and the woman also got into the fight. He denied hitting her.

After his arrest a friend gave $500 bail for his appearance in court.

COP'S "COOLIDGE CIGAR" HAD NATION WONDERING

If two Norwich policemen, Officers Hugh McAvoy and Patrick Shahan, never do anything else to make a ripple outside their local beats, they can rest content in the knowledge that they once created a nation-wide furore. Their fairy tale of receiving cigars from the presidential hand as the special train of President Coolidge passed through this city last Tuesday night had the country by the ears, Boston newspapers couldn't imagine such a divergence from the traditional Coolidge traits and called up Norwich police headquarters to inquire if such a thing were possible.

The cigar which Officer McAvoy was smoking as he patrolled his beat on Franklin square about 11 o'clock and which he pointed out as coming from the presidential hand was a good one and the officer enjoyed it and drew from it the "pipe dream" of seeing the president at the station.

WILL MOVE TO SET MORGAN VERDICT ASIDE

A verdict for $6,000 damages for Mrs. Laura Morgan, wife of E. Frank Morgan, and ex-mayor of New London, was returned Thursday morning by the jury in the superior court here in Mrs. Morgan's suit against Robert Smith of Saranac Lake, N. Y., who has a summer place at Waterford. The jury was out an hour after listening to the charge by Judge Isaac Wolfe.

Brown & James, counsel for Mr. Smith, stated Thursday night that they would file a motion to set aside the verdict for a new trial.

Mrs. Morgan sued for $10,000 damages for injuries which she sustained when the Morgan automobile was hit, as it was claimed by the car driven by Mr. Smith on a road in Waterford on August 21, 1924.

FITCHVILLE MAKES PLANS FOR RESPLENDENT FOURTH

The glorious triumph of 1924, which was pleasing indeed to the hundreds that made Fitchville a rendezvous for a safe and sane Fourth, undoubtedly will be eclipsed if the program outlined Tuesday evening at a meeting of the committees in charge of Fitchville's plans for a still greater holiday celebration in 1925 are adhered to. Palmer Hall has seldom, if ever, been the scene of a gathering in which enthusiasm, optimism and confidence prevailed so completely. Rev. J. F. Spearll presided and after a short address called upon the several chairmen for reports.

Carl Bently, in charge of refreshments, stated that his committee would more than duplicate its success of last year.

The supper committee through its two chairmen, Mrs. F. G. Gribbin and Mrs. Verran Thompson, expressed its ability to cater to a greater number than last year's record breaking crowd. "No matter how big a person's appetite is, we will be ready with enough home cooked food to satisfy it" said one of the assistants.

Miss E. A. Bowers, chairman of the candy committee, mentioned a new activity her committee had in mind and upon her recommendation the new scheme was adopted.

Miss Mary Lynch, head of the soliciting committee reported excellent success thus far. With only part of the community covered the results were especially gratifying. A large sum was turned in to John Fields, the general secretary.

The statement of the chairman of the amusement committee, Mrs. Martin Hetherington, was rather lengthy, but contained a world of information. To crown a day with a program of superlative magnificence, spectacular and satisfying in its accomplishment, was the desire of her committee explained the speaker. For that reason a trio of professional performers had been secured. The Novelty Act by the Arnolds and Betty of Hartford, Conn., was said to be the cleanest and snappiest entertainment on the vaudeville stage in New England today. With captivating new dances, and costumes that are the latest ideas in theatrical apparel these star actors and actresses have had unbounded success in the larger cities of this and adjoining states. Fitchville's amusement committee was warmly complimented by all present for engaging to stage such star performers. Following the entertainment a dance will be held. The fact that the numbers are to be square and round will tend to keep the crowd from thinning out at a too early hour. The prices of the entertainment were said to be within the reach of all so no one in the vicinity of Fitchville need go without having a real evening's fun.

John Beswick, commander of the midway executive, promised a midway that most carnivals would be glad to boast of. He also obligated his committee to give a display of fireworks worth going a long way to see.

Stanley Hetherington of the publicity department presented a brief report only after considerable urging. Stroking his abbreviated beard he declared that he had told the "wimmin" and wanted to know what more could be done.

Although the athletic and general arrangement committees were not represented by their chairmen it was announced that two baseball games have been scheduled, one for the morning and the other for the afternoon. The usual athletic events with suitable prizes will also be held.

Word came by special messenger that Colonel Fowler beloved of last year's crowd, will be on hand again. Resplendently accoutred and with sword held at thirty degrees from the vertical the doughty and inimitable leader of yester-year will lead the dwellers of the valley of Fitchville to the pinnacle of the hill called Cannon and there pitch the first ball in the troubles started because he kicked out a fire that had been started by some boys of the Turcsuk family. Then he claimed the father of the boys attacked him and tore off his shirt and the woman also got into the fight. He denied hitting her.

After his arrest a friend gave $500 bail for his appearance in court.

BAND CONCERT TO OPEN MOHEGAN PARK SEASON

Now that schools are closed for the summer there is a noticeable increase in the daily attendance at Mohegan park and more and more, each season, the residents of Norwich and nearby communities are learning to appreciate the attractions of this great summer playground of the people, with its well-kept roads, its shady foot paths and its marvelous views. The center of attraction, of course, is Mohegan lake, with its heavily wooded shores, its swimming holes, its boating privileges, and nearby, its collection of birds and animals, chief amongst which, are the monkeys, which are a never-ending source of delight to the children.

The fact that the public, generally, is beginning to take more interest in the park, as indicated by the increased attendance, is most gratifying to the board of park commissioners, who devote a great deal of time and thought to the upkeep and the improvement of this beautiful public park.

As an opening event for the vacation season arrangements have been made for a band concert at Mohegan park Sunday, June 28th, and the Italian band has been engaged for the occasion. Following is the program, divided into two parts, which will be rendered, by the band of which Prof. P. Puca is the director.

Memorandum of Decision.

In his memorandum of decision Judge Wolfe says:

I have had occasion to pass upon the questions raised by the demurrer in a previous case against The Connecticut Company and I see no reason at this time to change the conclusion that I then arrived at.

By Section 3511 of the General Statutes, Revision of 1918, a street railway company was bound to keep in repair so much of the highway over which its tracks were laid as was included within its tracks and a space of two feet on the outer side of the outer rail.

And by the provisions of Section 3333:

"Any person injured in person or property by reason of any defect in that portion of the highway which any street railway company is bound to keep in repair, may bring his action against both said company and the town, city or borough which is bound to keep said highway in repair," etc.

A radical change of policy with reference to the liability of street railway companies for repairs to a highway and the duty of paving and repaving portions thereof and their liability for defects therein occurred in 1921, when the Legislature by Chapter 214 of the Public Acts of that year, repealed the foregoing and other Sections of the General Statutes with reference to this subject and thereby greatly restricted the liability of street railway companies in these respects.

By Section 1 of such Public Act, which Act was in force at the time that the cause of action herein stated arose, and by which act the respective rights of the parties hereto are to be determined, a street railway company was no longer required to pave or repave or to pay the cost of paving or repaving any portion of the highway in which its tracks were laid, except that it "shall pay to the party obliged to keep such highway in repair the cost of restoring to its former condition so much of the highway included within a distance of eight inches on each side of each rail as shall have become in need of repair in consequence of the use of such tracks."

The only other liability of a street railway company with reference to the repair of the highway or a defect therein, is set forth in Section 3 of such Act, which Section provides that "any street railway company which shall open a portion of such highway for the purpose of constructing, reconstructing or repairing its tracks or appurtenances thereto, shall exercise reasonable care to protect the traveling public from injury therefrom and shall restore such highway to a condition at least equal to that existing at the time of the beginning of the work of such opening. Until such highway shall be so restored such company shall be liable in damages to all persons injured in person or property while lawfully using such highway and exercising proper care therein."

From a consideration of this Act it will be seen that the liability of a street railway company for a failure to keep a highway in which its tracks are laid in repair was at such time, for the Act has since been repealed, a very limited one and consisted first, of its liability to pay to the party obligated to keep a highway laying its tracks located therein in repair, the cost of restoring to its former condition so much of the highway included within a distance of eight inches each side of each rail as shall have become in need of repairs in consequence of the use of such tracks; and second, its liability to any person injured in person or property while lawfully using the highway and exercising proper care therein, which shall have been opened by a street railway company for the purpose of constructing, reconstructing or repairing its tracks or appurtenances thereto.

The plaintiff alleges in his complaint that the accident occurred while he was turning out of the south bound tracks and over to the right of the highway and that as he did so his left rear wheel became caught in a depression between the west rail and the roadbed of the south bound track of the defendant company. And the complaint further alleges that "it was the duty of the defendant to use all reasonable care to keep said tracks and said roadbed between its tracks in a reasonably safe condition, so as to protect passengers and vehicles upon the highway from injury while passing to and from said street," and that "on the said day and for a long time previously the defendant had negligently and carelessly permitted said roadbed to become rough, uneven and gullied."

Neither of these allegations sets forth the breach of any legal duty upon the part of this defendant owing to the plaintiff. At the time in question this defendant was not charged with the duty of keeping that portion of the highway in repair, nor did any conditions exist which brought the defendant company within the provisions of Section 2 of the Public Act in question.

The demurrer to the complaint is therefore sustained.

The demurrer to the complaint of Zoradi Angeloni vs. The Connecticut Company, in which cause of action the same set of facts are set forth as in the present action, is for the reasons given also sustained.

Use Cuticura Soap And Ointment To Heal Sore Hands

WHEELWOOK ... (AP)—
Two Americans, Roy Cook of California, and Jesse Sweetser, of Richmond, reached the semi-final list of players who will battle for the British lawn tennis championship at Wimbledon today. The latest victims of the two men's onslaught on the all-England North American tournament had clashed only this morning.

Cook, of the U. S. Davis Cup team, defeated Sir H. Roper Barrett, 6-4, 6-4, 6-4, and Sweetser, of Richmond, Va., 6-4, 6-4, 6-4, in the quarter-finals.

Another big day, before the greatest crowd that ever packed into the square of the famous Centre court and in the presence of King George and Queen Mary, Elizabeth Ryan, the former California girl, started off against Miss Suzanne Lenglen, the world champion, to repeat her great performance of last year when she fought the French woman into three sets before yielding to her. Today, however, she failed to come up to her last year's form and lost after a gallant fight, having taken only the first two games of the fourteen played.

Today showed no great upsets. The favorites generally moved into the next frames, but they did not always find the road easy. C. Anderson, the Australian star, found in P. D. S. Spence, the South African, a man who called for no quarter and fought him cleverly to the end. The score in this match was 6-2, 8-10, 6-2, 6-2.

L. Lycett, Anderson's old doubles partner, gave Rene Lacoste, the French player, some warm moments and fought the match into four sets before Lacoste's brilliant play wore him down. Lacoste's victory was achieved 6-2, 4-6, 7-5, 6-4.

The only big surprise of the day was the defeat of Baron de Morpurgo, the hard hitting Italian, by G. E. Sherwell, a South African, who previously had been known more because of the fact that he was a member of a famous cricket family than for tennis tournament ability. Five sets were required to decide this contest, the final score being 1-6, 6-2, 7-5, 2-6, 6-4.

The young East Orange, New Jersey, player, Louis B. Dailey, Jr., did not menace Jean Borotra, of France, who holds the Wimbledon championship, in their match. Borotra won 6-2, 6-4, 7-5, but a lot of the critics put Dailey on their lists of persons who will bear watching next year.

Charles S. Garland, of Pittsburgh, was another American to suffer elimination. He was decorated rather easily by J. B. Gilbert, the left-handed English player, 6-2, 6-1, 6-1. Lucien E. Williams, of Chicago, was defeated by H. G. Mayers, England, 6-4, 6-4, 6-2, and L. B. Rice, of Boston, was put out of the series by Jacques Brugnon, of France, 6-1, 6-4, 6-1.

CUMMINGS IS ELIMINATED IN COLLEGE GOLF TOURNEY

MONTCLAIR, N. J., June 25.—(AP)—East and west remained firm in their battle for honors today as the finals of the National Intercollegiate Golf championship approached.

As a result of today's matches played in a heavy fog in the morning and a downpour in the afternoon, the title will lie among Frank Wattles, Jr., of Yale; Eddie Held, of Washington university, of St. Louis; Burton Mudge, Jr., of Princeton; A. J. Westland, of the University of Washington at Seattle, and E. P. Stratton, of Williams.

Three others who eliminated opponents today have good chances of attaining a place in the finals, however. Among them is G. F. Lamprecht, of Tulane university, New Orleans, who ran away with his opponent of the second round, J. P. Parker, Jr., of Princeton.

The real surprise came early in the day when Dexter Cummings, two-year tournament champion, came out of the mist in defeat at the hands of the star of University of California, Lauren Upson. The score was 2 and 1. Upson fell later in the day before Mudge.

Many are favoring the Williams man, Stratton, even against well known players of such calibre as Held and Wattles. Stratton tied Cummings at the end of the team matches and qualifying play yesterday with 152. Today he eliminated Albert Kaeley, of Syracuse, 3 and 2, and George Hackel, of Princeton, 1 up.

Wattles scored a 70 through the rain of the afternoon, despite a six at the thirteenth. Par is 72.

Young Scotty, of Bridgeport, won a four-round decision over Young Barney, of Stamford.

Marty Huber, of Stamford, knocked out Kid Oliver, of Bridgeport, in the first round of a scheduled four-round bout.

COLLEGE TENNIS PLAY IS POSTPONED A DAY

PHILADELPHIA, June 25.—(AP)—Heavy rain this afternoon flooded the courts at the Merion Cricket club, forcing a suspension of play in the National Intercollegiate Tennis tournament for the remainder of the day.

Three third-round matches and one in the second round of doubles were under way when the storm broke. In the second-round match, Louis Thalheimer and E. O. Mathew, University of Texas, had a lead of 4 games to 3 in the first set over Lionel Ogden and Cranston Holman, Leland Stanford. Not more than four games had been completed in the first set of any of the third-round contests and they will be played tomorrow morning.

Golfers who strive to join the ranks of the "lucky," the "ace" or perhaps the "skilled" are given the opportunity to join the National All-Sports Hole-in-One Golf club, and a fine award of a silver "Hole-in-One" lapel button will be given to each golf player who make a hole in one stroke on any recognized golf club in America.

This offer is being made by Chick Evans, golf editor of All-Sports magazine, and application for membership should be made to the name mentioned at 3 North Wabash avenue, Chicago, Illinois.

Here are the requirements: 1.—Make a hole in one shot. 2.—Send in your score card signed by your opponent and the "par" at the course. 3.—Give an account of the shot.

RIVERVIEW TO SMASH WITH SUB BASE TODAY

The Riverview Club of the American State Baseball league will play its second game at the Cedarcrest Park this afternoon. The first game with Bristol ended in a 6-6 tie. Van Brunt, of Bristol, pitched for the visitors and Conroy, of the Riverviews, had charge of the mound assignment. Both teams showed fair form.

Several new faces will appear in the Riverview lineup when it takes the field at the ball park, namely, Chick Stanley heavy hitter of Holy Cross and Catholic University will be in right field, "Hank" Bosse formerly of Pittsfield and Springfield Eastern League will patrol the center garden. "Art" Coulliard former Riverview Star will return to play his old position at first base. Harry Mills who has been playing a good game at first base will move into left field where his throwing arm can be used to good advantage. This gives the Riverview Club the hardest hitting outfield that ever represented a semi-pro club in this part of the state. Allard, a youngster who has been playing good ball with Plainfield High has been added to the Club, he will be used as utility Catcher and outfielder. Noel and Duffy are available for outfield duty also. Hamel, Normandin and Dugas, all 400 hitters will take care of the infield. Tony West will toe the rubber against the gobs and from all indications he should pitch one of his strongest games and bring the series to a close. Joe Belair will do the receiving.

Just a word to the fans who were disappointed last Saturday. The Riverview Club will play the fast travelling Herrups of the Hartford twi-league this Saturday afternoon at 3.00 P. M. All fans who were present last Saturday afternoon are cordially invited to attend, no admission will be charged. The colored Giants agreed to appear at the State Hospital last Saturday (June 20th) ready to play at 2.45 P. M. This they failed to do, therefore the Riverview Manager has arranged to bring one of Hartford's leading attractions, namely the "Herrupe". Hank Morin will handle the game Saturday aided by Jack Curran on the bases.

SPORT WORLD BRIEFS

Babe Ruth is on the bench again and will be used for pinch hitting purposes only, Miller Huggins, Yank leader says. Ruth is to be used as a pinch hitter for the first time this season and it means the postponement of the St. Joseph-Taftville game to this evening.

It has been the general impression that Babe Ruth was not a drawing card any more but the first time this season and it means the postponement of the St. Joseph-Taftville game to this evening.

Interest in baseball locally is steadily increasing as is shown by the crowds that attend the games. Large crowds are patronizing the Twilight league games each night and the Saturday and Sunday games are drawing well. All teams playing over the last week end reported the largest crowds of the season. A contributing factor to the interest is that Norwich is getting some of the fastest baseball that it has seen in years. Each team in the Twilight league is playing good ball, the J. E. Martin team is playing a fast game as is Riverview and the Taftville A. A., all of which goes to keep up the interest.

Speaking of good baseball, the game this afternoon at the Sub Base should be a drawing card for all eastern Connecticut. The hospital has the best team in a number of years and ranky with the best in the state, bar none. With the addition of "Hank" Bosse, former Pittsfield player and now with the Springfield Eastern league team, the hitting strength of the Riverview team is materially increased. Bosse was always a hard hitter and fast base runner, but trouble with his legs and feet caused him to be traded to Springfield. Baseball every day in the week is beginning to tell on the veteran and he wants to be placed on the voluntary retired list. It is possible that he will become a regular member of the Riverview club.

If popularity means anything Joe Faber, with the Providence International club, should go big. Joe is proving one of the most popular ball players that ever played in the Rhode Island capital. The entire population is pulling strong for Joe and Joe is responding nobly and playing a whale of a game.

Johnny Clabby, who started the season with the York, Pa., team of the N. Y.-Penn. league, and was later with Wilkesbarre is back in Norwich, owing to illness. Jack was taken ill and returned home to recuperate.

Chick Stanley, who made such a sensational comeback with the Catholic university team this season, is in great demand. Several teams are trying to land the hard-hitting Chick for the season but so far none has been able to do this. Chick has played with the E. E. team in the Twilight league and also with the Taftville A. A. and today will wear the uniform of the Riverview club at the Sub Base.

Tennis players are talking up the Fourth of July tournament at the Norwich Golf club courts. The entry list will be large as there is keen competition expected from all parts of the state. This tourney is a three-day affair with play in the men's singles and doubles.

The revival of tennis in eastern Connecticut is assured since the Norwich Golf club announced that a special tennis membership would be granted. This is a move in the right direction and the club is to be commended on its foresight and willingness to promote the game. The club is now affiliated with the United States Lawn Tennis association, which is another step to bring back tennis to the Rose of New England.

Dame rumor has it that the Eastern Conn. Power Co. team has asked waivers on Third Baseman Charlie Risley and that all clubs have passed him up. Mgr. Ed Harris reports that he will give him away to the Junior Twilight league when it opens.

TIMELY VACATION HINTS BY HEALTH DEPARTMENT

The current issue of the health bulletin issued by the state Department of health has the following to say regarding summer vacations:

There comes exhilaration with the thought of the summer months—for among them are a few weeks which we are to claim as our very own. This is the time when we lock our desk, and turn toward the sunshine and great open spaces where we can relax.

For many weeks now, we have been planning for this vacation and our natural inclination will lead us to the mountains or seashore or the ocean trip, as the case may be. To those who have failed to budget their year to include some playtime or relaxation along the way, these few short weeks may become a vertible of events which fail to yield real benefit to health. To those however whose daily life has a fair sprinkling of fun, or change from work then such a vacation is but a continuation of a well rounded day in which the balance between work and play has been shifted.

Some people work too hard for their fun. Accustomed to a life without exercise they thrupst themselves into such a vigorous program of sports—rowing, swimming, hiking, ball playing—that the reaction is too sudden and the result is disastrous. To one who has done no climbing for eleven months it is unwise to attempt the highest mountain on the first day. This should be led up to gradually, as day by day longer distances are covered. Take not of the well planned camps for young people. The program is planned through the season with the idea of strengthening the muscles and increasing strenuous events at the end of the period.

So with swimming. It is downright folly to attempt long distance swimming the first day unless one has kept up the practice in swimmin pools all winter. Especially is this true of adults who have led a rather sedentary life. There have been fatal accidents from drowning because of cramps due to unusual exercise, or exertion beyond the endurance.

Vacation time is not always play time—change of work often brings relaxation, by diverting, the mind into new channels. A new point of view is often all that is needed to renew one's zest for the daily routine. Farm work offers an opportunity to many a school or college boy and this often proves to be a real health measure with its life in the open, fairly regular hours, sleep which is sound as a result of physical exercise, and simple nourishing food. Many a college girl has found a real vacation too, through some employment at camp or hotel at some vacation resort. If the work is not too strenuous or the hours too long to admit of some fun in the open.

Nor should the reaction be all one way period. Relaxation—dropping the strain of the redvous business life is the object sought. But some form of exercise will often turn the trick, especially if this be some sport in which others join. Companionship and social intercourse with others, meeting new friends, exchanging new ideas—all tend to lighten the load and relieve the mind of self-absorption.

So play in moderation. And return from vacation with renewed rather than depleted strength.

MAENNERCHOR TURNERS HOLD THIRD ANNIVERSARY

The Maennerchor turner section held its third anniversary reunion, Wednesday evening, at Maennerchor hall with a large attendance, the programme opening with an entertainment by a few members of the gymnasium class.

Hoefer, accompanied by Miss Frieda Bauer; comedy sketch, by the Turner Comedians, and selection, by Turner orchestra.

In his speech of welcome, President Hoefer referred to the wonderful come-back the class had made of late and pointed out its bright future in gymnastics.

Madame Jarley and Her Moving Wax Figures, appearing in old-fashioned costume, were greatly applauded by the audience.

The Turner comedians, Henry Seidel, Fred Seidel and Robert Pilling, made a hit with the audience and were recalled three times.

PROTECTION FROM TYPHOID IS POSSIBLE FOR ALL

With regard to the typhoid situation this week's health bulletin issued by the state department of health says:

According to figures just issued by the Connecticut State Department of Health, typhoid fever has been more prevalent in the state during the early part of 1925 than for a similar period during the past 3 years. As a matter of fact in only 4 of the past 10 years has the number of cases reported for the first 5 months of the year exceeded those reported for the present year. Figures for deaths during May are not yet available but deaths from typhoid in the State during the first 4 months of this year exceeded deaths from the same cause during any year since 1918. The cases and deaths from typhoid so far reported in 1925 are as follows

| | Jan. | Feb. | Mar. | Apr. | May | Tl. |
|---|---|---|---|---|---|---|
| Cases | 15 | 14 | 13 | 11 | 13 | 71 |
| Deaths | 3 | 2 | 6 | 4 | — | 15 |

It will be noted from the foregoing figures that the increased number of cases is not due to any sudden outbreak but they are distributed over the various months of the period indicating an actual increased incidence of disease. Another point of significance is that this increased incidence has occurred during the season of the year when typhoid fever is least prevalent. A question of concern is, what will be the incidence when typhoid is normally most prevalent?

This situation calls for special efforts to prevent typhoid fever during the remainder of the year, such efforts must be put forth by all persons concerned, including health officers, physicians and the general public.

Everyone can be protected by typhoid immunization. This method of protecting individuals has been demonstrated to be effective by the war experience of the Army during the World War. It was this method of protection that made typhoid an almost negligible factor for disability during the war rather than one of the major factors in disability during all preceding wars in which this country has engaged.

Persons living with typhoid carriers, in families with typhoid patients, or persons who contemplate trips to camps or other places where typhoid may be spread should be immunized against the disease.

It is important also that persons who begin to feel ill should call a physician early in order that the true nature of their illness may be ascertained. Typhoid comes on gradually and persons who keep going for a day or two after they should be in bed often have much more severe attacks than persons who go to bed early and call their physicians. Furthermore, those who keep going without giving up to the disease have opportunities to spread the disease to others before its nature can be determined.

When the physician is called early he may have more difficulty in diagnosis than if called later in the disease, but he has the opportunity of detecting infection to others in case the illness should prove to be typhoid fever. When such measures are taken people should not become impatient at delay in diagnosis but should give the physician time to carefully study the case and watch its course of development. Even before the diagnosis is made the physician can report suspected cases to the health officer and thus afford an opportunity for early official investigation as to the possible source of infection.

As soon as a case or suspected case is reported to a health officer it becomes his duty to investigate the case to determine if possible the source of infection and prevent the infection of other persons from the same source. The health officer is also interested in preventing the spread of infection from the patient to other members of his family and the attendants.

During the visit by the health officer or his representative, instructions should be given for the care of discharges to destroy the typhoid germs the patient may be giving off. These instructions may well include leaving with the family a circular on the subject furnished free by the State Department of Health. Upon receiving such information it is the duty of members of the family to carry it out in order to prevent the spread of infection to others.

Poland's Premier Speaks

M. Grabski, Polish Premier, in an exclusive story, When asked about the election of Hindenburg as President of Germany, he said it heralded the intensifying of Germany's efforts to secure a revision of her Eastern frontier settlement. Such an aim, could not be done peacefully, as Poland would never consent to a revision. Resorting to force of course is dreaded.

MARKET WAS STRONG

NEW YORK, June 25—(A. P.)—Higher prices moved steadily upward today despite the sporting up of the call money rate from 6 1-2 to 8 per cent. Specialty movements featured the day's trading, which ran just over two million shares.

Pools were again active, particularly in the Tobacco, Public Utility and Motor issues. More than a score of stocks were lifted to new high levels for the year, the list including Atlantic, Gulf and West Indies common and preferred, United Cigar stores, Tobacco products, Simmons company, General Motors 7 per cent preferred, Yellow Cab manufacturing, Hudson and Manhattan common and preferred, Pittsburgh Utilities preferred, United Railways investment preferred, Federal Light and Traction, Mackay companies, American Typefounders and Texas Gulf Sulphur.

American Can made the best showing of the so-called Standard Industrials, closing 1 5-8 higher at 186 3-8 after having sold 1 point above that figure. Celotex showed a fractional gain at 111 and United States Steel common receded 5-8 to 114 3-4. American Car and Foundry, American Ice, American Smelting, Fleischmann, National Biscuit, United States Cast Iron Pipe and Woolworth all closed a point or so higher.

Lehigh Valley was one of the outstanding strong spots of the rail group, showing an extreme gain of more than 3 points at 91 7-8 on publication of the May earnings report, showing net operating income of $1,541,549, as compared with $901,983 in the corresponding month of last year. Steady buying of the Northwestern rails, particularly Chicago and Northwestern, was in expectation of a favorable decision by the Interstate Commerce Commission of the application for a sincrease in freight rates in that territory.

Barnet Leather jumped six points to 41 on rumors that the preferred stock will be retired this year. Strength of Texas Gulf Sulphur was associated with the listing on the curb market of the shares of the Newmont Mining Corporation, which owns over 60,000 shares of Texas Gulf Sulphur stock. Revivol of speculative interest in the Pierce Arrow issues was followed by a two point gain in the common stock at 33 3-4 and a jump of 19 1-2 points to 165 by the prior preferred.

Oils showed a firmer tendency on publication of the weekly report of the American Petroleum Institute, showing another large decrease in the daily average of crose crude oil production for the week ended June 20.

There were several soft spots scattered throughout the list. Burns Brothers broke about 3 points each on the announcement that the former officers of that company had formed a new coal concern. Heaviness also was shown by Davison Chemical, General Refractories, Interborough Rapid Transit, International Agricultural Chemical, International Shoe, Seaboard Air Line preferred and United Railways davestment, all off 1 to 2 points.

Marking up of the call money rate from 4 1-2 to 5 per cent, the highest rate in nearly three months, was attributed to the heavy demand for funds in connection with July first dividend and interest payments. Time money and commercial paper rates were unchanged.

Reactionary tendencies predominated in the foreign exchange market. Demand sterling held firm around $4.85 3-4, but French and Belgian francs yielded slightly to 4.64 and 4.50 1-2 cents respectively. Greek exchange turned weak on reports of revolutionary disturbances.

Danish kroner touched a new high at 19.56.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET

CHICAGO, June 25—(A. P.)—Aggressive speculative selling gave rise to sharp setbacks in wheat prices today at one time as much as five cents a bushel. News of a retaliation in Greece was one of the factors which served to unsettle confidence on the part of holder and to open a way for an upset in values. The wheat market closed unsettled, 2 3-8c to 4 cents net lower, July 1.53 to 1.57 1-4 and September 1.49 3-4 to 1.49 7-8, with corn varying from 1c decline to 5-8c advance, oats 1 3-8 to 1 7-8c down and provisions unchanged to 25c off.

Bearish traders in the wheat market were quick to seize on the news from Greece and to emphasize the face that serious disturbances were also taking place in Morocco and China. It was current comment that such events had a tendency to hinder the free movement of capital, and thus were to be regarded as a detriment to business generally, including grain. Canadian denials of black rust reports, together with lower quotations at Liverpool, were likewise influential toward weakening the market here, and so also was cool weather likely to check rust development this side of the Canadian boundary.

Rainy weather and the action of wheat had a depressing effect on the corn market, as well as on oats. Nearby deliveries of corn dropped to the lowest point reached in about two months.

Provisions were responsive to the weakness of grain.

CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, June 25—(A. P.)—Stock prices moved up sharply in today's curb market with increased public interest manifested in the public utility shares, oils made only moderate responses to reports of another sharp decrease in crude production of the week ended June 20, Prairie Pipe and Cheesborough being among the few issues to show net gains of a point or more.

In the industrial group, Electrical Refrigeration issues gave another good exhibition of group strength, Nizer and Servel both mounting to new high levels for the year. National Tea scored 20 points on a few odd lot sales in reflection of a sharp increase in sales and earnings. Other strong spots in that group included St. Regis Paper, Cube company, Gillette Safety Razor and Chrysler Motors, all up a point or more.

National Power and Light was the spectacular feature in the Public Utility Division, soaring 15 points to 95. Substantial gains also were recorded by Power Corporation of New York, Lehigh Power securities and United Light and Power with high current earnings stimulating the buying in each case. Western Power was weak, breaking more than 3 points. Speculative interest in the mining group was divided between the heavy trading in Kay copper, which sold around its recent high levels, and the strength of engineers gold, which crossed 57 for a gain or more than four points.

BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, June 25—(A. P.)—Bond prices drifted downward today simultaneously with a rise in the call money rate at 6 per cent, and diversion of speculative interest to stocks pending. Although the financial district felt that the stiffening of call loans was only temporary in view of month-end settlements, the development was used as an excuse for general profit-taking.

Revolutionary disturbances in Greece caused fairly heavy selling of Greek government seven per cent bonds which broke 2 points and closed 1 3-4 below last night's final figure. Continued uneasiness over the Chinese situation at the same time was reflected in a recession in Chinese railway 5s to a new low for the year.

For the first time this week buying support was lacking for United States government obligations and prices of both liberty and treasury bonds were shaded. Speculative purchasers were induced to unload some of their holdings by the record high levels attained on the recent upswing.

Railroad issues, after showing a tendency to follow the upward trend of carrier stocks in the early dealings, turned reactionary. The downward movement embraced Frisco, Chicago and Alton, St. Paul, Atchison, Reading and Missouri Pacific Ilens. Oil, rubber and sugar bonds also gave way after a strong start.

The $20,000,000 loan arranged for the Chilean mortgage bank by Kuhn, Loeb and company, will be offered publicly tomorow at a price of 97 3-8. The bonds bear 6 1-2 per cent. interest and mature in 33 years. A loan of $10,000,-

MYSTIC

Wednesday a Ford, 1921 Model on which was built a body something like a log cabin attracted attention here. It was covered with markers from all over the world, relics, pictures and coins of various countries. The news spread that it was at a local garage for repairs and visitors were on hand all day to view it. The owners and occupants are four disabled ex-service men who have traveled since June 29, 1921 in search of health. They are Albert Carter, Stanford Orr, Goebel Reeves and Edward Lang. Their starting point was El Paso, Texas, making four years of travel next Monday. It is interesting to note a few of their signs. This car stops for all railroad crossings, around the world, two years in Europe, five and a half months of which were spent in England. They entered Canada at Vancouver, leaving at Winsor, next touring the New England states. At each place they stop they try to add something to their collection of curios.

Their all-day stop here was to have the motor repaired. On both ends are the skeleton heads of animals with horns and some are donated by prominent public officials. The large collection of coins are nailed on, while paper money is covered by glass. An Italian coin is dated 1498, Roman Empire, India coin dated 1207, United States coins were noticeable, some being quite old and under glass instead of nailed on. By the many markers, Florida must be a favorite spot, also Mexico and other southern places. The car is equipped for camping and the body opens, adding to the width. For good luck their emblem is a pair of Texas steer horns mounted on a plates used in the war of 1812.

In place of the regular W. C. T. U. meeting, Mrs. Wilfred Rollinson superintendent of the parlor meetings invited members to meet at her new home on West Mystic Avenue Wednesday afternoon. Flowers were everywhere adding to the beauty of the new house and furnishings. Mrs. Rollinson had charge of the meeting, which opened by singing March of Allegiance and prayer by Mrs. W. Herbert Lamb, followed by repeating the Lord's prayer, and a solo by Miss Alice Harrison. The programme was taken from the book, Women Torch Bearers, written by Elizabeth Putnam Gordon, each one present having a part. Then came a solo by Miss Alice Harrison. Big shake up in Dry Force August 1st, by Miss Happie Brown, singing of America the Beautiful and a recitation by Miss Emily Stoddard. Mrs. Lamb announced that Miss Anna A. Gordon has been selected president of the World W. C. T. U. June 23 at Edinburgh, Scotland and Miss Margaret Munn's treasurer. Both are from America. Mrs. Rollinson served ice cream, cake and fancy cookies. Others present were Mrs. Martha Stinson, Mrs. Byron Billings, Mrs. Gurdon Allyn, Mrs. Marion Pomeroy, Mrs. Abbie Chapman, Mrs. L. F. Part, Mrs. O. C. Buddington, Mrs. Charles Dodd, Mrs. Albert Wheeler, Mrs. W. A. Phillips, Mrs. Russel Lamb, Mrs. Ira Decker, Mrs. C. H. Latham, Mrs. Dynes Harison, Mrs. A. E. Cutter, Mrs. George Barnes, Mrs. Rachel Benner, Mrs. F. F. Hill, Mrs. Justin Denison, Clara S. Murphy.

The Heart of the Woods

I hear it beat in morning still
When April skies have lost their gloom,
And through the woods there runs a thrill
That wakes arbutus into bloom.

I hear it throb in sprouting May—
A muffled murmur on the breeze,
Like mellow thunder leagues away,
Or booming voice of distant seas.

In daisied June I catch its roll,
Pulsing through the leafy shade;
And fain I am to reach its goal
And see the drummer unafraid.

Or when the autumn leaves are shed,
And frosts attend the fading year,
Like secret mine sprung by my tread
A savoy bursts from hiding near.

I feel its pulse 'mid winter snows,
And feel my own with added force,
When red-ruff drops his sanguine pose
And forward takes his humming course.

The startled birches shake their curls,
A withered leaf leaps in the breeze;
Some hidden mortar speaks, and hurls
Its feathered missile through the trees.

Compact of life, of fervent wing,
A dynamo of feathered power,
Thy drum is music in the spring,
Thy flight is music every hour.

—By John Burroughs.

(Written Specially for The Bulletin)

When your Creator imprints Deity gets down to work of the ghastly job he's about the most dangerous as well as most disagreeable gentleman running loose.

Not that there is any lack of evils in modern life which we should be better off without. Not that real reform isn't always and everywhere a desirable amendment to such evils. Not that there isn't astonishing calling for high honor in the purifying courage and fidelity which have carried fame of thousands of John the Baptists and John Husses to the headsman's block or the martyr's stake.

But they were real reformers. Your modern "reformer" who makes a business of it and—incidentally—often gets a living out of it isn't the sort that goes to the stake himself or behead. He or she,—for neither sex has a monopoly of the breed—is perfectly willing, nay, usually quite eager, to send others to the stake and watch them burn while chanting pæans of self-laudatory glorification to drown the shrieks of the victims.

When my neighbor sets out with sincerity and vigor to reform the mass of inconsistency and stupidity and wrongheadedness which walks about under his own hat, I am willing to take off my own to him and bid him Godspeed in a highly desirable work. Moreover, to which he is amply competent and which lies within his own duty.

But when he puts on a cloak of Pharisaism to hide his own stoop shoulders and bandy legs and essays to make me over in accordance with specifications of his own devising (or deducting, as that's a different proposition.

You see, when the good Lord made us both, He did not arrange any close and indivisible connection between said neighbor's nostrils and my own sternutatory nerve. That is to say, He didn't make it necessary for me to sneeze every time the other fellow's nose itches.

But that other fellow, if he's infected with the "reform" virus can't see it that way. He usually thinks, or seems to, that he has been gifted with an unusually acute mind, and unusually sensitive conscience, and a special dispensation from above to take all his neighbors under his schooling and make them toe the mark he has chalked down on his own chosen floor.

He takes it for granted that what he thinks is wise for himself is therefore, exactly as wise for everybody else; that what he feels desirable for himself is, therefore, exactly as desirable for all the rest of the world; that what he happens to think is right is therefore, indisputably and exactly right for all his neighbors.

It is, of course, possible that his assumption may be correct, for we are credibly assured that with God all things are possible. But it isn't always nor often probable.

When the ancient Pharisees laid heavy burdens and grievous tasks to be borne on other men's shoulders they drew a scathing rebuke from high authority. They were told, right out loud, that they were hypocrites.

Your modern "reformer" is always a hypocrite. He or she is quite as apt to be an honest fanatic, self-conceitedly assured of his or her own purer morality and greater wisdom and clearer vision of the Almighty's purposes and will. These are the bigots who, in former times, came to power in such abhorrent monsters of persecution as Torquemada and Alva, and who now waddle to the front in pursy self-importance and egotistic ignorance like—well, like several whom you can pick out and name for yourselves!

Then there is the other sort, these who go in for "reform" for what there is in it for themselves. It is an easy living and perhaps a little "honest graft" on the side. These are the chaps to whom a prominent U. S. senator referred the other day when he said that the country's lawmakers are "preyed on by the multiplying agencies of propaganda and publicity which our age has produced and to manage which a new calling has arisen—the calling of the professional administrator of public action—and a calling, it may be remarked in passing, whose rewards transcend by far the average to be won in medicine, the ministry or perhaps even the law."

Those are rather big words and a somewhat highbrow style of expression to characterize what all common folks just call "professional reformers," and let 'em go at that. Such creatures, who are self-interestedly engaged in inducing other people to pull their chestnuts out of the fire for them, are rarely careless enough to let their own fingers scorch in the proceeding.

After all, however, they are not so common nor so cantankerous nor so dangerous as the absolutely well-meaning dogmatists and bigots and fanatics who sincerely believe that they are empowered by divine commission to make the world over according to their own improved plans. "Hell," according to Dr. Johnson's famous dictum, "is paved with good intentions."

I do not myself claim sufficient familiarity with the methods of hell's street department to permit me either to agree or disagree with the doctor's assertion.

But no one can have lived 70 years among men and women not to find out that ignorance and its twin, dogmatism, even when actuated by the very best intentions, are simply sufficient to turn this earth into a close approximation of Hades, to allow of their perfect work.

In writing this way, I'm especially minded of the freshet and deluge of laws under which we are drowning. Whenever Mr. or Mrs. Professional Reformer sees something which strikes him or her as either wrong or improper or merely inadvisable, he and she combine their forces to organize crusades on congress or the state legislature or the city council to have it made a crime or at least a misdemeanor.

A century and a half ago we Americans rebelled against King George because, as we charged, he had "erected a multitude of new offices and sent hither swarms of officers to harass our people and eat out their substance." Today we have a population of over 40 times that of 1776 and we have set up a multitude of offices and have to pay for the government of them all.

Think of it. Laws for murderous, ne'er-do-well, no-conscience, so popularly incomprehensible that government has been compelled to call every twentieth citizen to a throne to compel obedience to some of them. Not to all, for it is universal knowledge that some of them are never meant to be enforced. Said senator Moses of New Hampshire the other day: "Here we find ourselves enmeshed in a government of laws so numerous, so complicated, so contradictory and so frequently so ridiculous, as to bring all law into disrepute."

Perhaps the outstanding example of this is any of the legislation, strictly in defense of state, against the possession of arms. The Constitution of the United States, which was built up by rather intelligent men with some claims to rank as statesmen, includes a special inhibition against any interference with this right. "The right of the people to keep and bear arms shall never be questioned." This was intended to be final and certainly is about as clear as language can make a thing. Yet numerous legislatures have not only questioned but denied the right, and numerous courts have been found to enforce and even defend their anti-constitutional enactments.

Because it would undeniably be a good thing to prevent criminals from possessing and using revolvers against good citizens some thick-skulled "reformers" cajoled the legislature into passing a law forbidding good citizens to have or use them in defending themselves against criminals.

It isn't very long ago that I read in a New York city newspaper how a court in that place had actually fined a watchman $100 and costs for using his revolver to stand off an attack by burglars! Could stultifying unreason go further?

Hardly a day passes when we can't any of us read of robberies or murders committed in New York city by revolver-armed criminals in the plain sight of scores or even hundreds of equally disarmed spectators, prevented from attacking the [illegible] by the so-called "Sullivan law" which the while obeyed by the law-abiding citizens has never yet prevented a single "gunman" from getting all the guns and all the ammunition he wanted.

Compare Iowa. Some years ago Iowa got sick and tired of having criminals from Chicago and Omaha and Kansas City and other nearby cesspools of vice swarm into her borders and rob banks and other business places with impunity. Every though one man in every 30 in the country over is officially engaged in enforcing law, that twentieth man can't be in 20 places at the same time. Nor would he, single, be much of a deterrent to auto-loads of three or four well-armed and utterly lawless bandits.

So Iowa led by the state bankers association, deliberately organized forces of citizen vigilantes armed them, taught them how to shoot straight and when-to-kill.

As a result, there have been only two bank hold-ups in Iowa in the last two years, and the surviving members of the latest hold-up are already in Iowa jails waiting life-sentences, without any parole boards or pardon commissions to revoke them after a year or two.

As a further result six "bandits" have been killed in the commission of crime, 13 leaders are now serving life-terms in Iowa state prisons and 60 accessories are serving sentences aggregating 1,263 years. Four have managed to escape, two have been dismissed for lack of sufficient evidence and three have been acquitted. Altogether, in the last four years, just nine have "got away with it," while six have been killed "in flagrante delicto," and 73 are in prison.

The immediate result is that "gunmen" and "bandits" and the rest of the criminal horde keep as far away from Iowa as they can. They dread it worse than the devil is said to dread holy-water.

All because Iowa while seeking, like other states to disarm law breakers as far as possible, has had the common sense and gumption to arm law-abiding citizens in defense of their rights. It has given the good citizens of the state, who are in an immense majority, at least an equality of opportunity and equipment with the criminals.

And yet the country is full, today, of absolutely well-meaning "reformers" who are besieging legislatures to forbid the manufacture or sale or possession of fire-arms to the law-loving majority, on the pretext, as futile as it is palpably false, that such prohibition will make it impossible for lawbreakers to obtain them!

It's fast getting so that one doesn't expect or really hope for the exercise of sound sense on public matters in the cities. But in a state like Connecticut which, fortunately for its credit and standing, is still virtually controlled from its country towns there should be short shrift accorded the bunkum of these gnat-straining camel-swallowers.

Wholesale methods of killing off the diamond-backed terrapin, highest priced American turtle, have so depleted the waters off North Carolina that the state fisheries commission will close the season the year round for five years. Not till 1930 will general public terrapin catching be permitted. In the meantime the commission hopes to have turned 50,000 young terrapins loose in Pamlico sound and is now bending efforts to bring production to that figure.

Joey Bordonaro, five years old, was discharged from a Cleveland (O.) hospital after a remarkable appendicitis operation. Joey shot himself while playing with a revolver. The bullet severed the appendix at the exact spot where the surgeon's knife cuts. Because the bullet went through Joey's body, the surgeons merely reached in through an incision and remove the severed appendix. An examination of it showed that the boy would have had to undergo the regular operation in a few years.

Inkwells for canaries are a new travel convenience, intended to prevent pneumonia. For many years railway companies have been allowing claims on bird pets that died in transit. Railway express investigators discovered that water from the drinking bowls splashed by jolting trains got under the bird's feathers, causing them to catch their death of cold. Provided with inkwells filled with water the canaries are able to peck out the necessary moisture without getting a cold bath.

The first time $10 yellowback gold certificates were issued a government engraver received his salary in these new bills and declined to take a short trip to New York. When he paid his hotel bill, he gave the clerk one of the new bills, whereupon the clerk scrutinized it and refused it, saying that he had never seen such a bill, and it wasn't good. The engraver assured him it was good, for he had made it himself. "That's what I thought," returned the clerk as he rang for the house detective.

The 97th birthday anniversary of John Sinclair Rathbone, 55 Huntington street, proved also to be the day of his death, all were disclosed Thursday morning when he was found dead in bed about 10 o'clock at his home, 6 Park Place, Mystic.

The death of his wife, Arvesta M. Tucker Rathbone, 78, had occurred about midnight Wednesday after nearly a year and a half of illness, during the last four months of which she had been confined to her bed. Mr. Rathbone had remained up all night in attendance upon his wife, assisted by her nurse and companion, but retired about 5 in the morning after the undertaker had left the house. About 10 o'clock he was found dead in bed by Mrs. Mary D. Godfrey, who had attended Mrs. Rathbone at times during her illness. Dr. Frank R. Byrne, medical examiner, who was called, attributed Mr. Rathbone's death to shock, and granted his intermittent attendant upon old age.

Mr. and Mrs. Rathbone had been married 66 years. They spent several years traveling in England, Scotland and other European countries and 33 years ago they went to Mystic where they have lived ever since.

They had been dodgers antiquarians for years and their place was well known to patrons all over the estate. One of their most notable possessions was a set of chairs that belonged to Tom Paine and for which they were reported to have paid $2,000.

They had no children but are survived by cousins in New Jersey.

PROGRAMME FOR INSTITUTE ON PLAYGROUND WORK

Miss Ruth Eberburne, field secretary of the Playground and Recreation Association of America, has spent many days recently in Norwich with Superintendent Earle R. Brigham arranging an institute for the playleaders of Norwich, New London, and Westerly to be held at the Elks' Home, this city, starting Monday morning, June 29th, and continuing through Friday, July 3rd.

Miss Eberburne has arranged a programme which compares favorably with institutes being conducted in the larger cities of the country. Specialists in all branches of playground work are scheduled to lecture during the institute. It is hoped by the playgrounds officials that everyone interested in children will avail themselves of the opportunity of hearing these lectures as the institute is held for the benefit of the public as much as it is for the playground leaders. Each lecture will be followed by a practical demonstrations of some portion of playground work.

Robert C. Rice, director of the New London Playgrounds and W. R. Bacon of Westerly are co-operating in this movement.

Monday morning, June 29th, Mrs. Vivian D. Walker, assistant to Dr. Ireland, director of physical education and health will be the special speaker, Mrs. Smith of Norwich will give demonstrations in handicraft.

Tuesday, June 30th, Superintendent E. E. Brigham of Norwich will talk on Progression in Play Interests followed by demonstrations by Miss Catherine Dodd and Miss Katherine Farrell, both of Norwich.

Wednesday, Robert C. Rice director of physical education in New London and Miss Katherine L. Ney, supervisor of folk dancing, recreation department, Fall River, will be the important speakers.

Thursday, July 2d, Professor Adelaide Patterson, Rhode Island State College of Education, will talk on Dramatics for the Playgrounds.

Friday, July 3d, Frances Wheeler, community music organizer, Playgrounds and Recreation Association of America and Meribah E. Keefe, children's librarian, Memorial Branch Library, Springfield, Mass., will conclude the programme.

The programme will be conducted as follows:

MOTION TO RE-OPEN COMPENSATION CASE DENIED

On a motion to reopen his workman's compensation case made by Guiseppi Ferri of New London, an employe of Ettinis Bartoiucci of New London, Commissioner J. J. Donohue has dismissed and disallowed the motion to reopen, and the award of February 1, 1926, is continued in force until such time as the claimant shall see fit to reopen it. A hearing was given on the motion to reopen, the reasons advanced by the claimant being that there had been a change in his condition, but the man's own testimony showed that there had been no change in his condition, according to the compensation commissioner's finding.

HIGH SCHOOL AGRICULTURE TEACHERS AT STORRS

(Special to The Bulletin.)

STORRS, June 25—High school teachers of vocational agriculture are meeting this week at the Connecticut Agricultural college for their annual conference under the direction of Prof. C. E. Gentry, state supervisor of agricultural education. First meetings were held Monday, and the conference will continue through Friday, when the entire body will visit supervised student projects in the towns of Mansfield, Lebanon, Colchester and Glastonbury, the party breaking up in the latter town.

"Recent Developments of Interest to Poultry Producers of Connecticut" by Roy E. Jones of the extension service and "Facts Brought Out and Lessons Learned from the Economic Survey of Lebanon, Conn.," by Prof. L. G. Davis of the economics department of the college, are two of the more important lectures given before the high school teachers during their visit at Storrs. "Facts Brought Out and Lessons to be Learned from the Social Survey of Lebanon, Conn.," was the subject of an interesting lecture given Tuesday by J. L. Hypes, associate professor of agricultural education at the college. The production and handling of tobacco in Glastonbury was the subject of a talk by J. C. Dufford, teacher of agriculture in the Glastonbury High school.

High-lights in Tuesday's program included a lecture, "Survey of Boys 14 to 20 Years of Age in the Towns of Colchester and Marlborough," by R. H. Waldo, teacher of agriculture in Lebanon and Colchester, and "Part Time Work in Vocational Agricultural Education," by A. P. Williams, federal agent for agricultural education.

"The New Method of Paying Travel Expenses and Other Matters of Administration of General Interest" was the subject of a lecture by Prof. C. R. Gentry today.

Following is the complete list of the high school teachers at the conference: Russell Waldo, Lebanon; George E. Wells, New Milford; William Hutton, Thompsonville; Archie Holdridge, North Stonington; W. G. Bruce, New Milford; W. C. Baxter, Newtown; E. F. Clark, Woodbury; E. S. Clark, Guilford; Carl Coleman, Winsted; A. H. Crofts, North Stonington; J. C. Dufford, Glastonbury; H. C. Dunleavy, North Grosvenordale; R. S. Hahn, Willimantic; W. C. Kennon, Middletown, and Carl Small, Southington.

DISALLOWS CLAIM FOR WORKMEN'S COMPENSATION

The workman's compensation claim of Maurice Blake, of Preston, an employe of Paul Massey, of Old Mystic, has been disallowed and dismissed by Commissioner J. J. Donohue, because he is of the firm Blake's injury did not arise in the course of his employment.

The claim was made on the ground that on Sunday, May 2, 1925, while Blake was riding a motorcycle from his boarding place to the Massey farm for the purpose of feeding his employer's horses, he struck some sand, and was thrown from the motorcycle, sustaining a laceration in his groin. Blake was disabled from the date of the injury to June 1, 1925, and was in the hospital for two weeks. He sought to have compensation and medical and hospital bills paid.

The question to be determined was whether or not claimant's injury arose out of and in the course of his employment, and from the evidence introduced it was found that the claimant was on his way to the place where the work was to be performed at the time he met with the accident; he had not reached the employer's premises, and from the testimony of the employer, it is found that while he expected Blake to take care of his team seven days a week the wages were actually figured on a 6-day a week basis, and while the injury arose out of the employment or circumstances incidental to it, it cannot be found to have arisen in the course of his employment.

FINAL SETTLEMENT MADE IN COMPENSATION CLAIM

An award that John W. Kramer of East Lyme, who was injured October 9, 1923 while in the employ of James F. Purcell of Colchester, has been made by Commissioner J. J. Donohue in final settlement of the workmen's compensation claim. Kramer is to be paid forthwith the sum of $17.04, which is compensation on a partial disability basis at $2.13 per week for 8 weeks from April 28, 1925 to June 22, 1925 and Kramer is also to be paid forthwith the sum of $1,170 which is compensation for 25 per cent of 520 weeks, on a total disability basis, or 130 weeks, at $9 per week, which is one-half the average wage of Kramer at the time of the injury.

LEGION ENDOWMENT FUND PRESENTED BEFORE LIONS

The weekly meeting of the Norwich Lions club was held Thursday noon at the Wauregan hotel with the usual large attendance. In the absence of President C. E. Carpenter, Vice President Louis J. Fontaine presided. The song leader was William Anderson and he was ably assisted by Pianist Lionel Ethier.

Following the brief business session the entertainment committee, Dr. Charles Solomon chairman, took charge. There was a short talk on the Five Million Dollar Endowment Fund Appeal being conducted by the American Legion throughout the country. The talk was given by Lion Ben Pulsa who spoke as follows:

I'm taking this opportunity to call to your attention briefly what I consider one of the most worthy undertakings ever attempted, namely "The American Legion's Endowment Fund of Five Million Dollars." The raising of this fund by the American Legion is for worthy purposes to which every American citizen should contribute. In this appeal to the United States the Legion is engaged in the worthy and necessary undertaking of caring for the orphan children of ex-service men and, in co-operation with the government, of aiding needy disabled veterans.

America's part in this tremendous drive should be taken up in the same enthusiastic spirit that was manifest in the various great drives during the war. Today in this country there is the responsibility of caring for 35,000 or more orphans of service men and the helping of the men who came back maimed for life. The protection of this helpless childhood against disease, poverty, ignorance crime and vice warrants the Legion's appeal for funds enough to provide them real American homes, an education and the care of the more fortunate children of the nation. It is also the co-operation of the American Legion with the government that necessitates the use of funds for providing adequately for the care of the disabled.

The principal of this five million dollar endowment fund is not to be touched; for the interest alone will insure a perpetual fund for the care of those unfortunates. The United States will no doubt respond liberally to this worthy appeal and I earnestly hope that Norwich will do its share in contributing toward the fund.

Raydell Solomon, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Simon Solomon and a niece of Dr. Solomon, entertained with two dance numbers, a waltz clog and a regular clog. Gertrude Peggy Grachikian, daughter of Herman A. Grachikian, was heard in two pleasing vocal numbers after which Don Dixon gave a clog dance and two piano selections were given by William Huber. A vocal solo by Lisa Tyler Stanton brought the entertainment to a close.

The following were appointed as the entertainment committee for July: Leon Hopkins, William R. Priddle and Fenn Kiesler. The meeting closed with the singing of the Star Spangled Banner.

GEN. PANGALOS TAKES OATH AS NEW PREMIER OF GREECE

New Ministry Was Sworn In—Government Was Formed in Less Than Forty-Eight Hours After the Bloodless Revolution—Personnel of the Cabinet Was Announced Last Night—State Department Received Advices From Legation in Athens.

ATHENS, June 26.—(A. P.)—General Pangalos, Greece's new premier, and the members of a hastily formed ministry, took the oath of office today before Admiral Coundouriotis, provisional president of the republic. Thus, less than 48 hours after the outbreak of the short-lived, bloodless revolution, which brought the deposition of Premier Michalakopoulos, a new government, headed by one of the leaders of the revolutionary movement, was installed.

General Pangalos appointed as minister of marine and minister of foreign affairs, ad interim, Admiral Hadjikiriakos, who held the marine post in the cabinet of M. Paranastasion, in 1924, and, who, when the revolution broke out yesterday, issued an ultimatum, showing his adhesion to it, from aboard the warship Averof. The other members of the cabinet are as follows:

Minister of Education—M. Hadjikiriakos (deputy from Salokiniki).

Minister of economy and ad interim minister of justice—M. Boutsoulis.

Minister of agriculture—M. Stamoulis.

Minister of finance—M. Kophinas.

Minister of interior—M. Pangyotopoulos.

Minister of communications—M. Tavoularis.

WASHINGTON, June 26.—(A. P.)—Advices to the state department today from its legation in Athens relating to yesterday's bloodless revolution, stated that after the government had received the "ultimatum" of General Pangalos leader of the movement, that it resign, the president asked General Kondylis to form a new ministry.

General Kondylis refused owing to the unwillingness of the Athenian garrison to attack Pangalos. It was then proposed that Papanastasiou, the leader of the opposition in the assembly, should form a coalition cabinet. General Pangalos, however, "sent in a message from his stronghold" vetoing this plan.

Papanastasiou finally was asked and agreed to form a cabinet in which General Pangalos would be minister of war and Admiral Hadjikiriakos, one of the revolutionary leaders, minister of marine. When the message was dispatched, the attitude of Pangalos and Hadjikiriakos toward this proposal had not been disclosed, but it apparently was disapproved since today's news dispatches reported that the general himself had definitely assumed the premiership.

A message from American Consul Fernald, at Saloniki said no violence had attended the revolution there, although six army officers were arrested. The military league, headed locally by Lieutenant Reulis, he added, had taken charge of military and civil affairs, and issued a proclamation in favor of General Pangalos.

DUDLEY FIELD MALONE'S VIEW OF EVOLUTION CASE

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., June 26—(A. P.)—A strong appeal to teach all theories to the young people of the present generation in the interest of advancement and truth was made by Dudley Field Malone of New York before the Civitan Club today. He is an associate counsel for the defense in the case of the state versus John T. Scopes, school teacher, who is tried at Dayton on the charge of violating the anti-evolution act.

The simple reason I am now charged with the theory is my reason for not teaching this theory to the young generation, he said. "No generation can do more for the next than to give it all the facts. As I see it, the people of Tennessee should not feel ashamed, but the nation should feel grateful that the issue of personal liberty has been raised in this state.

"We are all dedicated with our minds, money and energy not to a contest against the people of Tennessee, but with them to see that personal liberty shall be preserved."

ARTIST PIERRE TARTOUE WINS HIS DIVORCE SUIT

NEW YORK, June 26—(A. P.)—A supreme court jury today returned a verdict in favor of Pierre Tartoue, portrait painter, in his suit for divorce Tartoue, and denied charges of infidelity brought against the artist in her counter-suit for divorce.

Tartoue named Renata Zanelli, Chilean baritone of the Metropolitan Opera company during 1921-22, a former member of the Chilean stock exchange, as co-respondent, and accused his wife of misconduct with him in a Springfield, Mass., hotel, when she accompanied the singer on a concert trip to Boston in 1922.

Counsel for Tartoue announced the husband will ask for an interlocutory decree of divorce when the jury findings are presented to a justice sitting in special term next week.

MACRI TRIAL ASSIGNED TO LITCHFIELD COUNTY

NEW HAVEN, June 26—(A. P.)—Olympia Macri, charged with the murder of John Bagnano, alleged father of her child, will face her second jury in Litchfield county, sometime in the fall. The girl defendant must remain in jail until that second trial is completed. Those are the orders of Judge John R. Booth of the superior court entered today after more than two hours of argument. The first jury in the Macri case disagreed.

Judge Booth's ruling stated that until he had finally signed the written order granting the change of venue, applied for by State's Attorney A. A. Alling on behalf of the state and granted by the court yesterday, the court had jurisdiction over the case and so could hear the application for bail and such other matters as remained undetermined.

TIRSEMEN HARASSING FRENCH CENTER TROOPS

MADRID, June 26.—(AP)—The region of the French center in the Taounat region of Morocco is described as getting in desperate straits here from the war zone. The rebellious Riffians are said to be giving all sorts of trouble to convoys and advanced positions and the columns are forced to overcome many obstacles placed in their way.

Tribal influences paralyzed like the French units in order to prevent the insurgents from intermingling to the south and a sharp fight with the French appears assured.

CHARGES PROPOSED FOR N. H. BAR ASSOCIATION

NEW HAVEN, June 26—(A. P.)—A report calling for two important changes in the present organization of the New Haven Bar association was adopted at a meeting of the association today. The two changes recommended by a special committee recently appointed by President Philip Pond provide that no lawyer shall be a member of the association unless he has practiced law five years and has been in good standing one year and that there shall be annual dues of $5.

Under the old arrangements any lawyer admitted to the bar could become a member and there has been no annual assessment for dues.

The committee reported that a subcommittee was drafting by-laws to be submitted at a later meeting, and that it had given the proposed reorganization careful consideration.

TO BRING INJUNCTION AGAINST STATE

HARTFORD, June 26.—(AP)—In an effort to prevent the members of Troop B and C, first squadron cavalry, Connecticut National Guard, from using a strip of land adjacent to his property as a driveway from troop B armory out to Milton street, Joseph T. Tilden, of 55 Milton street, West Hartford, has retained lawyer William H. Fogerty, of this city to bring an injunction against the state as soon as the roadway is cut through and becomes passable. It was learned tonight.

Mr. Tilden, who has owned his house on Milton street since it was built, about a year ago, in order to prepare for the time when this action might be necessary, has also circulated a petition among the neighboring residents seeking to have the armory condemned as a nuisance and to have its use discontinued for the purposes of a cavalry armory.

JAZZ IS REGARDED AS A GREAT INSTITUTION

Hartford, June 26.—(A. P.)—Jazz is a success. A great institution. That is the consensus among the members of the Connecticut Valley Piano Tuners' association, which met here tonight, and beyond such obvious reasons as that jazz is "the expression of a people," the "America's unique contribution to music" a more subtle explanation for the association's attitude was unearthed when it was learned that the prevalence of jazz music has increased the piano tuners business just 100 per cent. The pounding of the piano necessary to produce the amount of pep demanded by jazz puts the instrument out of tune in about half the time it took formerly.

DEADLOCK IN TROLLEY WAGE CONTROVERSY

NEW HAVEN, June 26.—(AP)—Trolley workers and officials of the Connecticut company are at a deadlock, it was learned following a conference between President John K. Puibeffard of the company and delegates of the trolleymen's conference board here today.

The representatives of the trolleymen told President Pumderford that the trolley workers of the state had almost unanimously rejected the company's second offer. The offer was that a new agreement similar to the one expiring June 1, be accepted by the men. The conference ended in a disagreement with no date set for another meeting.

MERIDEN BANK TELLER CHARGED WITH THEFT

MERIDEN, June 27.—(AP)—[illegible] Boardman, assistant teller of the Meriden National bank, and president [illegible] reports promotion, was arrested shortly after midnight this morning on a warrant charging him with the theft of $1,000 from the bank.

The warrant charges that the [illegible] belonging to the bank [illegible] Boardman [illegible] Boardman [illegible] Boardman

It is further contended that this section [illegible] ...ciples which states that any member whose dues are three months in arrears shall be dropped from the roster of the Association provided that they have received the proper notification. The striking operatives, members of the association, claim that they have received no notification of being dropped from the roster.

In the city court, Friday morning, Mrs. Clara Upton, charged with intoxication to which she pleaded not guilty, appeared before Judge Foss with Prosecuting Attorney Fenton representing the state. ### NATIONAL DEFENCE DAY PLANS ARE OUTLINED

WESTERLY, R. I., June 26.—To make plans for the observance of National Defence Day, the committee in charge in Westerly held its first meeting in the rooms of Harold W. Merrill post, No. 16, American Legion, Friday evening. There were present Col. John Champlin, Capt. Shelby C. Nicholas, Columbus J. Pasatiti, Thomas V. B. Clancy, Carl E. Burdick, Morris L. Laing, Miss Ida Mae Clark, Mrs. Minnie B. Smith, Mrs. Verna S. Thompson, Lieutenant Franklin C. Smith, Col. Bourdon A. Babcock, David A. Lowry and George P. Chapman. Mr. Chapman was named chairman and Miss Lucy M. Crowley acted as clerk.

The plans, similar to last year, were outlined by Chairman Chapman and suggestions asked for as to carrying out this year's observance. The parade, to be held in the morning, is to be a short one, it was emphasized, also that every organization in Westerly and the public in general is to be asked to participate in the observance. The plans proposed were for the demonstration to begin at 9 o'clock and to be all over at 11.

Miss Crowley was directed to send out invitations to more than 50 of the various societies and other organizations in Westerly to send a delegate or representatives from the body to a meeting to be held Tuesday night next in the American Legion post rooms on Broad street. At that time final arrangements are to be completed. The public is being asked to join in the observance as a "patriotic citizen army." Very careful direction was given that the invitation should be extended to every one. The organized or uniform bodies are to march as an escort to the massed colors. The ranking organization will be Battery E, 249th C. A. (H. D.), Capt. John F. Datson.

The exercises will include a patriotic address by Rear Admiral H. O. Dunn, retired, and this probably will be made in Wilcox park, to secure the use of which Col. Everett E. Whipple was made a committee to interview the park trustees. The parade is planned to end at the park when an exhibition drill will be given by Battery E, under command of Capt. Datson. The parade will include four bands, the Westerly band, George C. Moore band, Boy Scouts' band and the Boy Scouts' band from Willimantic, whose services have been offered.

The following committees were elected: Enlistment blanks, Col. John Champlin, Capt. George E. Stillman, Lieut. Franklin C. Smith; exercises, Col. Everett E. Whipple, Thomas V. Clancy; music, Capt. George A. Stillman, Lieut. Franklin C. Smith, Mrs. Verna S. Thompson; arm bands, Mrs. Samuel H. Davis, Mrs. Joseph Stedman.

PUTNAM

Louis Gingras, Louis Mauro and Walter Richardson were appointed a committee to secure space. The matter was committed to see if some arrangements could be made whereby overhanging trees along the line of march could be tied back so as not to interfere with the floats. The special committee will announce the appointment of a grand marshal at the next meeting. G. H. Prior was appointed to secure two number plates for each float in the procession, so that their places should be easily assigned. $200 was voted to be added to the sum for fireworks. The meeting adjourned to Tuesday evening.

She was a beautiful woman both in appearance and disposition. Her death is the first break in the Doyle family, the parents and another daughter living in the town of Plainfield. The mother's health will not permit her attending her daughter's funeral.

Miss Miriam Jeffers celebrated her fourth birthday Thursday, by entertaining her cousins Bernice, Roy and Elizabeth Jeffers and their mother, Mrs. Clarence Jeffers, Myrtle and Marion Miller and their mother, Mrs. Leslie Miller and Mrs. Thomas Gray. Games were played and sandwiches, olives, cake, ice cream and punch were served. The decorations were all in yellow, the favor baskets and bisque dolls being yellow and the four candles on the cakes being the same color. The little girl received many gifts.

At least six persons in town had a good view of President Coolidge as his train passed the station at Jewett City, Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Tracy, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Crumb and daughter, Rose, and the night operator, Frank Moriarity. The president was seated in the diner, and the train passed quite slowly, so that he was easily distinguished. The rear car was dark and Mrs. Coolidge was not visible.

Mrs. W. B. Montgomery entertained the Harmony Club Friday afternoon.

There is one important matter to be remembered in all decorating of floats and houses for the Fourth of July parade. It is necessary to show the proper respect to the flag, and not drape it in any manner. It is never proper to cover the hood, back or top of an automobile with the American flag, or cover any other object, for that matter, with the flag. Bunting should be used for all draping purposes, never the flag. Many are asking whether the red or blue in the bunting should be at the top and argue that red should be at the top because of the phrase "Red, white and blue." The flag is made of red, white and blue, and the blue field is always at the top, if hung with the blue at the bottom it signifies distress. That is the reason for placing the blue at the top when using bunting.

ECHOES FROM THE LODGE ROOMS

KNIGHTS TEMPLAR

The Grand Encampment of Knights Templar of U. S. A., since the close of the World war has been assisting in support of 500 fatherless French children and intends to continue this support until they are self supporting. These children are from every part of France and were selected by Grand Master Leonidas P. Newby, assisted by ex-Governor and Sir Knight Winfield T. Durbin, who went to France for that purpose. Each child is regarded as the protege of some American Knight Templar, who is spoken of as their benefactor. Regular reports of each of these children are made to the headquarters in Paris, maintained by the Grand Encampment, of which Madame A. Seligmann-Loi is secretary and in charge. The last semi-annual payment of $9,000 to this fund was made by Grand Treasurer H. Wales Lines in January. His protege is Marie Louise Couteur, whose father was killed in one of the Verdun battles.

The secretary in charge of their Paris office writes:

"Dear Sir:

We have translated for you the report recently sent to this office by a lady belonging to our organization —She thinks, and we all think here, that the Knights Templar have done a good and a glorious work, befriending 500 of our fatherless little ones for more than six years now.—Only a little longer is the splendid effort to be maintained. In order that it brings forth its fruit—and France will never forget the beautiful humanity and the noble aid of the Knights Templar of United States."

Signed,

MME. A. SELIGMANN-LUI.

The following is quotation from a letter received by Mrs. A. J. Muzzy and, her daughter while they were in Paris:

"Dear Madame and Mlle.

Through the medium of your dear cousin, H. Wales Lines, who has just written me and you can believe it has given me great pleasure to hear from him, for two years my little daughter has written him to thank him infinitely for the money which he has sent to help me raise them; yes madam, in short, it has been a great help to me."

Signed, MADAME COUTEUR.

Mr. Lines' protege writes him as follows:

"My Dear Benefactor:

I write you some lines to thank you from the very bottom of my heart for the sum which I have received. I received it just on Easter night and was very happy, for it was just like a beautiful Easter Egg for me.

My dear benefactor, Mamma has used it to buy me and my sister a little dress for Sunday for us to go to the masses and to go out a little when Mamma can go. Alas, that is not often, for you must understand that Mamma is obliged to sew often on Sunday as she is busy all the week earning our living and on Sunday it is necessary to prepare us for school on Monday."

Signed,

MARIE LOUISE COUTEUR.

AMERICAN LEGION

Although the last shot of the world war was fired nearly six and one-half years ago America's war orphans are increasing in numbers every day. The gas, shells and hardships of the awful conflict meant a lingering death to thousands of American soldiers—a death that overtakes them years after they discarded their uniforms. As these veterans die from diseases contracted as a result of war—weakened bodies, their children become war orphans just as truly as if the fathers had fallen at the front.

The years that have passed between the war and the deaths of these men many times make it difficult or impossible to prove that the fatal illness was due to war service. Unless this proof can be established to government compensation can be obtained for the children left fatherless, and they must look to other agencies for care.

With disabled veterans dying at the rate of 15 a day, these war orphans have become a national problem. Five thousand of them are not in need of care of some kind, a survey by the Veterans' Bureau shows. Insurance companies actuaries estimate the dependent children of war veterans needing care outside of government compensation will number 25,000 in 1927.

The American Legion is seeking to meet the country's obligations to these orphans through the American Legion Endowment Fund now being raised. The interest from this five million dollar fund will be used to assist disabled veterans and to maintain war orphans in good American homes.

SAFE DRIVERS' CLUB

Officers and employees of the Pennsylvania railroad who drive automobiles have to belong to what is called a Safe Drivers' Club. The purpose of this organization, as set forth in information given out by the company is to warn motorists to exercise proper care when approaching or driving over railroad highway grade crossings, to prevent being struck by trains."

Membership in this club requires a promise to drive carefully, to approach railroad crossings cautiously and to be assured that no train is approaching before crossing the tracks. Tags are to be attached on the rear of each car showing the membership.

It is perfectly evident from the name and the requirements that the members of this organization are enlisting for the purpose of not only protecting themselves at all railroad crossings, but of doing their best to encourage others to do as much for themselves.

The Pennsylvania road has been engaged for the past several years in a publicity campaign for the purpose of directing public attention to the importance of life savers at crossovers. It has been so successful in its results obtained that it has continued this excellent work, and now it proposes to give it added force by having its officials and employees set an example for others to follow.

It is possible to lead a horse to water but not to make him drink. It may be much easier to set the example in response to the treatment of crossing dangers than it will be to get others, especially the reckless, to fall in with it. But that by no means minimizes the excellent impression which such an effort makes. There can be none too much done in behalf of safety at the crossings and everything that is done for the purpose of keeping those danger spots in the minds of those who use them is bound to be a direct benefit in the reduction of the large loss of life which occurs needlessly at such points every year.

The Safe Drivers Club is an organization in which every automobile driver in the country should be a member.

RECEIVING TOURISTS

When Americans go abroad, as they do in large numbers each year for the purpose of touring Europe we expect that other countries will treat them properly and offer such facilities as lie within their power. Moreover we do not expect that they will be subjected to any more inconveniences and delays than are actually necessary in meeting reasonable requirements.

That being the case we should and must realize that we have a duty along the same line when it comes to receiving the tourists from other countries. Perhaps it is necessary for one to do a part of traveling in order to thoroughly understand just [illegible] the courtesies should be extended and the reasonable restrictions under the law established, but we cannot expect more favorable treatment for our people than we are ready to give to others.

In this connection it is gratifying to note that the policy has been changed in New York so that henceforth those who are coming here as tourists, no matter even if they travel third class, will not be required [illegible] part of a week at Ellis Island. They will be accepted as tourists and not as immigrants. They will be judged by their mission and not by the fact that they are trying to economize in the matter of travel, for it can be readily recognized that those without wealth, but anxious to see this country, may be eager to travel in the steerage if necessary in order to visit America.

When the immigration commissioner of New York points out that the past practice has been un-American, that the country wants these tourists—that we are desirous of making their visit agreeable and comfortable, that we want them to know America and that we want to help international relations, it can be appreciated that the change in method is one of the ways which long strides will be made toward such a goal. It is a reversion of the rule which should have its good effect when Americans visit other countries.

READY TO GO BACK

The situation between this country and Mexico will probably remain unchanged until Ambassador Sheffield returns to Mexico City. That is expected within a fortnight, according to indications, for such communications as have been sent to the Mexican government in regard to the matter have been answered in such a manner as to indicate that he will be welcomed back to his position as representative of the United States.

Officials of this government are said to be of the belief that Mexico will not make any further move in the matter, but will wait for the United States to take the initiative in the matter of the return of the ambassador. It is believed that the Mexican government will not take any action which will be construed as a backward step, and that it is bound to by certain difficult to maintain diplomatic relations.

Some Mexican officials assert that the ambassador would disregard the wishes of Americans and bow to the request of the very things which he has protested against in vain. It was only because he was unable to get the Mexican government to recede from its obligations that he made his final statement to Washington. This government has given full support to the position Ambassador Sheffield has taken. It approves his efforts and backs up his demands. He will go back to Mexico City with that fact fully established and with more power to his efforts in behalf of Americans rights.

For Mexico to refuse to accept him as ambassador now, because he has done his duty would be the height of absurdity. If Mexico is grieved by the developments it is high time for it to realize that there is no one to blame for it but Mexico, and if there are differences to be smoothed out the time is ripe for early steps to be taken in that direction through diplomatic channels. It cannot be believed that Mexico would now do anything so directly against its own interests as to try to keep Ambassador Sheffield from returning to Mexico City.

FINGERPRINTS

The importance of finger prints has been brought to attention in several instances as means of identification. The latest case to attract attention is that of a New York man who escaped a term of five years in prison because he was able to show that his finger prints did not correspond with the person he resembled and had been arrested for.

Because finger prints of no two individuals are alike it is possible through such a means to avoid confusion with someone else and to prove identity. Many are the measures which have been taken to accomplish this very thing without complete success but the finger printing process stands in its own defense as one of the highly valuable bits of protection which a person has always with him.

But for the study which has been made of the markings on the human skin an innocent man might now be doing time in Sing Sing, or many a guilty man might be at large. It is something which works both ways in the interest of accuracy.

In view of its infallibility finger identification of persons in banking and other business transactions. It is employed in hospitals for the prevention of mixing up of babies and it is extensively used in the running down of criminals.

When it can be brought into use for the purpose of identifying individuals who are alike as two peas, so far as size and facial expression are concerned, there is bound to be greater appreciation than ever for the protection which it furnished and real benefits which have been offered to humanity through the study which has been made of fingerprints.

DR. W. C. FARRABEE

Many are those who have sacrificed their lives in their endeavor to obtain information of a geographical or scientific nature. There are those who have gone into unknown regions, such as trying to climb Mt. Everest, seeking the poles, penetrating the heart of Africa, risking their lives making experiments of various kinds on perilous missions. Some have succeeded only to contract diseases which later took their lives while some have perished in their undertakings.

Dr. William Curtis Farrabee was one of those who succeeded but who got the jungle fever from which he could not escape. The result is that a most able scientist sacrificed his life. Dr. Farrabee was regarded as one of the best informed men concerning South America. He spent much time in the study of the Amazon valley, charting it for thousands of square miles and it was in that part of the continent that he was stricken with the fever from which he recuperated; only to be stricken again upon going to Peru for the continuance of his study of conditions there.

Such explorers are happy in the service they can render through their chosen callings. They take the risks, hoping to escape the dangers. Disease is of course not the only peril to be encountered but it is a countless one. The loss of such a man means much when it is realized that no one probably knew South America as well as he did and one of the tragic affairs of his sudden death is that it occurred before he had completed his book in which he was endeavoring to place his information concerning that continent for the benefit of future generations.

DROVE HER MACHINE ALONG RAILROAD TRACKS

A woman whose home is in a borough not more than eight miles from this city got into a peck of trouble with her small touring car here, early Friday afternoon, and incidentally created a record for her car as the first automobile to navigate the railroad loop from the steamboat dock to the Yantic river.

She was in the neighborhood of the steamboat dock when she asked directions to get to the Lane battery station, which is on West Main street, opposite the so-called elevator building and alongside the loop between the New Haven and the Central Vermont tracks. The directions given her included something about "following the tracks," it is said, and she straightway took to the railroad tracks along the dock, along past the rear of the wholesale houses, on through the tunnel under the elevator building and West Main street until she came out on the track behind the old Chelsea boat club house. Here she stalled her engine and her predicament was seen by men in the street who called for Traffic Officer Luke Riley.

The woman couldn't turn her car around and was unequal to the task of backing it all the way by which she had come in, so that the officer secured a rope and with the help of half a dozen more men, hauled the automobile backward along the tracks till they came out on the dock again and gave the driver a new start for the battery station.

BOND MARKET.

NEW YORK, June 26.—(A. P.)—Bond prices moved in desultory fashion today, with buying retarded by the current stiffening of money rates and the employment of surplus funds in stock trading and mid-year settlements. Treasury 4s succeeded in reaching a new high level for the year, but other United States government obligations showed little change.

South American bonds continued to attract investment interest both from the standpoint of new offerings and of stock exchange trading. The entire issue of $20,000,000 Chilean mortgage bank 6 1-2 per cent. bonds was sold within a few hours. Duplicating the earlier success of a $20,000,000 Province of Santa De Loan. Heavy offerings of Argentine 6 per cent.

Financially in the railroad group offered popular contracts with semi-speculative issues making a better showing than high grade investment items. New York Central 8s, Canadian Pacific 4s and Southern Pacific 4s were among the heavy spots while Frisco adjustment 6s displayed good rallying power.

CURB MARKET.

NEW YORK, June 26.—(A. P.)—Speculative buying in today's rising curb market centered largely in the industrial group in which several new high records were recorded. Oils displayed a firm tone, but the net gains, as a rule, were fractional sharp gains in the high priced issues featured the public utility section.

Niser-O lead a spirited advance in the electrical refrigeration issue, by holding up about five points to a new high record at 58. Trading in the "B" shares is expected to start next Tuesday. Fathe Exchange also advanced five points to a new top at 75 and Happiness Candy crossed 9 to a new peak price. Increased activity in Canada Dry Ginger Ale A set that stock up more than five points to a new maximum price at 50, but it was unable to maintain all its gain.

Motors moved to higher ground under the leadership of Chrysler and Franklin. A good demand also was noted for the Curtis Aeroplane issues. Rubber stocks responded to reports of increased tire prices, Miller Rubber soaring 11 points to 166. Radios advanced under the leadership of Dubilier and Freed-Eisemann.

National Power and Light closed eight points higher at 346 while net gains of 2 to 4 1-2 points were recorded by American Gas & Electric, American Light & Traction, Commonwealth Power and a few others.

CHICAGO GRAIN MARKET.

CHICAGO, June 26.—(A. P.)—Crop damage reports from Canada had more or less to do with bringing about price rallies in the wheat market today, after sharp new setbacks during the earlier dealings. At the finish, wheat was irregular, varying from 3-4c net decline to an equal advance, with July $1.51 1-2 to $1.51 5-8 and September $1.43 7-8 to $1.80. Corn finished at 1-2c to 1 3-8c gain cats 1-8c to 1-2c up and provisions showing a rise of 10 to 25c.

Wheat in the central, western and southern parts of Alberta province in Canada was officially reported as having been so much injured by cut worms that a considerable portion of the region would yield to 40 per cent below normal. Sentiment more favorable to the buying side of the market was also given late impetus by Illinois advices telling of serious threshing losses as a result of wet weather. Furthermore a good domestic milling demand in the southwest was quoted as well as some improvement of export business.

Persistent buying on the part of houses with eastern connections gave strength to the corn market throughout the day. Except for a brief interval after the opening, oats followed corn. Half a million bushels of oats were worked for export.

Foreign demand for lard helped to lift the provision market.

...ing of fur, violation of the liquor law and for maintaining a place reputed to be such that liquor could be obtained there unlawfully. The judgment carried with it a sentence of thirty days in jail on each of the five counts for the brothers, but the jail sentences were suspended, on the representation of the men that they would not sell liquor in the future. The prosecution was the result of a visit of police officers to the Winthrop hotel, which is managed by the Di Maglio brothers and has been for years. They lease the place from the estate of Peter Dorsey. Counsel for the men advised against a demurrer to the complaint, but this was overruled. It was represented for the accused that their daughter had sold beer which they believed was of the "near" order and that they did it in good faith. There were 113 cases of beer in the place when the police visited it and 2,000 was taken away and today ordered destroyed with a few bottles of whiskey also found in the place. The beer represents a value of $1,695, which, with the costs of the trial of the cases totals the amount of money the brothers lose to $1700. The arrest came when Florence Joyce and another woman of the street were suspected of having stolen money from sailors with whom they consorted about the hotel. The theft was never fastened upon the women, but they made statements to the effect that liquor was sold in the place. A search warrant was issued and the place was visited with the result that beer was found with three or four bottles of hard liquor. The two women were ordered to leave town or be prosecuted as women of the street. They departed, the Joyce woman going to Waterford, where her mother resides and her companion leaving for some more congenial section. After the finish of the case Frank Di Maglio, under an oath much as few men would take, declared that the story of the women, so far as it concerned him, was an absolute falsehood. He had no reason for making the statement he did, under that oath, for his case had been disposed of and he had paid the penalty. The prosecutor was the man with whom the oath was taken. The liquor and beer was disposed of by weak-

Mrs. ... Lillian Connolly, 33 Howard street; Mrs. James Burley and infant daughter, 122 Willetta avenue; Mrs. Julia Sherigal, New York, and Miss Elizabeth Moran, 17 Huntington street, patients at Lawrence-Memorial hospital, were discharged today.

Capt. Howard L. Metherington of the Babcock Printing Press Manufacturing company, complained to the police that several electric drills had been stolen from the stock room of the concern within a few days. Sergeant John Cavanaugh made an investigation which revealed that the thief was undoubtedly employed at the plant, for no one but some one in close touch with the concern would have stolen the drills without detection, as the implements were removed from a stock room that is equipped with a patent lock and the drills were taken from a stock that indicated the familiarity of the thief with the situs.

Joseph Staughie, 35 of 30 Wright street, lodged complaint with the police this afternoon that he had been severely beaten by Mrs. Mary Smith, of 19 Evergreen avenue, and without cause. The youth declared that he had not engaged in conversation with Mrs. Smith and had not performed any act that would give her annoyance. Prosecuting Attorney Perry J. Hollandritzky caused an officer to go to the residence of Mrs. Smith and caution her against hitting the youth in the future.

The New London police were requested to be on the lookout for Lucinda Gartman, 42, who escaped from Norwich State hospital, this forenoon. The woman is described as being about five feet in height and weighs about 98 pounds, has long black hair and gray eyes. When the woman escaped she was attired in a pink dress and dark sweater.

A deed transferring the property at 307 Huntington street, consisting of a house, barn and small parcel of land, from Julius Eugene Underhill to his widow, Jennie Underhill, was received for record at the office of the city clerk today. Mr. Underhill died last Saturday night. The deed was executed last February.

Tait Brothers, inc., today sold the creamery occupied by the concern, corner of Mill and Winthrop streets to Eastern Dairies, Springfield, Mass.

Four youths were taken into custody this afternoon by Patrolman Clarence Martin charged with malicious conduct. The boys were apprehended following complaint being made to the police by the proprietor of a Blackhall street store, that the youngsters damaged an awning to the place the night before. The youthful offenders were placed in the custody of Probation Officer Richard W. Mansfield.

William Carty, of Quaker Hill employed by the Southern New England Telephone company, complained to the police this forenoon that earlier in the day he was attacked by a dog at the corner of Wallack and Smith streets. Although the dog was muzzled the animals teeth tore Carty's clothing, but did not penetrate the flesh. The matter was turned over to Dog Warden John Sweezy.

Wilbur Smith, Pleasant street, former well known pedestrian, is critically ill at his home. Mr. Smith was taken ill several weeks ago and his condition has gradually become worse until now but slight hope is held out for his recovery. He was for years prominent in New London and throughout the state as a pedestrian of ability and during his best years defeated many of the crack walkers of the country.

Mrs. Antonia Melia, 48 Bank street, is a patient at a local private hospital suffering from a severe attack of rheumatism following an operation performed at the institution three weeks ago.

Anthony Sofianos, 28 Ocean avenue, complained to the police late this afternoon that his bicycle was stolen from the yard of his home either last night or today.

Prosecuting Attorney Daniel M. Crpulin, who has been incapacitated many weeks because of an affection of the eyes, and who is now taking treatment at the Crouch summer residence, Nemaug Park, is now confined constantly in a dark room, in the hope that this form of treatment will be beneficial.

FOURTH DEGREE ASSEMBLY HEARS ELOQUENT SPEECHES

At one of the most elaborate social affairs ever held in Plainfield, the Fourth Degree assembly, Knights of Columbus, held their meeting and banquet, Thursday night. Members of the assembly from Danielson, Norwich, Putnam, Webster, Moosup, Jewett City and other places were present. The meeting of the Fourth degree was held at the Plainfield Community House with Faithful Navigator Thomas H. Beckley, from Norwich, in the chair. After the meeting the Knights marched to the Lawton Inn where a seven-course banquet was served. The dining room was artistically decorated with flowers and American flags. On the tables were beautiful roses and carnations. The speaker of the evening was Rev. George J. Donahue, of Pomfret, whose address was on Literature. The speaker proved that the world of today is a reading one and that Catholic men must teach their children a great love for books. As one example he took the late President Woodrow Wilson, who, he declared, was 50 years ahead of his time and was one of the greatest Americans that has ever lived. His speech held the close attention of the assembly for fully two hours. Rev. Fr. S. A. Ielek, Polish pastor of Norwich, delivered a fine address on "The True American." One illustration was of a humble foreigner who, when this country entered into the World war, went to the cashier of a bank in Duluth, Minn., with a big bank roll and said, "America—she gave me this, I give it to she!" This man, by contrast with the learned and great engineer, a builder of airplane motors, from whom the U. S. government took over a million dollars at the close of the war, which had been drafted.

Rev. M. P. Morrissey, pastor of St. John's church, Plainfield, extended a hearty welcome to the visiting brothers and stated that it was a great satisfaction to know that Plainfield could welcome such a large body of Fourth degree Knights. A rising vote of thanks was given James Coffey and Timothy Driscoll for the hard work and efficient way in which the banquet was put over. The faithful navigator closed the program by extending heart-felt thanks to the Lawton Inn management, and to the officials of the Lawton Mills corporation for the splendid way in which the Knights of the Fourth Degree assembly were welcomed. The visiting Knights were taken through the beautiful buildings and they expressed their pleasure by declaring that Plainfield will see them often!

The five local Fourth degree men, Rev. R. P. Morrissey, James Coffey, Timothy Driscoll, Ralph Sisey and W. Harold Burke, were much pleased at the satisfaction expressed by the visiting Knights.

Tennyson.

Many be there are married men
Who wish, alas, in vain,
That some weddings mark
The odd bachelor's lot;
But I have noticed, as I fare
Along the path of life,
That when a man gets anywhere,
He always has a wife.

The nut blames the bachelor
Who values freedom so
That he won't choose a pard and pal
To share his joy and woe;
But I know he is missing
The best there is in life
And that no treasure's greater
Than a wise and loving wife.

MERIT

If some one finds in me a trait
Which he would wish to emulate,

If but in little things I've stood
For what is fair and what is good;

If those who know me best have Felt some
In me some strength on which to lean;

If smile of mine, or word, or deed,
Has served another's hour of need,

And lacking brilliance or success
Gain praise for gentleness;

Or stops to say, when life shall end,
That he had loved me as a friend;

If all the merit I shall reap
Lies in the simple faith I keep

Peace, with my neighbors, friends
Who tested oft and found me true,

Though far behind the great I trail-
God will not say that I have failed.

Lai-Dees and Gentle-men

What care I if the French won't pay,
If Dempsey fights or will Harvard play,
For the best of news I have heard today—
The Circus has come to town.

A girl will dance on a slender wire,
The tiger hop through a hoop of fire,
And a pageant picture the ruin of Tyre—
The Circus has come to town.

The clowns will romp in the tanbark ring,
An amber chuckle at death and swing
And the elephants do most anything—
The Circus has come to town.

The steeds will prance to the calliope
A bell will fall by the looping rope,
And your best girl shiver as Zip eats soap—
The Circus has come to town.

The records over at City Hall
Show I'm no kiddo, but, after all,
O I'm young again for I've hear the call—
The Circus has come to town.

Come This Way, My Father

I remember a voice which once guided me
Come this way,
When tossed on fog enshrouded I lay,
Upon the robe of a child, as he stood on the shore.
It sounded like music o'er the dark billows' roar,
Come this way, My father, steer straight for me.
Here safe on the shore I'm waiting
for thee.
Here safe, here safe on the shore I'm waiting for thee.

I remember my joy when I held to my breast
The form of that fear one and soothed soft to my ear,
I called, dear father, and I knew you would hear
The voice of your darling O'er the dark sea,
While safe on the shore I was waiting for thee.
While safe on the shore I was waiting
for thee.

That voice is now hushed which then guided my way,
The form I then pressed is now mingling with clay.
But the tone of my child still sounds
in my ear,
I am calling you father, oh can you not hear,
The voice of your darling — you toss
on life's sea,
For on a bright shore I am waiting
for thee.
For on a bright shore I am waiting
for thee.

I remember that voice, in many a lone hour,
It speaks to my heart with fresh beauty and power,
And still echoes far out life's trouble wave
And sounds from the loved lips that lie silent in the grave.
Come this way, my father, oh, steer straight to me.
Here safely in Heaven I am waiting
for thee
Here safely, in heaven I am waiting
for thee.

GREETINGS FROM O. C. C.

Dear Social Corner Sisters: I think this time I'll not quarrel with you
[illegible] the Welsh rarebit. I en-
[illegible] as well as [illegible] with it
[illegible]

but will try and do my best and so help to keep the party full. As many have spoken of the picnic at Mac Kil-lingly I too will say I had a delightful time in a most delightful place and among many delightful sisters of the Corner. They were all very sociable and I very soon learned to know who was who.

A bountiful dinner and refreshing drinks helped to make the day one never to be forgotten.

Esmeralda: You certainly are a wonder when it comes to entertainment. Hope you did not get sick and hope your hubby arrived home safely.

Avon: Those pinks were fine.

Zoe: Had a fine time at your party.
Am still looking for you on this way.

Alwilda: Was delighted with those verses.

Crimson: Rambler: Don't worry about me I am all right.

Maple Leaf: Hope you enjoyed your company that eve.

Mumblebee: Glad to hear you are settled once more.

Blackberry Briar: Hope you are all rested up by this time.

Queen Elizabeth: How are you these days? Saw your hubby but did not recognize him with his fast steeds.

May B.: Glad to have met you once more. Hope to see you at Pemona some time.

Catnip: Hope you are still improving and that I'll see you soon.

Thanks to all for cards received on my birthday and all presents received.
Enough for this time. Success to Corner.

WHAT IS SUCCESS

Dear Social Corner Sisters: If you have never learned the lesson of thankfulness begin now. Sum up your mercies. See what your happiness what opportunities for your usefulness and what advantages for your success. If you haven't done your best under all circumstances it is your own fault.
Then you are responsible for your failure. God does not require more of us than we can give. He measures us by our strength—physical mental and spiritual. He has said as thy day thy strength shall be. If you are too ambitious and go beyond your powers of endurance you are liable to be ill and suffer; but don't blame God for your illness. Be thankful there is a limit to your strength. Be thankful that God looks after you and that His love has a restraining influence over you at all times. Let no morning dawn without thanking Him for His watch over you and let no evening fade away without some grateful acknowledgment of His tender mercies to you individually.

Remember we cannot entertain love sympathy and kindness in a cold heart.
Would you put an honored guest into a cold cheerless room? These beautiful virtues are guests which should be royally received and welcomed in the warmest most hospitable recesses of the heart. Therefore let us ask our Heavenly Father to make us ready to receive them. The more too that we have of love for humanity the more we are capable of loving God. Love expands the heart; hatred contracts it.
The same law which applies to heat will apply to love. The more beauty we see in our fellow men the more glorious God becomes to us. Love expands the heart.

PAULA.

TEMPTING RECIPES BY TAFFY

Dear Editor and Sisters of the Social Corner: Am coming with a few recipes.

Red: Many thanks for your kindly sympathy. Am sending you a letter.
Did you ever put strawberries in your rhubarb pie and sprinkle little quick cooking tapioca all over pie? Very nice and better than flour.

Having so much sour milk on hand
today I made a sourmilk pie.

Sour Milk Pie: Make a crust same as for custard pie. Beat two eggs add 2-3 cup sugar, little salt, nutmeg and cinnamon, 1 cup sour milk. Beat all together, add 2-3 cup of small raisins (can use chopped raisins.) Bake slowly like custard pie.

Saturday Night Chop Suey: 3 slices bacon fried and cut in dice, 1-2 cup sliced onions, 1 cup shredded cabbage, 1 cup sliced celery, 1 pound round steak put through food chopper, (brown the steak, cover, cook slowly 10 or 15 minutes) 1 1-2 cups stewed tomatoes or 1 can tomato soup, add about a cup of cooked macaroni.
Thicken with flour if necessary. Serve very hot with toast or crackers, season to taste.

Amber Cake: 1-2 pound butter, three quarters pound of powdered sugar and 4 eggs; beat well together; cook in double boiler. Have ready 8 dozen lady fingers, 1-2 pint whipped cream, large can of pineapple, and 1 pint preserved cherries. Split lady fingers and lay in the bottom of pan close as possible. Put on 1-3 custard, 1-3 pineapple and cherries, 1-3 whipped cream and continue until all put together, set in ice box over night, turn out next day and serve with whipped cream.
Nice for this time of year.

Arabian Ambrosia: Cut up 2 cups of stoned dates Mix with 1 cup coarsely chopped walnuts and 2 tablespoon of lemon juice. Arrange in sherbet glasses and top with a spoon of sweetened whipped cream.

Grape Sponge: Two tablespoons granulated minute gelatin 1-2 cup grape juice, 1-4 cup lemon juice, 3 cups sugar, 3 1-4 cups boiling water. When gelatine is soft add the boiling water.
Cool and let it set slightly. Then beat with egg beater (with treat) add whips of two eggs beaten stiff, whip in thoroughly, put in individual glasses and let harden. Serve with boiled custard or whipped cream. This serves six.

TAFFY.

LETTER OF THANKS

Dear Social Corner Editor and
Friends: Just a little letter of thanks.
First I want to thank the editor for the pin he sent me.

Arlene: I want to thank you for the picture you sent. They are very good but Wasp is the picture of the one
I long like to get.

I was sorry you were not at Mac
Killingly June 5th to enjoy the good hot day. But we had a very nice time just the same.

May B: Also many thanks for your compliment. You always have enough

The disturbance that was central over northern Minnesota Thursday night has moved eastward to western Quebec. Pressure remains relatively low over the Canadian maritime provinces and the eastern states. Pressure elsewhere is quite high over the western Atlantic ocean, except near the coast of the United States and Canada.

This pressure distribution has been attended by local showers within the past 12 hours in the Lake region. Elsewhere in the east generally fair weather has prevailed. The temperature has risen in the north Atlantic states, the lower Lake region, and the Ohio and mid-Mississippi valleys and has fallen in the northern Lake region and Minnesota.

The indications are for mostly fair weather Saturday and Sunday in the states east of the Mississippi river. There is some probability, however, of light local showers on Saturday in the Atlantic states north of Virginia. Cooler weather will overspread the north Atlantic and mid-Atlantic states Saturday night. Moderate temperatures will prevail Sunday in northern sections east of the Mississippi river.

Winds.

North of Sandy Hook: Fresh south and southwest and weather partly overcast Saturday.

Sandy Hook to Hatteras: Moderate to fresh south and southwest and weather generally fair Saturday.

Weather Forecast.

For New England: Mostly cloudy, probably light local rains Saturday, cooler by Saturday night; Sunday fair.

Observations.

The Bulletin's observations show the following changes in temperature and barometric changes Friday:

| | | |
|---|---|---|
| 7 a. m. | 56 | 30.10 |
| 12 m. | 76 | 30.16 |
| 6 p. m. | 64 | 30.26 |

Highest 76, lowest 56.

Comparisons.

Prediction for Friday: Partly cloudy and somewhat warmer.

Friday's weather: As predicted.

TAFTVILLE

The committee in charge of the annual picnic of the Taftville Congregational church school met Thursday evening in the vestry of the church. It was decided to sell tickets at special prices to the members of the church school, the younger members going free. Two special cars have been chartered and they will leave the foot of North B street at the usual hour, making the trip to Ocean Beach without stop.

The state highway department has been busy applying tarvia to lower Norwich avenue. North Third avenue, one of the private streets of the village, has also been treated with tarvia.

Philip Fortin has resigned his position with the spinning department of the Ponemah mills.

Miss Anna M. Beardow and Master Nowell Beardow, of Providence street, have returned from Willimantic, where they have been the guests of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Harrous.

Mrs. John W. Seddon and her daughter, Miss Elsie Seddon of South B street, sailed Friday from Montreal, Canada, to spend several weeks in Europe.

Charles Clisf, who has been spending the past two weeks with friends in the village, has left town.

Mr. and Mrs. Alphonse Senecal and family, of Norwich avenue, have moved to another house on the same street.

A brush fire was reported this week near the coupe grounds on Ponemah heights. When the firefighters arrived, they found the flames already extinguished, and only a small patch of woods burned over. It is believed that young children with matches were the cause of this blaze as they were of two other bad fires in the same vicinity earlier in the season.

The official opening of Mohegan park for the summer season means something to Taftville people, as the park now has a Taftville entrance, with a fairly good auto road to the park center and the lake. Since the establishing of the lookout at Oz Hill, this road has been a very popular one with motorists and pedestrians. Many of the small boys of the village, especially from the Merchants avenue section, make the trip to the lake daily for a dip.

Thursday and Friday evenings, work was done on the rolling of another tennis court in the rear of the Taftville Congregational church. The tennis tournament, the first round of which was completed Friday evening, has created considerable interest in the game, and it was found necessary to put another court into condition.

WESTERN STATES SHOOK BY SERIES OF QUAKES

Scores Of Cities and Towns in Central Montana Shaken By Severe Tremors—Panic Stricken Residents Rushed From Business Structures and Homes—Highways and Railroads Were Blocked By Landslides—Three Passenger Trains Were Marooned By Avalanches—Other Trains Held Up By Tunnel Cave-in and Weakened Trestles—Two Motorists Injured When Machine Was Carried Over Embankment.

HELENA, Mont., June 26.—(AP)—Mother earth became nervous again late today in central Montana and suffered more convulsions.

Tremors occurred at Three Forks, White Sulphur Springs and Anaconda. All of them were slight. After spending a night fearful over the hidden dangers of an earthquake disaster, the population in several small towns was preparing to vacate their homes in case a new disturbance occurred.

No loss of life has occurred, according to advices reaching here from cities and towns in the affected area. Only three persons have been injured, it is reported.

The tremors today were confined to the south central region of Montana, whereas last night's shocks covered sections of four states in the northern half of the Rocky Mountain range.

In the three other states, Idaho, Washington and Wyoming, the tremors were slight and no material damage was recorded.

Property damage estimates in the stricken area of Montana have soared to the $500,000 mark tonight, with reports coming from the smaller towns and villages.

Two isolated towns are reported to be seriously damaged by the tremors, incomplete reports state. At White Sulphur Springs, which reported a new shock today, virtually all of the county buildings of Meagher county and many of the business structures have been demolished with an estimated loss of $100,000. A property damage toll of $100,000 was also exacted at Three Forks, it was reported.

The center of the disturbance, authoritative information here indicated was in the lower Gallatin valley, where smaller towns bore the brunt of the earthquake's damaging effect.

Northern Montana had night but a series of light earth shocks, three of which caused [illegible]

Railroad officials in the south-central section of the state today were [illegible] their forces to repair the damage wrought by landslides and the boulders tossed down from mountains by the tremors on their tracks.

The Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad officials announced that all trans-continental trains would be routed over the Harlowton, Great Falls-Butte lines, while the caves-in in the Lombard tunnel is being cleared up.

Prisoners in the county jail at Billings were panic-stricken when the second tremor last night split the floor of the court room, located in another building near the jail.

Near panic conditions that prevailed in virtually every city in western Montana last night had subsided late today before the new shocks occurred and work of estimating the damage was begun.

Damage in Butte was negligible, consisting of bricks being stripped from the facades of buildings and chimneys toppled over. The quakes left no marks on the more than 1,000 miles of underground workings of the Butte Copper mines. Thousands of men labored in the stopes and drifts while the tremor was most severe.

The earth's movements last night were of an oscillatory character, a back and forward and wave-like swaying. Today thunder and lightning swept the sky above Butte.

The little town of Willow Creek, a community of 500 inhabitants, today surveyed the yoke of destruction, left by last night's earthquake. The two largest buildings in the town, the school and the principal business structure, were badly damaged.

It was reported last night that Willow Creek was being destroyed by fire, but today's reports revealed that there had been no fires in the town.

PANIC STRICKEN PEOPLE RUSH FROM BUILDINGS

LIVINGSTON, Mont., June 26.—(AP)—Mother earth regained her composure today after badly shaking up last night four states in the northern half of the Continental Divide—the Rocky Mountain range.

The report of a new tremor at Three Forks, Montana, this afternoon, however, caused new apprehension to the populations of this section of southern Montana.

Idaho, Montana, Washington and Wyoming felt the oscillations of the earth last night but central Montana received the heaviest buffets. Scores of cities and towns in central Montana suffered severe tremors while their residents, many of them panic-stricken, hastily vacated business structures and homes.

Landslides on many mountains blocked highways and railroads. No loss of life occurred, according to meagre reports.

Damage to property based on actual information is estimated at approximately $100,000. Towns in the Gallatin valley were the heaviest sufferers, damage estimated, there running to $100,000.

Two passenger trains, two of them crack units of the Olympian, the fast Chicago-Seattle flyer of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul railroad, were marooned in by avalanches near Lombard, Mont. A Northern Pacific train was held up by a landslide at Lombard. A third slide occurred in the Lombard tunnel on the Milwaukee road line, but eight which temporarily blocked the passage of trains through it.

[illegible] houses collapsed during a tremor as she was leaving the building. Two motorists near Butte, received injuries when their car was caught in the "waves" of the earth shocks, and carried over an embankment.

Fear that the earth upheaval might be continued with disastrous effect prompted the residents of Three Forks and Manhattan to vacate their homes and sleep in the streets. They also moved their household effects from the houses and today prepared their Sunday repasts outdoors.

Patrols of police and volunteer citizens were thrown about buildings in Three Forks to guard weakened structures where danger of falling walls existed. Plans to raze with dynamite several of the shattered structures were under consideration the authorities said.

The school building at Three Forks virtually was destroyed. At Manhattan two school structures were so badly shattered that they may have to be razed. Three business structures also at Manhattan, including the town's bank building, are badly damaged and have been abandoned. The school house at Logan, Montana, was destroyed.

No fires, resulting from the tremors have occurred, so far as available reports indicate. However, many communities have taken precautions against blazes, police authorities of Manhattan forbidding the lighting of any fires inside buildings.

A fissure 1 1-2 inches wide at the center and from five to six feet deep has blocked the highway between Three Forks and Helena between two bridges over tributaries to the Missouri river.

ONE ROAD BLOCKED AT YELLOWSTONE PARK

Yellowstone National Park's interval of [illegible] escaped without damage when the earth's gyrations last night shook most of Montana. Only one road was blocked—caused by a rock-slide near Mammoth.

TWO PERSONS KILLED BY AVALANCHE IN SIERRAS

Los Angeles, June 26.—(A. P.)—An avalanche in the high Sierras twenty miles above Kernville, in Kern county, killed two Los Angeles members of a week end fishing party late yesterday, reports reaching here today said. Meager advices telling of the tragedy did not mention any earth tremor connected with the slide, but spoke of a heavy rainstorm preceding it.

TRAINS HELD UP BY TRACK BLOCKADES

Bozeman, Mont., June 26.—(A. P.)—Railroad travelers marooned near Lombard, Montana, Northern Pacific and Chicago Milwaukee and St. Paul trains by track blockades resulting from last night's earthquake have been relieved and are continuing their journey under a re-routing plan, it was announced today.

Northern Pacific train No. 253 tonight was still held up by landslides near Lombard but its passengers were transferred to another train at Logan and continued their travel by way of Butte.

Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul trains Nos. 16 and 18, eastbound, and 17, westbound, continued their journeys on the Northern Pacific tracks under an agreement between the two railroads which provided for a connection between Harlowton and Livingston, clearing the Milwaukee tracks two miles west of Lombard.

A landslide covered the Northern Pacific tracks two miles west of Lombard for a distance of 1200 feet. Railroad officials announced that it cannot be cleared before tomorrow.

Service on the railroad into Helena will be limited to a connection from Butte until the line is cleared.

The Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul has three landslides on its tracks, and a cave-in in its tunnel near Lombard to clear away before normal service can be resumed, railroad officials estimated today that it might take 30 days to repair the damage wrought by the landslides.

SAYS HONDURAN REVOLT REPORTS WERE FALSE

WASHINGTON, June 26.—(AP)—Reports indicating the possibility of a revolt in Honduras by General Vinicente Testa, minister of war and marine of that nation, were declared unfounded today in a dispatch from the Honduran minister of foreign affairs to Luis Bonrau, the Honduran minister.

"Contradict categorically, in principal papers," the message directed, "that General Testa has rebelled. He has not rebelled and has overpowered the intibucan faction. News of disturbances in other parts of the country are false."

...mentality conditions. Officials of the textile world observe that the sense of the general membership of others are apprehensive as a consequence of working hours. The American Thread Company reports increasing quantities of product turned out weekly. The Windham Silk Company closed at noon Saturday and will not reopen until Monday, July 5 for the annual inventory. The Quidnick Silk Company will close Tuesday evening of this week until Monday, July 6. So the same report. The Quidnick Windham, Manufacturing Company, a cotton goods, report: several departments closed for some time past and they will remain so next week. During that time part of the plant will be operated with about 1/3 employed, which is one third of the total force. The mills will close all day July 4th.

Thomas F. McMahon, president of the United Textile Workers of America, has sent out notices of a meeting of the General Executive Board of the organization, comprising representatives from practically every part of the United States, to be held in this city, Monday, July 5, in order to make a study of the local strike at the American Thread Company plant. President McMahon plans at this meeting to make a request that a general strike of all textile workers in the corporation's chain of mills be called.

This meeting and the official opening of the Tented City which will house evicted striking families are the two announcements to be made from strike headquarters here as the deadlock enters upon its seventeenth week. Tuesday afternoon, at three o'clock, the strikers and sympathizers will gather at the Tented City on the Capes lot, just over Natchaug Bridge on the North Windham Road. President O'Mara of the State Federation of Labor will preside at the meeting and the speaker will be William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor and spriter of the House in the State of Illinois for a number of terms. Secretary Egan, of the State Federation, has issued a call for all the locals to be represented at this open air meeting and several of these have decided half holiday that they may attend in a body.

Reports from the American Thread Company mills, where about two thousand operatives have been on a strike for the restoration of a ten per cent wage cut, for seventeen weeks, were given out at the end of the week that production at the plant was increasing each week and that new workers were being hired steadily. Employment offices in Lowell and Boston, the latter first opened last week, are bringing in workers to replace those out on strike. In the vicinity of eighty tenements, owned by the company, have been vacated by strikers and some of these are being taken over by business men coming from other cities. A settlement of state help is still declined here and inspection of the premises have been set up in the surrounding buildings in that district, where the depredations of strikers have that some of the strikers have been subjected to rough treatment by evicted strikers upon their return. The Company removed a mortgage which affected the house. One week after the decision on the grounds that he was to vacate, rather than a man and then he still retained the clothes for the house, thus nullifying the summary process.

Anna Herr of Hyde street, subject Kindness to Animals, offered by Miss Kate Ross, of Lisbon; and Katie Kuchy of Frost school subject, Outlawing of War, offered by George I. Ross of Lisbon. An ingenious method of getting work out of a mule was recently explained by Louis A. Beebe, a farmer of Council Bluffs, Ia., who said: "This mule was lazy. I teamed him with three horses and every time I tried to whip him I aroused the horses and only aroused the mule. So I rigged up a battery and connected the wires with the mule's harness. When I close the circuit the mule gets a lot of energy, while the horses know nothing about it."

Purebred, registered Guernseys from the herd at the Silver Bird farm, Newington, Conn., have come into Windham county to raise the standard of its herds, through an auction sale conducted at Newington at the week end by Witter Brothers of Danielson. This herd was made up of 28 head that sold in the aggregate for about $5,000. Peckham of Woodstock, one of the outstanding figures in the Windham County Farmers' association.

This is the day on which the boat trains go back to something approximating their schedule, prior to the change of a fortnight ago that upset many mailing arrangements in eastern Connecticut towns and started a wave of protest that has been effective in obtaining a restoration of the traditional service. This morning, the north-bound boat train will have arrived in Danielson before the average reader of The Bulletin had awakened from slumber. The train is now due here each morning at 5:12. Southbound, the train will get away from Danielson just before 7 p. m. This will be much better for all concerned with mailing arrangements. The public cares little what changes are made in the running time of other passenger trains, and as that may seem.

IRVING WOOD, OF BOSTON, WELL KNOWN IN WOODSTOCK

(Special to The Bulletin.)

PUTNAM, June 28—The announcement in the Norwich news Saturday that Irving Wood of Boston, who died a week ago and whose will was filed for probate Friday, had left a bequest of $250,000 to the Day Kimball hospital was very gratifying to the officers of that institution. The amount of the fortune left by Mr. Wood is estimated at about $1,000,000. After providing for legacies and annuities, one of which is for $4,000 for the care of his pet cat, it is said that the residue will total $750,000, which is to be divided equally between the Day Kimball hospital of Putnam, the Backus hospital of Norwich and the City Hospital of Worcester, Mass.

Mr. Wood was a former resident of Webster, Mass., where his father was for many years the owner of a store. The son left there fifty years ago and went to Boston where he has been very successful as an investment broker. He had a number of friends in Woodstock with whom he kept in touch until a short time before his death. It is thought that it is through his Woodstock relations that he became interested in the Putnam hospital.

He was knocked to the ground and both arms were broken.

THE COAL CONTEST

From today on the interest of the coal consuming public will be centered in the doings of the convention of coal miners at Scranton; for it is there they meet for the purpose of formulating the terms of the demands that will be made upon the coal operators and which they hope will become part of the agreement to follow the one which expires with August. And after the Scranton action has been taken the scene will change to Atlantic City where the operators will meet next month to decide what they will ask and what they will do with the demands presented to them.

It is of course the beginning of the old game of fiddling for advantage, in which the consumer is interested because he must stand the result, and so has grown tired of shouldering the load because it too often means an increased burden with seldom anything in the way of relief. He has paid it in fuel that is too freely loaded with rocks, in higher priced coal and in the rerouting of coal. He has paid for it in shortages and in a large number of instances he has become so tired of the situation that he has gone in for substitutes on a big scale and through the use of oil or other fuel than anthracite has made himself independent of the jockeying that goes on every year, or at periods all too frequent.

In the formulation of demands the consumer gets altogether too little consideration. It has been the disposition in the past to regard him as powerless and therefore deserving of the minimum of attention. With the tendency to place more dependence upon anthracite there is a question just how much attention he will receive during the coming negotiations. There are numerous points to be brought up aside from wages, all of which will have their bearing upon the price at which coal must be sold, however. Thus despite the summer weather, the efforts to get the coal bins filled and the concern over the future coal agreement will serve to keep the consumer sufficiently warmed up for the next few weeks, and possibly longer. The annual battle of coal figures can be considered as opening today.

CURBING THE GUN

There was a time some years ago when it was realized that New York was having so many crimes in which firearms figured that it called for a law that would punish the possessor of a gun without a permit. That might have worked well if it were possible to keep guns away from crooks and robbers as well as those trying to protect themselves. But it didn't. The law has resulted in the punishment of many who possessed firearms but never used them, their existence being accidently disclosed only as the result of searches made for some other reason. Criminals of course continue to carry guns and to use them without getting permits, so the law has probably resulted in fewer guns being owned, but the reduction lies among other than the criminal class. The Sullivan gun law is not allowed to interfere with their business.

In recognition of that fact it has impressed the board of trade and transportation in New York that though the gun penalty is a stiff one it isn't severe enough and it proposes through a resolution it has adopted that the penalty of life imprisonment should be applied to all who are found with a gun and no permit. That is of course what can be regarded as bearing down heavily. It is severe enough so that not many would care to take the chance of spending the rest of their days behind bars. But inasmuch as the Sullivan law has failed to accomplish what was expected of it is there any more reason to expect that the proposed law would be any more successful?

Only within a short time the people of New York and other states have had a chance to see how the parole board of the Empire state operates. Life imprisonment isn't in fact life imprisonment at all. Those sentenced for long terms in prison figure on getting out long before their minimum sentence expires. None knows this better than the professional criminal, the real individual for whom such a law is intended. The proposed law would likely become no more effective in accomplishing its purpose than the Sullivan law is at the present time. And this despite the fact that gun toting needs all possible discouragement.

GOING AFTER RUBBER

If the British are concerned because of the efforts to overcome the British monopoly on rubber by establishing plantations in the Philippines and Hawaii, they will get an additional shock by one of the announcement that the Americans have negotiated a long term lease of land to Liberia for the purpose of developing a new source of supply. This latter project will be of additional interest to the British for it will be a body to divide interest which they undoubtedly believe, during years of unrestricted output, gained very large concessions either planning to this

CUTTING NEEDLESS EXPENSE

Government business in many instances has been conducted in recent years on the same scale as many years ago, in spite of the fact that conditions which have developed from the passing years has served to cause the amount of business to dwindle. Under such conditions it can be appreciated that much more is being used for expenditures under the maintenance of government machinery ready for top speed when there is no possibility of such speed being attained, or even required.

There was a time when the bureau of Indian affairs, a part of the interior department, was called upon for much larger services than it is today. A government bureau which has charge of the lands, money, schools, supplies and general welfare of the Indians is of much importance. It serves a most valuable purpose and accepts large responsibilities, but the demands upon such a board are not what they were some years ago. This has made it possible for a large reduction in the personnel of the board and a decrease in its field agents. Where they are no longer needed it is of course folly to make provision for the needless outlay. It is possible to consolidate agencies and discharge agents so that there can be a saving of nearly a half million dollars effected.

That is of course only one of the ways in which the federal economy called for the president can be brought about but it is to be realized that it is through such savings on many directions that what amounts to little better than a waste of government funds can be checked. Good business calls for just such action and the nation must applaud every time its attention is called to the handling of government business in just the way that a large corporation would do it.

THE GREEK RESOLUTION

Whether Greece is going to be any better satisfied under its new government than it was under that of a week ago is a question. That country has experienced another upset. Its government hasn't been changed so completely as might be expected, even from a bloodless revolution. It has a new cabinet headed by a new premier as the result of a military coup said to be in response to a demand for the redemption and purification of the country.

Premier Pangalos is of course vested with a large task. He assumes it however with confidence and will have a chance to show what he can do and demonstrate whether he can accomplish what he considers the country wants.

Greece has been struggling along under plenty of trouble for the past decade or more. Possibly Pangalos is the man to render the desired service, backed as it is to be supposed he is by a sympathetic cabinet. Under such circumstances it is to be realized that the quick change is far less harmful than as if there had been a resort to bullets. The spirit of a change thoroughly impregnated the military and naval forces. That means that they are in control of the situation.

Under the present conditions in Greece it is impossible to overlook the services which were rendered for that country by Venizelos and the mistake which was made when there was a failure to give him the needed backing when he was conscientiously striving to render his country a real service. Greece had its troubles as a monarchy. It continues to have them as a republic and it doesn't appear by the present change that there has been anything actually done that will actually overcome them.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Swampscott is going to get a lot of advertising this summer for other than its natural attractions.

Many more, even as the president, will recognize New England as the vacation ground of the east.

The man on the corner says: Some people are never happy unless they are digging for hidden treasure.

There are but a few more of the rare June days to enjoy. Make the most of them.

When Prof. Campbell declared every planet must be inhabited by some form of life he whets the desire to get a squint at the Martians.

The finding of the skeletons of the missing men of the Stefansson's party, lost eleven years ago, tells the grim story of the perils of the polar expeditions.

There are still some pedestrians who will admit they know nothing about an automobile, and yet they know when the other fellow isn't running it safely and surely.

One New York judge feels that a free use of the shingle would bring greater respect for parents and far less business in the criminal courts by young people.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

When you open cans of any kind, wash off the top before opening. Dirt and germs are thus prevented from falling into the food.

Apply a paste of salt and vinegar to brass and copper for 10 minutes, then polish in the usual way.

Discolored rubber spoons in an enamel dish may be cleaned by boiling them in soda water.

Use a little vinegar in cleaning linoleum or waxed floor cloth.

Wash woolen clothing in lukewarm water.

The secret of making confectioner's sugar frosting like a cooked icing is to always add hot—boiling hot to the sugar, not just butter, but cream, milk or water.

To clean the ceiling of a chandelier, wash off all the dirt with soap and water, and when dry rub with two parts linseed oil and one part turpentine. A good rubbing will bring up the polish.

Strawberries or any other berries bought in boxes will keep better if spread out on a flat dish. Left in boxes they are apt to mellow or spoil.

Wooden spoons are best for stirring and mixing. A wooden knife and fork for serving salads is also advisable.

WHEN BUYING FISH

Here are the points to look for when selecting fresh fish: The eyes should be bright; bulging and clear; the gills should be bright red in color; the flesh firm and elastic; the skin should be bright and shiny; the mouth and gills of the fish should be closed and practically free from slime; and the fish should sink when put in water.

USE TEA LEAVES

Save old tea leaves for a few days, pour boiling water over them, leave till nearly cold, strain and use the water for washing paint. It removes stains very easily and quickly. Clean white paint by rubbing, with a damp flannel which has been dipped in whiting. Soda should never be used in washing paint, as it injures the color.

A MERINGUE

Never put meringue on a pie or pudding that is hot or even warm. This is what causes those sloppy tears. Pile it on a cold pie and place in a moderate oven to dry out and brown a little. It will hold its shape for a week and it won't hurt your pie, because it won't be in long enough to more than heat the meringue.

HEALTH AND BEAUTY

To prevent sunburn apply cream and powder before going outdoors. On coming in wipe the skin with a lotion made of one part lime water and three parts almond or olive oil.

Sometimes it is difficult to stop the flow of blood after a tooth has been extracted. If powdered alum is applied to the cavity it will stop the bleeding.

If someone accidentally takes poison, send immediately for the doctor. If an antidote is not known or available, give the person whites of eggs, milk or strong tea.

To whiten rough, dark elbows use the following lotion on them every night until they are improved and less frequently thereafter: One-half ounce lanolin, fifteen grains salicylic acid; two drams tragacanth, one-half ounce glycerin, one teaspoon peroxide, three drams tincture of benzoin and four ounces rose water.

To keep mosquitoes away try the following: Two ounces glycerin, two ounces rosewater, two ounces pennyroyal, one ounce lemon juice and three drops carbolic acid. Tobacco smoke is also obnoxious to these pests.

CONTRAST BATHS FOR FEET

Contrast baths are of distinct value in improving the circulation of the soft tissues of the foot and leg. Contrast baths are carried out as follows:

Obtain two buckets, each large enough to contain both feet. Fill bucket No. 1 about two-thirds full of warm water and bucket No. 2 two-thirds full of cool water. Sit alongside of the buckets.

Place both feet in the warm water for exactly one minute. Remove feet and place in the cool water for exactly one minute. Remove feet and place in the cool water for exactly one minute. Alternate in this manner for ten minutes, i. e., five minutes in each bucket. This routine should be carried out twice a day, increasing the contrast of the water gradually from day to day.—Hygeia.

BEFORE VACATIONING

Soon we will be on the wing leaving town troubles for a while. But we must remember many details before closing the house. Pets and plants must be arranged for. Notices must be given milk, ice and paper men. Word must be sent to the telephone company for a temporary discontinuance of service. Leave the refrigerator doors open. Be certain that all lights are turned off. Be sure all windows and doors are locked and the shades pulled down. Look about the laundry and be certain no clothes have been left dampened down. These are just a few of the many "closing" details of the house, but they may serve as reminders.

ACCORDING TO SCHEDULE

It is so important to raise babies and children according to regular schedule, better for them and really the only way a busy mother can get through her work. If babies are fed and given their naps at exactly the same time each day, mother knows just how to plan her day and baby is happier and better natured also.

DICTATES OF FASHION

Quite the most interesting parasol is one that is made of red and white raffia, crocheted in a small shell design.

To wear with a tailored suit instead of a blouse are gilets of white or colored linen beautifully embroidered.

PLEATS IN FROCKS

Anyone can have a permanent wave in the hair but what women here are seeking is a permanent pleat in their frocks and skirts. The fine the pleating the shorter time it lasts and the vogue for this treatment of the fabric has forced many a woman to carry an electric iron around in her trunk when traveling in order to keep her costume looking irreproachable.

DRESSING FOR THE OCCASION

A washable house dress is the only practical one for the woman who does her own work. These days we prepare our dinner in the morning and when we change our clothes in the afternoon all the dirty work is over and there is no danger of hurting one's frock. But the morning dress must be washable in order to keep fresh and clean at all times.

SCARF IS ATTRACTIVE

When worn with a white wool sports suit a French blue scarf is an attractive addition. White stars of various sizes on the background of plain blue and with a white border around it completes the scarf. The hat that should accompany this suit and scarf is small and white and felt, as you might guess.

LAUNDRY HINTS

If you wish to set the colors in embroidered handkerchiefs, soak them before washing for ten minutes in a pail of water into which a dessertspoon of turpentine has been stirred.

Table linen should be hung on the clothes line so that the weight and strain comes on the warp threads—that is the long way of the cloth, as the warp threads are stronger than the woof threads.

To remove glue from fabrics, soak in hot water and vinegar or in vinegar alone. Should vinegar affect the color, sponge with diluted ammonia followed by chloroform.

A soap solution that is very convenient on wash day is made by shaving a large bar of soap, and simmering it in three quarts of boiling water until the soap is completely dissolved.

WASHING DELICATE SCARFS

The scarf completes milady's costume this season—but it must always be spotless. Make a suds of warm water and a pure white soap. Dip scarf in and squeeze gently until all soil has disappeared. Do not rub at all. Rinse in several waters and pin on clean ironing board over which spread a clean sheet, and just before it is dry iron under a clean white cloth.

USE OF SLIP COVERS

Any living room may be enlivened by the introduction of a couple of pieces of wicker or painted furniture. Both are "the acknowledged thing," either in combination with each other or with the winter furniture. They are not expensive, are seasonable all the year round, and do much to refurnish a jaded room.

If, however, upholstered furniture is required to give all-year service and cannot be stored or hidden in some unseen quarter, it may very properly be covered. But there are slip-covers and slip-covers and as far as possible let us abandon the gray linen or two-toned buff that has tyrannized over the gloomy "parlor" in the summer months.

There are cretonnes to bring birdland and flowers indoors with their lovely color. There are covers of coarse canvas with perhaps broad colorful stripes that add strength and force in rooms of heavy texture. There are plain sateens for use when other furnishings are of delicate finish. There are cappy, quaint ginghams with their checks and plaids that give a room the airiest charming freshness. The same material chosen for the slip covers should be used for curtains to give a proper sense of inter-relation, and also because the velours and heavy winter things must come down.

The flowers, birds, stripes and other designs on the slip covers should be scaled to the size of the room, small ones in small rooms and bolder ones in larger rooms. If the room be one of sunny exposure, cool greens, peacock blues and lavender are pleasing shades. For an ill-lighted place a better selection would be the tans, yellows and rose colors. The selection might naturally be appropriate with reference to the wall treatment and unusual questions of taste.

In making slip covers for chairs of tapestry, velour or other heavy winter textures, it must be emphasized that slip covers must be accurately made and fitted so as not to crumple and slide in the slovenly way of former years. Slip covers are best made in two parts if the whole chair is covered, one part for the back, and one for the seat. The entire chair need not, however, be covered unless seat and back both have the same upholstery. A wooden or rush-bottom seat is not given a slip cover.

Use a cheap teapot to melt your paraffin in and keep it for that purpose. The paraffin will pour easily just where you want it and what you do not use can remain for another time.

INCORRECT MEASURING

Over 50 per cent of the failures in cooking may be laid to incorrect measuring. Never scoop up flour in a cup. It must first be sifted and then filled into the cup. Scrape off with the back of a knife all materials above the top of the cup. Always use level measurements.

A marvelous example of courage and endurance is furnished by the case of the veteran British scientist, Sir William Ramsay, who at seventy-five years of age is off on big archaeological expedition to Asia Minor. Sir William, who has long been classed among the greatest of living archaeologists, made his first expedition as far back as 1880. For 50 years his life has been one of uncreasing activity. He has held professorships in great educational institutions in Britain and America, has traveled well over 120,000 miles searching for evidences of lost civilizations, and has found time to write half a hundred of more weighty books dealing with a wide variety of subjects. Sir William is a native of Glasgow and was educated in the universities of Aberdeen, Oxford and Gottingen. ## Stories That Recall Others

Reason a Snuff

Little Johnny, age four, always said the unexpected. One day he was playing ball with his handkerchief. Repeatedly he threw it at aunty who was trying to read. Hoping to regain peace, aunty seized the handkerchief and placed it in her book. Immediately John began to tease for it.

"Do you want it very badly, John?" aunty asked and there was an affirmative nod.

"How badly do you want it?"

Just what aunty expected her nephew to answer is unknown but her surprise was evident when with puckered lips and wrinkled brow, John burst out:

"Well, I want to blow my nose."

Good Advice Followed.

A resident of the city is the rather proud possessor of an ancient automobile. It gets there but with groans and squeaks. About a week ago the "harperus" as it is termed in the neighborhood chugged up to the store and clanked to a halt. The usual laugh rippled from the assembled gang and one of them said, "Say Ben, how come that you never drive that bus any place but right around the neighborhood?"

Ben glanced at his car and then back to his questioner. "Well" he said, "when I bought her I noticed the letters K. R. I. T. on the radiator. I decided that must mean something besides what it spelled. After considerable speculation and study I figured out that those letters meant Keep Right in Town, and I've found since that I was right."

From Small Beginnings

William G. Simms the Drug Store Clerk, a Great American Writer

About 1825, a 19-year-old boy was working in a drugstore in South Carolina. He was a lively young man and did his work well.

"Will Simms is quite a boy," one of the frequenters of the store said. "He tends to business and he's always studying, too. He's going to amount to something. You see."

In that same year the 19-year-old drug clerk gave to the public an original poem written in honor of Gen. Charles Pinckney, a South Carolina hero of the days of the American Revolution, a man who was one of the makers of the Constitution of the United States, and so popular that he was nominated both for the position of vice president and later for that of president of the United States. The poem, written by a Charleston boy, naturally attracted attention. In this way William G. Simms entered into a long career of literary work. For 41 years he had been trying to write poetry. For the most part he taught himself, for he did not have the chance to go to school. In the hours when he was free from work, and in the chance moments that he could use as he pleased, he read books on poetry and tried to imitate the work that he read. By doing this year after year the drug clerk made himself into one of America's poets.

William Simms had always had to shift for himself. When he had been a mere baby his mother had died and not long afterwards his father had gone off to fight Indians. The boy, cared for by relatives, went to work as soon as he was old enough. He was indeed "quite a boy," for he not only did all that was asked of him but he also developed himself into a rich manhood.

The young man took up the study of law with an old lawyer and was admitted to the bar. At first he had intended to practice, but after a year or so he found that his real interest lay in writing. He continued to write poems and occasionally to issue them in small volumes. Much of his life work he devoted to newspaper work but he made authorship his chief occupation. He wrote a great number of novels, among them the famous one called The Yemassee. He was an indefatigable writer and wrote histories, poems, magazine articles and novels with astonishing rapidity. At 28 he was honored by election to congress. In the Civil War he devoted his talent to the Southern cause. He became one of the most loved of southern writers, not only because he was so wholly a southern man, but more particularly because he made his books, whether history, fiction or poetry, reflect the spirit of the south. He was, in fact to the south all that Fenimore Cooper was to the north. He died in 1870 at the age of 64, in the city of Charlestown, where he had been born.

Warner was crushed under the machine which he was driving, a Cadillac roadster, belonging to Dr. Bonimo, son-in-law of Mr. Strongin, which ran into the soft, unfinished shoulders of the newly built road, causing the driver to lose control, and the car shot over a six-foot drop. The machine turned over at least once and Warner was crushed in his position at the steering wheel and remained pinned under the car, but Sidney A. Delbeare, of Gardner Lake, who was riding with him, received a broken wrist as his most serious injury.

The car driven by Mr. Warner and a motorcycle driven by Herbert Lappin, of Yantic, with whom was James Lawton and [illegible] Warner from under the car as soon as possible, and to Lappin and Lawton were entrusted his unconscious form up the bank into the road. When Warner was brought to the hospital it was believed that he had but a few minutes to live and the police were notified. Sergeant Delaney dispatched Officer F. Murphy to the hospital to secure a report of the accident from Mr. Lawton and Mr. Lappin.

At an early hour this (Monday) morning Mr. Warner remained in an unconscious condition at the hospital.

ADVERTISING CAR FOR 101 RANCH IS HERE

The last of the three advance advertising cars of the famous Miller Bros. 101 Ranch Real Wild West and Great Far East show coming to Norwich on Monday July 13th, arrived in the city Sunday in charge of William Polkinghorn, one of the prominent car managers of the country.

There is an interesting story to relate about the narrow escape of the crew of the advertising car that is here now. The car occupied by the crew is one given to the show by the Canadian National Railway to replace the $50,000 coach that was destroyed in a wreck a few days ago near Coaticook, P. Q. when it was dashed in a creek and destroyed by fire following an explosion of the gas tank that furnished part of the illumination for the car. The 18 men in the car were trapped in the water below preventing escape from the windows and doors at each end were jammed. The men were in grave danger of suffocating but the prompt action of a customs officer, who was aboard another coach, saved them. Upon discovering the trapped men, the officer smashed the front door of the car with an ax, permitting the trapped men to crawl out. The car being destroyed, the Canadian National Railroad promptly furnished the advertising crew with one of their modern equipped tourist coaches for use until the damaged car could be rebuilt.

The car attracted considerable attention Sunday as it stood near the station. Not that its appearance is so very different from other cars, but the fact that it still carries the Canadian title, in addition to its extraordinary length, caused a great deal of comment. The car is scheduled to leave some time tonight (Monday) for New Haven. It is said to be the first time that a Canadian coach has ever visited Norwich.

SPOKE TO KLANSMEN AT NORTH STONINGTON

HARTFORD, June 29—(A. P.)—Under orders from Imperial Wizard Evans, head of the Knights of the Ku Klux Klan, Dr. J. B. Johnston, former pastor of the People's Baptist church in Little Rock, Ark., a member of the national lecture bureau of the Klan and a knight of the order for the past three years, is in Hartford conducting a campaign to "make better Americans of klansmen" through Connecticut and to tell outsiders the fundamental principles of the hooded order.

Dr. Johnston, who spoke before 1,500 knights of the Ku Klux Klan and friends at the fair grounds in North Stonington, Saturday night, "brings no message of hate" he says.

"The Klan is not dying out," Dr. Johnston asserted. "On the contrary it is in better condition today than at any previous period in its history. By condition, I mean that it has more members; that internal strife is at an end; that there is understanding between klansmen and between the klan and the outsiders."

Meetings are to be held throughout the state within the next few weeks but no hooded klansmen or speakers will appear.

Meetings will be called at the order of the "Connecticut representative of the Ku Klux Klan." Dr. Johnston said mentioning that one of the largest will be held July 4, at a place not yet determined.

CRASH AT DRIVEWAY ON WASHINGTON STREET

The Cadillac Sedan owned and driven by Walter E. Turner of 173 Washington street and a Durant Sedan owned by David Nowick of 25 Slater avenue, and driven by a member of the family, were slightly damaged about 3 o'clock Sunday night when they came together in front of the Turner residence on Washington street.

Mr. Turner, who was driving up Washington street signaled that he was to turn into the driveway and had nearly made the turn when his car was struck by the Nowick car which was coming down Washington street. Both cars had damaged bumpers and possible damage to the front end.

It was alleged that the Nowick car kept coming ahead as Mr. Turner swung into the driveway and although the tires were slid for a distance of about fifteen feet the crash was not avoided.

NORWICH DELEGATION AT Y. M. C. A. CONFERENCE

A delegation of five men representing the local Y. M. C. A. attended the first annual industrial conference Saturday at Camp Hazen, Chester. The delegation included George H. Lerou, John W. McKinley, Rev. C. H. Ricketts, Emery Davis and General Secretary Edwin Hill. There were about 150 men in attendance from all over the state, and these included several of the prominent manufacturers of Connecticut and other industrial men.

The principal address was delivered Saturday afternoon by Dr. Samuel Graffilo of New York whose topic was "Keeping American Street." The address was full of food for thought and abounded with striking statements as to how industrial relations can be strengthened and maintained and the speaker was frequently applauded. Dr. Graffilo urged that we give much attention to teaching the young men and young women that every person should know how to work; that living in ease was exceedingly detrimental to our youth and to our America; he also urged closer contact between employer and employe, that the employer must really know the employe, and that a bond of friendship must be built up between them.

The conference continued through Sunday, the principle speaker on Sunday being Cameron Beck, the personnel director of the New York Stock Exchange, and his message was strong and pertinent on the topic "Touch the Society of Right Relations in Industry."

CHARGED WITH VIOLATION OF THE LIQUOR LAW

The case of Joseph Wisnewski, 42, of Roosevelt avenue, charged with violation of the liquor law, came up in the city court, Saturday morning, before Judge Arthur F. Libby, but upon appeal of his lawyer, Judge T. J. Kelly, the case was continued until Tuesday morning. Bonds were fixed at $100 and were furnished. Wisnewski claims the fifteen bottles of alleged whiskey seized by the state police at his home, were for his personal use and that he had never sold a drop of liquor.

Benjamin and Alice Andruskiewics of Carpenter avenue were each fined $25 and costs on a charge of breach of the peace and for assaulting Clarence D. Simpson. Testimony was that Mrs. Andruskiewics set the dog on Mr. Simpson and that the husband attacked him while he was crossing land claimed to belong to Andruskiewics. Judge Libby warned the couple that a repetition of this episode would result in jail sentences.

One man was charged with intoxication and drew a fine of $5 and costs which he paid, thus ending the business for the court that day.

BUTTERICK PATTERNS INCLUDING DELTORS

a member of the United Congregational church and always took an active interest in his church.

In Flushing, N. Y., on June 16, 1892, he was united in marriage with Hannah Rogers Sprague, who survives him with one son, John Everett Dodge of this city. There are also three brothers, Raymond Dodge of New Haven and Carroll and Melville Dodge, His father, Chester W. Dodge of Rutland, Mass., also survives him.

Mr. Dodge was a man of varied talents, well informed in his chosen profession, and possessing in astonishing ability in any undertaking engaged upon. Those who knew him intimately recognized him to be a man of strong character, a master in his craft and a good executive, possessing rather more executive, possessing rather more executive ability than most men in his profession, thus enabling him to carry out to a successful ending those things which he promoted. Besides having a delightful personal charm and an immense practical ability, his unflinching courage in the face of seeming disaster endeared him to all who knew him. In Mr. Dodge was personified the best type of the American gentleman and there are few men who will be so greatly missed as an integral part of the community.

In his home life he was all that he typified in public life. His loss to his home circle can never be replaced. His friends and acquaintances have sustained a severe loss, and Norwich and the community will miss a most valued and talented citizen.

A Norwich Town resident, Mrs. Charlotte Perkins Gilman, wrote this appreciation of Mr. Dodge as a neighbor and citizen Sunday evening:

"The grief of losing an honored friend will be felt far and wide among those who knew Osias Dodge personally but his value and service was far greater than that owed to family and friends. He was in active social relationship to his community in many lines, working with wisdom and foresight for public improvement for beauty, for health, for progress.

"A man of gift outstanding and unique, combining the delicate perception of the artist with an inventive genius and varied executive ability, reminiscent of DaVinci and Cellini, he promoted the artistic life of the town, and served it in many other ways. One lasting monument to him is Mohegan Park, which his special knowledge enabled him to beautify at no expense to the town, while the loveliness of Norwich has been preserved in his delicate and vivid etchings. No record of his honors and achievements can convey what most impressed those who knew him, the character which made him loved and honored as a personality. He was an American in the truest sense, of sterling integrity, combining unusual power with a genial charm of manner, the inventive genius of the artist with the sensitiveness and ability of the cosmopolitan artist. The grief of those who will miss him most can only be lessened by a sense of triumphant pride in the straight, strong, lovely life which he gave while with us."

"A BARGAIN ALWAYS AT MAHAN"

SPORT

Tonny West pitched brilliant ball against the Heroes of Hartford Saturday afternoon at the State Hospital Diamond, shutting them out with four scattered hits, Riverview winning 7 to 0. It was West's second game within as many days and in the eighteen innings that he pitched he allowed but 9 hits, four in each game. West's pitching was the outstanding feature of the Saturday game, the big southpaw holding the visitors at his mercy. West did not appear to be pitching hard but his curves broke at deceiving angles and when the visitors did hit it was either pop flies or weak infield taps. West fanned seven in Saturday's game and issued one pass.

All the Riverview runs were gathered in the first three innings off Parker and then it developed into a pitching battle between West and Farrell who relieved Parker in the fourth inning. Farrell in the five innings he was in the box allowed but two hits. During the game not a Herrup man got past second base and only three reached this station.

The Hospital boys took a liking to Parker's style of pitching in the first frame. Parker grooved one to Mendy Normandin, the first man up, and Mendy poled it out to the brick ward building in deep center for three bases. Harry Noel also liked the looks of one of Parker's offerings and drove it in left field scoring Normandin. Mills sacrificed. Noel was held at second while Stanley was being thrown out. Then Dinty Moore, who joined the Riverview stronghold Saturday, hooked one to left scoring Noel with the second counter. Hamel filed out.

Two more runs were scored in the second frame when Chip Dugas bounced one off Kelly's shins for two bases. Chip was caught at third when Belair attempted a sacrifice. West hit in Maier at short who made a boss in fielding the ball and both he and Belair were safe. Belair stole third and West went to second. Normandin fanned but Noel came through with his second hit of the game, a sharp single to right that brought Belair and West across the plate. Mills grounded out.

Riverview ended their scoring in the third inning when they added three runs to their score. Stanley, the first man up singled sharply in center, and advanced when Moore drew a free ticket. Both Moore and Stanley advanced a base when Maier threw out Hamel at first. Stanley scored on Dugas' sacrifice fly to right and Moore went to third. Linty scored when Joe Belair crashed one out to the cold cabbage patch in right field for three bases. Belair scored a minute later when Toney West hooked one to right for a single. West was forced at second.

This ended the scoring for the day and the fans from then on saw a good pitching battle with the local southpaw having the edge on Farrell, also a port sider.

The Herrups threatened in the ninth to rob Toney of a shut out victory but a brilliant catch by Normandin spoiled their chances. Alex Tony had it to right field for two outs, Maier took a cut at one of West's hooks and met it square. It looked like a sure hit but Normandin after a hard run speared the ball with one hand cutting the rally short. The score:

OUTLAW WINS BIG RACE AT LONGCHAMPS

PARIS, June 28—La Reine Lontaine, Baron James A. De Rothschild's great hearted little chestnut filly, won the grand prix de Paris today before 250,000 spectators, including the president of the French republic, M. Doumergue, and her steel plates wrung French racing history in the soft turf of the beautiful Longchamps race course. She was the first "lady horse" to win the blue ribbon of the French turf since 1903 and the seventh filly in the fifty eight runnings of the classic to run to victory.

She rewarded her backers with the return of 120 francs for one franc invested and gave even those who bet against her a thrill by a tremendous burst of speed in the last fifty yards, forging to the front with great courage. The race was a tremendous upset, not a single favorite finishing in the money.

Mme. Edmond Blanc's Terremoviche was second and Baron Maurice's Jack Diamond finished third.

The "Grey Express Train," Belfonie belonging to the Argentine Martinez Dahos, favorite at 14 to 10, ran behind his usual form and finished in the pack Caubasco, owned by another Argentine S. J. Unsue, second, were at 4 to 1 likewise failed to live up to his reputation, trailing far behind.

The race was marred by crowding at the first turn in front of the grandstand, when, with the eighteen starters still fairly well bunched, Aquatinte, the entry of Baron Robert de Rothschild and Paul Wertheimer's Coram fell bringing down with them Steve Donoghue and Frank Bullock, the two premier jockeys of the British turf who had come to Paris especially to ride in this event.

Donoghue appeared at first to be badly injured and had to be carried off the field, but later advices from the hospital indicated that his condition was not serious and that his injuries were confined to his shoulder. Bullock escaped with a few bruises.

The spill did not affect the result of the race, as the judges, after calling the jockeys to the stand, ruled that the race had been won on its merits and took no action. Aquitaine was third and last in the betting.

NORWICH TWILIGHT LEAGUE STARTS ITS FOURTH WEEK

With a week of baseball behind that thrilled the fans from beginning to end and earned it many new friends, the twilight will swing into its forth week tonight with prospects of furnishing games equally as good and as fast as were seen last week. Tonight's game between the Hallville team and the Centrals, who are leading the league, should prove a good attraction for the opener, and the Yantic and East End game scheduled for Tuesday should also prove quite a tussle while the games between St. Joseph's and the E. C. P. for Wednesday night and the Nuggets and Palace on Thursday night should also prove equally as good. In the rosters of the various teams are included nearly every fast amateur and semi-pro player in New London county, while a lot of them were seen in action last week many of the stars have not as yet made their appearances and no doubt will break in the week.

The fans that flock to the Duwell field every night are well satisfied that the league is proving a huge success and no doubt as the games of the season furnish games that will equal any ever seen in these parts.

One old baseball fan remarked last week that not only is the league producing good fast baseball but it is also building up a good live baseball crowd which will help to with support good baseball in years to come. Not only are the older folks enthused by the league but the youngsters who in years to come will have to carry the honors on their shoulders are showing great interest and any day during the week one can go by the Duwell field and find these boys ranging from 5 years up playing just as hard as the older fellows in hopes that they might some day be as good.

Tonight's game should prove real interesting owing to the fact that should Eslville take a tumble out of the Centrals it will put four teams in the thick for first place, for if they to accomplish this Mike Taylor's team will be right something that three of the best teams have failed to do, as the Centrals are about the fastest and scrappiest nine in the league. From the word go this gang is on its toes every minute which is why they are setting the pace for the league.

While they are good and all that, it is expected that the Hallville boys will give them a hard run for the honors.

The Centrals will line up as follows: Eccleston c, Gaudreau, Gerry or Lefty Harpell p, A. Dugas 1b, Tempest 2b, Gauthier ss, Yerrington 3b and E. Murphy, Lefty Dugas and Disco in the outfield.

The Hallville team which is composed mostly of Baltic boys includes Sullivan, Aimquist, A. Charron, R. Charron, Boyt, Mansfield, Fuller, Dilworth, Mulholland, Cummings, Tennant and Spicer. Whom Mgr. Taylor will start in the box is doubtful, Hank Morin will do the umpiring.

W. Parker Seeley is the present titleholder.

GIANTS BEAT BRAVES IN CLOSE CONTEST

NEW YORK, June 28—The Giants retained their slim hold on first place in the National league by defeating the Braves today, 6 to 5. Mousel's triple with Kelly on base in the eighth decided the game. Young's circuit drive with two on the sacks tied the score at 5 all in the seventh.

Before the contest, a Knights of Columbus delegation from Albany, N. Y., presented Mickey Devine, Giant's catcher with a diamond ring. Score:

BIG SALE OF TICKETS FOR GREB-WALKER BOUT

NEW WYORK, June 28—(A. P.)—An advance sale of tickets announced by promoters as having reached the $125,000 mark tonight indicated that New York's greatest frantic gathering of the outdoor season would look upon the Italian hospital fund boxing bout at the Polo Grounds Thursday night.

Wit fouly four days more in which to make their decision, promoters today were estill undecided as to the order in which the fights should be staged. Harry Greb, world's middleweight champion, and Mickey Walker, world's welterweight champion, have petitioned for the privilege of fighting the final bout. Harry Wills, negro heavyweight contender, has likewise requested that his fight with Charley Weiner of Newark, N. J., be placed at the top of the card.

Preceding these two bouts will be a six round meeting between Jimmy Slattery, Buffalo, middleweight, and Dave Shade, California welterweight.

Rival bantams, Joe Lynch, former champion, and Jack Sharkey, will open the show in a four round contest.

LOCAL BOWLERS BEAT RHODE ISLAND CHAMPS

The bowling team of the local plant of the U. S. Finishing company handed the championship team of the Queen Dying Co. of the Rhode Island plants a severe drubbing last Friday evening at the Actus alleys. The visiting team won the championship of the Rhode Island plants and then nursed a challenge at the Connecticut division. The local bowlers immediately accepted the defy with the result that the Rhode Island boys returned home and but wiser.

The visiting bowlers were the guests of the Norwich bowlers at a dinner at the Wauregan before the match. A return game will be played in Providence next Friday evening.

Opposite to the Bethel [illegible] Monday, June 30—Bethel baseball fans will have a chance to see sports in basketball and baseball [illegible] Bethel high school. The [illegible] Agricultural college fair[illegible] the past year. The Aggie teams in football, basketball and track all proved successful seasons, and among the Eastern Connecticut boys who have contributed much to the success of the teams are Paul E. Bigood, Antonio A. Longo, Theodore A. Reeves and Carlton N. Williams, all of Thompson; Gerald D. Allard, of Putnam, and Hyman Heller, of Willimantic.

Paul E. Bigood.

Bigood, a Killingly High product, is a junior at Storrs, and is one of the two men in the college who have letters in three varsity sports to their credit. He was a member of the varsity squads in football, basketball and track in his freshman year, and in his sophomore year he made for himself a regular position in all three sports, winning the varsity "C" in each sport. Playing a guard position on the Aggies undefeated football team of last season, Bigood was one of the most reliable players in the Aggies stonewall line whose fine work enabled the Aggies to have the best defensive record of any college team in the country.

In basketball Bigood has also been a consistent performer, making his letter in this sport in both his sophomore and junior years. Playing in the backcourt, he has shown up as one of the best defensive players in the history of the state college, and opposing forwards always found him a difficult man to score against. Bigood made his letter in track in his sophomore year, specializing in the hammer and discus throws. In addition to his work in athletics, Bigood served as vice-president for his class during his sophomore year, and he has been a member of the varsity club for the past two years. He is a member of the Eta Lambda Sigma fraternity.

Gerald D. Allard.

Gerald D. Allard of the class of 1926 at Connecticut, and hailing from Putnam, has played regularly on the Aggie basketball team for the last two years. "Silver," as he is commonly known at Storrs, was not conceded much of a chance by the sideline experts when he first tried out for the team in his freshman year, but that worried him not at all. Coming back strong in his sophomore year, he went out for the team as before, and before the mid-season point was reached in the schedule, he was holding down a guard position regularly. Allard has always been a consistent performer for the Aggies, and his development under the coaching of Sumner A. Dole has been rapid. Without doubt, he will be one of the mainstays of the Aggie court team next winter. Allard has also been a member of the football and baseball squads at Storrs.

Non-athletic activities have also taken some of Allard's time. He was a member of the Junior Prom committee this spring, he is a member of the Nutmeg and the Campus, student publications at Storrs, he is a member of the college dramatic club, and also the Blue and White club, honorary sophomore society that entertains members of visiting athletic teams. Allard is a cadet officer in the Reserve Officers' Training corps at the State college, and at present is in active training at Camp Devens, Ayer, Mass. Allard's fraternity is the College Shakespearean club.

Antonio A. Longo.

Antonio A. Longo, another Danielson product, and former Killingly High athlete, is a football player of ability who has been kept from making his varsity letter by injuries. Each year has seen "Dese," as the Storrs boys call him, out on the gridiron giving the regular guards a merry battle for a position in the line, only to have an old knee injury force him to the sidelines, and to the college infirmary where he spends a major portion of the football season. In his freshman year, Longo was making a strong bid for a varsity berth when he contracted water on the knee as a result of a blow received in a game. This put him out of active competition, and into the infirmary, spoiling his chances of making a letter that year. The same thing occurred during his sophomore year, and once again last season the old knee injury kept him from active participation. Connecticut followers are pulling for the Danielson boy to come through next fall, when he will have his last opportunity to make a letter in football.

Longo has shown up well in track at the State college, where he holds the college record in the shot put. He is a member of the Alpha Phi fraternity.

Theodore A. Reeves.

Theodore A. Reeves, another Danielson and Killingly High product, has made good in athletics in Storrs during the time he was in attendance at the State college. Reeves left at midyears last winter, but a review of the work of eastern Connecticut athletes at Storrs would not be complete without some mention of his excellent work on the gridiron. Reeves was a member of the freshman football and basketball teams at Storrs in his first year, and last year he received his first taste of varsity competition as a member of the Aggies undefeated football team. He played halfback on the Aggie eleven, and his powerful line plunging and off tackle drives marked him as one of the most consistent of the Connecticut ground gainers. He was exceptionally good when a gain of two or three yards was needed, and his loss will be keenly felt next fall when the Aggie eleven takes the field again. Reeves is a member of the Alpha Phi fratrnity.

Arthur V. Williams.

Arthur V. ("Pop") Williams, the last of the Danielson quartet that has made athletic history at Storrs, has just completed his first year, during which he made numerals as a member of the freshman football and baseball teams. Williams played in games enough to make his numerals in basketball, but because of scholastic difficulties and a college rule covering such cases, they were not awarded to him. Williams' best sport is football, in which he starred at Storrs last fall. Playing fullback for the Aggie yearlings, Williams was a consistent ground gainer through the line and a powerful man on defense. "Kid" Gore, varsity coach at Massachusetts Aggies, say Williams in action against the M. A. C. two-year men, who were defeated by the Aggie yearlings last fall. After watching the Danielson boy tear the Massachusetts line to shreds with his powerful plunges, the M. A. C. mentor turned to an onlooker, remarking, "there's nothing to it, all they have to do is give Williams the ball and he's good for ten yards." Williams is pledged to Eta Lambda Sigma fraternity.

Hyman Heller.

Hyman Heller, a Willimantic product, is another freshman whose work in his first year gives him promise as

MAJOR LEAGUE LEADERS HAVE VERY TOUGH WEEK

NEW YORK, June 28.—(AP)—Leaders in the major league pennant races tonight had beaten their way through the worst baseball squall of the 1925 season slightly battered but still upright after a turbulent week.

For three days the Giant craft, once so far ahead of the fleet that National league pilots were barely able to hold the trail of the headwash, was tossed dangerously close to the shoals. During the same period, Connie Mack and his Philadelphia crew were blown hither and yon with the swift-speeding Senators driving down upon them. But steady hands on the tillers guided the two outfits safely through and tonight both clubs held their race-making course.

Unexpected breaks drew the Giants temporarily out of place and then tossed them back again in the closing game of the week. The Boston Braves, used as a step for the Philadelphia Quakers to climb from seventh to sixth place earlier in the week, unexpectedly jolted the champions for an 8 to 5 defeat yesterday afternoon, while the Pirates nosed out the Reds, 3 to 2 in the first section of a double header.

This defeat for Cincinnati marked their fifth straight reverse for the week, but here the Reds beat off the Corsairs, 6 to 2, boosting the New York club back into the lead. The upset left the Pittsburgh team within two percentage points of the leaders and set the stage for a crucial series between the rivals here, starting July 7th.

The Athletics were little better off than the Giants. Coming out of a clean sweep against the Red Sox, the American league leaders dropped the first game of their series with Washington to the veteran Walter Johnson, only to have Slim Harris recover the lost margin on Saturday and rescue the Philadelphia club from danger. The triumphs gave the Mackian entry seven wins in six starts and increased their margin to two and one-half games—a half game more than they had enjoyed at the close of the previous week.

While the two leaders were wrestling for grips on the upper berth, trouble was brewed in the west. Both Chicago and Detroit took advantage of the situation to close in on the peak clubs, the former with six straight wins and the latter with four.

Cleaning up a series with the demoralized Red Sox, the Tigers lashed out at the St. Louis Browns with such determination that Cobb's men were able to hurl the Sisler tenants out of fourth place and step into the vacancy themselves on a nine-game winning streak.

Faber, Cvengros, Lyons and Robertson pitched championship ball for the White Sox, toppling Cleveland and New York but the Yankees selected the popular Red Sox for week-end revenge which carried them past the Indians into girth place.

Cincinnati Reds, in spite of a slump during which they lost five games, were able to hold third place in the National becau[illegible] Brooklyn made scarcely any better progress.

Philadelphia uncorked one of its periodic spurts and squeezed by Chicago into sixth place. St. Louis and Boston, in fifth and last positions, were satisfied with the pegs on which they finished the week before.

CARDS TAKE BOTH GAMES OF DOUBLE BILL WITH CUBS

ST. LOUIS, June 28.—(AP)—Bolstered by stellar pitching and timely hitting the Cardinals bagged a double header with the Cubs before an audience of 22,000 today. The first game was won, 3 to 1, when Jess Haines tossed only three hits. A circuit clout by Jim Bottomley with the bases full in the fifth inning accounted for half of the Cards' runs in the second inning. The score was 3 to 3. Ray Blades also got a homer in the closing contest. No one was on base, Cooper was pitching. The score:

Brassco Have One Big Inning

Waterbury, June 28—Clayton and Touchstone's hard drive to the top of the left field fence at Brassco park with three men on bases in the fourth inning started a Waterbury rally that netted five runs, which were enough to defeat Springfield 5 to 3 here today. WASHINGTON, June 28—Ruether held the Philadelphia batters in check at all stages today and the Senators won, 6 to 1, giving them the edge in the three games thus far played of the important series between the league leaders and the close pressing champions. BOND TRADING VERY RESTRICTED LAST WEEK

NEW YORK, June 23 (A. P.)—Heavy demands upon the supply of surplus funds from the interior and for stock market purposes restricted bond trading last week and prices showed irregularity, lower. With few attractive yields available in the bond list there were growing indications that the usual July reinvestment demand would be supplied largely by the bond market.

Establishment of [illegible] prices by U. S. government [illegible] was the most significant development of the week. In view of the likely reduction in the government's note issue, the long-term treasury and utility bonds were in demand, and because of their dwindling floating supply little difficulty was experienced in pushing them to new high levels.

Corporation issues moved within narrow limits. Some of the Western railroad liens showed a tendency to follow the upward trend of the Granger stocks, which was based on the hopeful attitude toward freight rate increases and improvement in the May earnings of these carriers. Alternate rallies and declines marked trading in oils, most of which scored moderate gains for the week.

Fluctuations of foreign obligations were correspondingly limited. Revolutionary disturbances in China and Greece unsettled the bonds of those governments and Japanese issues also felt the effects of uneasiness over the situation. French loans, however, were little disturbed by the drop in the franc on a new 1925 low following an increase in the government's note circulation.

South American financing held the limelight in the matter of new bond offerings, which exceeded $31,000,000 as compared with less than $40,000,000 for the preceding week. Flotation of a $20,000,000 issue for the mortgage bank of Chile and of a $10,185,000 bond issue for the province of San Th Fe, Argentina, introduced two new borrowers to this market.

Several new offerings are being timed for the July 1 reinvestment market. Loans of $15,000,000 for two German cities—Berlin and Cologne—are understood to be awaiting merely final approval of terms and may be brought into the market this week. Bond issues of $15,000,000 or more also will be sold soon for the Chicago and Kansas City railway terminals.

The bondholders' protective committee of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway last week approved the reorganization plan designed to lift the road from receivership and recommended that all bondholders assent to the programme. Threatened opposition from some of the stockholders was believed to have been dissipated by the offer of bankers and protective committees to aid small investors in meeting their assessments.

SATURDAY'S MARKET

NEW YORK, June 23—American Can's sensational ride of 10 points to 200, featured the dealings in Wall street Saturday, overshadowing all other developments in the market. The current price compares with a low of 158 1-8 in the first month of the year. The stock closed at 197 3-4, up 7 3-4 points net. Motor, rubber, chemical and a few specialties issues were moderately higher.

Jordan Motor and Nash each rose over two points; General Motors gained 1 1-2 points further, to 85 1-4, but closed at 84 5-8, and Studebaker slightly more than an point. Robert Reis preferred was elevated 9 7-8, to 90, on one sale. Pierce-Arrow prior preferred relinquished 6 7-8, to 165 1-8. American Chicle, Rutland preferred and Pressed Steel Car moved up more than three points apiece. Goodyear preferred rose 1 3-4 points and United States Rubber gained nearly a point. United States Steel was reactionary, declining three-quarters of a point. Great Northern was a strong rail, rising 1 1-8 points.

CHICAGO WHEAT MARKET

CHICAGO, June 23—Owing a good deal to an unexpected upturn in wheat quotations at Liverpool, the wheat market here scored an early advance Saturday. Indications that the great part of the movement of wheat from threshers would be over within a week as far north as the Kansas-Nebraska boundary helped also to lift values. More or less attention was likewise given to reports of certified production of winter wheat, especially advices that three of the best countries in southwestern Kansas would equal only forty per cent of last year's total. The opening, unchanged to 1 3-8 cents higher, July 1.52 7-8 to 1.53, and September 1.50 to 1.51 1-2, was followed by general gains, July touching 1.53 1-2 and September 1.51 3-4.

Corn and oats sympathized with wheat strength. Opening unchanged to 1 3-8 cents higher, September 1.04 7-8 to 1.05 1-2, the corn market continued to overdo above yesterday's finish.

Oats stayed unchanged to 3-8 cents up, September 47 1-2 to 47 1-2 cents, and later eased a little more.

In line with hog values and with grain, the provision market was firmer.

THE BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, June 23—Bond trading continued under the restrictive influences of a firm money situation and the usual summer loss of interest in the market. Prices changes in the early dealings lacked significance, and only in the foreign list was there any display of activity. Uneasiness over recent disturbances in China and Greece appeared to be somewhat allayed and bonds of these countries held steadier. Polish 6s moved up more than a point on expectations that the unissued portion of a loan arranged earlier in the year would be floated next month.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Broadway Theatre.

"The Thundering Herd," which made its bow last night at the Broadway Theatre is a vigorous mixture of entertainment and instruction, of history and fiction. It has tremendous dramatic value, yet the thrilling story it narrates, the adventures and incidents it unfolds and the scenes it pictures are based upon facts that are historically true.

The photoplay was adapted from the absorbing novel of the same name by Zane Grey and centers around the glamorous and colorful days of 1874. Mr. Grey knows the west in the early days as do few others, and Lucien Hubbard, who scenarized the story, and William K. Howard, who directed it, have been careful to follow the novel down to its minutest details.

Instead of viewing a plain dotted with cities, ranches and cement roads, the Hi mshows us the west as it was fifty years ago—a vast wilderness, ranged by great herds of buffalo, over-run by wolves, bears and mountain lions and inhabited by fierce, nomadic Indians.

Interwoven with the theme of the story which conceras the long drive that was begun in '76 to the buffalo fields of Wyoming and Montana, is a virile romance, the principals of which of Jack Holt and Lois Wilson. The development of this love affair, which is hindered by Miss Wilson's guardian, Noah Beery, and the sufferings and privations of the early settlers provide enough action, drama and suspense for a half a dozen photoplays. The last big Indian attack upon the whites and the exciting stampede of a vast herd of buffalo furnish two of the many dynamic scenes for this epic picture.

As for the cast, besides those featured players already mentioned, it includes Raymond Hatton, who also portrays a leading role, Bulletin.

...Conn., June 16—Four men, ... of Hartford, were pain... many were thrown violently injured, early this morning, when the automo... in which they were riding went ... ...ge by an unidentified automobile ... the Hartford turnpike. The men are now under treatment at Lawrence... General hospital and the authorities ... Waterford are conducting an investigation by which they hope to ascertain the identity of the operator of the colliding car, which was driven from the site of the crash without stopping. The car being speeded in the direction of Chesterfield. The state police at Groton started an investigation this forenoon, but abandoned it when the Waterford police announced that they would take up the investigation.

Shortly after 3 o'clock a touring car in which were John Rollari, 43 Church street, James Valerio, 154 Homestead avenue; Vincent Peras, 4 Kilbourne court, and George Donahy, 23 Allen place, all of Hartford, was enroute from Hartford to New London. Between Chesterfield and New London and while the Hartford machine was travelling at a fair rate of speed, a machine being operated at a high rate of speed and which was headed in the opposite direction to that in which the Hartford car was proceeding, crashed head-on with the Hartford car. The crash was terrific and caused all four occupants of the Hartford machine to be either hurled to the highway or made prisoner in the overturned and practically demolished car. The driver of the colliding machine continued toward Hartford, leaving the wrecked to care for themselves as best they could. An hour following the accident, a truck appeared and was en route to this city. The men were placed in the truck and brought to the private hospital on Broad street for treatment, but as the institution was without Dr. Lena, who was absent from the city, the injured then were laid upon the veranda of the hospital and a call sent to Lawrence hospital, an ambulance from that institution being sent to convey the four sufferers to the Montauk avenue hospital.

On arrival of the ambulance at the hospital, it was determined that Rolleri and Valerio were seriously injured, the former having suffered a bad laceration of the left leg and multiple contusions and abrasions of the body, while Valerio was suffering from an almost complete amputation of the left forearm, besides bruises and contusions and shock. Donahy received a punctured wound of the left arm, from which he suffered because of great loss of blood, and bruises and scratches of the body. Peras suffered a lacerated scalp and abrasions and contusions of the body.

Valerio is the most seriously injured and the injured arm was treated by the bone being wired by Dr. Daniel Sullivan, but because of the injury to the muscles and blood vessels it is not known weather the arm will be saved.

A clue that may result in the identity of the driver of the colliding car was furnished by Patrolman George Labous and John Foley, who were on duty at points of Broad street, the highway leading to the Hartford turnpike, a short time before the crash occurred. Both reported that an automobile, probably a Packard car and which was operated at a high rate of speed and with a man and woman as passengers, passed through Broad street, apparently enroute for Hartford or some point further west. The car continued through Broad street without its speed being lessened and disappeared from view without either officer being able to obtain the registration of the machine.

Following the collapse of a section of the ceiling at the Crown theatre during a performance Friday night, the motion picture house has been closed temporarily, to permit repairs being made and also for the purpose of an examination being made to determine whether other sections of the ceiling are in danger of falling. A partial examination of the ceiling has resulted in the theory being advanced that the ceiling collapsed because of rain trickling through the roof and causing the plaster board to become decayed where it is nailed to the ceiling supports. George Babcock, 57 Federal street, employed as janitor and watchman at the store of James Hislop & Co., who sustained among other injuries two fractured ribs and a bad laceration of the scalp, is reported to be resting comfortably at Lawrence hospital.

Mansour Sabagh, of 42 Fair Harbor place and William Meran, of Maban street, became involved in a quarrel in Fair Harbor place, Saturday noon, and as a result each lodged a complaint against the other. Both were arrested by Sergeant John Cavanaugh, charged with breach of the peace. The accused furnished a surety on their respective bonds of $25 for their appearance in the police court Monday morning.

A deed transfering a parcel of land on Squaws street from Ray S. Atwood and Marie E. Squire to George H. Hart, was received for record at the office of the city clerk Saturday.

Ygenzi Kiki has purchased of Sidney A. Brown and Ambrose Cassara the dwelling and small parcel of land, 274 Huntington street.

Miss Mabel Good, of 91 Bayonet street; Charles Macomber, United States Coast Guard destroyer Fanning; Mrs. Hayden Brockett, Harris building apartments, State street; Baby O'Connell, 66 Montauk avenue; Baby Bede Tucker, 197 Vauxhall street; Frederick Berkowitz, 30 Federal street and Lamotte Way, Lyme, patients at Lawrence Memorial Associated hospital, were dismissed Saturday.

Wilbur W. Smith, 57, former well known pedestrian and runner, died Saturday morning at his residence, 34 Pleasant street, death ending an illness of many weeks from anaemia. He is survived, besides his wife, by two sons, Clifford and Harold Smith, of this city; four daughters, Mrs. S. W. Dean, Louisville, Ky.; Mrs. R. H. Heine, Mrs. Roy Hunt and Miss Grace Smith, all of this city; his step-father, Dora B. Wade, of Waterford; a sister, Mrs. Leroy Hancock, of Waterford; and a half-brother, Walter Rowley Wade of Waterford. Mr. Smith had been employed as up to two decades a number of years, but several months ago he was compelled to abandon active labors because of ill health.

Thomas Jenderos, 21 Tilley street, was arrested Saturday evening by Patrolman John Sullivan, charged by Alter Sazin with breach of the peace. The accused furnished a bond of $25 for his appearance in the polide court Monday morning. Jenderos and Sazin, becoming involved in a heated argument and the row resulted when Jenderos administered a severe beating to Sazin, the latter then complaining to the police.

An automobile owned and operated by James A. May, 63 Montauk avenue, and a car owned and driven by Abraham [illegible] 117 Main street, were involved [illegible] afternoon on Asylum street, when Litvinoff drove the [illegible] car into the rear of the [illegible] car. The [illegible] damage to the [illegible] car, but [illegible] damage to the [illegible] car.

[illegible] at 39 West [illegible] street, was taken into custody Saturday night by Acting Sergeant James O. Judge and Patrolman Dennis Murphy on the charge of intoxication. Henry Mick, charged with the same offense, was released upon furnishing a bond of $10 for his court appearance Monday, the bond being furnished by Thomas Kelley. Joseph Kelley, it is alleged, went to a pool room in the Armstrong building, Main street, where he became boisterous and displayed signs of causing trouble. He finally went outside the building, where he is alleged to have taken a jack from an automobile, owned by Joseph H. Woodhouse, 28 Newton street, Westerly, which was parked by the curb, also to have shattered the engine. A telephone message to the police of the trouble Kelly was causing resulted in his arrest, being made a few minutes later.

During the heavy rainfall of this forenoon a catch basin on Union street, between Church and Federal streets, became clogged and residents of Union street, fearing that water would flow into their cellars, informed the police of the condition. The water and sewer department was notified and a force of laborers cleaned the basin of its collection of small sticks, paper and dirt.

C. O. Freeman, of Waterford, complained to the police, Saturday night, that while his son's bicycle was beside the curb on Thames street, during the absence of the owner, who was at the circus grounds, the cycle was stolen.

An automobile truck, owned by the White Rose Bread company, and driven by John Connors, 21 Brooks street, this city, and a Ford touring car, owned and operated by Bennie Dubson, New York, were in collision on Williams street, near the city line, Saturday morning. Both machines were overturned and Connors and Dubson, also Thomas Corey, 30 Eighteenth street, College Point, N. Y., a passenger in Dubson's machine, were injured, but not seriously. The bread truck had received a load of bread at Norwich and left that city for New London about 5:30 o'clock. When between Gallows Lane and Williams street, the driver of the bread truck claims that Dubson was operating his machine on the left hand side of the highway and before the truck could be guided out of the path of the pleasure car, the latter machine struck the heavier vehicle and overturned. The truck ascended an embankment where it overturned and threw Connors to the ground. Connors was taken to his home, where his wounds, consisting of cuts and bruises, were treated by a physician. Corey was taken to Lawrence hospital, where his wounds, lacerations of the scalp and severe contusions of the body, were dressed, after which he went to the Dubson farm, Uncasville, where he and Dubson received additional treatment by a physician.

Charles de Grasse, of Boston, and Miss S. Iola Rose, daughter of Fire Chief and Mrs. Charles H. Rose, 11 Rosemary street, were married Saturday evening at 8 o'clock at All Souls' church. The ceremony was witnessed by a large number of relatives and intimate acquaintances and was performed by Rev. William J. Greene, pastor of the church.

Mrs. Sarah M. Coyle has returned to her home, 29 Center street, having spent a month with relatives in Hartford.

Chester Frankel, of New York, is being entertained by his brother-in-law and sister, Attorney and Mrs. Morris Lubchansky, of Bellevue place.

Announcement is made of the wedding the 24th inst., at Brooklyn, N. Y., of John B. Gannon, son of Mrs. Catherine Gannon Nordenhold, 96 Union street, this city, and Miss Catherine O'Keden, 2305 Third avenue, Brooklyn. Mr. and Mrs. Gannon will reside in Brooklyn.

Leo Kelly, Joe Panella and Robert Mallory, youths, made a serious mistake when they took liberties with the auto-truck of the Mohegan Dairy, for the owner of the plant, A. Goldstein, secured their arrest for taking a motor vehicle without permission of the owner. Then the boys realized that they had offended against the laws of the state and they began to yield their temerity. They attempted to blame the son of Mr. Goldstein, but the responsibility could not be placed upon him, for he is a minor and had no authority to loan the truck. He declared that he did not give authority to the boys to use it. The truck was somewhat damaged and the accused were held accountable for that mischief. The case has been dragging along in the police court several weeks, but when the accused agreed to settle for the damage they had occasioned, and Goldstein did not desire to prosecute them if they made good his loss, the case was nolled Saturday.

Enfield P. Totten, a stranger in the city, evidently does not read newspapers or else he gives little study to the automobile regulations in practice in this state. So he parked his car on the west side of Bank street for a considerable time. An officer found it there and tagged it and Totten was obliged to answer in court. This he did. The west side of Bank street has been a sort of trap for the automobilists and many of them have been caught in it by parking there as long as they desired to. Mr. Totten escaped a penalty, for the court suspended judgment when he proved that he was not an offender knowingly.

Harry Mathers, 12, residing at 205 Vauxhall street, is riding along Montauk avenue, Saturday evening, collided with an automobile, owned and operated by Lloyd L. Brown, R. F. D. 2, Waterford, as the car was being driven from the curb just south of Willetts avenue. The youth was hurled from the cycle and was taken to the office of a physician where it was found that he had sustained injuries no more serious than bruises and contusions.

Francis Brooks, 6, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Brooks, 23 Starr street, left his home about 10:30 o'clock Saturday forenoon to witness the circus parade. When the youngster did not put in an appearance at midnight, Mrs. Brooks requested the police to institute a search for the lad. At 12:20 o'clock, Patrolman Dennis Murphy noticed the child roaming about Bank street, near Shaw street, and the officer took the youngster to his home.

Harry Wolfe, 1 Grand street, real estate agent, was arrested by Traffic Officer William Corcoran late Saturday afternoon charged with violation of the automobile ordinances of the city in obstructing traffic and parking his machine in restricted area. Wolfe will be given a hearing in the police court, Monday morning.

Frank Coon, 60, residing in Ashaway, R. I., where he is employed as a weaver, came to New London Saturday and became intoxicated. While passing through North Bank street, he

Gov. Austin Peay, of Tennessee, who has called evolution "all-bosh," and says he will be as far as possible from the trial of Prof. J. T. Scopes, at Dayton, Tenn., on a charge of violating the State law against the teaching of evolution theories. He predicts the trial will not last more than 30 minutes. He stated that "as long as the evolutionists stick to the present Tennessee text books in their teachings, they can do no harm."

Peter Dimesnky, 40, was arrested. He later furnished a cash bond for his appearance in the police court Monday, to answer to a charge of intoxication.

Mr. and Mrs. Malcolm Mollan, formerly of New London, now residing in Boston, have arrived at their summer residence, Waterford, and will remain until early in September. Mr. Mollan is a reporter for the Boston Herald.

Mrs. Rosie Good, 91 Bayonet street, telephoned to the police late this afternoon that a terrific fight was being waged in the street near her residence, and requested that officers be dispatched there without delay. Sergeant John Cavanaugh and Motorcycle Officer Augustus Ray responded in the speed automobile and when they reached the location of the reported battle, found that the fight had been of two or three boys, who had used stones as their implements of warfare.

The rain throughout the day caused practically a suspension of business at Ocean Beach, some of the places there not even opening up for trade. However, a number of young people enjoyed the bathing.

ABOUT 22 MILES IN NEW HIGHWAY WORK

Eighty-eight bids have been received by the Connecticut state highway department for the construction of fifteen new road projects and one bridge under specifications outlined in proposals recently submitted to contractors. Approximately twenty-two miles of highways are involved in the new improvements and contracts will be awarded within a few days.

Included in the work will be the completion of the Hartford-New London Military highway in Glastonbury, where about two miles of old bituminous macadam will be replaced with concrete. Further widening of the Boston Post Road to thirty-six feet will be carried out in Stamford and Darien for about a mile.

The only piece of work in this end of the state is the following:

Town of Chaplin, 9.273 feet of 2 1-2 inch bituminous macadam over 5 1-2 inch stone base on the Willimantic-Hampton Road.

Miller Bros. Construction Company, Hartford, $54,550.00.

L. Susio Construction Co., Meriden, $62,865.00.

New Haven Road Construction Co., New Haven, $63,370.10.

E. J. Wilcox, Norwich Town, $67,-918.00.

Attacked by some mysterious disease, snowbirds in the North Platte river valley of Nebraska are dying by thousands, farmers report. Large flocks were found dead on the snow.

Will Serve A Dual Role

Count Laszlo Szechenyi, Hungarian Minister to the United States, who has left for Mexico City, for the purpose of establishing honorary consulships and negotiations for full diplomatic representation. After the World War, Hungary was liquidated, or separated from Austria, and left without representatives in Mexico. ## POETRY FOR THE WIDE AWAKES

Four Little Foxes

Speak gently, Spring, and make no sudden sound;
For in my windy valley yesterday I found
New-born foxes squirming on the ground—
Speak gently.

Walk softly, March, forbear the bitter blow,
Her feet within a trap her blood upon the snow,
The four little foxes saw their mother go—
Walk softly.

Go lightly, Spring, oh give them no alarm;
As I covered them with boughs, to shelter them from harm,
The thin blue foxes suckled at my arm—
Go lightly.

Step softly, March, with your rampant hurricane;
Nuzzling one another and whimpering with pain,
The new little foxes are shivering in the rain—
Step softly.

Lew Sarett in Atlantic Monthly.

Once in Royal David's City

Once in royal David's city
Stood a lowly cattle shed,
Where a mother laid her baby,
In a manger for His bed;
Mary was that mother mild,
Jesus Christ her little child.

He came down to earth from Heaven,
Who is God and Lord of all,
And His shelter was a stable,
And His cradle was a stall;
With the poor, and mean, and lowly,
Lived on earth our Saviour holy.

And through all His wondrous childhood,
He would honor and obey,
Love and watch the lowly maiden
In whose gentle arms He lay;
Christian children all must be Mild, obedient, good as He.

For He is our childhood's pattern;
Day by day like us He grew;
He was little, weak and helpless,
Tears and smiles like us He knew;
And he feeleth for our sadness,
And he shareth in our gladness.

Mrs. Cicil Francis Alexander.

UNCLE JED'S TALK TO THE WIDE AWAKES

Do you know what kind of eider duck supplies the down which is exported from Greenland? It is known as the king's eider. There are two kinds of eider ducks, the common eider and the king's eider. The common eider supplies most of the down that is exported from Iceland. The latter country sends out about 10,000 pounds of eider each year. The eider duck is much larger than the common duck.

The drake, or male eider, is black and has a white back while the female eider is brown with white spots. The nests are lined with a coating of down throughout and each contains from five to seven pale green eggs which are protected by another layer of down.

The owners of the eider grounds in the far north usually remove the eggs twice and leave the third setting to be hatched out. In this way one nest furnishes half a pound of down for every time the eggs are removed from the nest, more are laid and more down used to protect them. The nesting grounds in Iceland are regarded as very valuable pieces of property. It is a criminal offense to fire a gun within a mile of the nesting grounds as the birds are very carefully protected from injury and annoyance.

The birds like music and are very fond of bright colors. When the nesting season is nearing the natives hang out gaily colored bits of rags and musical bells in order to attract the attention of the birds to the fact that nests have been carefully prepared for them for the season.

Julius Caesar

Dear Uncle Jed: I recently read Shakespeare's tragedy of Julius Caesar, and found it very interesting. I liked it first, because it afforded excitement. It also appealed to the different emotions of love, hatred, contempt, sorrow, and joy. It was of interest also because it gave important historical facts in an interesting manner.

One thing I did not like about it at first was that although it gave some historical facts true to history, others it did not. This was true in the case of the characteristics of Caesar. In history Caesar was an upright man with a winning personality, but in the tragedy he is pictured as a man of many faults. Although this seems a fault of Shakespeare in writing the tragedy, it is really due to his broad-mindedness. He knew that if he pictured Caesar true to history, that Caesar would be the dramatic hero instead of Brutus. It was because of the plot of the story that he portrayed Caesar as he did.

Caesar was a great general and a great statesman. He was a man of great ambition and determination. He was a man of great courage, and undaunted by any danger.

In May and June they are engaged in nest building. The nests are very often found on the ground in a meadow or marshes. It is made of coarse grass, small roots, dead leaves, and strips of bark. The lining is usually composed of fine grasses and sometimes long hairs are used. The long sparrow eggs which number 4 or four are light white, with many brown markings.

About Cotton

Dear Uncle Jed: Way down in the south I was born on a large cotton plantation. They planted me in the dark rich soil well fertilized and deep. I sprouted and grew till I became big enough to be picked.

One day after my afternoon nap I heard a colored lady say to a little girl near by, "Essie, I think you'd better pick that cotton," pointing at me.

Well, next I was put into a machine where my seeds were taken out and left behind. After that I was packed into a bale with many others ready to be shipped away.

For several days I was on the ship. When the ship came near the shore it stopped and my long ride was ended. Here I was taken off and put on a truck. The truck took me to a mill. There I was made into thread and then into cloth. I went into the dyeing room and was dyed into a beautiful blue color and was placed in a store. A lady seeing me came and bought me for her daughter Mary. Mary's mother made her a nice dress and she attended a Maybasket party with it.

WANDA A. KARGUL, Age 14.
Jewett City.

A Dog and A Cat

Dear Uncle Jed: This is my first letter to the Wide Awakes. I'm going to tell you about my cat and dog. My cat's name is Tabby. I like her very much. She is yellow and white. She is a good cat. The dog's name is Major. I like him very much. He is black white and tan. He is a good hunter but he is sick now.

RUTH LOUISE MINER, Age 12.
North Stonington.

Bunker Hill Monument

Dear Uncle Jed: This is the fourth time I have written to you, and this time I am going to tell you about the Bunker Hill monument.

On the fiftieth anniversary of the battle of Bunker Hill—June 17, 1825—the corner stone of the Bunker Hill monument was laid by Lafayette with the oration by Webster.

The monument is a square shaft of Quincy granite 221 feet high, 31 feet square at base and 15 feet at the top. A round hollow cone is inside the shaft, 7 feet wide at the bottom and 4 feet at the top. The cone is circled by a winding staircase of 224 stone stairs and leads to a room 11 feet in diameter which is directly under the apex.

In this chamber are four windows; also four cannons which were used in the war and named Hancock and Adams after these two patriots.

Although the corner stone of this monument was laid June 17, 1825, the monument was not dedicated until June 17, 1843, 18 years later.

MARY E. PRUNIER, Age 14.
Norwich.

Fourth of July

Dear Uncle Jed: We celebrate the Fourth of July in memory of the Declaration of Independence which was signed on July fourth in the year of seventeen hundred and seventy-six.

The Declaration of Independence set us free from the British rule and made us an independent nation. Thomas Jefferson who wrote the Declaration of Independence, later became the third president of our country. He was claimed to be the best writer around, so he was chosen to do this task.

At this time there was a war going on between the mother country England, and her colonies in America. Already there had been some blood shed, more English than American. There had been some battles fought, one at Lexington the other at Concord, of which the Americans won both. These two victories caused the colonies to sign this precious paper.

Even now, almost one hundred and fifty years from the day it was signed, we still celebrate the Fourth of July.

HARVEY CONKLIN Age 11.
Baltic.

Wesley's Oak

Dear Uncle Jed: Around the city of Brunswick, Georgia there are many beautiful and noted trees. The three Oak. This tree got its name from Oak, Lover's Oak and Lanier's Oak. The oldest and most noted is Wesley's Oak. This tree got it's name from John Wesley who came from England. John Wesley preached some of his sermons under the sheltering branches of the friendly oak that now bears his name. This tree is on a lonely country road surrounded by bushes and trees of every description. Not far from this tree there is an old church built not long after the tree served as an altar. Many people come to hear about this tree.

Next time I will write and tell you about Lover's Oak.

SOPHIE PLOPA, Age 13.
Norwich.

Why John Got the Job

Dear Uncle Jed: One vacation day, John and James went looking for work. After they had walked for about five minutes they saw a sign in one of the store windows, Boy Wanted. About nine boys were going in so John and James went in with them.

James who wanted to get the job pushed the boys out of his way and went almost up to the front.

John, who was polite stayed at the rear, and waited for his turn quietly.

When it was James's turn Mr. Brown said, "No, sir." At last John's turn came and the man said, "Yes, sir, come around about one o'clock this afternoon."

When all the boys were gone Mr. Brown's friend said, "Why did you choose that boy, and not any of the others?" Mr. Brown then answered, "He is just the kind of boy that I want. He is most obliging and polite. He removed his cap when he entered and I do not think that I will be disappointed in choosing him." And he was not.

Tobacco

Dear Uncle Jed: At school we learned about tobacco so I thought I would write and tell you and the Wide Awakes about it.

There are may kinds of tobacco, all of which grew in America. All the Indians in America smoked this strange plant.

Tobacco is cultivated in warm and mild climates all over the world. Sometimes the tobacco plant grows as tall as a man.

It has large broad and pointed leaves covered with fine hairs. It has a cluster of purplish pink flowers on a stalk.

Only the tobacco that is meant for seed is allowed to blossom.

When fully grown the plant is cut off just above the ground and hung up to dry in a building open at the sides, so the air can pass through.

In about three months the leaves are stripped from the stems, separated into three or four different kinds and packed.

The leaves are made into cigars, chewing and smoking tobacco, and snuff.

In making chewing and smoking tobacco, the leaves are sweetened, colored and flavored with molasses and other things.

Snuff is made by grinding the leaves to a fine powder.

The word tobacco came from tabaco the name given by the Indians of Santo Domingo to the pipe in which they smoked it.

A Christmas Surprise

Dear Uncle Jed: One day last winter, while out looking for a Christmas tree we lost our way. It was late and we were tired and thirsty.

There were two paths. We did not know which path to take. Finally we took one that led us to an old farm house.

The house was very wretched looking. We knocked at the door. It was opened by an old woman. We asked her the way home. She saw that we were tired and hungry so she invited us in and asked us tostay for supper.

We soon learned that this old man and woman lived here and that they were very poor.

On our way we decided to make a Christmas surprise for this kind old man and woman. We asked our friends to help us. We bought a basket and filled it with Christmas goodies.

Early Christmas morning we placed the basket on the porch. We rapped at the door and then hid. When they came to the door we called, Merry Christmas. How happy this poor old man and woman were to think of us children being so kind to them.

The White Throated Swift

Dear Uncle Jed: I thought I would write and tell you about the white throated swift. The swifts of which nearly 10 species are known are found in all parts of the world. Sometimes the tobacco plant grows as tall the most aerial of birds, spending their days on wing high in the air, where they secure vast numbers of insects that constitute their food. Although by most people confused with Swallows, the Swifts are not at all closely related to these birds, but show many points of affinity with the humming birds. The white throated swifts inhabit the mountainous regions in the west.

Its flight is even swifter than that of most species and it is unquestionably one of the fastest flying of all birds. Its nest is made of vegetable materials and feathers, placed in the most inaccessible localities and fastened to the rocks with glue-like saliva with which all swifts are supplied.

Gypsies

Dear Uncle Jed: One day when I was only four years old I was out on the front porch with my sister. When we had been out there a little while seven lines of gypsies with five in each line came down the street. I was scared of them. I ran in the house. Then I opened the door a little way and shouted at them. My sister said to keep still so I did. The next time I saw gypsies I did not shout at them.

Playing Indian

Dear Uncle Jed: Yesterday afternoon we played Indian. There were [illegible] called Wawayanda [illegible] the other Ewayee. Wewanea and his warriors planned to attack Ewayee. We took our bows, arrows and tomahawks. Softly and swiftly we crept up the hill Ewayee and his warriors were feasting. Wewanea shot an arrow just missing Ewayee. Immediately they stopped feasting and the war began. Such a war. It lasted for 15 minutes. Then Ewayee and his warriors gave up and we all became one tribe. We enjoyed playing this game very much.

To Visit Grandmother

Dear Uncle Jed: I have not written to you for a long time so I thought I would write and tell you about our picnic at school and what I am going to do in vacation time. We got out the twelfth of June. We had our picnic in the morning about eleven or twelve o'clock. There were the children's parents, brothers and sisters. There were 30 or 31 there. There were 16 school children and 15 people. We had cake, sandwiches, fruit and orangeade and ice cream.

This summer I am going to visit my grandmother in Massachusetts. I am going to stay there all summer.

One of the few snow reefs to be found in all the Rocky mountain range is on snow Reef Top, in Glacier National park. This snow reef is there the year round, and is nearly round over by landscape painters and nature artists. In some parts of this reef which forms a [illegible] peak, the snow is drifted 150 feet high.

BURGESS BEDTIME STORIES

The Greedy Babies

Who gobbles more than he may need,
A fair example is of green.
—Old Mother Nature.

There was a lot of talk in the Old Orchard. Yes, sir there was a lot of talk. You see, by this time all the feathered folk in the old Orchard knew that little Mrs. Chippy the Chipping Sparrow was bringing up one of the children of Sally Sly the Cowbird, and that Mrs. Sunshine the Yellow Warbler was bringing up another of Sally

"It is a shame!" exclaimed Goldie the Oriole

Sly's children. What they didn't know was that a third of those Cowbird babies was in the nest of Little Friends the Song Sparrow down by the Smiling Pool. Had they known that their tongues would have wagged even faster than they did.

In the nest of Mr. and Mrs. Chippy were four of their own babies, besides Sally Sly's great, big baby. The latter was so much bigger than the others that in spite of all Chippy and Mrs. Chippy could do he managed to get more than his fair share of the food. He would snatch it out of their bills as they were trying to give it to the others. Having more food than the others he grew faster, and the faster he grew, the smaller it was for Mrs. Sunshine and Mr. Chippy were kept busy from morning till night trying to get enough food into those gaping mouths. And Sally Sly just sat there and [illegible] and [illegible] and [illegible]

ST. PATRICK'S SCOUTS HOME FROM CRESCENT BEACH

St. Patrick's parish Boy Scouts, troop 5, returned Saturday afternoon after a week's stay at Tne'Elms, Crescent Beach. The program for each day was: attending mass at 7.15 in the chapel at the beach, Rev. John J. Reilly reading mass; breakfast at 8, recreation, studying, a hike and on returning a swim. At 12 dinner; rest hour, 1 o'clock, ball game, on Bishop Nilan field each day; bathing following. Supper at 6; other amusements on beach following; 9 o'clock prayers and bedtime. It proved a week of good times for all. Many packages of good things came daily, so the boys were well supplied with substantials for every meal.

Friday they had athletic contests, when prizes were given for best broad jump, running race, hop, skip and jump, potato race, etc.

There were about 40 boys in the group, in charge of Rev. John J. Reilly and John F. Corcoran. Their quarters was the double cottage owned by George Letender, of Norwich, and Mr. Letender was chef during the week.

Members of the parish left generous donations of food at Sisk's daily and many gave money toward the boys' good time. Cars to take the campers there and bring them back were loaned by John Hill, Michael Reardon, Miss Alice McKnight, Chester E. Wright, Bernard M. Coyle, Officer Patrick Murphy, Miss Kittie Corcoran and Leonard Quackenbos.

Cakes, candy and other good eatables were sent or carried to the tenants by many who did not accompany their packages by names but by their gifts showed interest in the success of the outing.

Paul Stankiewicz of 168 North Main street, who was arrested Saturday for shooting John Hosko, also of the North Main street, Friday night on the Preston City road, is held without bond in the Norwich jail for a hearing on July 2. He was taken before Justice of the Peace William Mitchell at Poquetanuck Sunday afternoon for a preliminary hearing from which he was committed to jail on the charge of assault with intent to kill. He was at once taken to jail by State Policemen Albright and Whitmarsh. Since his arrest Saturday afternoon about 1 o'clock, Stankiewicz had been in a cell at Norwich police headquarters.

The victim of his bullets was still in a critical condition up to early this (Monday) morning at the Backus hospital. It has been impossible to remove either of the two bullets one of which entered his jaw and the other under his right eye.

Rumors that others might have been engaged in the fight are said to be unfounded.

As arguments and disagreement over "booze" led up to the shooting it has been learned, spectators expected to have some liquor left for him at a certain spot and Hosko drove him out in the automobile to get it. The liquor was not there and in some way this led to the argument that developed into a fight and ended with the shooting.

Stankiewicz who disappeared after the shooting was caught about 1 o'clock Saturday afternoon by Officers Charles Smith and Michael Carroll on the railroad tracks in the rear of the Norwich Belt Mfg. Co. factory in Greeneville, a short distance from his home, which he was evidently trying to reach.

The two officers were dispatched to Greeneville in a hurry by Sergeant Alfred Mangan from police headquarters when he was notified by frightened people that the man was in that neighborhood. As the officers approached Dan, he was seen to be carrying his right hand in his hip pocket. Believing that he might have a gun, Officer Smith grabbed the arm and Officer Carroll got the man around the waist, but it was found that Stankiewicz was using his pocket to keep his right hand out of sight as it was badly battered and bruised.

Sergeant Mangan and State policemen from the Groton barracks and Deputy Detectives William Lewis were on duty all night searching for Stankiewicz and the man's home on North Main street was under surveillance by local officers and the State police.

REACHES 60 YEARS IN FIRE INSURANCE

John F. Parker, span among men engaged in the fire insurance business in Norwich, closed his 60th year in that business Saturday and in recognition of the many years he has been engaged in that business received a beautiful basket of flowers from the Underwriters Association of Norwich.

Mr. Parker graduated from local public schools and after attending the Free Academy for two years, 1861-63, started in as clerk for Thomas H. Perkins, who was one of the four insurance men in the city at that time. Beginning in the insurance business on June 27, 1865, Mr. Parker closed three score years in his profession Saturday night. When he first started in business his office was in the old Chelsea Savings bank building, destroyed by fire about 15 years ago.

Mr. Parker remained with Mr. Perkins until 1877, then entered into business with the late Henry L. Parker under the name of Parker Brothers. They established offices in the second story of the Richards building and continued there until 1879 when the agency was consolidated with that of Thomas H. Perkins continuing under the name of Perkins & Parker Brothers. A few years later Mr. Perkins withdrew leaving the business in the hands of Parker Brothers who continued the business until January 1, 1886, when H. L. Parker withdrew from business on account of health.

John F. Parker was one of the first tenants of the old Shannon building, remaining there until fire destroyed the building on February 9 1909, when he opened business in an office with N. S. Gilbert & Sons. Later he moved to the Chapman building on Broadway where his office is now located.

Mr Parker has probably been engaged in fire insurance business longer than any other man in the state. When he started business there were three or four men engaged in the same line in this city but today there are nearly 30 in the business. Mr. Parker has been associated with the business life of the Hartford Fire Insurance company since 1866 as local representative, more than half the time the company has had agencies here, the first having been placed in Norwich in 1810 with Jonathan Trumbull as agent.

Mr. Parker looks with pride at his service with the Hartford company although he represents other companies. Fraternally he is a member of St. James' lodge, F. & A. M., Franklin Chapter, Franklin Council and Columbian Commandery, No. 4, K. T., and Sphinx Temple, Order of Mystic Shrine, Hartford. He is an attendant at Park Congregational church and has many friends here made through many years of business dealings.

He was born in Norwich, August 2, 1844, and has always resided in the city, for the past several years making his home on Lincoln avenue.

NATIVE OF INDIA SPEAKS AT Y. M. C. A.

At the 4 o'clock service at the Norwich Y. M. C. A. Sunday afternoon, an interesting service was held in the parlors with the large fans making the rooms comfortable. Hymns were sung, scripture was read responsively and Captain Wilbur of the Salvation Army offered prayer. Moving pictures were shown; first a reel on Oregon; showing bird life and beautiful scenery, the photography being especially fine.

After the scenic reel, S. M. Ismail, a native of India gave an interesting ten minute talk on "The Religions of India", he told of the various religions and their origin, the Hindoo religion having by far the greater number of adherents. Mr. Ismail spoke enthusiastically of the splendid work of the Y. M. C. A. in India, stating that the students especially looked upon the "Y" work as very practical, and they were taking an ever increasing interest in the Y. M. C. A.

Very interesting pictures of Jacob and Esau were shown, and these portrayed the Bible record of the selling of the birthright with accuracy and impressiveness. Secretary Hill gave a brief talk on "The Birthright." Mr. Hill emphasized the fact that every man has a birthright, but alas how cheaply many sell it. Every man has a right to noble manhood, to the highest and best things; he has the right to live far above the animal world, but so many live on a level with the beast or nearly so. We as Christian men should do all in our power to help men back into their birthright, which in the real sense is life, dominated by Jesus Christ.

Hugh Minder effectively rendered two vocal solos and furnished appropriate music for the pictures, Emery M. Davis operated the moving picture machine.

Voted Gift to Chaplain

Sunday afternoon at a meeting of the Rosary Society, Miss Annie G. Hanrahan presiding in the chapel of St. Patrick's church, the society voted a gift to its chaplain, Rt. Rev. Henry M. H. May. The gift is to take the substantial form of a solid silver loving cup.

Following the recent meeting, the society made plans for a food sale.

Y. M. C. A. Meeting at County Jail

A religious service was held at the local jail at 9.15 Sunday morning by "Y" men. Hugh Kinder played the organ and rendered vocal solos in a pleasing manner, Edmund A. Prentice read the scripture and offered prayer, General Secretary Edwin Hill delivered a brief address on the topic "God Seeking Men." The scripture basis was the story of the shepherd seeking the lost sheep and the parable of the virgins. The speaker spoke in part as follows. "Say men, I want you to get the beautiful picture of the Shepherd leaving the ninety and nine and going far away seeking the one that was lost; God, through Christ is doing just this for lost men, and he has found many and made of them useful servants. He found Zacheus and used him; he found Saul of Tarsus and mightily used him in the work of his kingdom, he found "Billy Sunday" and who can tell how many thousands of souls he has won to the Christ. God found Jerry McCauley, John B. Gough, "Mel" Trotter and hosts of others who have been a blessing to many. God is still looking for men, and he is seeking them because he wants to use them in one way or another. God has found countless men in jails and prisons, and He is here this very morning looking for men. Will you let Him find you now? God seeks you through your will; you can say yes or no to Him; which shall it be? Though you are confined behind these bars of iron, they cannot bar the love of God from your hearts; will you let Him into your life just now.

Some twenty five of the prisoners asked for prayer that they might become the men God wanted them to be.

First Birthday Party.

Tuesday, June 23rd, Andrew Louis Boucher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Boucher, of Ladds Corner, Central Village, had his first birthday anniversary celebrated by a party on the lawn at his home, for twenty little friends. The children made a pretty picture in their bright-colored dresses. Games were played, which caused a great deal of merriment for the little ones. Dainty refreshments were served and each child was presented with a lollipop. Just before the little guests departed, a pretty basket was held up, and each child pulled a ribbon and found at the end a little gift. Several snapshots of the group were taken and all departed for their homes, happy over their wonderful time and wishing baby Andrew many more happy birthdays. Andrew received many pretty and useful gifts. Following are the names of the little guests: Marie Rose Morency, Anita Cote, Ogastia Gregoire, Joan of Arc Gregoire, Dorothy Costello, Frances Barber, Madeline Faucher, Armand Faucher, Athelie Hill, Audrey Hill, Margaret McFarland, Mark MacFarland, Sarah Thornton, Evelyn Thornton, Edith Thornton, Mae Reisswasser, Pearl Reisswasser, Francis Rosenzweig, Alexina Ravenelle, Arline Daggett.

NORWICH TOWN

Following serious illness for the past few weeks, due to a complication of diseases, James Butler, 66, died Saturday afternoon, at his home on Old Cemetery Lane, Norwich Town. Mr. Butler, who was an expert gardener, for many years was an interested care-taker at the beautiful Gilman estate on Washington street, which overlooks Lowthorpe Meadows. He took great pride in the upkeep of these attractive grounds and the fine lawn, handsome flowerbeds, as well as vegetable gardens, were testimonials of his efforts and faithfulness. Failing health for more than a year, compelled him to give up work, although he had been very active all his life.

A sister, Mrs. Lee (Kate Butler), died a number of years ago, and two brothers, William P. and John Henry Butler died a few years ago from similar maladies. They were children of the late James and Mary Byrnes Butler. Mr. Butler was united in marriage with Nellie Elizabeth Mullen, of Franklin, November 16th, 1886. They have always resided in Norwich Town, and to many of the younger people in the vicinity where they lived, they were familiarly known as "Uncle Jim and Aunt Nellie."

During his illness he was devotedly cared for by his faithful wife, who has always been a most loving companion. Mr. Butler was a devout member of the Sacred Heart church. He was especially fond of children, he and his wife having brought up two of Mrs. Butler's nephews, Arthur and George Mullen, who, with a sister, were left motherless when very young. George Mullen being only an infant about one year old. Although interested in the welfare of all his several nieces and nephews, Mr. Butler's pride was centered in these boys, both of whom developed into fine young men under his influences, and who were a credit to their country during the World war, they having seen strenuous service both on land and sea, at home and abroad.

Mr. Butler is survived by his wife, who has the sympathy of the community in her time of sorrow.

The gardener at the sightly residence of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver L. Johnson, on Union street, has been particularly successful in growing delicate pink petunias this season, the old-fashioned flowers showing off well against a background of decorative greenery.

There is no lessening of fervor or weakening of zeal in this church with the advent of hot weather, for there was the usual large number to receive holy communion, following confession the previous day and evening. Rev. John J. Reilly, who read the low mass, had the assistance of Father Galvin in giving communion.

Lough, will accompany the students on the nine weeks study trip which offers academic credit for the successful completion of each course.

SIXTH COMMANDMENT BINDS IN VACATION, SAYS PRIEST

Yesterday was the fourth Sunday after Pentecost. In all the Catholic churches throughout the world the epistle read in all the masses was Romans VII 18-25 and the gospel was Luke V 1-11, the latter narrating the miracle of the great draught of fishes. Preaching at the 9 o'clock mass in St. Patrick's church, Rev. Myles P. Gilvin had a message of caution for those of the congregation planning to go away from home for summer vacations.

At the outset, the preacher stated that in itself a vacation is proper and reasonable—in fact, has the approval of Our Lord, Who, on one occasion, when the disciples had grown weary in preaching the truth and in ministering to the people, called them to come apart for a time, that they might rest. But on a vacation he cautioned that there never could be a vacation when they can get away from God; that the obligations of the soul obtain as much during the vacation respite as throughout the remainder of the year.

In the dangers which inevitably arise in such a season Father Galvin gave the large congregation three rules; it is absolutely required to attend Holy Mass every Sunday; each should be as prompt and punctual to guard his spiritual welfare by the aid of the sacrament of Penance—confession and communion — when away as when at home, and lastly, the Ten Commandments are just as binding in vacation as in the other weeks of the year.

To the younger listeners he sounded the warning to avoid occasions of sin, certain to be more frequent and more dangerous when away from home, cautioning them that the Sixth Commandment is especially to be regarded in the perils of strange places and among strange acquaintances. They are to avoid sin in word, deed, dress. Too often, he declared has vacation proved the time of the soul's ruin.

Taking care to select some locality where there is a church convenient for Sunday mass, to receive the solace and strength of holy communion at least as frequently in vacation as during the rest of the year, and to adhere to strict obedience to God's Commandments, he expressed the conviction that each person going away

Despite the depressed condition in the Scottish iron and steel industry, a Scottish firm has erected at the works in Glasgow one of the largest rolling mills yet constructed, costing about $4,777,000, and capable of producing 5,000 tons of steel a week. The material for rolling is supplied by eleven open-hearth basic steel furnaces. The processes adopted are expected to result in a considerable saving in labor and economies owing to the rolling of very long plates and consequent reduction in the number of scrap ends etc. The mill will roll plates exactly to width, which will eliminate cutting to size. Furthermore, it is capable of rolling plated from three-sixteenths to 1 1-4 inches in thickness and has already produced a plate 134 feet in length.

Ninety-nine thousand of 100 believe that the reason prices of articles in stores are so uneven ends is to make things look cheaper than they really are, according to the Nation's Business, which points out, however, that the device was first used for a totally different purpose. Sixty years ago the founder of a large department store in New York hit on the scheme to be honest. Price tickets and cash registers in those days were not wanted people bargained and haggled over every penny. Our founder hoped to offset a customer's lower bank balance. If an article cost him $5 the store might put the tag in the position that if the price was $5.95 the store would have to go to another if a nickel point for it and the dime price would be too.

DRIVER AND BOY SAFE, WHEN CAR GOES THRU FENCE

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, June 23.—Wilfred Couto, 23, this city, and his young boy companion, escaped with a slight shaking up, when the new Dodge sedan driven by Couto skidded and turned over on its side, at 5:30 o'clock Monday afternoon. The mishap occurred during the rainstorm. How the occupants remained uninjured is another to be added to other similar, miraculous lists of accidents of this nature.

Couto was headed toward Coventry and had just rounded the sharp bend between the Ridges and Perkins' Corner, when the machine began to skid on the wet pavement. He succeeded in holding the car in the road for about one hundred feet, when it skewed to the right, crashed through the state fence and turned on its side. The machine, which is owned by Zepherin Couto, father of the driver, was considerably damaged; the right fenders and running board were demolished, the hood stove in and much of the glass was broken. State Police Trooper Comstock, of the Danielson barracks, investigated. Local [illegible] Abbott [illegible] stated it sighting the machine, which was hauled to the city for repairs.

Phenomenal Growth of Instruction in Swimming

A striking adventure in American pedagogy is the growth of instruction in swimming and watermanship. Highschool buildings and playgrounds contain swimming facilities. Many colleges include swimming as a prerequisite for a degree. In military posts and at summer civilian camps instruction in swimming is given as a matter of course. The American Red Cross has been the most significant factor in promoting water safety. In Chicago, New York, Boston, and Springfield are institutions that produce swimming directors.—School Life.

A gymnasium will be provided for the dormitory which Harvard University is erecting for its medical school. In presenting $135,000 for the gymnasium, the donor, Mr. H. S. Maine Requires Many One-Teacher Schools

During the past year 193 small rural schools in Maine were consolidated and the two and three teacher school is now common. About 25 junior high schools have been organized in small towns. Other sections of the state, however, is forced to completely scattered settlements, and because of these conditions it will be necessary to continue indefinitely a large number of one-teacher schools. About $400,000 was spent last year for transportation of pupils. With better paid and better trained teachers and more satisfactory buildings, equipment, and transportation, the rural schools are improving. A course of study fitted to the needs of these schools is now in preparation.

Annual field day for all public schools of Dayton, Ohio, has been abandoned. Instead, field meets will be held in the several schools. Boys and girls of the sixth, seventh, and eighth grades will participate in group and individual events, and buttons, medals, and cups will be awarded.

The "unselfish" candy

"Come on!" said Freddie, "I've got enough for all of us and four places for each one."

That's the nice thing about Life Savers, the "unselfish" candy. There are 14 of those delicious little mint circles in each package—and only five cents a package.

Every growing child craves sweets. Active little bodies demand sugar. But children's candy must be pure—and they should not overeat.

Life Savers, the little candy mints with the hole (life saver shape), answer this problem in just the right way. They are china-hard and deliciously flavored.

This means that Life Savers are eaten slowly. Children suck them to make those wonderful flavors last longer. Little tummies are not upset. And Life Savers are kind to tiny teeth.

They're safe and wholesome. You may conscientiously be generous with Life Savers for they are the ideal candy for little folks.

Six flavors are displayed at all good stores so you may help yourself: Pep-o-mint, Wint-o-green, Cinn-o-mon, Lic-o-rice, Cl-o-ve and Vi-o-let. Five cents a package.—Life Savers, Inc., Port Chester, N. Y.

CHIEF STANTON

Reference is made in other columns today of the beginning of the 35th year of service as head of the local fire department by Chief Howard L. Stanton, and his entrance upon his 55th year as a member of the local fire department. It is a record to be proud of and a record that has meant much more to Norwich than would be realized without a full knowledge of what has been accomplished within that time.

Norwich has been most fortunate in having a man of the type of Chief Stanton as the fire department head. Not only has he been well acquainted with the local conditions but he has a thorough understanding of requirements and an interest in providing best effective fire fighting service for this community. It seems but a few years ago that he was made chief but when that there has been a most remarkable change for the better. We have gone from the volunteers through the stage of horse drawn apparatus to the fully motorized department, from which much service is expected and duly rendered. The reorganization that has been carried on has been thorough and, though by no means without opposition at times, it fully measures up to the high rating it receives. Proper credit for this must be given to Chief Stanton and the policies which he has consistently advocated. Day in and day out his consistent efforts have been directed to the upbuilding of the department and to his most admirably has succeeded. Not only for fire fighting purposes but for fire prevention as well has the department been developed, and while Chief Stanton has been making a record for himself and the city during the past two and a half decades his work has not gone unnoticed throughout the state and nation. The demands for his services undoubtedly indicated the type of man at the head of the department.

In connection with the completion of his 35 years as chief it will not be surprising news to the community that he is contemplating retirement next year. The devotion he has given to the department may entitle him to such relief, but then Norwich stands to lose the services of such a valuable public servant?

THE GOVERNORS IN SESSION

For years governors of the several states have been meeting annually for the purpose of discussing common problems. They are this week assembled at Poland Springs, Maine, for this year's conference. Probably not all of them will be in attendance but there will be a chance afforded for a serious exchange of views upon questions which have arisen in the administration of state governments and there will be a chance for certain of them to learn how others have met various situations. Out of the general exchange of views there should come not a few ideas and a better understanding of the best way to deal with conditions which are to be found in all commonwealths in one form or another.

Much has been said within the past year in behalf of states' rights. Likewise much has been said about the importance of the various states taking the same view of the tax problem that the federal government has and make a serious endeavor to bring about a reduction for the relief of the burdened taxpayer.

There are states which have done this very thing. Connecticut stands out prominently for the manner in which it has put aside the things that could be delayed and applied its efforts to the cutting of the debt and the lowering of taxation. For other states not so much can be said, and yet next to the federal government it is the state government which ought to set the example for the town and city governments in this respect.

In the effort to have states take care of problems which there has been a disposition to throw them over onto the government at Washington, it is to be remembered it is because of state weakness rather than state strength that this has been attempted. If in where states have failed to indemnify up to their responsibilities that the desired results have been sought elsewhere.

In the matter of cutting taxation and reducing debts the government has set a most excellent example for any state. It is cutting its garment according to the cloth. It is engaged in the practice of economy and showing consideration for the taxpayer it is a time when much more of that ought to be done by state and local governments, and the governors in session in Maine have every reason to [illegible] meeting the most serious consideration. If they get no more than local for some future message it will pay them well.

Many have been arrested for violence and have been punished for it. Many have been arrested for violence and have been released for lack of evidence to convict them. Many have been arrested for violence and have been released because the witnesses against them were afraid to testify. SANTA BARBARA

Once more an earthquake has raised havoc in California, and for the second time in little over a century Santa Barbara has been seriously shaken. Conditions in that Pacific coast city are bad enough even though the effects of the quake are not as bad as at San Francisco a few years ago. They will call for much reconstruction, heavy outlays and not a little relief work. It will likewise be a case of testing the faith of the people in their own community, and yet there is no more reason why the people of Santa Barbara should think of abandoning that locality than those who live at the base of volcanoes, which occasionally become active.

In the disturbances which have visited several of the western states within the past few days that at Santa Barbara was the worst. Other Californian cities and towns felt the shock but not so seriously. Early reports furnish rather meagre information as to the real extent of the damage and loss of life. From later communications, as the lines are reopened, there may be a different story and the hope is that it will not grow worse as increased information is obtained.

For the relief of the distress in Santa Barbara it can be expected that the government and the various agencies will promptly respond. The sympathy of the nation will go out to them. It is one of those cases where the possibilities of further trouble of this same character must be anticipated and which must get due consideration when reconstruction activities get under way.

DOING STUNTS

Someone has offered the advice: "Don't try to do stunts in the water until you know how to swim." And it is excellent advice, although knowledge of swimming does not always warrant indulging in stunts any more than knowing how to drive an automobile is a good reason for engaging in reckless driving.

Doing stunts in water is not so much different than doing stunts on land. It is a good idea to know your ability, to understand perfectly the conditions under which they are going to be done and to make a careful survey to insure safety.

Stunts will of course embrace a long list of things, and it is not to be forgotten that there is a too long death list each season because of the number who try to figure in such performances.

There are those who jump overboard into deep water depending upon the unknown to get them to shore.

There are those who dive into too shallow water with the idea that they can do what others cannot and that sometimes means the impossible.

There are those who rock the boat, those who try to hang onto the rear of a boat, those who tempt fate by getting into canoes, and a whole string of other things which involve danger for the person who cannot swim, and in certain instances for those who can.

Those who set out to do stunts must realize that those whom they attempt to imitate have undoubtedly reached efficiency through long practice and many close calls. Taking chances is a serious matter which does not comply with the rules of safety first.

EDITORIAL NOTES

Amundsen had his troubles in the far north but they were not due to thin ice.

Those who have had experiences this season insist that the mosquitoes are just as warlike as ever.

The man on the corner says: We pray for rain and then we complain because the sun doesn't shine.

A rainy week and figures strongly in the reduction of the highway accidents during the summer season.

Trying to stop a machine on the road at night when the driver isn't inclined to stop is a dangerous undertaking.

Amundsen declares he encountered some unexpectedly rugged weather on his trip, but he missed that oppressively hot spell.

With a bigger treasury surplus than was estimated there will be no kick from those who are looking for reductions in taxes.

Explosives which can, being used now and those which will be heard for the next five weeks will not constitute a fire in the grass of the country.

What some motorists cannot understand is just how much of the highway the road hog requires or how much should be granted to the interest of others.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

A Reply to Rev. Mr. Panimoll

Mr. Editor: Quintilian mentions a pedant who taught obscurity and who once said: "This is excellent for I do not understand it myself." The Rev. Mr. Panimoll seems to be in a similar predicament. After presenting alleged facts which places the church of Rome in a bad light and being unable to reconcile himself with the thought that that same church is still the same wonderful organization that it always was; he implores us to give him facts. This I will endeavor to do presently. When we consider that for nearly 400 years the writers of history for the English speaking people and for that matter the writers of European history in general have been usually not only antagonistic to the church, but engaged in "a conspiracy against truth" and that the average doctor has been drinking of tainted sources without any suspicion of their corruption, we should be patient and in all charity try to make them understand the truth. I confess that there is no little difficulty in getting up a reply to Mr. Panimoli's letter. As a general rule in a case of this kind I should wish to begin at the beginning, but as I have been unable, in running my eye over his remarks, to discover that they have any beginning at all, I shall be pardoned for touching them in the order which suits me best. What I admire in his letter is his cleverness in trying to bring about a controversy which will enable him to portray the church of Rome as "blacker than a dozen and a half of chimney-sweeps and a stack of black cats." What I do not admire is all the rest. Especially I do not admire the desperation of the effort to make out a case. I look upon his letter as nothing better than a very respectable specimen of special pleading. One cannot help wondering, however, that a man of Mr. Panimoli's opportunities to know something of history, should go out of his way to mention: "inventions and new discoveries were always opposed by the church." What shall be said of the Benedictine monk, Valentine who is known as the father of modern chemistry; the great European universities; the Gregorian calendar; the clock; the musical scale, the perfected magnet and mariner's compass, gun powder? What about Abbot Mendel's being acclaimed by scientists (many of them evolutionists) as the formulator of the laws of heredity? What about Father Secchi, who made discoveries concerning the stars? They really ought to take away that seismograph from Father Torndorf to whom the reporters turn their gaze when an earthquake sets the earth in motion. Emerson, the sage of Concord, in discussing Catholic culture said: "They are seen to be the feet on which we walk, the eyes with which we see. Their Dants and Alfred, St. Thomas Aquinas and Bacon. Six hundred years ago Roger Bacon explained the precession of the equinoxes and the necessity of reform in the calendar; looking over many horizons far as into Liverpool and New York, he announced that machines can be constructed to drive ships more rapidly than a whole gally of rowers could do; carriages to move with incredible speed; and machines to fly into the air like birds. Magna Charta, decimal numbers, mariners' compass, glass, paper, clocks, chemistry, algebra, astronomy, their Gothic architecture, their paintings, are the delight and tuition of ours."

What shall be said of Christopher Columbus; Amerigo Vespucci, from whom America accidently received her name; Balboa, the discoverer of the Pacific ocean; Ponce de Leon the discoverer of Florida; Magellan, the admiral of the fleet that first circumnavigated the globe; Cortes the discoverer of California and the conqueror of Mexico; De Soto discoverer of the lower Mississippi; Cartier the discoverer of lower Canada and the St. Lawrence river; Menendez the founder of the oldest city in the United States; Champlain the founder of Quebec and discoverer of Lake Champlain?

Hundreds probably thousands, of similar examples might be cited, but why enlarge upon a theme which will not fail to be painful to those who seem so disturbed over this question?

The fair-minded public will seek Catholic truths from Catholic authorities rather than from those who are either uninformed or prejudiced. To quote authentic writings about the philosophers whom Mr. Panimoli claims were persecuted by the church would require too much space. Any sincere seeker after truth will find much enlightenment by reading the many authentic books relating to the Middle Ages, especially that written about Galileo. As is well known this philosopher was not disciplined by the church for his discoveries but rather because he insisted on claiming a connection between his discoveries and the scripture.

To the statistics furnished by Mr. Panimoli I will say—I have been in statistic factories. Know how they are made. To his criticisms of the Catholic system of education I will quote the words of a great patriot who happened to be a Presbyterian, Thomas Marshall. "The public schools of this country are not doing as well by the young folks as did the schools of ancient Rome—they taught their youth duty to home, country and their God."

Mr. Panimoli certainly illustrates his mode of reasoning when he attributes all the evils that ever existed in Italy to one cause—the church. To his way of thinking the church should have made everyone in Italy highly educated and it was a crime to put a child to work after going through the "third grade."

Your correspondent should persevere in his studies in history with diligence and he may yet discover that he has an immense intellectual territory open to him; and that, if he is to become an authority thereon he will need a little more material than that furnished by such agencies as Orti and Rasa.

IN THE PUBLIC EYE

James J. Storrow, the new president of the Boy Scouts of America, is a member of one of the old banking firms of Boston and a director of many financial, industrial and other corporations of national scope. Notwithstanding his large and varied interests in finance and business Mr. Storrow has found time to take a leading part in many public movements, not only in relation to his home city but to the country at large. For many years he served Boston as a member of the city council and some years ago he was a candidate for the mayoralty on a reform ticket. During the war he served as Fuel Administrator for New England and for the state of Massachusetts. He is a native of Boston and is related to several of the old and influential families of that city. His education was received at Harvard, where he took his A. B. degree in 1885 and his LL. B. in 1888.

Stories That Recall Others

Saving a Life

Mary, age three, found a baby bird. She took it in the house and said: "Mother, may I keep him as a pet?" With mother's consent she carried it around for a while and said to her: "Do you think it will die?"

"I expect so," mother replied.

Mary stepped out in the yard. She returned a moment later without the bird.

"Where's your bird?" asked mother.

"I gave him to the cat."

"Why?"

"I was afraid it would die," solemnly answered the child.

Strained

He had been brought up on a farm, but went to the city to live. There he married and he and his wife decided to return to a farm. As it happened she was not versed in the art of farming and as a result made many mistakes as she was learning.

One day, as her husband was returning from the field, she met him at the door and said, "Oh, Lead (a dog) got in the cream jar, but I strained it."

A course in home economics is given, at their own request to a group of boys in the Manual Arts high school, Los Angeles. It is adapted to the boys' needs and carries credit towards graduation. The course includes not only nutrition and the preparation and serving of foods, but conduct and correct dress for all occasions, the home on a partnership basis, responsibilities of parenthood and child nurture. So popular has the study proved that the enrollment has doubled. School girls

Thomas Sheraton—the Cabinetmaker, Designer of Furniture

All lovers of furniture know the graceful type that goes under the name of "Sheraton"—chairs with slender backs and delicately turned legs, and bookcases with quaintly leaded glass and almost severe drawers, and various other pieces of furniture carved and ornamented into a fine beauty. All that richness and elegance that has added so much to the charm of homes of wealth comes from the original designs made by Thomas Sheraton, a miserably poor English cabinetmaker, who lived in London well over 100 years ago.

From the days of his boyhood until his death at the age of 55, Thomas Sheraton himself had about him only the barest of furniture. He was too poor himself to enjoy the comforts and the beauty that he gave to the world. He did not even make the furniture that goes by his name. He designed it from the dreams he spun, as he worked in a tiny little shop in London.

When he was a boy Thomas Sheraton was sent to work in a cabinet-making shop. That was practically his only school. He had learned to read and to write, but that was about all. The education that he gained was that which he acquired by solitary study after the hours of work.

Year after year, in poverty and wretchedness, working only in the humblest of all shops, Thomas Sheraton struggled on. He worked patiently and lovingly, for he liked the feel of the wood, and the sound of the plane as it sang its way along the grain. He did not hurry, and he never blotched the work that was given him to do. He made the joints true and strong, and was proud of a good job well done. He was no factory worker, making only a part by machinery; he made the whole of the article of furniture on which he worked. He watched it grow under his hands, and when he had completed it he felt he had achieved a personal triumph.

Those were the happy days for workmen, when all workers might be artists if they chose. Thomas Sheraton chose. When he was 40 years old he was able to design furniture such as people had never seen before—beautiful, exquisite, original designs, full of surprising ingenuity and clever turns, works of true art. He published his designs in books that were eagerly purchased. He made his name a name that will live forever, but he himself remained poor, and simple, deeply religious and self-denying, and he died of hard work.

IN THE DAY'S NEWS

FEZ

"Fez, the center of French operation against the rebellious Riff tribesmen of Morocco, lies, at this season of the year, like a pearl on the slopes of green velvet hills," says a bulletin from the Washington, D. C., headquarters of the National Geographic society.

"A compact, white-robed city of uneven flat roofs and unexpressive walls, with the blue Riffian hills to the north and the crystal-crowned heads of the Atlas mountains to the south framed in a cobalt sky, there is probably no more stirring picture to the western eye than this long-hidden Holy City of Morocco, seat of Moslem learning for more than 1,000 years.

"From among the roofs rise the minarets of the mosques, not the slender round towers, like those farther east, but square in shape, like the Giralda of Seville. But it is the great crenelated outer ramparts, with their rounded projections or scallops, that give to it, and to every Moroccan town its air of enchantment and mystery.

"It is only from a distance that Fez possesses its super-white appearance. At closer range the immutable walls of the ancient city fascinate the observer with the multiplicity of their shadings from terra cotta to ocher, nearly golden in some lights, buff and even purplish in others. Massive watch-towers and an occasional gate with a horseshoe arch interrupt their regular course around the gently sailing plain in which the city is built.

"Breaking the monotony of these walls within walls, built in the days when Moroccan cities were perpetually menaced, are the smiling fields and gardens within, where myrtle, pomegranates, apricots and chocolate-pink jasmine and roses.

"Fez has four distinct divisions: the Medina, or native town; the Mellah, or Jewish quarter; the guiset's palace and grounds; and the new, French, city outside the walls, for the French, in their conquest of North Africa, have been especially careful not to interfere with Moslem architecture, religion or customs.

"The native city is divided, in turn, into Djedid, the upper town, and El Bali, the lower, older section. Djedid boasts of some fine old palaces and gardens, some of them abandoned, one of which is now used as a French hotel. El Bali is a labyrinth of dark lanes flanked by buildings which are windowless save for the barred slits in the upper stories. Narrow lanes and streets roofed with lattices of reeds minimize the severity of the sun's rays.

"The booths of the merchants, who sit, cross-legged, smoking kief in long reed pipes, are cubby-hole bazaars waist - high above the street. All day long a never-ceasing human tide flows by their shops while they sit and wait by the hour among their wares—stuffed for horses, saddle blankets, rainbow hued silks and gay-colored cotton cloth.

"Until recent times Fez had a monopoly on the red felt caps which bear the city's name. In the old days, it is said, the carmine dyes for these caps was obtained from the juice of a Moroccan berry. But now fezzes are also manufactured in Turkey and in France.

"Some of the aristocratic types seen on the narrow streets of the native city are most striking. These are men of white skin and noble mien, whose flowing robes lend a certain grace and dignity. Most of the natives are Moors, who number, in the French and Spanish zones, about 6,000,000. There are also many admixtures—Arab, Jewish, Turkish and European, as well as Negro slave blood from the far south. The coming of the French in this region meant the end of long years of oppression for many of the inhabitants, especially the Jews.

"The French in Morocco have had to build extensively — administration buildings, post offices, barracks, railway stations, warehouses, hotels, shops, homes. A Fine Arts Commission supervises all buildings and grounds. The buildings, always white, are usually of two stories, with broad windows instead of blank Moslem walls. There are arcades, patios, columns and arches. Color is introduced in bands of glazed tiles, blue predominating.

"Formerly a great seat of learning, Fez still is sacred to Moslem pilgrims. Its Mosque of Muldai Idris is considered so holy that the streets leading to its entrance are closed to Jews, Christians and four-footed beasts, for the moderns, however, the visitor can see the beautiful Moslem architecture at its best. For nearly 1,000 years Moslem art has been essentially the same—simple of outline, with decorations in complicated design, since the Moslem faith is prejudiced against the representation of any form of life.

"The Riffian tribesmen, numbering about 30,000 occupy the hill territory to the north and west of Fez. They are valiant fighters."

As we scan back through the 100 years of history to 1825, we are filled with pride over the remarkable progress recorded by the community of Norwich and the manner in which the THAMES NATIONAL BANK has kept pace with the general growth of the city and suburbs, expanding to meet the demands of the business houses and private individuals for greater scope of service.

We look back to the presidency of William P. Greene, the first head of this institution; to the long tenure of office of Lyman Brewer, our first cashier; to the directorate of the bank, with its changes now and then, always offering a list of honored men in the community as the advisors of the officers. Their records of service are our constant inspiration.

A century ago when the THAMES BANK was incorporated (it was later made a national bank in 1864) the population of Norwich barely exceeded 4,000; a general state of business depression and inactivity existed as an aftermath of the War of 1812 which had struck a serious blow to the commerce of Norwich; much indebtedness hampered the citizens. Today, Norwich, "The Rose of New England" is a very prosperous and growing community. With all modesty we cannot but feel that the THAMES NATIONAL BANK has had much to do with the creation of the sound financial foundation of the city.

The Ugly Orphan

Ugliness is all within;
Thus it really is a sin.
—Old Mother Nature.

You know that really is a. Ugliness has nothing to do with looks, unless looks show the spirit within. One may be ever so homely and not be ugly at all, and one may really be handsome in looks and actually be ugly. Selfishness is one of the most common forms of ugliness. Selfish people have ugly dispositions.

This is the way it was with the orphan Cowbird that Chippy and Mrs.

"Now," thought the Ugly Orphan "I will get all the food."

Chippy the Chipping Sparrows were bringing up with their own children. In one way this young Cowbird wasn't a true orphan for his father and mother were both alive, but in another way he was an orphan, for they had nothing whatever to do with him, and he didn't ever know who they were. Sally Sly the Cowbird had left an egg in the nest of Mr. and Mrs. Chippy and then had gone off to have a good time. That egg had hatched and from it had come this ugly orphan, for he was ugly. He was so greedy that he would not have allowed the other babies in the nest to have a single worm if he could have helped it. As it was he didn't let them have nearly enough. He was naturally very much larger than any of the others, and his selfish greediness made him grow very much faster than the others, so that it wasn't long before he was nearly twice as big as any of his foster brothers and sisters.

Things were bad enough as they were, but the ugly orphan wasn't satisfied. He wanted to get rid of the Sparrow babies. The first chance he got he pushed one of them out of the nest. It wasn't big enough to fly and it fell to the ground below. Then he pushed another out and it too fell to the grass. Chippy, coming back with a worm, found the two babies down in the grass. They were unhurt, but of course they were quite helpless down there. He promptly fed them. This left two baby sparrows and the ugly orphan in the nest for Mrs. Chippy to feed. And the ugly orphan wasn't satisfied. While he was busy looking he spied another baby Chippy out and pushed him over. That left only the ugly orphan in the nest.

Chippy and Mrs. Chippy were very busy feeding the two baby sparrows and the ugly orphan. They were kept busy from morning until night. Chippy and Mrs. Chippy were very tired. They were thin and their feathers looked ragged. Their wings drooped. They were discouraged. Never before had they had such a hard time to get enough food for their children. Never before had they had children who were so hard to please. Never before had they had children who were so greedy. Never before had they had children who were so ugly.

The ugly orphan grew and grew. He grew so fast that he soon was much bigger than Chippy or Mrs. Chippy. He grew so fast that he soon was much bigger than both of them together. He grew so fast that he soon was much bigger than both of them together and the two baby sparrows. He grew so fast that he soon was much bigger than both of them together and the two baby sparrows and the nest. He grew so fast that he soon was much bigger than both of them together and the two baby sparrows and the nest and the bushes. He grew so fast that he soon was much bigger than both of them together and the two baby sparrows and the nest and the bushes and the trees. He grew so fast that he soon was much bigger than both of them together and the two baby sparrows and the nest and the bushes and the trees and the sky. He grew so fast that he soon was much bigger than both of them together and the two baby sparrows and the nest and the bushes and the trees and the sky and the clouds. He grew so fast that he soon was much bigger than both of them together and the two baby sparrows and the nest and the bushes and the trees and the sky and the clouds and the sun. He grew so fast that he soon was much bigger than both of them together and the two baby sparrows and the nest and the bushes and the trees and the sky and the clouds and the sun and the moon. He grew so fast that he soon was much bigger than both of them together and the two baby sparrows and the nest and the bushes and the trees and the sky and the clouds and the sun and the moon and the stars. He grew so fast that he soon was much bigger than both of them together and the two baby sparrows and the nest and the bushes and the trees and the sky and the clouds and the sun and the moon and the stars and the whole world. ## DEVELOPMENT OF HEROIC SPIRIT SHOP MEETING TOPIC

Under the auspices of the Y. M. C. A. another open meeting was conducted Tuesday in the plant of the Richmond Radiator Co. At dusk Rev. C. H. Richards was the speaker and he based his remarks on the scripture so strong and of a good courage." His topic being "The Development of the Heroic." The audience was extremely interested in the address. The speaker said in part: I have selected this topic because of the season of the year, leading up to the celebration of the Fourth of July, which is the biggest patriotic holiday we have.

Moses was, as you know, a very meek man, and when God told him to demand of the king who held the Israelites in bondage that he let them go, he hesitated saying that he was unable to do such a thing; God however said, 'Model you go and make the demand, so Moses went and with the faith that is commendable he said to the king, "Let my people go," and the king though unwilling, finally complied with the demand. Moses demonstrated the heroic, and won the victory. Years ago it was announced in the British parliament that the thirteen colonies had seceded, the members of parliament laughed, and considered it a joke, but there was a man in America of whom they had not heard; his name was Washington, and three years later parliament didn't laugh, for Washington and his brave men had won our independence in the strength of their heroism.

Later the question of slavery threatened to divide our nation, and Abraham Lincoln was the man of the hour, and he said "No nation can exist half slave and half free." Lincoln had strong opposition, but finally issued the emancipation proclamation, and a glorious victory was won for a united country; heroism had again conquered. There is such a thing as mental heroism. The boy who determined to have an education no matter what the cost, will get what he is after, and in many instances young men have against odds won the victory of a good education simply because they have had in them the spirit of heroism.

Then there is moral heroism, and this is greatly needed these days where would all the jails and prisons be if every individual determined to put their temptations down and win the victory over them; the jails and prisons would be things of the past. Probably a very large percentage of those confined in insane hospitals are there because of yielding to temptations; to sin; because they have disobeyed the laws of God. Let us cultivate more and more the heroic for ourselves and for our country.

TWO MEN BADLY HURT WHEN AUTO HITS POLE

John Gromko, 40, 51 St. Regis avenue, and Charles Podgolewski were painfully injured and Stanley Zoremba considerably shaken up when the Mupmobile touring car, with winter top, driven by Gromko crashed into a telegraph pole on the Preston City road about a mile north of Bate's ice houses, Monday afternoon at 1.30 o'clock. The party was returning from a wedding and the car bore some of the wedding decorations.

The three men were riding on the front seat of the automobile and were evidently travelling at a fast rate of speed and as they neared a curve on the road a truck driven by F. E. Peckham of Corning Road came into sight. Gromko swerved his car sharply to the right to pass around the truck and in doing so the wheels of the car went off into the sand at the side of the road. The terrific speed of the car made it impossible to get back onto the highway and the car crashed head-on into a telegraph pole breaking it off about three feet from the ground, pulling the stump from the ground and carrying the pole for some distance.

The force of the impact caused the rear end of the car to swerve around and rolled over, coming to a stop with the four wheels in the air, the three men being pinned beneath the car. Mr. Peckham with his son, Horace Corning and Chester Praedomisc, ran back and assisted the men in getting out of the car.

Word was at once sent to the police station and Sergeant Myron Morgan sent word to the Backus hospital for the ambulance. Officer Charles Smith went to the scene and word was also sent to the Groton State Police barracks and an investigation was made of the accident. It was found that Gromko had been operating the car on the left side of the highway and the speed of the car made it impossible to make the corner and escape hitting the pole.

At the Backus hospital it was found that Gromko received deep cuts on the neck and head caused by flying glass, and bruises about the head necessitating a number of stitches. Podgolewski was badly cut about the chin and jaw or jaw and had lost considerable blood. A number of stitches were required to close the wounds. Zoremba was not injured to any extent. The two injured men will probably be allowed to leave the hospital within a few days.

The Hupmobile was a complete wreck. The top was smashed in, radiator smashed, frame bent, springs broken, engine pushed back and practically all glass smashed, and the steering wheel snapped off. About the only thing of value left on the car was the tires.

The Postal Telegraph company was notified of the accident and had men out to make repairs and erect a new pole in place of the broken one.

Later in the afternoon C. V. Pendleton towed in the wrecked car to his service station on Franklin street.

Eczema On Hands For Two Years Cuticura Healed

"For about two years I suffered with eczema on my hands. It started with small scales and then turned to a rash and was very sore and red. It itched terribly at times and kept spreading until my fingers were covered with it. I could not put my hands in water nor do any work. I did not get much sleep at night on account of the irritation. I used other remedies without much success. I saw Cuticura Soap and Ointment advertised and sent for a free sample. After using it I purchased more and in a month's time I was completely healed." (Signed) Lawrence Chauvin, West Chazy, N. Y., Sept. 27, 1920.

Use Cuticura Soap and Ointment every day, with gentle touches of the Ointment to spots where pimples appear, for all skin troubles.

FRENCH TENNIS STARS PLAY WELL AT WIMBLEDON

WIMBLEDON, June 29.—(AP)—The first day of the second week of the tennis tournament at Wimbledon opened with brilliant sunshine, as the weeding out process in the All-England championships continued.

France had the honor of the pickings today, registering winners in the men's doubles, the women's singles and doubles and the mixed doubles. The United States was only moderately successful in the play. Charles S. Garland, of Pittsburgh, and Lawrence R. Rice, of Boston, advanced into the third round of the men's doubles with a five-set win over the Indian pair, S. M. Hadi and S. M. Jacob—4-6, 7-5, 6-4, 4-6, 6-2. But J. B. Pearse, of Boston, and Lucien E. Williams, of Chicago, walked the plank for L. J. Geldrest and J. D. P. Wheatley, England, to the tune of 6-4, 6-3, 6-0, and Louis B. Dalley, of East Orange, and his English partner, F. E. Jarvis, lost to C. F. Scroope and L. A. Meldon, 3-6, 6-3, 2-6, 6-2, 6-2.

France's first win of the day was Mme. Billout's defeat of Mrs. Mollingham, of England, in easy straight sets—6-3, 6-2. A few minutes later, Mlle. Suzanne Lenglen, paired with Miss Elizabeth Ryan, the former California girl, defeated Miss H. Hogarth and Miss P. Brasefield, England, 6-0, 6-0.

Although they won, the French stars, Jacques Brugnon and Henri Cochet, had no easy time in putting P. D. B. Spence and G. H. Kingsley, England, out of the running of the men's doubles. The Frenchmen finally were victorious in five sets, 6-2, 6-4, 2-6, 5-7, 6-3.

WEINERT IS READY FOR BOUT WITH HARRY WILLS

NEW YORK, June 29.—(A. P.)—Charley Weinert, Newark heavyweight entry in the Italian hospital fund boxing show, today laid up his gloves until the young calls him from his corner to face Harry Wills Thursday night in a fifteen round fight to a decision at the Polo Grounds.

Weinert was pronounced fit by his trainers as to perfect condition and in order to prevent staleness they announced that he would confine his training during the next three days to road runs.

Wills, who frequently takes on weight during his training, will continue to box with his sparring partners until the day of the fight. The big negro, today tipped the beam at 217, ten pounds more than he carried two weeks ago. He expects to reach 210 pounds on the day of the bout. This will give him a 21 pound advantage over Weinert. The latter, however, will have reach and height in his favor.

CENTRALS-HALLVILLE GAME OFF; YANTIC-EASTERS TONIGHT

The game last night between the Centrals and Hallville was postponed at a late hour, which makes the games tonight between the East Ends and the Yantic team the opening game of the fourth week of play in the Norwich Twilight league. The game tonight should be a base-up affair as both of these teams have been in their innings known as the fastest semi-pro men in these parts. The Yantic team with Art Couillard, formerly of the State Hospital team; Eddie Burns, also a former Hospital man, McKiernan, a fast third baseman from the New London Twilight league, Lockwood, of the Sub Base, who played with the K. of C. team in Norwich a few years ago, and Tillie Daniels and Steve Pontek, both bad men in a pitcher's box, and Smith, formerly of Sprague, who will do the catching, present a team that is due to give plenty of trouble in the course of the season. It is almost positive that Manager Lane will start Daniels against the East Ends, which alone, is a fact that is bound to bring the fans out of their holes which they have to when it started to rain, last night. Although Daniels outpitched Jarvis and won his game, his week it was with a sore drp and tonight the fans will have a chance to see Tillie against a tough team in good condition.

Although the East Ends have lost two games, they have been by close scores and the breaks have really been against them, as Harry Mills, their premier twirler, has pitched heavenly ball and deserved to win. The East End lineup has received a general shakeup and tonight will see Manager Bill Pedace's team strengthened considerably. J. Normandin, Mills, Noel and White, all of the State Hospital team, will play their regular positions and also Jimmy Murphy, of the J. B. Martin team. Bill Austin, at present leading the league in batting, Tim Coughlin, Ellsworth, Leonard, Caudette and Hamel will be seen in the lineup.

The game between these two teams is bound to be good and a thrill is guaranteed for every minute. With Daniels and Mills hooked in a pitcher's duel and the other boys turning in sliding stunts, tonight should be a real battle day in the league schedule. Hank Merin again will hold the indicator.

AGRICULTURAL INTERESTS

SOIL CAN BE MADE READY NOW FOR ALFALFA

At this season it is particularly telling that farmers plan for their future alfalfa seedings. Any land now being put into such tilled crops as corn, sweet corn, root crops, beans or truck crops may be put into good condition for alfalfa seeding a year hence. To prepare for the new crop the land should be liberally limed, dressed with manure and should have a good application of acid phosphate. These treatments will increase the crops grown this year and will benefit the alfalfa as all three have residues in the soil for future use by crops.

There should be provision for planting a cover and green manure crop on the tilled land in the summer, late summer or early autumn. Rye, rye and vetch, barley, oats, or crimson clover are satisfactory crops for this purpose. Barley, oats, and crimson clover may winter kill, but before this occurs each should make an abundant growth-producing organic matter to plow under that will be the equivalent of four or five tons of manure per acre.

The tilled land intended for alfalfa should be kept free of weeds throughout the summer. Tillage to induce the germination of the weed already in the soil is desirable. This should be followed by destruction of the young weed seedlings else they may produce seed which will grow the following summer and use up the water from the alfalfa.

It is also a good time to arrange a cooperative agreement with the neighboring farmers to purchase lime by the carload. This may be applied at the convenience of each one of the cooperators. By such an agreement for the purchase of limestone at least one-third of the original purchase price may be saved since the limestone may be shipped in bulk in place of in bags. The time of delivery should come when other work is not pressing.

AMERICAN PAIR PLAY BRILLIANTLY AGAINST SCOTS

GLENEAGLES, Scotland, June 29.—(A. P.)—In an exhibition of superlative golf that produced a score of birdies by the four players in a 36-hole match MacDonald Smith and Joe Kirkwood, the American professionals, today defeated the British pair, George Duncan and Abe Mitchell, 2 up and 1 to play.

A gallery of several thousand Scots watched the play. At the end of the morning round the Americans were two down to their British opponents. They were unable to get ahead until the thirty-third hole, where both Duncan and Mitchell took three putts.

At the thirty-fourth hole, Mitchell for the first time during the day failed to find the fairway with his powerful drive, hooking the ball into an unplayable position. Duncan's drive to this hole lodged under the low brow of the bunker. Both Smith and Kirkwood reached the green with their second and won the match.

Mingled among the Scots who swarmed up and down the hilly course were scores of American tourists and English travelers who have come north for the holidays. For seventeen holes in the afternoon they saw four men playing golf in such finished style that par figures were useless for the purposes of winning, all but three of the holes. It took nothing less than birdies to win, with the standard pitched so high that all four shared the distinction of making several holes in less than par.

NEW YORK, June 29.—(A. P.)—An order for the arrest of Edouard Mascart, featherweight champion of France, was issued this afternoon by Supreme Court Justice Benedict on application of promoters of the Coney Island Stadium. Mascart several days ago applied to the state athletic commission to cancel the Herman match on the ground that he had injured one of his hands in training. Examination by a commission physician, however, failed to reveal an injury and his petition was denied.

STOCK PRICES

NEW YORK, Nov. 21. (AP)—Selling, apparently induced by the ruling for call money to 6 per cent, the highest since 1921, and the unfavorable view that California earthquake disaster, turned the course of prices downward by today's market, after an early period of irregularity. Net losses in the active issues ranged from fractions to 4 points. Profit taking was rather heavy in some of the recent favorites. American Can closed 6 points lower at 188, after selling as low as 180 2-3, while net losses of two to six points were the rule in Du Pont, General Motors, Electric, Manilla Electric, Mathieson Alkali, Maxwell Motors issues, May Department stores, Pacific Gas and Electric, Union Tank Car, United Fruit, United Cast Iron Pipe, Universal Pipe preferred and Worthington Pump.

The earthquake news caused extensive losses in California oils although nothing in the early dispatches indicated that their fields or other property had been damaged. Losses of a point or so were recovered by California Petroleum, Pan-American B., General Petroleum and Pacific Oil.

Liquidation of frightened investors also was held responsible for the heaviness of shares of other companies owning property in California, such as the Market Street Railway issues, Pacific Gas and Electric, Southern railroads. The losses ranging from 1 to 2 1-2 points.

The decline was by no means general, independent strength being shown by a number of railroad, rubber, merchandising and motor shares. Higher tire prices stimulated the demand for United States Rubber common and first preferred, Goodyear preferred and Lee Rubber, all of which attained new peak prices for the year. Motor Wheel opened eight points higher at a new top of 33 on unconfirmed rumors that General Motor interests were seeking control, but the stock later broke to 29 1-2 and then rallied to 30 7-8.

Robert Reis common and preferred were pushed up to new high levels at 16 and 90 1-8, respectively, on reports that the company recently had doubled the number of its dealers. Expanding sales and earnings also gave impetus to the demand for Woolworth, which jumped over four points to a new top of 144 3-4, other issues to break through their previous top prices of the year were Simmons Company, International Railways of Central America, White Rock and Newport News Gas and Electric, the last named jumping nearly 14 points to 190.

Spirited bidding for Chicago and Northwestern took place during the late afternoon, the stock closing at 116 3-4, its best price of the day and 1 1-2 points above Saturday's close. Southern Railway common was bid up to a new high record at 99 3-8 in reflection of the Richmond court decision denying the claim of Hartford stockholders for back dividends, but it reacted later on profit taking.

[illegible] 75 YEARS AGO

75 Years Ago Today

75 years ago there occurred the death of two important citizens of Connecticut. One, Zechariah Huntington who had reached the age of 86 years, a native of Lebanon. The other to answer the call was Capt. Nesmon Clark, a native of Lebanon and one of the last survivors of the Battle of Bunker Hill.

There were rumors that Santa Anna had appeared in Mexico and had taken control. Boats arriving from California brought news to local people of relatives who had gone to the Pacific coast in search of wealth. A large fire in San Francisco was also reported.

Extracts from the files of The Courier of 1850 follow:

Tuesday, June 25, 1850 — General Zechariah Huntington died here on Sunday at the advanced age of 86 years. General Huntington was one of the oldest and most respected citizens of Norwich. He was a man of strongly marked character—inspiring the confidence and commanding the respect of all who knew him, as a man of sterling worth he was the worthy father of that worthy son whom a little more than two years since, Norwich was called upon to mourn-taken, by death, from his place in the national senate, and from the wide sphere of influence which he filled in his native state.

The people of Lebanon are making arrangements for a picnic on the coming Fourth to be given in a grove near the Brick meetinghouse on the afternoon of that day. A bountiful feast of good things will be provided and an entertainment with addresses on the significance of the day, music and other social events will be given.

The general association of Connecticut commenced its annual session on Tuesday last in Litchfield. Rev. Dr. Hewitt of Bridgeport was chosen moderator and Rev. H. P. Arms of Norwich was chosen scribe. There were 40 delegates present from the various associations.

The Crescent City arrived at New York at 1 o'clock on Monday morning with 164 passengers and $150,000 in dust from California. Passengers reported another great fire in San Francisco on the morning of May 4th which reduced fully one third of the city to ashes. The loss is stated to be $5,000,000. It is thought to be the work of an incendiary and a reward of $5,000 has been offered for his detection.

Thursday, June 27, 1850—At a meeting of the officers of the First Brigade held at the Merchants Hotel in this city yesterday, Col. Elijah W. Smith of Tolland, was elected Brigadier General in place of General David Young, resigned.

Norwich is fortunate in securing a musical troupe known as the Gibson family to appear here on July 4th. This highly respectable company of vocalists from Boston is always sure to delight their audience. They are not only unrivalled as singers, but are

THE WHEAT MARKET

CHICAGO, June 28, (AP)—Increasing receipts of winter wheat together with favorable conditions for the new spring crop led to a sharp downturn in breadstuff prices today. On some transactions, there was an extreme decline of 5 1-4c a bushel on wheat and 3 1-4c on rye. The wheat market closed heavy, 3 to 4 3-4c net lower, July 1.43 to 1.45 1-4 and September $1.42 to 1.42 1-4, with corn 2 1-8 to 3 1-4c down, oats 1 1-8 to 2c off, and provisions varying from unchanged figures to a setback of 25c.

Arrivals of wheat today totalled more than 500 carloads at four Kansas interior markets alone. Other reports indicated also that new wheat was moving freely in the southwest. The depressing effects on prices here as a result of such reports was greatly emphasized by knowledge that the United States visible supply yet totalled more than 20,000,000 bushels of wheat today at the end of the old crop season, and that the carry over into next season was estimated at fully 75,000,000 bushels, a decided contrast with the scarcity which sometime ago was looked for.

THE CURB MARKET

NEW YORK, June 28 (AP)—Reactionary tendencies predominated in today's curb market although isolated strong spots were scattered throughout the list.

Selling in the oils started in the shares of companies owning property in California, on the theory of possible loss through earthquake damage, and then spread to other issues in that group. Humble, Prairie Oil & Gas, Prairie Pipe, Redbank and Standard Oils of Kansas and New York dropped a point or two, the net losses in other active issues being held to fractions.

Electrical refrigeration issues showed independent strength. Kelvinator was bid up to a new high record at 42 but lost a good part of its gain on profit taking. Nizer Corporation a duplicated its high of 52 3-4 on publication of analysis showing current earnings nearly double those of last year. The "B" stock, into which the "A" is convertible share for share will be admitted to trading tomorrow.

BOND MARKET REACTIONARY

NEW YORK, June 29, (AP)—Unsettled by the hardening of money rates and a break in stock prices, the bond market turned reactionary today. Price recessions were not severe but fears that a rise in call loans to 6% per cent might portend a prolonged period of dearer money held buying interest at a low ebb and caused a general downward drift to set in.

Has Improved Clause For Immigration Laws

Rep. Albert Johnson, of Washington, Chairman of the House Immigration Committee and author of Japanese Exclusion, who has come forward with a plan barring all ineligibles with a phrase providing that persons who cannot become citizens shall not be admitted to residence. This measure would simplify the present law, which has too many clauses and provisions, as it would do away with most of them.

THE BRITISH WARSHIP WISTERIA

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, June 29.—The city is making elaborate preparations for entertaining the officers and company of the crew of the H. M. S. Wisteria, when that battleship pays a visit to this port this week. The foreign craft and her crew will remain in port eight days and one day of the stay the officers and men will be entertained.

The Wisteria is scheduled to reach the mouth of the harbor Wednesday, at which time naval representatives, the collector of the port of New London, Mayor Waldo H. Clarke, Harbormaster Fred E. Perry, representatives of the Chamber of Commerce and Y. M. C. A., will go off Southwest Ledge lighthouse in a naval craft and there transfer to the British warship. The visitors will then proceed to an anchorage in the upper harbor and if desired by the commander of the Wisteria the craft will be given moorage at the state pier. Throughout the stay of the warship in port, the officers and crew will be dined and entertained. The crews are to receive the hospitality of the local theatre management for arrangements have been made for their admission free of charge to all performances. The crew will also be given two automobile trips to Hartford. The Elks will furnish entertainment at the organization's quarters, Washington street, and the officers of the Wisteria will be dined at the Thames club. A feature of the visit of the foreign war-craft here will be a soccer game between a team representing the crew of the Wisteria and the local club, the Rangers.

Mrs. Hilda Valanelis, of Niantic; Richard Esty 12 Methodist street; Miss Pauline Hussler, Niantic; Mrs. William Tubbs, Niantic; Mrs. William Kent, Quaker Hill; James Stitt, 22 Pleasant street, Groton; Mrs. John W. Thomas, 115 West Broad street, Westerly; Earl Stanley and Leonard Toner, of the United States Coast Guard destroyer Downes; Miss Marian Mille, Fishers Island; Miss Ruth Skaling, 95 Montauk avenue; Mrs. Charles Ashbury, 50 Smith street, Groton; James Bridgeman, Old Lyme; Frank E. Hart, 85 Division street and Mrs. Ida Williams, 410 Pequot avenue, patients at Lawrence hospital, were discharged Sunday and today.

The funeral of Wilbur W. Smith was held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at his residence, 24 Pleasant street, the services being conducted by Rev. Joseph R. Elder, pastor of Huntington Street Baptist church. A delegation among the mourners represented Niagara Engine company, of which organization Mr. Smith had been a member many years. Burial was in Jordan cemetery.

John J. and Lona Williamson have sold a building lot on the easterly side of Fitch avenue to James H. and Ada Brooks.

Elisha D. Stanfield complained to the police this afternoon that his room at 311 North Bank street had been entered during his absence and that a suit of clothes had been stolen.

Thieves were active in this city on Sunday night and from the nature of one burglary and an attempted break the police are of the opinion that the work of thieving is that of youths. The candy store of John Nichols, 80 Broad street, was the place where plunder was obtained, the crooks entering the store by a rear window that had been left unfastened and took $40 in specie from cash registers.

The visitors also gave attention to the store at 11 North Bank street, temporarily occupied by Harold S. Berg, Jr., as a sales place for fireworks. The front entrance was attacked with a blunt instrument, but entrance was not obtained. The lock, however, was made worthless.

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbins B. Stoeckel today caused the operators' license of J. E. Jackson, 12 Richards street and Joseph Gordon, 724 Williams street, to be suspended. Both operators are alleged to have been guilty of violation of the automobile laws.

Dennis Crimmins, 163 East 23rd street, New York, communicated with the local police this morning, requesting information to whether his wife, who formerly resided on Chappell street, this city, was in New London. No information regarding the whereabouts of Mrs. Crimmins was obtained.

Roy Burnham, of Westerly, a patient at Home Memorial hospital, was discharged today.

Harry Carino and Miss Alta Marian Horton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Horton, 20 Colman street, were married this morning at 11 o'clock at the parsonage of the First Church of Christ, by Rev. J. Romayn Danforth. The best man was County Detective William Lewis of Norwich and the bridesmaid was Miss Josephine Selusky. Following the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Carino received friends at a luncheon served at the residence of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Carino left this afternoon on a wedding trip, their objective point being Washington D. C.

Iman Eliensky, 395 Bank street, reported to the police early this morning that his automobile had been stolen from its place of parking on Blinman street. The police of the surrounding cities were requested to be on the lookout for the stolen car. The automobile was found this forenoon abandoned on Alewife avenue, Ocean Beach. It is believed that boys desiring to get to the shore resort took the parked car and after reaching their destination abandoned the machine.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry D. Slate have concluded their wedding trip and are at home to friends at 518 Williams street. Mr. and Mrs. Slate were married early this month.

Mansour Sabagh, a contracting painter, and William J. Moran, formerly an employe of Sabagh, were fined $10 each in the police court today for an encounter that was brought about by the appearance of Moran at a new building at Ocean avenue and Squire street, where Sabagh has men at work. Moran went there probably to see Sabagh, though how he should have known his former employer was to be found at the place has not been disclosed. He did find him and there a squabble arose that led to a fight. Moran was at one time employed by Sabagh, but the engagement was terminated and the men parted with the idea entertained that Sabagh was the debtor of Moran in the sum of $6. It was to ask for this money that Moran went with enmity in his heart and a determined resolution to get his pay. He found Sabagh standing against the wall of the building and early in the conversation that followed Moran threatened to fix his old boss so that he would not be able to get away from the wall. Sabagh told Judge Prince that he went outside the building to avoid any trouble, but that Moran followed him and struck him with a stone he hurled at him and threatened him with an implement used for scraping the floor of the structure. Then, Mr. Sabagh alleged, Moran took a knife from his pocket and drew it through the side curtain of the Sabagh automobile tearing a slit several inches in length. The curtain was shown in court to substantiate what Mr. Sabagh alleged. The men accused each other of using vile names in their conflict. Moran denied that he cut the curtain and declared that he did not own and never carried a knife. He accused Sabagh of cursing him and of abusing him by words. Moran pointed out that he was an older man than was Sabagh and that he was not on equal terms with him physically. Santos Dolce, a man at work on the job where the row occurred, declared that hot words passed between the belligerents, but he was quite positive that Moran did not go near the automobile and thus did not slash the curtain, as alleged. There was no doubt in the mind of the court or of others that a breach of the peace had been committed. The men were found to be guilty and the fines stated were imposed.

Frank Cone was fined $5 for intoxication.

George F. Kelly, got into a row in the pool room in the Armstrong building on Bank street, where he appeared drunk, when the proprietor of the place sought to have Kelly leave as he was a disturber there. That led to a personal encounter from which Kelly emerged with a discolored eye. He buried his teeth in the arm of the pool-room man though. Kelly drew a fine of $5 for his part in the affray.

Six dollars seems to have been a debt claim that was a trouble maker for others than Sabagh and Moran. Atty. Santer, a Hebrew got into a row with Thomas Zondiros, wholesaler of bananas, over a claim of that amount. Santer is claimed to owe Zondiros for bananas purchased, that amount being a portion of a bill, the rest of which Santer had paid. Zondiros advised his fellow countrymen, also in the banana business, that Santer was not a man who paid what he owed and cautioned wholesalers not to trust Santer. When Santer appeared, the men engaged in hot words and Santer took refuge in law, alleging that Zondiros had attacked him. The case that Santer presented was so weak that it wouldn't stand up on what he said, so continuation was ordered, so that more and sufficient testimony on which to base judgment might be secured.

The New London police, late this afternoon, were requested by the New Haven authorities to be on the lookout for two automobiles that were stolen in the latter city earlier in the day. Both cars are Chevrolets. One is a sedan and carries registration. E-68. The other is a touring car and its registration is Y-3137.

A youth of 7, residing with his parents on Jay street, in playful antics late this afternoon, hurled a section of a putty-blower in front of an automobile, owned by Mrs. Ruth C. Pope, of 17 Blackhall court. The piece of tin landed in such a manner that when the tire of the front wheel struck it, the tin penetrated the tire, also the tube. Because of the youth of the child no action was taken by the husband of the owner of the car, Paymaster Pope, stationed at the submarine base, who was driving the machine.

Two bicycles stolen Saturday were recovered by the police today. The cycle of a son of C. O. Freeman, Waterford, which was stolen from Thames street, was found this forenoon in the Maynard barn on Reed street, and the wheel of a Bellinger boy, West street, stolen from the yard of his home, was found in the highway near that section of the city where the bike was taken.

Mrs. Maggie Lee, colored, of Hill street, desires that Mrs. Andrews, about 18, also colored, who is estranged from her husband, and resided at the Hill street address, should return. With that end in view, Mrs. Lee this afternoon appealed to the police to cause the Andrews girl to return to the Lee home. Mrs. Lee declared that she had cared for the young woman since the latter was a child, but that of late the Andrews girl had made her home at the residence of Mrs. Chase, colored, 107 Green street. The police caused the Andrews girl to be questioned at the police station later, where she was advised as to what she should do, but as the woman is responsible to no one for her acts, especially as she has not been living with her husband, the girl could not be compelled to return to the Hill street house.

OPERATOR OF CAR WAS JOSEPH KANE, OF HARTFORD

(Special to The Bulletin.)

NEW LONDON, June 29.—It was found today that the operator of the automobile that collided with a machine containing four Hartford young men, Sunday morning, on the Hartford turnpike, between this city and Chesterfield, and which resulted in the serious injury of the four, who are now under treatment at Lawrence hospital, was Joseph Kane, 12 Merrill street, Hartford, a member of the firm of Michael Kane Brick Co. Kane was presented in the Waterford town court late this afternoon, charged with reckless driving. Judge Frederick N. Dimmock ordered the case continued one week. Because of the seriousness of the charge against Kane and the serious condition of two of the injured, counsel has been engaged to represent the interests of those affected by the accident, the lawyers retained being Assistant United States District Attorney John Buckley, Nathan Friedman, former counsel of the famous Gerald Chapman, bank robber, and Former United States District Attorney John Spellacy, all of Hartford.

The others in the colliding car were Mrs. Kane and Dr. and Mrs. E. J. Turbert, 30 Sisson avenue, Hartford.

It is not known, however, whether the arm will be saved. The other men, John Rollert, 63 Church street; George Donahy, 22 Allyn place, and Vincent Peras, 4 Kilbourn court, all of Hartford, are doing as well as could be expected, especially Donahy, who was in an extremely weakened condition when he was admitted to the institution because of loss of blood from a punctured wound in the left arm.

For ten years the society has published the Bible in one new language every six weeks. The chairman, Lord Burnham, revealed that the soviet government of Russia continued to prevent the publication or sale of the Bible in that country. All the society's efforts to enter commission to the Russian market have failed.

Public Auction

By virtue of power of attorney vested in me, by the owner, J. Ely Beebe, I will sell at Public Auction on Tuesday, July 7th, 1925, at twelve o'clock Noon on the premises, the farm now owned by the aforesaid, Ely Beebe, consisting of one hundred and ninety acres more or less. Well divided into tillable, pasture and wood land. The buildings consist of one house of nine finished rooms and two large attics, two large barns, one workshop and woodshed. A large trout brook runs the entire length of the farm, over one mile. There is an abundance of fruit, both fall and winter apples, pears, plums and small fruit. At a fair estimate there should be one thousand dollars worth of railroad ties and one thousand cords of wood on the place. It is pleasantly situated in four corners, in the North Grassy Hill section of Lyme, Conn., three miles from state road on the west; six miles from Flanders on the east; five miles to the state road on the south and five minutes from the public school. The soil is largely a heavy gravel loam, well adapted to all farm crops. Some of the higher sections are especially adapted to apple growing, a part of which is now covered by a good orchard. A number of large maple trees line the road near the house.

Terms of the sale ten per cent. deposit at time of sale. Balance to be paid at the time of passing of deed. Arrangements can be made for part mortgage. For further particulars address the undersigned.

The text was taken from the Book of Job: If a man die, shall he live again? The Young People's Christian Endeavor service in the evening was in charge of the missionary committee, Mrs. Burton Jopson, chairman; Miss Jessie E. Hyde, Miss Helen Schwenk and Miss Esther Durr. "My Answer to the Missionary Challenge," was the topic assigned to this date, from which this committee prepared a special topic, having discussed the work of the Chinese missionaries; also gave a missionary tableau.

In his sermon at the First Methodist Episcopal church, Rev. James B. Aldrich preached, Sunday morning, from John 7:33. Then said Jesus unto them, yet a little while am I with you, and then I go unto Him that sent Me. At the Young People's Christian Endeavor service in the evening, Miss Florence Stevens, a deaconess from the deaconess' home in Fall River, Mass., was the speaker. Her talk was along the lines of a deaconess' work.

We are fortunate if our little ones feel that way. Let it not be said of any one of us in later years: "My mother never cared." It is in the power of every mother to become a parent of whom her child will say: "My mother understood and always sympathized with me."

Councilor Fox said that such things had been known to have occurred in the past. He said the city should be represented and moved for the reference of the matter to the city manager. The bus line is to go from Willimantic to Norwich by way of Windham. Hyde's Corners by way of Yantic to Norwich and from Willimantic to Stafford Springs, Lebanon and Yantic to Norwich. The line from New London to Willimantic is to be by way of Quaker Hill, Montville, Thamesville and Norwich, to Franklin and to Willimantic. ### ILL HEALTH DESPONDENCY BROUGHT SUICIDE ACT

(Special to The Bulletin.)

WILLIMANTIC, June 29.—Clayton A. Lord, who was reported as having died suddenly at his home in Gilead in the town of Hebron, Sunday afternoon, was a suicide. It developed Monday night. The cause of death had been shaded in mystery and led to inquiries which brought out the information that the man had taken his life by cutting his throat with a razor.

Despondency over ill health was given as the reason. The man gave no indication of any intent to end his life. Sunday afternoon he left his home, walked out into a nearby pasture, and committed the deed. His body was found shortly afterwards by relatives.

He was widely known and highly respected in the community, having represented his native town in the state legislature in 1915 and being otherwise an interested participator in the civic, social and church affairs of the village. He leaves a wife, a daughter, one son and a brother, Everett E. Lord, of Hebron, and three sisters, Mrs. Flora Buell, of Bedford Hill, N. H., Mrs. Helen Pearne, of East Hartford, and Mrs. Flora Hanmer, of Wethersfield, and his mother, Mrs. Mary Lord, also of Wethersfield.

watch word of the graduating class of the Elizabeth street school. "We can if we will, therefore we will because we can."

As last speaker of the morning, the institute was favored by a very fine discourse by Mrs. Vivian D. Walker, assistant state supervisor of health and physical education.

Mrs. Walker's subject was divided into two parts: Play in Education and Type of Games.

In brief she said: "The purpose of this brief talk is to indicate the importance of play to the child and certain worth-while aims for any playground director to have in mind. Play for the child is not idle; play is no luxury. Normal growth of body structures depends upon sufficient, well-chosen and guided activity. Mental, moral and social development of the child result too from properly supervised play. Play is an absolute necessity. Realizing this need the playground director makes the most of her opportunities. She strives, by careful guidance of activities to attain only the best results. She seeks health for the members of her group through the promotion of organic development and of growth in strength and endurance. She helps her group attain better "nerve movements" by teaching them the fundamental response and for graceful and effective throwing and catching, etc., one or more of which are found in all the play activities. She seeks certain mental moral and social values for her group and emphasizes all the while the joy and happiness in play."

At the close of her lecture Mrs. Walker gave practical pointers as regards the playing of various games included in the playground curriculum. The fine points of how to co-ordinate the various muscles used in the apparently simple sports of running, jumping, walking, throwing a baseball etc., were ably illustrated.

To complete the morning's program Mrs. Walker invited questions from the floor relative to various athletic endeavors. The numerous questions were expertly answered to the satisfaction of all the questioners.
